| elphaJoined: Nov 12, 2002Silly fucking Loman.         | quote: <hr/> MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:Maybe its the bum phone number? Whould they try to call him at 3am? I think I just instantly became diabetic. <hr/> there will always be a couch for you to live on in my home. |
| Apr 30, 2004: 03:34                                                                                                                                | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                              |
| MyNameIsJeffJoined: Dec 05, 2003P-P-P-Powerbook.com! | quote: <hr/> down1nit came out of the closet to say: quick question: Did d00der email you back after you sent the email worrying about the non-existence of the set-ltd.com site? <hr/> I never emailed him.                                        |
| Apr 30, 2004: 03:35                                                                                                                                | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                              |

shad

Joined: Aug 17, 2003

Just relax, you havent done anything wrong. The worst that will happen is this wont turn out as funny as we thought it would =/

Youre fine though.

I think.

Apr 30, 2004: 03:37

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

quote:

shad came out of the closet to say:

I think.

Heart Attack.

HEART ATTACK.

ALL IS LOST!!!!

Apr 30, 2004: 03:39

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Landrobot

Joined: Jul 14, 2001

ah, yes, I deal with customs all the time. They'll probably open it, declare it not worth $2k, and move it on its way. But, depending on the agents, it could be up to 5 days delayed. It won't be seized, just delayed. Or maybe released same day as most packages are. Don't worry about it mang.

prolly should of declared it at $5 USD, and had it go on its way. hehehe next time eh?

EDIT: shit, you should probably get a snap-shot of the UK Customs agent opening up the box. I can see it now, "What the bloody hell is this wicked dolly-wolly?!?" LOLLOLOLOLOLL roofles11!

Landrobot fucked around with this message at Apr 30, 2004 around 03:41

Apr 30, 2004: 03:39

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

quote:

Landrobot came out of the closet to say:

ah, yes, I deal with customs all the time. They'll probably open it, declare it not worth $2k, and move it on its way. But, depending on the agents, it could be up to 5 days delayed.

prolly should of declared it at $5 USD, and had it go on its way. hehehe next time eh?

NO! THIS CANNOT HAPPEN!! IS CAN NOT! AS IN OPPOSITE OF CAN!!

!! . . . !!. . . .HE MUST PAY!!!!

Apr 30, 2004: 03:40

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

daveious

Joined: Jun 04, 2003

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:

. . .no . . . . PANICING! 🤖

Indeed. It appears to be quite common when shipping overseas. I Googled the phrase and found several tracking details, this being the best example. Could take less than a minute, could take 12 hours. The important thing is that it looks routine.

Incidentally I started reading this thread over 3 hours ago and have not stopped. You people are fucking legends, it has to be said. Most extraordinary thing I have witnessed in my short time as a goon. I wish you luck.

|                                                                                                                                |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                            |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------|
| Apr 30, 2004: 03:42                                                                                                     | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | Edit Quote |
| SoosJoined: Mar 03, 2004Soos you neeb                                                                       | I don't think he's using a fake address and just plans on picking up the package. If he planned on doing that, it wouldn't make sense for him to continually use the same address. Especially since the address is listed on fraud websites. If he has no affiliation with that location, it would be a lot safer to switch the shipping location. Just a thought. |                                            |
| Apr 30, 2004: 03:43                                                                                                     | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | Edit Quote |
| WalkedJoined: Apr 14, 2003 | <Scooby> ruh roh </Scooby>                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                                            |
| Apr 30, 2004: 03:44                                                                                                     | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | Edit Quote |
| deeboJoined: Jan 21, 2004 | Well.. there isnt a literal connection.. but "Dude, nothing is fucked. Come on. You're being very unDude. They'll call back. Look, she kidnapped herself" "Ya see? Nothing is fucked up here, Dude. Nothing is fucked. These guys are fucking amateurs!"                                                                                                           |                                            |
| Apr 30, 2004: 03:44                                                                                                     | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | Edit Quote |
| TheHotCarlJoined: Dec 14, 2003Bulk Male Playmate of the Month: January, 1967                                | it could just be held up on the normal track of international shipping, i wouldn't worry, it will still be funny even if he doesnt have to pay, you can still call the police afterwards 🧑🏻                                                                                                                                                                                      |                                            |
| Apr 30, 2004: 03:46                                                                                                     | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | Edit Quote |

charliemaul

Joined: Jun 07, 2003

Edit: nevermind, for importing into the US, not over there.

apparently they're going to want your Soc Sec #

quote:

U.S. Customs regulations require the IRS Employer Identification Number (EIN) or, if an individual, the Social Security Number (SSN) of the U.S. recipient for certain shipments being imported into the United States.

THIS INFORMATION MUST BE INCLUDED ON THE INTERNATIONAL AIR WAYBILL AND COMMERCIAL INVOICE FOR ALL U.S. IMPORT SHIPMENTS. The EIN or SSN must be on file with the U.S. Customs Service. Any changes to a company name, address or the EIN/SSN should be provided to FedEx for system updating.

Shipments which arrive in the U.S. that do not have the correct EIN or SSN may be detained until that information can be obtained from the recipient or otherwise determined.

Apr 30, 2004: 03:46

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

nm

MyNameIsJeff fucked around with this message at Apr 30, 2004 around 03:51

Apr 30, 2004: 03:47

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

CURRENT THE JEFF STATUS

Attachment: oh\_no\_bag.jpg

This has been downloaded 2308 time(s).

Apr 30, 2004: 03:48

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

charliemaul

Joined: Jun 07, 2003

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:

CURRENT THE JEFF STATUS

cheer up, this is me

last saturday though

Attachment: me2.jpg

This has been downloaded 2226 time(s).

Apr 30, 2004: 03:51

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Anaclisis

Joined: Apr 18, 2003

ceci n'est pas une grenouille

quote:

charliemaul came out of the closet to say:

cheer up, this is me

last saturday though

YOU AREN'T HELPING ☹☹☹

Apr 30, 2004: 03:54

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Ionized

Joined: Nov 13, 2003

WHOA, it's a Star Destroyer!!!

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:

CURRENT THE JEFF STATUS

LOL.

Although...I've been wondering how much actual "investigation" work they would do at customs. Obviously they're going to have metric tons of packages going through there, do they really have the time/manpower to open up EVERY package and inspect it? Wouldn't they do something more along the lines of x-ray or other non-invasive scan like they do at airports?

Apr 30, 2004: 03:54

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Scotsman

Joined: Jun 09, 2002

As things take a turn for the worse, there's only one thing left to do...

 Attachment: 2003\_1009\_184028aa.gif

This has been downloaded 2168 time(s).

Apr 30, 2004: 03:55

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

exism

Joined: Nov 08, 2003

I can't believe i just spent two hours reading this thread and not doing calculus. My heart is beating very fast right now though.

Apr 30, 2004: 03:57

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Solvalou

Joined: Aug 31, 2001

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:

NO! THIS CANNOT HAPPEN!! IS CAN NOT! AS IN OPPOSITE OF CAN!!

I! . . . I! . . . HE MUST PAY!!!!

Time for Plan B!

I suggest a big shovel to the face.

Apr 30, 2004: 03:59

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

quote:

Solvalou came out of the closet to say:

Time for Plan B!

I suggest a big shovel to the face.

If this falls through. . . I am going to take a shovel, and dig a hole. once the hole is dug. . . I will remain in it for, uh, ever.

Apr 30, 2004: 04:00

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

HochrotRitter

Joined: Feb 18, 2004

Drivin' that train high on cocain

quote:

exism came out of the closet to say:

I can't believe i just spent two hours reading this thread and not doing calculus. My heart is beating very fast right now though.

thats 'cause this is much better than calculus. Also: what Ionized said seems pretty logical, I can't honestly see them popping open every package.

Apr 30, 2004: 04:00

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Teflon Bob

Joined: Feb 02, 2004

Chill out, no need to give up yet 🙏

<http://members.arstechnica.com/subs...rjim/ohnoes.jpg>

Apr 30, 2004: 04:00

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

DLCinferno

Joined: Feb 22, 2003

quote:

Teflon Bob came out of the closet to say:

Chill out, no need to give up yet 🙏

<http://members.arstechnica.com/subs...rjim/ohnoes.jpg>

This man has the answer. No matter what happens, after everything is over and the shit has hit the fan, we all have to get very very drunk.

Apr 30, 2004: 04:03

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Earwicker

Joined: Jan 06, 2003

Holy shit, I've been reading this damn thread all day and now it comes to this crazy ass moment of suspense...

As someone pointed out before, this is a lot like Lock, Stock... but way better.

Apr 30, 2004: 04:05

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

OMG LOL BUTSEKZ

Joined: Dec 02, 2003

no butsekz plz.

waiting in anticipation.

Apr 30, 2004: 04:06

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

jstirrell

Joined: Aug 08, 2003

Well there goes my plans to sleep tonight.

Apr 30, 2004: 04:08

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

AbeVigoda

Joined: Jun 06, 2001

quote:

---

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:

Anyone near north seattle. Please come fast. I am going to be needing CPR.

---

What's Fonzi like?

I'm in North Seattle. Come have a beer and some tequila shots. You'll feel all better. PM me if you want to take me up.

Apr 30, 2004: 04:11

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

no v.20

Joined: Jun 26, 2002

It's Random! Random! Random
Random! Random! RANDOM!

quote:

AbeVigoda came out of the closet to say:

What's Fonzi like?

I'm in North Seattle. Come have a beer and some tequila shots. You'll feel all better. PM me if you want to take me up.

Umm Jeff, you may want to watch your cornhole.

Apr 30, 2004: 04:12

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

AbeVigoda

Joined: Jun 06, 2001

Curses, foiled again!

Apr 30, 2004: 04:18

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

Can you imagine a note??!

"Dear Customs Agent,
This package is for an ebay scammer. He must pay dearly for scamming innocent people. Please leave value at $2000.

Thanks,
Jeff"

Apr 30, 2004: 04:23

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

capital zero

Joined: Apr 28, 2004

fear not... the gods are on our side

Apr 30, 2004: 04:28

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

LodeRunner

Joined: Dec 27, 2003

Floggins will continue until morale improves.

There's still a chance this can go through though, right? It will just be delayed a bit, which kind of fucks up everyone's time schedule... but it can still happen! To quote the ever guiding movie, Animal House, "My advice to you is to start drinking heavily."

Apr 30, 2004: 04:29

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

What about our operatives??

Apr 30, 2004: 04:31

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

ought ten

Joined: Feb 05, 2004

we ride spinners

I don't know anything about shipping or Customs or anything, but why should they care what's in the package or what it's valued at? They'll get paid either way, by someone, and if you say that's a $2000 P-P-P-Powerbook then it is, and I don't see how they could have a problem with that.

Then again, maybe I'm totally missing the point. Also, I'm trying to convince myself that this beautiful scheme is going to go off without a hitch.

Apr 30, 2004: 04:32

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

quote:

ought ten came out of the closet to say:

I don't know anything about shipping or Customs or anything, but why should they care what's in the package or what it's valued at? They'll get paid either way, by someone, and if you say that's a $2000 P-P-P-Powerbook then it is, and I don't see how they could have a problem with that.

Then again, maybe I'm totally missing the point. Also, I'm trying to convince myself that this beautiful scheme is going to go off without a hitch.

If this happens. . . I will build many, many churches.

Apr 30, 2004: 04:34

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Potassium

Joined: Oct 05, 2003

Cream > you

Has anyone suggested, you know, just calling the FedEx facility and talking to them about all of it?

Apr 30, 2004: 04:36

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

McPorkChoppy

Joined: May 28, 2003

werd....

I vote a fund to buy a Powerbook smiley.. i'm sure there will be a time for it's use.

...Best day of reading i've ever spent online.

Good luck

Apr 30, 2004: 04:36

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Teflon Bob

Joined: Feb 02, 2004

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:

If this happens. . . I will build many, many churches.

Whoa whoa whoa... no need for all that crazy talk man

Apr 30, 2004: 04:38

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Earwicker

Joined: Jan 06, 2003

quote:

ought ten came out of the closet to say:

I don't know anything about shipping or Customs or anything, but why should they care what's in the package or what it's valued at? They'll get paid either way, by someone, and if you say that's a $2000 P-P-P-Powerbook then it is, and I don't see how they could have a problem with that.

Isn't part of the reason Customs exists to monitor the value of foreign goods being brought into a country?

Apr 30, 2004: 04:38

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

quote:

Earwicker came out of the closet to say:

Isn't part of the reason Customs exists to monitor the value of foreign goods being brought into a country?

Don't forget: Ruining Jeff's plans!

Apr 30, 2004: 04:40

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Otokodate

Joined: Jan 15, 2004

All your nuts are belong to me

quote:

daveious came out of the closet to say:

Indeed. It appears to be quite common when shipping overseas. I Googled the phrase and found several tracking details, this being the best example. Could take less than a minute, could take 12 hours. The important thing is that it looks routine.

Incidentally I started reading this thread over 3 hours ago and have not stopped. You people are fucking legends, it has to be said. Most extraordinary thing I have witnessed in my short time as a goon. I wish you luck.

Yeah, I found that same link a few hours ago and I was going to repost it.

Apr 30, 2004: 04:42

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Earwicker

Joined: Jan 06, 2003

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:

Don't forget: Ruining Jeff's plans!

Eh.. I could be wrong, or maybe I'm not but they won't care and they'll leave it alone. And hey - you've got karma on your side.

Now go get drunk

Apr 30, 2004: 04:44

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

ToshiroOC

Joined: Sep 22, 2003

DriverHeaven Guru

I haven't been able to get home because of work until 9pm every day. Today, I got home early. It is now 9pm, but instead of boring work, I have had a happy thread to fulfill me. Even if the package isn't delivered, it will have been well worth the read 😊

Apr 30, 2004: 04:45

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

callmeicarus

Joined: Sep 26, 2003

Garden gnomes are God's unwanted children.

One word: "Anticipation." By Carly Simon. On repeat.

Last final was today, so I'm in this tonight for the long haul. I hope that the fantastic goon recon task force is not headed out to the barber shop of evil in vain.

Apr 30, 2004: 04:48

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

quote:

ToshiroOC came out of the closet to say:

I haven't been able to get home because of work until 9pm every day. Today, I got home early. It is now 9pm, but instead of boring work, I have had a happy thread to fulfill me. Even if the package isn't delivered, it will have been well worth the read 😊

Oh, this is far from over.

Apr 30, 2004: 04:48

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

ought ten

Joined: Feb 05, 2004

we ride spinners

quote:

Earwicker came out of the closet to say:

Isn't part of the reason Customs exists to monitor the value of foreign goods being brought into a country?

I have no idea. I'm just spouting sleepy, hopeful nonsense.

Apr 30, 2004: 04:51

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Cheesemaster200Joined: Feb 11, 2004Guard of the Citadel                                          | I dont see how you can depreciate a value on something, I mean what if our powerbook has sentimental value or something. I only think they would get kinda irritated if it were an expensive item that was marked as inexpensive. |
| Apr 30, 2004: 04:51                                                                                                                                                                                                           | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                |
| StinkyWizzleatsJoined: Mar 21, 2004Third Quartermaster of the New England Calvinball Combination | quote:MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:Oh, this is far from over. Is this a hint at a sequel? HAVE YOU SOLD THE MOVIE RIGHTS FOR THIS SAGA?                      |
| Apr 30, 2004: 04:52                                                                                                                                                                                                           | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                |
| LodeRunnerJoined: Dec 27, 2003Floggins will continue until morale improves.                                                                                                                  | quote:MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:Oh, this is far from over. I sure hope he at least emails you a "WTF" message after getting his P-P-P-Powerbook           |
| Apr 30, 2004: 04:52                                                                                                                                                                                                           | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                |

Ballz

Joined: Dec 16, 2003

not even human

quote:

Starbucks came out of the closet to say:

UPDATE: I AM CONFIRMED AS A MEMBER OF THE RECON SQUAD, I WILL BE AVAILABLE TO LOOK AROUND THE PLACE FROM AROUND 8 AM, I WILL STAY UNTIL 12AM. IF ANYONE WANTS TO MEET AT AROUND 8AM I WILL BE IN THE NEAREST CAFE WITH A COFFEE

I hope that was a typo and he meant 12PM. Otherwise, someone needs to go tell this brave soul that we're experiencing technical difficulties.

Someone needs to get through to Pipski too, if it isn't too late. No need to risk employment over something that probably won't happen at least right in the immediate future.

Apr 30, 2004: 04:52

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

lushka16

Joined: Apr 08, 2003

Two things:

1) Customs will not care!! They will see worthless shit, then realize that the scammer is going to pay for one employee's weekly salary! It's not their problem it's overvalued, obviously the sender and the accepter have some.. issues to work out.

2) When I had my laptop shipped FedEx, they would NOT let me pick it up before the delivery date. I repeat, they will NOT let you just come by UNLESS a delivery attempt was made.

Apr 30, 2004: 04:53

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

LodeRunner

Joined: Dec 27, 2003

Floggins will continue until morale improves.

Oh I just realized something else!

I highly doubt this guy will end up keeping his prized laptop after the ceremonial unveiling. This means it might possibly end up in the refuse bin shortly afterwards. Can you fathom the street value of the REAL ORIGINAL P-P-P-Powerbook? SA Mart would be all over this. Someone must retrieve it.

Apr 30, 2004: 04:56

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

lushka16

Joined: Apr 08, 2003

quote:

LodeRunner came out of the closet to say:

Oh I just realized something else!

I highly doubt this guy will end up keeping his prized laptop after the ceremonial unveiling. This means it might possibly end up in the refuse bin shortly afterwards. Can you fathom the street value of the REAL ORIGINAL P-P-P-Powerbook? SA Mart would be all over this.

Oh yeah, I was thinking about that when he showed the picture of the trash can. Definitely worth a check.

Apr 30, 2004: 04:56

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

McPorkChoppy

Joined: May 28, 2003

werd....

But seriously people, think about it, it's only a package. Why wouldn't it get there? They may open it, look at it, and be like "this is hilarious...", or "...i quit my job." You never know. Odds are it'll get to him. We just have to get that evidence of it. I can't wait if there is video of him opening it, and just hearing a simple "...my god, what is this?..."

Apr 30, 2004: 04:58

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Yoda

Joined: Dec 11, 2003

A Jedi I am

Check out my retarded attempt at humor in the quote a couple posts down!

Yoda fucked around with this message at Apr 30, 2004 around 05:10

Apr 30, 2004: 04:58

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

BonoMan

Joined: Feb 20, 2002

quote:

lushka16 came out of the closet to say:

2) When I had my laptop shipped FedEx, they would NOT let me pick it up before the delivery date. I repeat, they will NOT let you just come by UNLESS a delivery attempt was made.

They tried this shit with me once.

I went into the pickup station about 30 minutes before they closed...

They found the package...sitting THREE FEET AWAY from us and said "I'm sorry sir we can't give it to you b/c it's not the delivery date...you'll have to wait til tomorrow." I was all "it's right there...you've got to be joking." We just sat there and stared at each other for about 45 seconds then finally she was like "oh hell alright..." and gave it to me.

Apr 30, 2004: 04:59

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Imasalmon

Joined: Mar 19, 2003

Guy in the Green Hat

quote:

Ballz came out of the closet to say:

I hope that was a typo and he meant 12PM. Otherwise, someone needs to go tell this brave soul that we're experiencing technical difficulties.

You realize that there is a 12am, correct? I think he means that he will be at 9B from 0800 hours until 2400 hours, a total of 16 hours.

Edit: Awesome thread, by the way. I have not done any work since I started reading it yesterday. The "Blue Tooth" mouse alone was worth the money I paid to join SA.

Imasalmon fucked around with this message at Apr 30, 2004 around 05:03

Apr 30, 2004: 05:00

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

no v.20

Joined: Jun 26, 2002

It's Random! Random! Random
Random! Random! RANDOM!

quote:

LodeRunner came out of the closet to say:

Oh I just realized something else!

I highly doubt this guy will end up keeping his prized laptop after the ceremonial unveiling. This means it might possibly end up in the refuse bin shortly afterwards. Can you fathom the street value of the REAL ORIGINAL P-P-P-Powerbook? SA Mart would be all over this. Someone must retrieve it.

I already called dibs several pages ago.

Apr 30, 2004: 05:00

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

rayray00_00

Joined: Mar 27, 2003

whee.

quote:

LodeRunner came out of the closet to say:

Oh I just realized something else!

I highly doubt this guy will end up keeping his prized laptop after the ceremonial unveiling. This means it might possibly end up in the refuse bin shortly afterwards. Can you fathom the street value of the REAL ORIGINAL P-P-P-Powerbook? SA Mart would be all over this. Someone must retrieve it.

Buried deeply already, but someone already mentioned it 😊

Apr 30, 2004: 05:00

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Anaclisis

Joined: Apr 18, 2003

ceci n'est pas une grenouille

edited cause i'm a good sport 😊

Anaclisis fucked around with this message at Apr 30, 2004 around 06:06

Apr 30, 2004: 05:01

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Landrobot

Joined: Jul 14, 2001

Here's a thought. After Mr. Apple thief tosses the P-P-P-Powerbook in the garbage bin, someone need to walk into the barber shop. But, this person needs to be holding a brand new REAL Powerbook (they already own), claiming they just got this in by FedEx. Record the whole thing and/or video it. Try to use it at a computer station (if its a cybercafe or whatever).

When the store owner claims, "HAY, that's my computer" and grabs it from you, call the police. Have proof its actually yours before you do all this, with receipts and such. Then, have the guy arrested for stealing your computer, like he should of in the beginning... Or, some variation thereof...

karma = winnar

Apr 30, 2004: 05:04

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

McPorkChoppy

Joined: May 28, 2003

werd....

quote:

Landrobot came out of the closet to say:

Here's a thought. After Mr. Apple thief tosses the P-P-P-Powerbook in the garbage bin, someone need to walk into the barber shop. But, this person needs to be holding a brand new REAL Powerbook (they already own), claiming they just got this in by FedEx. Record the whole thing and/or video it. Try to use it at a computer station (if its a cybercafe or whatever).

When the store owner claims, "HAY, that's my computer" and grabs it from you, call the police. Have proof its actually yours before you do all this, with receipts and such. Then, have the guy arrested for stealing your computer, like he should of in the beginning... Or, some variation thereof...

karma = winnar

better yet, walk in with you'r freshly garbage-picked P-P-P-Powerbook, and ask why it won't hook up to the wireless in the cafe?

Apr 30, 2004: 05:06

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Blaise

Joined: Sep 10, 2003

Calculated Karma

quote:

Landrobot came out of the closet to say:

Here's a thought. After Mr. Apple thief tosses the P-P-P-Powerbook in the garbage bin, someone need to walk into the barber shop. But, this person needs to be holding a brand new REAL Powerbook (they already own), claiming they just got this in by FedEx. Record the whole thing and/or video it. Try to use it at a computer station (if its a cybercafe or whatever).

When the store owner claims, "HAY, that's my computer" and grabs it from you, call the police. Have proof its actually yours before you do all this, with receipts and such. Then, have the guy arrested for stealing your computer, like he should of in the beginning... Or, some variation thereof...

karma = winnar

This is absoultey fabulous. See my user title.

Apr 30, 2004: 05:07

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

El Tigre

Joined: Mar 23, 2004

quote:

McPorkChoppy came out of the closet to say:

better yet, walk in with you'r freshly garbage-picked P-P-P-Powerbook, and ask why it won't hook up to the wireless in the cafe?

That is an even better suggestion. Much fun to be had with this approach.

Apr 30, 2004: 05:08

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

Ok guys, I am going to the gym. Ill be back after that to check up on this, then I'm off to coffee, till about 1230-ish PST.

If there is a FedEx page update, will someone please call me? I would like to know what's going on. If it shows "Out for delivery" or something like that PLEASE call me. I will need to get home and wait for this jack off's email.

*Someone please reply fast so I know*

Thanks guys

MyNameIsJeff fucked around with this message at Apr 30, 2004 around 21:02

Apr 30, 2004: 05:08

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Ballz

Joined: Dec 16, 2003

not even human

quote:

Imasalmon came out of the closet to say:

You realize that there is a 12am, correct? I think he means that he will be at 9B from 0800 hours until 2400 hours, a total of 16 hours.

Of course I realize that, which is why I said someone should tell him the current situation. I know I'd be slightly peeved for wasting 16 hours in a coffee shop for ABSOLUTELY NOTHING.

However, 16 hours for a stakeout is pretty fucking hardcore, which is why I speculated he may have just meant 12 noon instead (FedEx delivers at midnight?!).

Apr 30, 2004: 05:09

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Imasalmon

Joined: Mar 19, 2003

Guy in the Green Hat

quote:

Ballz came out of the closet to say:

Of course I realize that, which is why I said someone should tell him the current situation. I know I'd be slightly peeved for wasting 16 hours in a coffee shop for ABSOLUTELY NOTHING.

However, 16 hours for a stakeout is pretty fucking hardcore, which is why I speculated he may have just meant 12 noon instead (FedEx delivers at midnight?!).

Gotcha, bud. I misinterperated what you said to mean that you misinterperated what Starbucks said. It made me

|                                                                                                                                              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                            |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------|
|                                                                                                                                              | feel smart. But now I feel dumb. Sorry.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                            |
| Apr 30, 2004: 05:13                                                                                                                   | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | Edit Quote |
| chizarlieJoined: Oct 12, 2003For shizzle | ok sorry for this, but i'm kind of confused.. this guy runs like a half barbershop half internet cafe??anyway, fear not, because even if they do declare it not worth $2000, do you think they'll tell him that? They'll probably just write it down and send it on its way.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |                                            |
| Apr 30, 2004: 05:15                                                                                                                   | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | Edit Quote |
| YET ANOTHER FAGJoined: Mar 06, 2003          | quote: <hr/> MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:Ok guys, I am going to the gym. Ill be back after that to check up on this, then I'm off to coffee, till about 1230-ish PST. If there is a FedEx page update, will someone please call me? I would like to know what's going on. If it shows "Out for delivery" or something like that PLEASE call me. I will need to get home and wait for this jack off's email. 425.280.4656Someone please reply fast so I know Thanks guys <hr/> |                                            |
| Apr 30, 2004: 05:17                                                                                                                   | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | Edit Quote |

|                                                                                                                                                                                    |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| LuciferJoined: Mar 23, 2004Old people have sex.                                                                                                                 | 1- Someone should call up and ask for an estimate on the delay. I don't know if FedEx can give that information, but someone needs to try.2- Make sure you have someone at the FedEx place. I know the chances of identifying the package are slim, but at least you'll have that base somewhat covered.Good luck all.                                                                                                       |
| Apr 30, 2004: 05:19                                                                                                                                                         | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| DarkLotusJoined: Sep 30, 2001I Haven't Been Fucked Like That Since Grade School!!!                                                                              | I think the only way customs wood give a flying fuck is if they x-rayed a laptop that was valued at $5.00. Then they would open it and see that it was really worth more. I am sure if they see a package labeled Laptop Computer or Notebook or whatever and valued at $2000+, they won't even consider opening it.Good thread, can't wait till tomorrow.                                                                         |
| Apr 30, 2004: 05:20                                                                                                                                                         | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| callmeicarusJoined: Sep 26, 2003Garden gnomes are God's unwanted children. | I was pretty worried at first too when it said "Delay," but I recall someone mentioning earlier in the thread that 12pm is an "arrive-by" time. Don't you think they factor this (I guess routine?) delay into the time, and also, if they take too long, does The Jeff get shipping refunded? Or is it a it's-your-fault-it-was-delayed-so-no-refund-type deal?Lord, I'm used to going to bed at 10:30, so I hope this makes sense. |
| Apr 30, 2004: 05:20                                                                                                                                                         | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| down1nitJoined: Jan 09, 2004Title text (optional; no images are allowed, only text, buttmonger)                                                                 | DELIVERED?OF COURSE IT WILL BE DELIVERED.This will go off without a hitch                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| Apr 30, 2004: 05:21                                                                                                                                                         | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |

fourwood

Joined: Sep 09, 2001

Damn I'll bring them to their knees.

Edit: ^^^ Damn right it will!

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:

Ok guys, I am going to the gym. Ill be back after that to check up on this, then I'm off to coffee, till about 1230-ish PST.

If there is a FedEx page update, will someone please call me? I would like to know what's going on. If it shows "Out for delivery" or something like that PLEASE call me. I will need to get home and wait for this jack off's email.

425.280.4656

*Someone please reply fast so I know***

Thanks guys

I'll be F5-ing the FedEx page til I go to bed (~12 or 1am MDT, so... 11 or 12 Pacific).

fourwood fucked around with this message at Apr 30, 2004 around 05:26

Apr 30, 2004: 05:22

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Landslide

Joined: Sep 02, 2003

Tomorrow will be a grand day

Apr 30, 2004: 05:31

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Smekerman

Joined: Feb 02, 2001

quote:

Dr.SchadenFreud came out of the closet to say:

Admin Name..... Pungasul Viteaz

Note that pungaruv@yahoo.com was used in one of the scams!

Pungasul Viteaz is Romanian for The Brave Thief. Christ, I'm almost ashamed to admit I'm Romanian after seeing this thread. Why does it always have to be us ;_;

Apr 30, 2004: 05:32

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

down1nit

Joined: Jan 09, 2004

Title text (optional; no images are allowed, only text, buttmonger)

quote:

Smekerman came out of the closet to say:

Pungasul Viteaz is Romanian for The Brave Thief. Christ, I'm almost ashamed to admit I'm Romanian after seeing this thread. Why does it always have to be us ;_;

Everyone loves you still.

We're not racist... we all just hate this guy.

Apr 30, 2004: 05:35

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

paper pope hat

Joined: Sep 27, 2000

quote:

Lucifer came out of the closet to say:

1- Someone should call up and ask for an estimate on the delay. I don't know if FedEx can give that information, but someone needs to try.

2- Make sure you have someone at the FedEx place. I know the chances of identifying the package are slim, but at least you'll have that base somewhat covered.

Good luck all.

If anyone does this, post about it immediately. It would be highly suspicious for multiple calls to come in from different people claiming to be the sender of this package.

|                                                                                                                                              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                                                                                                                                              | On a similar note, are the london people planning on sitting around on SA at the shop tomorrow? It's a bit far fetched, but if this guy has somehow checked his site referrals he will have noticed SA in there. If he suddenly has a boom in business from people who are all sitting around reading this site, he'll be at least a bit suspicious.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| Apr 30, 2004: 05:37                                                                                                                   | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| chizarlieJoined: Oct 12, 2003For shizzle | quote: <hr/> Smekerman came out of the closet to say: Pungasul Viteaz is Romanian for The Brave Thief. Christ, I'm almost ashamed to admit I'm Romanian after seeing this thread. Why does it always have to be us ;_; <hr/> ok... Pungasul Viteaz is Romanian for The Brave Thief, and that one guy with the romanian name signed up yesterday with the title "something thief with periods (I don't remember)".... Goons, be careful tomorrow. or.. I guess it's today there. BE CAREFUL!! And somebody that remembers this guy's SA login name search for his posts and see what's up with him.. |
| Apr 30, 2004: 05:39                                                                                                                   | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| YET ANOTHER FAGJoined: Mar 06, 2003         | crap, I really gotta sleep tonight. ;_;; anyone who wants to take my duty to f5 the fedex page and call Jeff once theres an update made, feel free.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| Apr 30, 2004: 05:39                                                                                                                   | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |

Pipski

Joined: Apr 18, 2004

Lovely barbershop. Pity I wasn't invited.

God but this is an unholy hour of the morning! To Rhig, Starbucks et al., if you get the chance to read this - gj on turning out! Current recon squad e.t.a's

Starbucks 8
Chromis ~10
Smitz ~10
Rhig ~10-10.30

Me Whatever damned time London Transport manages to get me there. Hopefully 8. But I have to get out of there and back here a.s.a.p. for work reasons. Oh, saw no nearby cafes (though there must be one), but safe rendezvous would be at the open end of the alley `round the back. Wrap up warm people - and a thermos wouldn't hurt. If it doesn't go from FedEx -> target area then no result, so just keep hoping.

Apr 30, 2004: 05:39

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

maelstrom

Joined: Jan 13, 2003

You're wondering who I am-machine or mannequin
With parts made in Japan, I am the modren man

Is there any way we can paypal some tube/coffee/beer spending money for our UK goons?

Apr 30, 2004: 05:41

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Gizmo_Gun

Joined: Mar 21, 2004

Pow! Bang! Smack! Kablooeey!

quote:

maelstrom came out of the closet to say:

Is there any way we can paypal some tube/coffee/beer spending money for our UK goons?

I'd be up for this.

Apr 30, 2004: 05:43

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Soos

Joined: Mar 03, 2004

Soos you neeb

quote:

YET ANOTHER FAG came out of the closet to say:

crap, I really gotta sleep tonight. ;_; anyone who wants to take my duty to f5 the fedex page and call Jeff once theres an update made, feel free.

I'm up, I talked to him just before he left as well.

Apr 30, 2004: 05:43

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Totswot

Joined: Jun 17, 2003

okay, I seriously am starting to believe that Dofca is this guy. His little habit of making user names out of Romanian words about "thief" and "forest near sin" or whatever seems all to coincidental. Not to mention the fact that little Dofca hasn't even posted anything yet. Can we get some more info on him somehow?

Apr 30, 2004: 05:44

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

chizarlie

Joined: Oct 12, 2003

For shizzle

quote:

Totswot came out of the closet to say:

okay, I seriously am starting to believe that Dofca is this guy. His little habit of making user names out of Romanian words about "thief" and "forest near sin" or whatever seems all to coincidental. Not to mention the fact that little Dofca hasn't even posted anything yet. Can we get some more info on him somehow?

An admin should check this out... not giving us any information, just confirming or disconfirming whether or not his email corresponds to anything in this thread.. Or they could tell us if he's been reading this thread.. Is there a way to see if this person is logged in?

EDIT: goons is the operation need to be covert and very careful.

Actually... now that I think about it, I really doubt any computer scam guy is really going to be dangerous. But still..

Apr 30, 2004: 05:49

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| BonoManJoined: Feb 20, 2002                                                 | quote:Totswot came out of the closet to say:okay, I seriously am starting to believe that Dofca is this guy. His little habit of making user names out of Romanian words about "thief" and "forest near sin" or whatever seems all to coincidental. Not to mention the fact that little Dofca hasn't even posted anything yet. Can we get some more info on him somehow? I'm inclined to believe this as well...way too coincidental to be a .....coincidence.IF this Dofca account is some wise-cracks idea of a good gimmick account...show yourself or face castration.                                                                               |
| Apr 30, 2004: 05:49                                                                                                                                                                | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| ChemicalWarfareJoined: Jul 15, 2003I wonder who's Kissinger now! | quote:Totswot came out of the closet to say:okay, I seriously am starting to believe that Dofca is this guy. His little habit of making user names out of Romanian words about "thief" and "forest near sin" or whatever seems all to coincidental. Not to mention the fact that little Dofca hasn't even posted anything yet. Can we get some more info on him somehow? This would seriously suck if the referrals from SA tipped him off. What kind of info would we need to confirm this? I'm totally in the dark about tracking people down on the internet, so if anyone could point me in toward some tutorials or something, for next time, I'd be grateful. |
| Apr 30, 2004: 05:58                                                                                                                                                                | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
| IonizedJoined: Nov 13, 2003WHOA, it's a Star Destroyer!!!                                                                                                    | quote:chizarlie came out of the closet to say:Is there a way to see if this person is logged in? Of course. Add him to your buddy list.If we know that he hasn't got online, at least we'll know he couldn't have possibly seen the thread (but actually says nothing about the time before now when we HAVENT been watching to see if he's online).Edit: ChemicalWarfare, this is based on the "referrer" tag that most web browsers send along with HTTP requests. It                                                                                                                                                                       | can easily be seen in the web logs if yahoo shows this kind of stuff to their customers (which was mentioned earlier that they do). Take a look at <http://www.w3.org/Protocols/HTTP/HTTRQ-Headers.html#z14>

Ionized fucked around with this message at Apr 30, 2004 around 06:03

Apr 30, 2004: 06:00

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

kiimo

Joined: Jul 24, 2003

quote:

BonoMan came out of the closet to say:

I'm inclined to believe this as well...way too coincidental to be a .....coincidence.

IF this Dofca account is some wise-cracks idea of a good gimmick account...show yourself or face castration.

maybe I am wrong but I don't think I have seen enough evidence that this guy would have been tipped off that something is going on enough to be inclined to go to sa and purchase an account on the hunch that the guy who is selling a notebook is actually part of a forum conspiracy to send him hilarity and scope his joint out when it arrives.

I think the chances are significantly higher that some douchebag with a working knowledge of Romanian is trying to be clever.

Seriously, why would he give any hints that he joined the forums? If he had the IQ of a rubber stamp he would say his name is Roger and start snooping.

Apr 30, 2004: 06:03

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Bluecobra

Joined: Sep 11, 2001

Cobra Commander

quote:

Landrobot came out of the closet to say:

ah, yes, I deal with customs all the time. They'll probably open it, declare it not worth $2k, and move it on its way. But, depending on the agents, it could be up to 5 days delayed. It won't be seized, just delayed. Or maybe released same day as most packages are. Don't worry about it mang.

prolly should of declared it at $5 USD, and had it go on its way. hehehe next time eh?

EDIT: shit, you should probably get a snap-shot of the UK Customs agent opening up the box. I can see it now, "What the bloody hell is this wicked dolly-wolly?!?" LOLLOLOLOLLL roofles11!

I can't see what right customs has in declaring a value of an item. How can they possibly know the value of collectibles, art, and crap? I mean, we are talking about an authentic signed MyNameIsJeff 3-ring notebook here. To

|                                                                                                                                   |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                                            |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------|
|                                                                                                                                   | them it might be a heaping pile of crap, but to some it might be considered priceless art. "The Regulatory Agency Clearance Delay" is hopefully just standard procedure for every package.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                            |
| Apr 30, 2004: 06:04                                                                                                        | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Edit Quote |
| PrimarisJoined: Feb 15, 200411 out of 12 physicians agree I have a large penis.                                | "The Regulatory Agency Clearance Delay"Maybe I'm just an idiot. But the "Regulatory" makes me think that it IS a regular procedure?....Who knows.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                                            |
| Apr 30, 2004: 06:07                                                                                                        | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Edit Quote |
| ®Joined: Nov 20, 2002         | quote: <hr/> BonoMan came out of the closet to say: I'm inclined to believe this as well...way too coincidental to be a .....coincidence. IF this Dofca account is some wise-cracks idea of a good gimmick account...show yourself or face castration. <hr/> Can anyone gather up all of the email addresses associated with him and email/PM a mod to see if anything matches up with the PayPal account used? Even if it doesn't, I guess we can't be too sure... if he can keylog his way into someone's ebay account, he sure as hell can do the same for a PayPal account.                                                                                                                            |                                            |
| Apr 30, 2004: 06:07                                                                                                        | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Edit Quote |
| BonoManJoined: Feb 20, 2002 | quote: <hr/> kiimo came out of the closet to say: maybe I am wrong but I don't think I have seen enough evidence that this guy would have been tipped off that something is going on enough to be inclined to go to sa and purchase an account on the hunch that the guy who is selling a notebook is actually part of a forum conspiracy to send him hilarity and scope his joint out when it arrives. I think the chances are significantly higher that some douchebag with a working knowledge of Romanian is trying to be clever. Seriously, why would he give any hints that he joined the forums? If he had the IQ of a rubber stamp he would say his name is Roger and start snooping. <hr/> |                                            |

|                                                                                                                    |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                                                                                                                    | He doesn't have to have a hunch of the EXACT plan to come here and get an account. He just probably thought something was fishy when he was trying to scam Jeff and then all of a sudden gets a sudden influx of referrals from one site...visits said site...realizes they have forums and realizes that there is a connection somehow. Then subscribes to check things out. The influx of somethingawful referrals is enough to raise ANYONE's suspicion. He probably thought he'd be clever with the name too...and since the naming convention of his SA monicker is similar to style of name he used to register the fake domain...that's enough suspicion for me right there. Edit: He probably doesn't think he's giving a hint by his Romanian name...he's also probably an asshole prick with a big "lolz i'm a scammer" ego and figures he was being witty with the Romanian names. |
| Apr 30, 2004: 06:08                                                                                                | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| overseer07Joined: Mar 30, 2003                                                                          | I'm betting dofca is a gimmick account. I mean, look at his avatar!                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| giggitygiggitygiggitygiggity! |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| Apr 30, 2004: 06:09                                                                                                | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| SLOsiflJoined: Aug 10, 2002                                                                             | quote: <hr/> ChemicalWarfare came out of the closet to say: This would seriously suck if the referrals from SA tipped him off. <hr/>                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
|                                  | I doubt he checked up on it that closely, given that nothing (as far as I can tell) has appeared unusual so far. It would be cool to have some sort of moderator activated flag on threads like this. When set by a mod, all url tags are turned off, or all links route through some proxy or referrer spoofing system. I can't stay up until 4am PDT, so I'll be checking this thread 1st thing in the morning.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
| Apr 30, 2004: 06:10                                                                                                | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |

Bluecobra

Joined: Sep 11, 2001

Cobra Commander

quote:

kiimo came out of the closet to say:

maybe I am wrong but I don't think I have seen enough evidence that this guy would have been tipped off that something is going on enough to be inclined to go to sa and purchase an account on the hunch that the guy who is selling a notebook is actually part of a forum conspiracy to send him hilarity and scope his joint out when it arrives.

I think the chances are significantly higher that some douchebag with a working knowledge of Romanian is trying to be clever.

If you look at it from the scammer's point of view, you might see it as your website seeing thousands of referrals from SA, then your site is suddenly taken offline. I think you might be a little inclined to see whats going on over there. Lets hope its just a matter of coincidence. I really hope a mod can look into this matter a little more deeper.

Edit: Uk Goons... its 6 am: Wakey Wakey Eggs and Bakey

Bluecobra fucked around with this message at Apr 30, 2004 around 06:13

Apr 30, 2004: 06:10

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Soos

Joined: Mar 03, 2004

Soos you neeb

The logs would show the "forums.somethingawful.com", so anyone reading it would instantly know it was a forum. Secondly, if he read into the raw logs (he just might) he could see the exact thread the referalls were coming from.

I personally don't think there is any connection between the two, but the logs would show exactly where people were coming from.

Apr 30, 2004: 06:12

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

**®

Joined: Nov 20, 2002

Why would he buy an account, though? Aren't the forums publically viewable? And how could it be a gimmick account? I think it's way too subtle for a gimmick. There haven't been any posts or anything, we've only found him buy checking through all of the newest users.... I don't know. 😞

Apr 30, 2004: 06:16

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

chizarlie

Joined: Oct 12, 2003

For shizzle

On the links posted before, the delay lasted 3 days.... I REALLY REALLY hope that this one doesn't last that long..

Apr 30, 2004: 06:17

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Ionized

Joined: Nov 13, 2003

WHOA, it's a Star Destroyer!!!

Alright, so in the hypothetical situation that he DID read this...there are so many posts that I kinda doubt he'll know any specifics of what's going to happen. (just to put some of the stake-out people at ease).

Although it would kill the climax, and would suck, and my life would feel...incomplete.

Apr 30, 2004: 06:21

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

BonoMan

Joined: Feb 20, 2002

quote:

® came out of the closet to say:

Why would he buy an account, though? Aren't the forums publically viewable? And how could it be a gimmick account? I think it's way too subtle for a gimmick. There haven't been any posts or anything, we've only found him buy checking through all of the newest users.... I don't know. ☹

I'm not sure about the public viewability of the forums. But if he was immediately greeted by the "register an account" lowtax message he might have not thought about the public viewability.

As far as it being a gimmick. If the ass that bought it as a gimmick saw the reaction it was getting in this thread (which they undoubtedly would)..then they probably thought it better to not post even if they intended to...it's causing much more of a stir since he/she HASN'T posted.

Apr 30, 2004: 06:22

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

kiimo

Joined: Jul 24, 2003

hmmm okay I can see that. I hope he doesn't out-fox team bravo. I guess we cross our fingers and watch. If he is tipped off this could just turn into a big nothing but at the very least he would have read the thread and known he was busted and seen the pics of the notebook. So there is some small satisfaction in that.

Apr 30, 2004: 06:23

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Monkey Lincoln

Joined: Dec 01, 2001

"Monkey Lincoln? More like Funky Stinkin! Because you stink!"

Signing in with the "I just read through 34 pages of this nonsense and it was the best thing ever" crowd. Let's hope this whole plan goes through like we're all, um, hoping it will.

Apr 30, 2004: 06:24

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

ineffable_moose

Joined: Apr 10, 2004

the forums are not publicly viewable. any time you follow a link to the forums it asks you to log in or to purchase an account. i havent looked for his post yet - but i believe avatars are extra - someone said he had one - why would he pay the extra money for an avatar?

Apr 30, 2004: 06:24

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Bluecobra

Joined: Sep 11, 2001

Cobra Commander

quote:

chizarlie came out of the closet to say:

On the links posted before, the delay lasted 3 days.... I REALLY REALLY hope that this one doesn't last that long..

Lets hope not. According to Fedex: "Time-definite delivery typically in 1- 3 business days. Reach major cities in Europe by 10:30 a.m. typically in 2 business days." So hopefully the service level of this package will mean that its expedited in customs.

Apr 30, 2004: 06:25

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Bluecobra

Joined: Sep 11, 2001

Cobra Commander

quote:

ineffable_moose came out of the closet to say:

the forums are not publicly viewable. any time you follow a link to the forums it asks you to log in or to purchase an account. i havent looked for his post yet - but i believe avatars are extra - someone said he had one - why would he pay the extra money for an avatar?

In a standard account, you are given an free option to type something under your username. If you don't type anything in that box, you end up with the stupid newbie avatar.

Apr 30, 2004: 06:26

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

chizarlie

Joined: Oct 12, 2003

For shizzle

quote:

Bluecobra came out of the closet to say:

In a standard account, you are given an free option to type something under your username. If you don't type anything in that box, you end up with the stupid newbie avatar.

lol ya know I always wondered why people got those.

Apr 30, 2004: 06:28

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

®

Joined: Nov 20, 2002

quote:

ineffable_moose came out of the closet to say:

but i believe avatars are extra - someone said he had one - why would he pay the extra money for an avatar?

He just has the Custom Text "G.ood E.nough T.o S.teal", and Custom Text is free.

Apr 30, 2004: 06:28

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

BonoMan

Joined: Feb 20, 2002

quote:

ineffable_moose came out of the closet to say:

the forums are not publicly viewable. any time you follow a link to the forums it asks you to log in or to purchase an account. i havent looked for his post yet - but i believe avatars are extra - someone said he had one - why would he pay the extra money for an avatar?

I think they just mean the "G.ood E.nough T.o S.teal" custom text...

Apr 30, 2004: 06:29

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

KiwiBoi

Joined: Mar 13, 2004

I once had to ship my PC from NZ to the US and it got held up for about a week due to some lame-ass FCC(?) regulation to prevent dumping cheap imported RAM on the market. It only had about 128MB in it I think. Plus some FedEx wanker had dropped it, dented the case and fucked the HDD I left in it (I took the important one out). Stupid crap if you ask me 😏

Apr 30, 2004: 06:30

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

paper pope hat

Joined: Sep 27, 2000

quote:

Ionized came out of the closet to say:

Alright, so in the hypothetical situation that he DID read this...there are so many posts that I kinda doubt he'll know any specifics of what's going to happen. (just to put some of the stake-out people at ease).

I don't know. If you logged onto a forum and found a 30+ page thread about yourself, wouldn't you pay fairly close attention to the contents?

Of course there isn't really anything he could DO to the london folks. Remotely legally, at least. They're totally innocent. They're just showing up to use a service he provides.

Apr 30, 2004: 06:31

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

kiimo

Joined: Jul 24, 2003

quote:

paper pope hat came out of the closet to say:

I don't know. If you logged onto a forum and found a 30+ page thread about yourself, wouldn't you pay fairly close attention to the contents?

Of course there isn't really anything he could DO to the london folks. Remotely legally, at least. They're totally innocent. They're just showing up to use a service he provides.

yeah but I think he has made it very clear that he doesn't operate in the 'legally' realm.

Apr 30, 2004: 06:32

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

RajaKumar

Joined: Jun 13, 2002

Dr Rajakumar

I AM I DON QUIXOTE

quote:

overseer07 came out of the closet to say:

I'm betting dofca is a gimmick account. I mean, look at his avatar!

quote:

G.ood E.nough T.o S.teal

from Google:

quote:

Another of the Truly Great Americans (an extinct species) of whom I often speak had similar work habits. When William Seward Burroughs read a book, he would often write "GETS" in the margin beside sections he liked. This stood for Good Enough To Steal. Parts of his cut-up novels - "The Soft Boys" and "The Ticket That Exploded" - had lines lifted from Shakespeare and the Bible mixed up with material left over from Naked Lunch. Although these books are often called unreadable, they are NEVER thought of as un-original. And rightfully so.

Google also shows this acronym being used by others, although somewhat infrequently.

Dofca is a city in ancient Israel briefly mentioned in the bible. Or a Ragnorak Online server : <http://dofca.com/>. It also appears to be an acronym of some meaning in Italy, and some kind of software made in brazil. Of the 77 displayed hits google brings up, only 4 are from Eastern Europe, and all of those are from the Czech Republic. If I am remembering correctly, Romanian is a very unique language, and is not related closely with any other East European languages (I may be mixing it up with another language though--either way, no .ro hits).

Let's not make this poor guy into some perverted airdisc, there is no clear evidence (that I can find) of any correlation to either the scammer or even Romania.

EDIT: to add, I think I finally found the reason people were thinking Dofca was a Romanian word: in this post someone found a translation of a Romanian Bible containing the word. It's the name of a city in Israel mentioned once in the Bible. You'd find it in any translation of any Bible.

RajaKumar fucked around with this message at Apr 30, 2004 around 06:39

Apr 30, 2004: 06:32

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Totswot

Joined: Jun 17, 2003

well hey, if in the end it doesn't turn out to be Dofca (though I bet it is), someone should definitely ninja-buy him a custom title.

Apr 30, 2004: 06:34

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

paper pope hat

Joined: Sep 27, 2000

quote:

kiimo came out of the closet to say:

yeah but I think he has made it very clear that he doesn't operate in the 'legally' realm.

Of course. But this thread would also illustrate to him that thousands of people know the exact address where these goons went. He doesn't have the anonymity to hide behind in this case.

Apr 30, 2004: 06:35

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Refugee

Joined: Apr 08, 2004

Pope Hat's right, there's no need to jump the gun. But, if some shit does hit the fan then I have a spare bed in my house in Liverpool if you need to lay low for a while.

Apr 30, 2004: 06:37

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

kiimo

Joined: Jul 24, 2003

quote:

paper pope hat came out of the closet to say:

Of course. But this thread would also illustrate to him that thousands of people know the exact address where these goons went. He doesn't have the anonymity to hide behind in this case.

True. However I do think that if he has indeed read the thread it does put the UK goons in a (however slightly) more dangerous position, and I must say that I feel immensely guilty that this is hightening the suspense for me here in my cozy little apartment.

God bless the soldiers.

Apr 30, 2004: 06:37

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

chizarlie

Joined: Oct 12, 2003

For shizzle

Hmm.. I'll put in $5 to buying him an appropriate custom title right now anyways. Anybody wanna put up the other $5 (and come up with a good title/avatar)?

Apr 30, 2004: 06:38

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Char

Joined: Mar 09, 2002

GAY FOR KIEFER

*fap fap fap*

quote:

Bluecobra came out of the closet to say:

Edit: Uk Goons... its 6 am: Wakey Wakey Eggs and Bakey

Fuck you. I'm yet to sleep and about to go to bed.

*grumble*

Apr 30, 2004: 06:38

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Starbucks

Joined: Jul 07, 2002

Strong Coffee Drinking!

i am posting from paddington station

everything

going

to plan so far. the payphone terminal next to me has blue screened gonna post back in a sec okay

Apr 30, 2004: 06:43

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Refugee

Joined: Apr 08, 2004

Aye, I've not slept yet. Work at 5pm, need to see neighbours and watch snooker, so I doubt I'll sleep today 😞

PS Starbucks, I sent you a text, just incase you get/got freaked out by it (if you were in the tube then it obviously won't deliver for a bit)

Apr 30, 2004: 06:44

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Earwicker

Joined: Jan 06, 2003

Well.. I think it's probable that Dofca is not a gimmik account in light of the true meaning of the word and the fact that his custom text is a reference to W.S.Burroughs. And yes cut-ups are unreadable, but they're a lot of fun to make - there's even automated cut-up "machines" on the web.

quote:

---

If I am remembering correctly, Romanian is a very unique language, and is not related closely with any other East European languages

---

You are confusing it with Hungarian. Romanian is not a very unique language at all - it's a Romance language, like Italian, French, and Spanish - although it is different from the slavic languages. Hungarian, however, is different from almost every language in Europe (it is in fact an Asian language).

Sorry to derail the thread but I guess we might as well talk about random stuff while we wait for the package to get through customs

Apr 30, 2004: 06:47

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

ultralaz0r

Joined: Feb 24, 2003

quote:

---

Starbucks came out of the closet to say:
i am posting from paddington station

everything
going
to plan so far. the payphone terminal next to me has blue screened gonna post back in a sec okay

---

glhf

don't die.

Apr 30, 2004: 06:50

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Starbucks

Joined: Jul 07, 2002

Strong Coffee Drinking!

okay reading this thread is difficult. i need the address STAT

Apr 30, 2004: 06:52

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Yoda

Joined: Dec 11, 2003

A Jedi I am

Address: 9B Varley Parade
City: COLINDALE State: Unknown Zip: NW96RR
Country: UK

Apr 30, 2004: 06:53

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Refugee

Joined: Apr 08, 2004

Flat 9B,
LONDON

Go!

Apr 30, 2004: 06:54

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Halvor

Joined: Aug 17, 2003

The black cards all look the same to me...

quote:

Ionized came out of the closet to say:

Alright, so in the hypothetical situation that he DID read this...there are so many posts that I kinda doubt he'll know any specifics of what's going to happen. (just to put some of the stake-out people at ease).

Although it would kill the climax, and would suck, and my life would feel...incomplete.

I believe the very first post has updates as to where someone new to the thread can find important information.

Apr 30, 2004: 06:55

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Starbucks

Joined: Jul 07, 2002

Strong Coffee Drinking!

got it 9b valley parade. right onto theedgeware road then road i s on the left. 9b valley parade. someone text this to me as i have no pen. 07736229696 +447736229696

Apr 30, 2004: 06:56

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Fistgrrl

Joined: Dec 30, 2000

Queen of Cuddlenaps

quote:

Smekerman came out of the closet to say:

Why does it always have to be us ;_;

Yeah, why us? ;_;

We need a Romanian flag emoticon.

Apr 30, 2004: 06:57

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

down1nit

Joined: Jan 09, 2004

Title text (optional; no images are allowed, only text, buttmonger)

Apr 30, 2004: 07:02

^^fistgrll's not closing the thread... yet has anyone heard back from this "mother" chap?

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Earwicker

Joined: Jan 06, 2003

quote:

Fistgrll came out of the closet to say:

Yeah, why us? ;_;

We need a Romanian flag emoticon.

With a vampire

Apr 30, 2004: 07:07

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Bluecobra

Joined: Sep 11, 2001

Cobra Commander

quote:

Starbucks came out of the closet to say:

okay reading this thread is difficult. i need the address STAT

Here's a map for 9B Valley Parade.

Attachment: map.jpg

This has been downloaded 1970 time(s).

Apr 30, 2004: 07:08

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| triple clutcherJoined: Jul 10, 2003 Los quernos, the triple clutcher!                                                                                                                                       | quote: Earwicker came out of the closet to say:With a vampire Would it cry blood?                                                                                     |
| Apr 30, 2004: 07:08                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                       |
| LamandaJoined: Apr 18, 2003 What's all this then?                                                                     | After reading 35 pages, i feel strangely compelled to post.                                                                                                                                                    |
| Apr 30, 2004: 07:08                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                       |
| StinkyWizzleateatsJoined: Mar 21, 2004 Third Quartermaster of the New England Calvinball Combination | quote: Lamanda came out of the closet to say:After reading 35 pages, i feel strangely compelled to post. I thought that same thing ten pages ago. Sympathies, friend. |
| Apr 30, 2004: 07:13                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                       |

BonoMan

Joined: Feb 20, 2002

quote:

StinkyWizzleateats came out of the closet to say:

I thought that same thing ten pages ago. Sympathies, friend.

I'd just like to say you probably have the best username I've ever seen...

carry on.

Apr 30, 2004: 07:16

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

murphyrulez

Joined: Mar 06, 2004

The King of Pain

My wizzle's teats aren't stinky, you may want to have them checked out if they are still under warranty.

Apr 30, 2004: 07:19

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

StinkyWizzleateats

Joined: Mar 21, 2004

Third Quartermaster of the
New England Calvinball
Combination

^ ^ ^ EXTENDED WARRANTY?! HOW CAN I LOSE!!1/?

Apr 30, 2004: 07:22

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

esperantinc

Joined: May 05, 2003

quote:

Starbucks came out of the closet to say:

got it 9b valley parade. right onto theedgeware road then road i s on the left. 9b valley parade. someone text this to me as i have no pen. 07736229696 +447736229696

dont know if anyone else did this, but I just did just in case.

Apr 30, 2004: 07:33

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Yoda

Joined: Dec 11, 2003

A Jedi I am

quote:

esperantinc came out of the closet to say:

dont know if anyone else did this, but I just did just in case.

I tried to send it, but I kept getting error messages 😞

Apr 30, 2004: 07:34

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Refugee

Joined: Apr 08, 2004

I did that a while ago, so there's no need to continue.

Apr 30, 2004: 07:35

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

|                                                                                                                                                                    |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| ®Joined: Nov 20, 2002                                                 | quote: <hr/> esperantinc came out of the closet to say: <hr/> dont know if anyone else did this, but I just did just in case. <hr/>                                                                                                          |
| Apr 30, 2004: 07:37                                                                                                                                  | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                    |
| ThudJoined: Dec 17, 2002  A Shit eater?                 | Quick question. I'm assuming no one from SA has contacted the professor in Iowa due to the assumption that verisign has already? I just read throught the 35 pages and was curious. Other than that, good luck all you UK dudes.                                         |
| Apr 30, 2004: 07:39                                                                                                                                  | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                    |
| pahnubJoined: Jun 09, 2003  Smurfin' Booty Since 1982 | This thread rules, not only is the content entertaining and funny, but I've just started looking at people's profiles while reading this thread (as damn near everyones posted in it), and its left me with one comment: NO CHAR NO! That's a bad CHAR! (pic in profile) |
| Apr 30, 2004: 07:40                                                                                                                                  | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                    |

Soos
Joined: Mar 03, 2004

Soos you neeb

dofca
Joined: Apr 28, 2004

Is anyone selling a
P-P-P-Powermac?

I can see the hilarity.

Edit: If you're dialing to the UK from the US or Canada, you need to dial 011 first.

Soos fucked around with this message at Apr 30, 2004 around 07:44

Apr 30, 2004: 07:41

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

chizarlie
Joined: Oct 12, 2003

For shizzle

quote:

Soos came out of the closet to say:

dofca

Joined: Apr 28, 2004

Is anyone selling a
P-P-P-Powermac?

I can see the hilarity.

---

Hahhahahahaha that's awesome

Apr 30, 2004: 07:42

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

OMG LOL BUTSEKZ

Joined: Dec 02, 2003

godspeed Starbucks.

no butsekz plz.

Apr 30, 2004: 07:42

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

LodeRunner

Joined: Dec 27, 2003

Whenever I try and refresh the FedEx tracker page, it kills my browser for about 5 minutes, then finally works. This is probably the most closely watched/most refreshed tracker in their history. Anyone else get sluggish response?

Floggins will continue until morale improves.

Also, why the hell does it say 'FedEx Express'? Doesn't the Ex in FedEx mean Express?... I guess it's just another one of those things, like 'ATM Machine'.

Apr 30, 2004: 07:44

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Bed

Joined: Apr 20, 2004

...sometimes you wakeup,
sometimes you die, and
sometimes you fly...

This is the true power of the net. Cower in fear!

Apr 30, 2004: 07:45

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Refugee

Joined: Apr 08, 2004

quote:

pahnub came out of the closet to say:

This thread rules, not only is the content entertaining and funny, but I've just started looking at people's profiles while reading this thread (as damn near everyones posted in it), and its left me with one comment: NO CHAR NO! That's a bad CHAR! (pic in profile)

Not wanting to derail but. Oh. My. God :sick:

<http://www.sonickrew.co.uk/yarr/me.jpg>

Apr 30, 2004: 07:45

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

kindermord

Joined: Jun 05, 2003

quote:

Ionized came out of the closet to say:

in the hypothetical situation that he DID read this... it would kill the climax, and would suck, and my life would feel...incomplete.

[FYAD paranoia]

the "GBS sux lol" pathology is strong in certain quarters. I wouldn't put it past some of them to contact the "purchaser", thusly deflating a fucking huge GBS event. Not like it hasn't been done before.

That's all I got to say about that.

[/FYAD paranoia]

Apr 30, 2004: 07:46

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Package Molesto

Joined: Aug 05, 2002

It trained them to shoot skeet.

quote:

LodeRunner came out of the closet to say:

Also, why the hell does it say 'FedEx Express'? Doesn't the Ex in FedEx mean Express?... I guess it's just another one of those things, like 'ATM Machine'.

There's also FedEx Ground, Freight, Custom Critical, etc.

Apr 30, 2004: 07:46

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Refugee

Joined: Apr 08, 2004

quote:

LodeRunner came out of the closet to say:

Whenever I try and refresh the FedEx tracker page, it kills my browser for about 5 minutes, then finally works. This is probably the most closely watched/most refreshed tracker in their history. Anyone else get sluggish response?

Also, why the hell does it say 'FedEx Express'? Doesn't the Ex in FedEx mean Express?... I guess it's just another one of those things, like 'ATM Machine'.

Yeah, it kills safari for me. Just kills it, the cursor beachballs and I have to force quit.

Apr 30, 2004: 07:46

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

rayray00_00

Joined: Mar 27, 2003

whew.

quote:

LodeRunner came out of the closet to say:

Whenever I try and refresh the FedEx tracker page, it kills my browser for about 5 minutes, then finally works. This is probably the most closely watched/most refreshed tracker in their history. Anyone else get sluggish response?

Also, why the hell does it say 'FedEx Express'? Doesn't the Ex in FedEx mean Express?... I guess it's just another one of those things, like 'ATM Machine'.

There are different type of FedEx companies. There's FedEx Ground, FedEx Home, and FedEx Express.

edit: So beaten, but not sluggish for me.

Apr 30, 2004: 07:47

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

CHARLES

Joined: Oct 13, 2001

quote:

Soos came out of the closet to say:

dofca

Joined: Apr 28, 2004

Is anyone selling a
P-P-P-Powermac?

I can see the hilarity.

Edit: If you're dialing to the UK from the US or Canada, you need to dial 011 first.

hahahahaha that's awesome, especially if he isn't the guy we're looking for. The confusion on his part would be huge. He'd log in and out of nowhere discover he'd been given a custom title and not know for what.

Also, every time I check this thread it seems to have grown exponentially. 🤪

CHARLES fucked around with this message at Apr 30, 2004 around 07:52

Apr 30, 2004: 07:48

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Jack Burton

Joined: Mar 01, 2002

It's all in the reflexes.

The suspense is killin' me. Deliciously killing me...

Apr 30, 2004: 07:49

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

esperantinc

Joined: May 05, 2003

quote:

Soos came out of the closet to say:

Edit: If you're dialing to the UK from the US or Canada, you need to dial 011 first.

I thought thats what the + was for?

Apr 30, 2004: 07:49

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Sepherothic

Joined: Feb 08, 2003

Holy crap! I just read the entire thread.

This is definative proof that the SA forum goons are largest collection of bad ass mother fuckers on the planet. Godspeed our intrepid warriors.

Apr 30, 2004: 07:50

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

|                                                                                                                                   |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| LodeRunnerJoined: Dec 27, 2003Floggins will continue until morale improves.                                    | quote: Refugee came out of the closet to say: Yeah, it kills safari for me. Just kills it, the cursor beachballs and I have to force quit.Yeah Safari here too. Leave it for about 5 minutes, it will come alive again.     |
| Apr 30, 2004: 07:53                                                                                                        | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                       |
| PsykoguyJoined: Oct 10, 2003Pantsless Avenger                                                                  | Dear god, I wish you Londoners had a webcam or something. The suspense is killing me here, I need closure on this! Here's hoping that the shutdown of his escrow site doesn't make him avoid this...                                                                                      |
| Apr 30, 2004: 07:53                                                                                                        | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                       |
| ®Joined: Nov 20, 2002         | I really fear coming home from 8 hours of work tomorrow... I'll have 15 new pages to read!                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| Apr 30, 2004: 07:53                                                                                                        | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                       |
| JavelinJoined: Jan 02, 2004 | This is one crazy thread...  Anyways, hope this whole thing turns out good and interesting. Good luck, guys. |
| Apr 30, 2004: 07:53                                                                                                        | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                       |

|                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| SoosJoined: Mar 03, 2004Soos you neeb                                                                           | quote:esperantinc came out of the closet to say: I thought thats what the + was for? Someone might have misunderstood?                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| Apr 30, 2004: 07:54                                                                                                                              | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| 1badkarmaJoined: Mar 02, 2004I'm sorry, uh, I wasn't listening...                                               | You know what? Something just came to me.I mean, we all know that the SomethingAwful forums is made up of a variety of different characters, right?What if this scammer was a SomethingAwful member to begin with? What if he's reading this thread as we speak, and he's laughing his ass off because he'll be one move infront of us?And what happened to Pipski? Maybe he found out too much and when the scammer read the thread again and realised who Pipski was...had him tracked down and...Oh shi                                                                                                                                                                             |
| Apr 30, 2004: 07:58                                                                                                                              | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| EarwickerJoined: Jan 06, 2003 | quote:1badkarma came out of the closet to say: You know what? Something just came to me.I mean, we all know that the SomethingAwful forums is made up of a variety of different characters, right?What if this scammer was a SomethingAwful member to begin with? What if he's reading this thread as we speak, and he's laughing his ass off because he'll be one move infront of us?And what happened to Pipski? Maybe he found out too much and when the scammer read the thread again and realised who Pipski was...had him tracked down and...Oh shi INTERNET: THE MOVIE |
| Apr 30, 2004: 08:00                                                                                                                              | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |

blairerickson

Joined: May 18, 2002

"I hate Stiffly Stiffersons... I want to prank them... in my basement... for hours."

Hang up the forums! He's posting from inside the site!!!1

Apr 30, 2004: 08:01

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

chizarlie

Joined: Oct 12, 2003

For shizzle

quote:

CHARLES came out of the closet to say:

hahahahaha that's awesome, especially if he isn't the guy we're looking for. The confusion on his part would be huge. He'd log in and out of nowhere discover he'd been given a custom title and not know for what.

Bahaha yes definitely. Someone wanna split it with me? $5 to CharlieU235@hotmail.com

Apr 30, 2004: 08:02

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

DLCinferno

Joined: Feb 22, 2003

quote:

blairerickson came out of the closet to say:

Hang up the forums! He's posting from inside the site!!!1

Don't worry guys... "I know kung fu."

Apr 30, 2004: 08:11

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Bluecobra

Joined: Sep 11, 2001

Cobra Commander

The supense is boiling... FedEx only has 3 1/2 hours to meet the 12pm estimated delivery date.

Edit: Shouldn't the package be on the truck now?

Bluecobra fucked around with this message at Apr 30, 2004 around 08:28

Apr 30, 2004: 08:24

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

cplhades

Joined: Nov 17, 2003

Are the on-site team going to text message anyone with updates? That person could then post to the forums. It's probably less risky than logging on to the forums from that dodgy net cafe.

Apr 30, 2004: 08:26

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Package Molesto

Joined: Aug 05, 2002

It trained them to shoot skeet.

quote:

Bluecobra came out of the closet to say:

The supense is boiling... FedEx only has 3 1/2 hours to meet the 12pm estimated delivery date.

Edit: Shouldn't the package be on the truck now?

I've got the feeling that "Regulatory Agency Clearance Delay" means that it got held up at customs, so FedEx isn't responsible for delays in delivery. So don't be surprised if it takes a little while longer.

Apr 30, 2004: 08:33

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

skander

Joined: Apr 17, 2003

Did you know there is black jade paste?

Mein Gott! I get home and the thread has grown by ten pages.

Now that I've committed to a caffeinated all-nighter just to witness this epic in near real time (no job to lose, for me), the suspense is killing me. Perhaps I'll finally watch Lock, Stock... to kill some time. I just hope customs doesn't ruin all the fun.

Good luck to all our UK operatives, and congratulations to all involved.

My god, it's full of posts ...

Apr 30, 2004: 08:34

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

LodeRunner

Joined: Dec 27, 2003

Floggins will continue until morale improves.

I think we should get an iSketch game going to kill time. Anyone?

Apr 30, 2004: 08:34

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

DaNzA

Joined: Sep 11, 2001

what?

quote:

chizarlie came out of the closet to say:

Bahaha yes definitely. Someone wanna split it with me? $5 to CharlieU235@hotmail.com

Paypaled

Apr 30, 2004: 08:36

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

|                                                                                                                                                                                   |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| DXHJoined: Dec 08, 2003  He escaped into the waves. | quote: LodeRunner came out of the closet to say:I think we should get an iSketch game going to kill time. Anyone? I dunno, I'm working from 2PM till 10PM... Ahh, fuck it, I'm down with iSketch or whatever the fuck we play now. Maybe some Natural Selection lol |
| Apr 30, 2004: 08:37                                                                                                                                             | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                |
| cplhadesJoined: Nov 17, 2003                                   | quote: LodeRunner came out of the closet to say:I think we should get an iSketch game going to kill time. Anyone? I can't from work, but I can guess what the first sketch would be anyway.(a P-P-P-Powerbook)                                                            |
| Apr 30, 2004: 08:37                                                                                                                                             | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                |
| LodeRunnerJoined: Dec 27, 2003 Floggin's will continue until morale improves.                                                                   | How did I created iSketch room? edit- ok game is up. Game room SA Goons. Jump in.                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| Apr 30, 2004: 08:39                                                                                                                                             | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                |

Soos

Joined: Mar 03, 2004

Soos you neeb

quote:

DaNzA came out of the closet to say:

Paypaled

Here is the original icon I made if anyone wants to use it.

<http://www.soosed.com/images/ninja-icon.jpg>

Apr 30, 2004: 08:39

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

rayray00_00

Joined: Mar 27, 2003

whee.

quote:

Bluecobra came out of the closet to say:

The supense is boiling... FedEx only has 3 1/2 hours to meet the 12pm estimated delivery date.

Edit: Shouldn't the package be on the truck now?

It should say out for delivery by now 😊

The FedEx trucks where I worked at were usually out of the hub by 7:30.

Apr 30, 2004: 08:40

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

chizarlie

Joined: Oct 12, 2003

For shizzle

Done and done 🏆

<http://forums.somethingawful.com/me...fo&userid=53764>

I guess they moderate other-user custom title changes?

chizarlie fucked around with this message at Apr 30, 2004 around 08:43

Apr 30, 2004: 08:40

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Powercrazy

Joined: Feb 15, 2004

I am become death, the
destroyer of worlds.

Robert Oppenheimer

Who hasn't voted yet? And whats worse who DIDN'T vote 5?

Apr 30, 2004: 08:43

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

DLCinferno

Joined: Feb 22, 2003

quote:

chizarlie came out of the closet to say:

Done and done 🏆

<http://forums.somethingawful.com/me...fo&userid=53764>

I guess they moderate other-user custom title changes?

<http://forums.somethingawful.com/sh...0#post286588940>

There's a delay for the custom titles to refresh basically.

DLCinferno fucked around with this message at Apr 30, 2004 around 08:49

Apr 30, 2004: 08:47

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

chizarlie

Joined: Oct 12, 2003

For shizzle

quote:

DLCinferno came out of the closet to say:

<http://forums.somethingawful.com/sh...0#post286588940>

There's a delay for the custom titles to refresh basically.

Interesting... but sucky. bahahaha hopefully it delays just until the guy starts reading this thread (assuming it's not him)

Apr 30, 2004: 08:52

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

Ok guys I'm back.

No emails from our mark.

Apr 30, 2004: 08:54

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

®

Joined: Nov 20, 2002

These forums have basically become the entire internet to me, there's no real point in going anywhere else.

Lately, this thread has been the only one i've been reading, due to pure excitement, so this thread has become the entire internet to me!

Apr 30, 2004: 08:55

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

DarkPaladin

Joined: Feb 11, 2004

I can't believe I just read all that, I must be insane, I'm going to bed, but I'll be back tomorrow hoping for pics, I got scammed on ebay once, I look at this as part of the revenge I never got.

Apr 30, 2004: 08:59

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

quote:

rayray00_00 came out of the closet to say:

It should say out for delivery by now 😞

The FedEx trucks where I worked at were usually out of the hub by 7:30.

I think the:

Apr 30, 2004 3:19 am

Package status

STANSTED GB

Regulatory Agency Clearance Delay

Is because it got there at 3 am. Probably not a full staff, with a lot of shit to xray and what not.

Apr 30, 2004: 09:00

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

-=Buzz=-

Joined: Mar 27, 2004

oooooh, its 9.00 am here in Blighty - wonder how the chaps are getting on?

I kept wanting to get up through the night, but woke up to about 10 more pages instead 😊

Hope it isn't raining, the pub next door won't be open yet.

Apr 30, 2004: 09:02

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

SubCrid TC

Joined: Feb 10, 2004

Believe.

Or it's because someone is on to your counter-scam scam and they're putting in a fake delay so you don't get wise and escape to safety. 😞

Run now! Yoshi will save you! 🐸

Apr 30, 2004: 09:04

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

StinkyWizzleateats

Joined: Mar 21, 2004

Third Quartermaster of the New England Calvinball Combination

Note for the future, MyNameIsJeff. If this works out and we find out exactly who you're fucking with, there is no question in my mind that we should buy you a plane ticket to Engrand to laugh hardcore in this guy's face. Maybe kick him in the wang a couple times, neh?

Apr 30, 2004: 09:07

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

quote:

SubCrid TC came out of the closet to say:
Or it's because someone is on to your counter-scam scam and they're putting in a fake delay so you don't get wise and escape to safety. 😬

Run now! Yoshi will save you! 🍄

Oh fine. I already had a breakdown a few pages back.

Agents are coming.

quote:

StinkyWizzleateats came out of the closet to say:
Note for the future, MyNameIsJeff. If this works out and we find out exactly who you're fucking with, there is no question in my mind that we should buy you a plane ticket to Engrand to laugh hardcore in this guy's face. Maybe kick him in the wang a couple times, neh?

It would be funny to have the money to buy advertizements in the area.
"Looks like you just got had by MyNameIsJeff!"

|                                                                                                                                                                               |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                            |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------|
|                                                                                                                                                                               | "Tried to scam a powerbook? Paid the huge tax only to find you just bought a P-P-P-POWERBOOK? Well that really is too bad. awww. MyNameIsJeff fucked around with this message at Apr 30, 2004 around 09:10                             |                                            |
| Apr 30, 2004: 09:07                                                                                                                                                    | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                         | Edit Quote |
| cplhadesJoined: Nov 17, 2003                                              | I sent Starbucks a good luck text message 15 minutes ago. No reply yet so either he just doesn't want to reply.. or he's dead. And because I'm such a wonderful guy who nobody can ignore, I fear it's the latter. Ah, who am I kidding?      |                                            |
| Apr 30, 2004: 09:14                                                                                                                                                    | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                         | Edit Quote |
| chizarlieJoined: Oct 12, 2003 For shizzle                             | quote: <hr/> MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say: "Tried to scam a powerbook? Paid the huge tax only to find you just bought a P-P-P-POWERBOOK? Well that sure is something awful. <hr/>                          |                                            |
| Apr 30, 2004: 09:16                                                                                                                                                    | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                         | Edit Quote |
| Wandering IdiotJoined: Jul 22, 2003 I Suffer From Mild Retardations | Wow. Just wow. I remember reading this back when it was only 5 pages long, I come back today, and there's 31 more for me to read. Jeff, you're my new internet hero. <hr/> "Pledge Allegiance To Yourself, Not War, Greed, Power and Wealth." |                                            |
| Apr 30, 2004: 09:18                                                                                                                                                    | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                         | Edit Quote |

Bitter Beard

Joined: Sep 11, 2001

What, the fuck is that!

Not sure if it's been said before, but I wonder if they have stuff shipped to the UK because they know customs will check it out and when something not worth the value or questionable is sent it will be caught so they don't get scammed?

I almost think this is some mob scam and the shop is the front, so they just might have a customs dude looking for parcels being shipped.

Am I being a bit paranoid on this?

Apr 30, 2004: 09:19

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

cplhades

Joined: Nov 17, 2003

quote:

Bitter Beard came out of the closet to say:

Am I being a bit paranoid on this?

Yes. Yes you are.

There'd be very little point in having someone in customs assist the scam. If the guy had someone, he wouldn't need to ask Jeff to mark the value down on the shipping label.

Apr 30, 2004: 09:22

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

rottingcorpse

Joined: Dec 12, 2003

you forgot to renew your domain.com

quote:

Bitter Beard came out of the closet to say:

Not sure if it's been said before, but I wonder if they have stuff shipped to the UK because they know customs will check it out and when something not worth the value or questionable is sent it will be caught so they don't get scammed?

I almost think this is some mob scam and the shop is the front, so they just might have a customs dude looking for parcels being shipped.

Am I being a bit paranoid on this?

Yes.

Apr 30, 2004: 09:22

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Zerstoror

Joined: Oct 22, 2002

Would you like a sweet, little girl?

Damn I wish I didn't have to finish this essay else I'd come into London right now and use this as an excuse to buy a digital camera.
Greatest thread ever.

Apr 30, 2004: 09:22

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Yossarko

Joined: Jan 22, 2004

The little Armenian boy who could...

quote:

cplhades came out of the closet to say:

I sent Starbucks a good luck text message 15 minutes ago.

Same. I spent 10 minutes on my cellphone trying to find the "<" character to make a "<3 from Yossarko" but I couldn't find it.

Also, a txt msg from france to england, does it cost more than a regular txt? I honestly don't care, just interested (for future messages).

Apr 30, 2004: 09:23

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Graviton

Joined: Jun 09, 2002

Baby, this is gonna hurt me more than it hurts you.

quote:

--Buzz-- came out of the closet to say:

Hope it isn't raining, the pub next door won't be open yet.

Its raining, what did you expect?

Apr 30, 2004: 09:24

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Yoda

Joined: Dec 11, 2003

A Jedi I am

I just gave starbucks a ring, hes still alive, though I can't say well (had a breakfast at a cafe near the barbershop and is feeling a bit ill). He says the Internet Cafe hasn't opened yet, when it does he'll go make a post from inside. Also - his phone is giving him an error (or something) so he can't reply to the text messages, but he thanks you all for them. I wished him luck from SA, hopefully we hear more from Goon Team Bravo soon.

Apr 30, 2004: 09:29

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

cplhades

Joined: Nov 17, 2003

quote:

Yossarko came out of the closet to say:

Also, a txt msg from france to england, does it cost more than a regular txt? I honestly don't care, just interested (for future messages).

I'm not sure international text messages work most of the time. I read an article which said that a lot of international text messages just get lost. I think the article was in The Sun though, which is almost as reliable for information as the Internet.

Apr 30, 2004: 09:30

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Yossarko

Joined: Jan 22, 2004

The little Armenian boy who could...

No matter what happens, this was still an awesome thread. Nothing will detract the coolness of this thread (except if Starbucks, Jeff or someone dies) it can only get better or ... stop. I'd like nothing more than a real GOON VICTORY for this thread complete with photos and long stories about the crazy barber, but if it all falls to shit, remember all the fun we've had these 35 odd pages and just Goldmine the fucker. I personally wouldn't want to see an additional 30 pages of ANTI CLIMAX "oh sucks it fell to shit" posts.

On a lighter note, i DO think this will work. I really see no reason why the p-p-p-powerbook wouldn't get delivered.

Apr 30, 2004: 09:31

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

slagmatic

Joined: Apr 28, 2004

I love this thread so much. Can't wait till the cafe opens and we get posts from the drop point. 😊

Apr 30, 2004: 09:33

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

-=Buzz=-

Joined: Mar 27, 2004

Graviton, I thought the sun always shone on the righteous? Surely "we" are doing the Lord's work here 😊

It's not raining in Hull 😊

Apr 30, 2004: 09:37

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Gevalt

Joined: Apr 15, 2003

quote:

cplhades came out of the closet to say:

I'm not sure international text messages work most of the time. I read an article which said that a lot of international text messages just get lost. I think the article was in The Sun though, which is almost as reliable for information as the Internet.

I tried sending him one from the States, my phone said the message was sent successfully.

Apr 30, 2004: 09:37

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

platinum_pt78

Joined: Dec 26, 2003

pt78

impatiance growing... :\
I just can't help but refresh this thread a lot - good luck Jeff and fellow anti-scammer agents! 🙏

Apr 30, 2004: 09:41

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Rhyno

Joined: Mar 22, 2003

Well I just stayed up 3 hours later than I planned to read all 36 (34 when I started) pages of this thread. I eagerly await the payoff.

Apr 30, 2004: 09:44

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

iwinatinternet

Joined: Mar 03, 2004

illiterate!!!

dammit. finally reached the end of the topic, now what am I supposed to do?

Apr 30, 2004: 09:44

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Gevalt

Joined: Apr 15, 2003

quote:

iwinatinternet came out of the closet to say:

dammit. finally reached the end of the topic, now what am I supposed to do?

Keep hitting refresh. Or if you're using Opera, set it to refresh automatically.

Apr 30, 2004: 09:46

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Yoda

Joined: Dec 11, 2003

A Jedi I am

quote:

iwinatinternet came out of the closet to say:

dammit. finally reached the end of the topic, now what am I supposed to do?

1 hit refresh
2 drink caffiene
3 goto 1

edit - so very beaten

Apr 30, 2004: 09:46

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

|                                                                                                                                                              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| TheKevmanJoined: Dec 13, 2003I AM GAY FOR RUSHLIMBAUGH!!!                                                                             | well it's now 1:55am pst and i'm tired. I tried and tried to stay up but I keep hitting refresh on the FedEx tracking and its still saying it's being held by regulatory whatever. I'm sad ☹️                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| Apr 30, 2004: 09:55                                                                                                                                   | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| LytinwheedleJoined: Mar 08, 2004"I'd go easy on the details of the death when telling their mother."                                      | Why does this have to come to a resolution just as I am needing to finish an essay?? Is there no god?Oh, wait, a scammer is getting fucked over. There is a god...                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| Apr 30, 2004: 10:03                                                                                                                                   | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| MyNameIsJeffJoined: Dec 05, 2003P-P-P-Powerbook.com! | Ok guys. For those of you who are still up over here on our side. I'm going to step away and get some sleep. Once again, if something changes with FedEx, or something serious happens at the drop, please call me. If anything like this happens an email from the mark is sure to follow. I want to have it up as soon as possible.Thanks again.MyNameIsJeff fucked around with this message at Apr 30, 2004 around 21:38                                                                                                                                                                      |
| Apr 30, 2004: 10:07                                                                                                                                   | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| nic0Joined: Dec 28, 2003                               | quote: <hr/> TheKevman came out of the closet to say:well it's now 1:55am pst and i'm tired. I tried and tried to stay up but I keep hitting refresh on the FedEx tracking and its still saying it's being held by regulatory whatever. I'm sad ☹️ <hr/> I imagine somewhere a turned off mobile phone is getting phone calls requesting that he pay his import tax bill. I have had letters requesting I pay import tax before, so maybe if they can't get through on the phone they will send a letter. This could be a long weekend; Monday is a national holiday in the UK! |
| Apr 30, 2004: 10:13                                                                                                                                   | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |

Starbucks

Joined: Jul 07, 2002

Strong Coffee Drinking!

Okay, I am in the cafe

here is some info, there are webcams, anyone wanna get a msn webcam recorder and i will pan and scan, they dont have memory stick readers so i cant get info from my camera, but there are plenty of pictures

WHERE ARE THE OTHER GOONS

anyway, here is some info

HIJACK THIS LOG

Logfile of HijackThis v1.97.7

Scan saved at 11:33:33, on 30/04/2004

Platform: Windows 2000 (WinNT 5.00.2195)

MSIE: Internet Explorer v5.00 (5.00.2920.0000)

Running processes:

C:\WINNT\Explorer.exe

C:\WINNT\System32\khooker.exe

C:\WINNT\loadqm.exe

C:\Program Files\MSN Messenger\msnmsgr.exe

C:\Program Files\WinZip\WZQKPICK.EXE

C:\Program Files\Yahoo!\Messenger\ymsgr_tray.exe

C:\Program Files\Internet Explorer\iexplore.exe

E:\Programs\HijackThis.exe

R0 - HKCU\Software\Microsoft\Internet Explorer\Main,Start Page = <http://www.about.co.uk>

R0 - HKLM\Software\Microsoft\Internet Explorer\Main,Start Page = <http://red.clientapps.yahoo.com/cus...//my.yahoo.com>

R1 - HKLM\Software\Microsoft\Internet Explorer\Main,Search Bar = <http://red.clientapps.yahoo.com/cus...rch/search.html>

R1 - HKLM\Software\Microsoft\Internet Explorer\Main,Search Page = <http://red.clientapps.yahoo.com/cus...//www.yahoo.com>

R1 - HKLM\Software\Microsoft\Internet Explorer\Main,Default_Page_URL = <http://red.clientapps.yahoo.com/cus...//my.yahoo.com>

R1 - HKLM\Software\Microsoft\Internet Explorer\Main,Default_Search_URL = <http://red.clientapps.yahoo.com/cus...//www.yahoo.com>

R1 - HKCU\Software\Microsoft\Internet Connection Wizard,ShellNext = <https://loginnet.passport.com/ppsec...uth.srf?lc=1033>

O2 - BHO: (no name) - {02478D38-C3F9-4efb-9B51-7695ECA05670} - C:\Program Files\Yahoo!\Companion\Installs\cpn\ycomp5_3_12_0.dll

O3 - Toolbar: @msdxmLC.dll,-1@1033,&Radio - {8E718888-423F-11D2-876E-00A0C9082467} - C:\WINNT\System32\msdxm.ocx

O3 - Toolbar: &Yahoo! Companion - {EF99BD32-C1FB-11D2-892F-0090271D4F88} - C:\Program Files\Yahoo!\Companion\Installs\cpn\ycomp5_3_12_0.dll

O4 - HKLM\..\Run: [Synchronization Manager] mobsync.exe /logon

O4 - HKLM\..\Run: [SiS KHooker] C:\WINNT\System32\khooker.exe

O4 - HKLM\..\Run: [LoadQM] loadqm.exe

O4 - HKLM\..\Run: [RealTray] C:\Program Files\Real\RealPlayer\RealPlay.exe SYSTEMBOOTHIDEPLAYER

O4 - HKCU\..\Run: [msnmsgr] "C:\Program Files\MSN Messenger\msnmsgr.exe" /background
O4 - HKCU\..\Run: [Yahoo! Pager] C:\Program Files\Yahoo!\Messenger\ypager.exe -quiet
O4 - Global Startup: Microsoft Office.Ink = C:\Program Files\Microsoft Office\Office\OSA9.EXE
O4 - Global Startup: Reality Fusion GameCam SE.Ink = C:\Program Files\Reality Fusion\Reality Fusion GameCam SE
Program\RFTRay.exe
O4 - Global Startup: WinZip Quick Pick.Ink = C:\Program Files\WinZip\WZQKPICK.EXE
O9 - Extra button: Messenger (HKLM)
O9 - Extra 'Tools' menuitem: Yahoo! Messenger (HKLM)
O9 - Extra button: Related (HKLM)
O9 - Extra 'Tools' menuitem: Show &Related Links (HKLM)
O9 - Extra button: Real.com (HKLM)
O16 - DPF: DigiChat Applet - http://host9.digichat.com/DigiChat/...s/Client\_IE.cab
O16 - DPF: {30528230-99F7-4BB4-88D8-FA1D4F56A2AB} (YInstStarter Class) - <http://download.yahoo.com/dl/installs/yinst0401.cab>
O16 - DPF: {A17E30C4-A9BA-11D4-8673-60DB54C10000} (YahooYMailTo Class) - http://us.dl1.yimg.com/download.yah.../ymmap\_i\_416.dll
O16 - DPF: {D27CDB6E-AE6D-11CF-96B8-444553540000} (Shockwave Flash Object) - <http://download.macromedia.com/pub/...ash/swflash.cab>
O17 - HKLM\System\CCS\Services\Tcpip\..\{0E55F79E-5B8B-42B6-81FA-EA6780223388}: NameServer = 212.67.96.129,212.67.96.130
O17 - HKLM\System\CS1\Services\Tcpip\..\{0E55F79E-5B8B-42B6-81FA-EA6780223388}: NameServer = 212.67.96.129,212.67.96.130
O17 - HKLM\System\CS2\Services\Tcpip\..\{0E55F79E-5B8B-42B6-81FA-EA6780223388}: NameServer = 212.67.96.129,212.67.96.130

Apr 30, 2004: 10:23

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Starbucks

Joined: Jul 07, 2002

Strong Coffee Drinking!

last person to use msn on this CPU was k\_b26@hotmail.com

and i am LOGGED IN to a account set up on yahoo here balanpetrica, gonna check other pc's now

EDIT: other PCs next to me have no info apart from one using GamesNet IRC, no channel logs left or channel history

Starbucks fucked around with this message at Apr 30, 2004 around 10:29

Apr 30, 2004: 10:27

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

FAN-FUCKING-TASTIC Starbucks.

One thing I noticed right away was khooker.exe

quote:

Starbucks came out of the closet to say:

last person to use msn on this CPU was k\_b26@hotmail.com

and i am LOGGED IN to a account set up on yahoo here balanpetrica, gonna check other pc's now

Are they going to notice you hopping computers??

Apr 30, 2004: 10:27

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

pooper scooper

Joined: Oct 23, 2003

Totally awesome.

Wouldn't it be great if we found a keylogger and some evidence of the scam plan!

GO GOONS GO! DO IT FOR THE P-P-P-POWERBOOK!

Apr 30, 2004: 10:28

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Wrong Igor

Joined: Feb 22, 2004

I'm getting too old. Kill me.

Khooker seems to be a system tray utility from s SiS vga card.

Not a keylogger.

Apr 30, 2004: 10:29

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Kan

Joined: Oct 23, 2003

Meep! Meep! Meep!

Apr 30, 2004: 10:32

Khooker is a system Tray utility which gets installed by the drivers of the latter day SiS VGA cards

Beaten like a bitch 😊

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Soos

Joined: Mar 03, 2004

Soos you neeb

I can hook up with you on MSN so I can record some pictures.

What is your email?

Apr 30, 2004: 10:33

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

blitrig

Joined: Jul 02, 2003

must...fight...sleep...

(Any way you guys could, say, speed it up a bit? I have class in the morning.)

Apr 30, 2004: 10:34

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Starbucks

Joined: Jul 07, 2002

Strong Coffee Drinking!

quote:

Soos came out of the closet to say:

I can hook up with you on MSN so I can record some pictures.

What is your email?

arsenal_fan_2000@hotmail.com lets start a conference call eh? contact me on the yahoo address i gave as well

Apr 30, 2004: 10:35

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

|                                                                                                                                     |                                                                                                                                                                                     |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| AtaraxiaJoined: Jun 15, 2001Champion of nothing                                                                  | quote: Starbucks came out of the closet to say:Okay, I am in the cafe oops                                                      |
| Apr 30, 2004: 10:37                                                                                                          | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote |
| FucktoasterJoined: Apr 24, 2004 | Did you check for a hardware based keylogger?                                                                                                                                       |
| Apr 30, 2004: 10:39                                                                                                          | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                 |
| down1nitJoined: Jan 09, 2004Title text (optional; no images are allowed, only text, buttmonger)                  | quote: Ataraxia came out of the closet to say:oops WE ALL SAW THAT.LO                                            |
| Apr 30, 2004: 10:40                                                                                                          | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote |

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

Starbuck's cam feed dropped all of a sudden.

Apr 30, 2004: 10:41

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Schroe

Joined: Feb 06, 2004

It's a trap!!

Apr 30, 2004: 10:41

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

nic0

Joined: Dec 28, 2003

quote:

---

Starbucks came out of the closet to say:

last person to use msn on this CPU was k\_b26@hotmail.com

and i am LOGGED IN to a account set up on yahoo here balanpetrica, gonna check other pc's now

EDIT: other PCs next to me have no info apart from one using GamesNet IRC, no channel logs left or channel history

---

If you can log into an IRC server and /whois yourself, then you'll have (one of) the IP address(es) that this internet cafe uses. Wonder if they route everything via a Romanian proxy server 😊

Apr 30, 2004: 10:42

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Thanos

Joined: Apr 28, 2002

You address Omnipotence.
Tread Carefully.

I can barely keep my eyes open, but I MUST STAY AWAKE.

Apr 30, 2004: 10:42

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

EditQuotepooper scooper

Joined: Oct 23, 2003

Hardware keyloggers.. good idea

Check the back of the computer.. look at the keyboard wire. If there is a hardware keylogger, the keyboard will be plugged into a patch cable before going into the PC.

----keyboard wire----| |: |: |: |----keylogger----| |: |: |: |COMPUTER CASE|

Apr 30, 2004: 10:43

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuoteStarbucks

Joined: Jul 07, 2002

Strong Coffee Drinking!

OKAY IM GOING TO CONNECT THIS PC TO SA IRC, I WILL BE IN #SA IN A MO

Apr 30, 2004: 10:44

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

EditQuote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

quote:

Starbucks came out of the closet to say:

OKAY IM GOING TO CONNECT THIS PC TO SA IRC, I WILL BE IN #SA IN A MO

DaINET? Or what?

Apr 30, 2004: 10:45

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Soos

Joined: Mar 03, 2004

These are the only two noteworthy webcam shots so far.

Soos you neeb

The sign outside:

<http://www.soosed.com/images/superfast.jpg>

We need more goons!

<http://www.soosed.com/images/needmoregoons.jpg>

Apr 30, 2004: 10:47

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

ZeromusMog

Joined: Feb 11, 2004

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:

quote:

DaINET? Or what?

IRC

Information posted by Scaramouche on March 30, 2004

As a warning those entering #somethingawful expecting light-hearted SA type conversation, you will be disappointed. The channel is occupied by the infamous AI (see; AI) who usually kick bans anyone who mentions SomethingAwful or the forums unless you know him from the days of yore. The "unofficial" channel is #sa.

Information posted by Zephro on February 18, 2004
Debate and Discussion's IRC Channel (see: Klavern) is at #currentevents on Zirc.

Information posted by hannibal on February 16, 2004
It should be noted that ADTRW's de facto channel is not on zirc, for no particular reason. It is:

#raspberryheaven@irc.mircx.com

and is mostly on this network because many other anime fansubbing groups are on this network as well.

There is an #adtrw on the same network, but it is for Studio ADTRW (www.adtrw.org) and not general discussion.

Information posted by Zakharov on February 15, 2004
The Walrus forgot #sas

Information posted by Naar on February 14, 2004
#partyhard has somehow become the Trad Games channel.

Information posted by Jamesface on February 14, 2004
Permabanned posters invariably end up on IRC spouting ridiculous conspiracy theories about the forums.

Information posted by The Walrus on February 13, 2004
All of SA's IRC channels are on the ZIRC network (irc.zirc.org)

As far as I know, all of them are:

#sa
#somethingawful
#fyad
#idlegames
#shsc
#crackhouse
#nmp3s
#dpph
#btb

If I'm forgetting any, let me know.

Information posted by Char on February 12, 2004
Short for internet relay chat, usually used to refer to the goings on in an IRC channel.

IRC is blamed for lots of drama on the forums, but nowadays is just a bunch of people talking random crap about anything. Despite what you may have heard, there is no longer a secret IRC cool kids club plotting devious things in the forums, and any references to such a thing are in jest.

|                                                                                                                                                                               |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                      |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------|
|                                                                                                                                                                               | Ethernet adapter Local Area Connection:Connection-specific DNS Suffix . :Description . . . . . : Realtek RTL8139(A) PCI Fast Ethernet AdapterPhysical Address. . . . . : 00-A0-B0-0C-92-76DHCP Enabled. . . . . : NoIP Address. . . . . : 192.168.1.14Subnet Mask . . . . . : 255.255.255.0Default Gateway . . . . . : 192.168.1.1DNS Servers . . . . . : 212.67.96.129212.67.96.130 |                      |
| Apr 30, 2004: 10:51                                                                                                                                                           | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | EditQuote |
| down1nitJoined: Jan 09, 2004Title text (optional; no images are allowed, only text, buttmonger)                                   | okay... unregistered hypercam is recording i've got his limey mug lolling alot... small browser window sry for typos                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                      |
| Apr 30, 2004: 10:52                                                                                                                                                           | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | EditQuote |
| CuerzoJoined: Sep 10, 2002                      | This thread is incredible. There's just so much being shared in here... I wish I could meet you all guys in person so I could invite you to beer. You deserve it. I'm sitting in the edge of my chair, anxiously waiting for a conclusion.                                                                                                                                                                       |                      |
| Apr 30, 2004: 10:52                                                                                                                                                           | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | EditQuote |
| FufoJoined: Apr 24, 2002UNEXPECTED! | quote: Cuerzo came out of the closet to say:This thread is incredible. There's just so much being shared in here... I wish I could meet you all guys in person so I could invite you to beer. You deserve it. I'm sitting in the edge of my chair, anxiously waiting for a conclusion. If you bring the cider down here, I'll pay while we wait together!        |                      |

|                                                                                                                                                                      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Apr 30, 2004: 10:53                                                                                                                                           | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                           |
| ombrophiliacJoined: Mar 09, 2004i got this thing that i consider my only art...                                                                   | Absolute craziness. It's 6 am here and I'm mashing the refresh to see some webcam footage of a marked up binder. I love it.                                                                                                                                                                              |
| Apr 30, 2004: 10:55                                                                                                                                           | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                           |
| CuerzoJoined: Sep 10, 2002                                       | quote: <hr/> Fufo came out of the closet to say:If you bring the cider down here, I'll pay while we wait together! <hr/> 3 of my buddies are heading off to Madrid right now. If only I knew earlier......MEGA-TWO-PEOPLE-GOONMEET!!!!!!!!!!                |
| Apr 30, 2004: 10:55                                                                                                                                           | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                           |
| Wrong IgorJoined: Feb 22, 2004I'm getting too old. Kill me. | quote: <hr/> Starbucks came out of the closet to say: IP Address. . . . . : 192.168.1.14 <hr/> Go to www.whatismyip.com to se the ip adress out from the router (the internet adress, this is his internal NAT adress) |
| Apr 30, 2004: 10:55                                                                                                                                           | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                           |

Potassium

Joined: Oct 05, 2003

Cream > you

I promised my fiance I'd get some sleep tonight so I wouldn't be a walking zombie tomorrow, but this is just too good to miss.

quote:

cplhades came out of the closet to say:

I'm not sure international text messages work most of the time. I read an article which said that a lot of international text messages just get lost. I think the article was in The Sun though, which is almost as reliable for information as the Internet.

No, they don't generally get lost, or cost more. One of my best friends lives in the Philippines, so it was hard to call each other without our parents going apeshit, so we'd just txt all the time. Same for my friends in England and The Netherlands. They cost the same as regular messages.

Apr 30, 2004: 10:56

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Schroe

Joined: Feb 06, 2004

quote:

Potassium came out of the closet to say:

I promised my fiance I'd get some sleep tonight so I wouldn't be a walking zombie tomorrow, but this is just too good to miss.

No, they don't generally get lost, or cost more. One of my best friends lives in the Philippines, so it was hard to call each other without our parents going apeshit, so we'd just txt all the time. Same for my friends in England and The Netherlands. They cost the same as regular messages.

I send and recieve text messages from a friend in Switzerland and have never had any trouble or complaints. I can't call him, though.

Apr 30, 2004: 10:58

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Fufo

Joined: Apr 24, 2002

UNEXPECTED!

quote:

Cuerdo came out of the closet to say:

3 of my buddies are heading off to Madrid right now. If only I knew earlier...

...MEGA-TWO-PEOPLE-GOONMEET!!!!!!!

Next time you move down south, give me a holler and I'll do my best to meet you and show you around some nice drinking places.

Apr 30, 2004: 10:58

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Starbucks

Joined: Jul 07, 2002

Strong Coffee Drinking!

THE PACKAGE IS IN THE DEN

I REPEAT

THE PACKAGE IS IN THE DEN

WE HAVE FEDEX DELIVERY

Apr 30, 2004: 11:00

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

MyNameIsJeff fucked around with this message at Apr 30, 2004 around 21:39

Apr 30, 2004: 11:00

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Thanos

Joined: Apr 28, 2002

You address Omnipotence.
Tread Carefully.

OMFG

Apr 30, 2004: 11:01

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

DLCinferno

Joined: Feb 22, 2003

The moment arrives...

Apr 30, 2004: 11:01

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Potassium

Joined: Oct 05, 2003

Cream > you

HOLY GODDAMN FUCKING SHIT

Apr 30, 2004: 11:01

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

slagmatic

Joined: Apr 28, 2004

OH GOOD LORD YES

Apr 30, 2004: 11:01

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

|                                                                                                                                   |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| ResonanceJoined: Dec 17, 2002 | I caught this thread ten minutes ago... gahh!                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| Apr 30, 2004: 11:02                                                                                                        | User's Profile / Image Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                 |
| smitzJoined: Nov 05, 2003     | Starbucks is upstairs with webcam, he recorded the delivery moment!Im downstairs with the camera, the guy who signed for it IS the barber, but he put it in the back with out opening, d'oh. Updates to follow.This post is coming from INSIDE THE HOUSE                    |
| Apr 30, 2004: 11:02                                                                                                        | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                          |
| SchroeJoined: Feb 06, 2004   | Are you in their base killing their doodz?                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| Apr 30, 2004: 11:03                                                                                                        | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                          |
| socketmanJoined: Apr 18, 2003BFGC modder                                                                       | que the music ..RIDE OF THE VALKYRIESedit: on a side note and complete thread derail, id like to congratulate myself for being with SA for one year. woot for anniversariessocketman fucked around with this message at Apr 30, 2004 around 11:05 |
| Apr 30, 2004: 11:03                                                                                                        | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                          |

|                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| blitrigJoined: Jul 02, 2003                                                 | OH HOLY SHIT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| Apr 30, 2004: 11:04                                                                                                                                                  | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| OnionBobJoined: May 31, 2002A rip in the very fabric of space and time. | Posting in a historical moment of a historical thread 🤪                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
| Apr 30, 2004: 11:04                                                                                                                                                  | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| FufoJoined: Apr 24, 2002UNEXPECTED!                                    | quote: <hr/> smitz came out of the closet to say:Starbucks is upstairs with webcam, he recorded the delivery moment!Im downstairs with the camera, the guy who signed for it IS the barber, but he put it in the back with out opening, d'oh. Updates to follow. This post is coming from INSIDE THE HOUSE <hr/> |
| Apr 30, 2004: 11:04                                                                                                                                                  | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |

dexter

Joined: Jun 24, 2003

quote:

smitz came out of the closet to say:

Starbucks is upstairs with webcam, he recorded the delivery moment!

Im downstairs with the camera, the guy who signed for it IS the barber, but he put it in the back with out opening, d'oh. Updates to follow.

This post is coming from INSIDE THE HOUSE

Get on IRC 😊

irc.zirc.org #sa

Apr 30, 2004: 11:04

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

CRO200

Joined: Jul 19, 2003

im nice, honest

FUCKING CHAMPIONS. I want minute by minute updates 🤖

Apr 30, 2004: 11:04

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

ComradeChrist

Joined: Feb 29, 2004

:Chest pounds: to think I will have to leave in 11 minutes.

Apr 30, 2004: 11:04

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

|                                                                                                                                                                      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| PotassiumJoined: Oct 05, 2003 Cream &gt; you | quote: socketman came out of the closet to say:que the music .. RIDE OF THE VALKYRIES Fuck that, we're going with some O Fortuna! This thread just gets better and better. |
| Apr 30, 2004: 11:04                                                                                                                                           | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                  |
| PhalexJoined: May 14, 2002                        | Holy fuck!                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| Apr 30, 2004: 11:05                                                                                                                                           | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                  |
| TurkishJoined: Feb 06, 2002 It's tip top.  | I just can't stop laughing. This is amazing.                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| Apr 30, 2004: 11:06                                                                                                                                           | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                  |

in circles

Joined: Feb 07, 2004

I go in circles running down. I dream to heal your wounds but I bleed myself

Reading this makes me wish I'd got on a train at an ungodly hour just so I could be there to see this in person.

Apr 30, 2004: 11:06

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Starbucks

Joined: Jul 07, 2002

Strong Coffee Drinking!

okay, im going to leave, with sybershot recording, i have set three upstairs computers to have scrolling marquee with P-P-P-P-POWERBOOK AFTER 20 MINUTES!!!!

I WILL TRY AND POST THE PICS asap

Apr 30, 2004: 11:07

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

ZeromusMog

Joined: Feb 11, 2004

Sweet Sassy Molassy!

[03:52] *** now talking in #sa
[03:52] *** topic is If you could save a kitten's life by breast feeding it, would you?
[03:52] *** set by Huge_Spatula on Fri Apr 30 01:59:15 2004
[03:52] *** Turkish (~Snak@ZiRC-A6A1E2.cable.wanadoo.nl) joined [03:52] <^spanky^> <http://www.google.com/search?hl=en&...F-8&safe=off&q=%22213.78.157.225%22>
[03:52] *** Yoda (~yodadarkj@ZiRC-2AE06633.client.comcast.net) joined [03:53] *** channel #sa mode is +sntrl 203
[03:53] <nic0> Top Romanian websites? o_O
[03:53] <Schroe> I had a professor at my uni that claimed he never heard of somethingwful but would quote things from it all the time
[03:53] <nic0> this is a bit of a theme
[03:53] <Thanos> Haha
[03:53] <^spanky^> thats what i thought
[03:53] <Thanos> Damn Romanians
[03:53] <ZeromusMog> Is this where Starbucks came?
[03:53] *** smileh (~smileh@2D2C71F6.FDD8D1A4.3033A7B7.IP) joined [03:53] *** Yoda quit (Killed (NickServ (Nick kill enforced)))
[03:53] <Candleshire> skynet is goign to happen
[03:53] *** down1nit (admin@ZiRC-1317FD70.lsanca1.dsl-verizon.net) joined [03:53] <Candleshire> and it will learn about people from their livejournals

[03:53] *** Nomean quit (Connection reset by peer)
[03:53] <Refugee> All over my face
[03:53] *** YodaDarkJedi (~yodadarkj@ZiRC-2AE06633.client.comcast.net) joined [03:53] <down1nit> k... recording feed
[03:54] *** Soos (Nirvana2@ZiRC-162C5782.dial.allstream.net) joined [03:54] <MyNameIsJeff> We need another pan of the room. Is anyone up there with you?
[03:54] <jnz> starbucks can anyone see your screen, we might want to flash some swastikas and shit
[03:54] <Soos> haha
[03:54] *** Poopr_Scoop ( ~PS@ZiRC-342D81FE.dip.t-dialin.net) joined [03:54] <Soos> i took two screens of the webcam
[03:54] <MyNameIsJeff> FEDEX?????
[03:54] <down1nit> PARCEL!!!
[03:54] <Poopr_Scoop> Sup Goons!
[03:54] <down1nit> omg
[03:54] <down1nit> ring
[03:55] <MyNameIsJeff> omgomgomgomg
[03:55] <starbucks> fewdex
[03:55] <starbucks> fedex
[03:55] <Soos> BACK ON THE STREET
[03:55] <starbucks> }fedex
[03:55] <down1nit> [goons]
[03:55] <starbucks> !!!!
[03:55] <starbucks> !!!
[03:55] <MyNameIsJeff> GOGOGOGOGOG
[03:55] *** dexter (~dexter@drunk.cc) joined
[03:55] <MyNameIsJeff> STREET
[03:55] <Soos> put it back on the street!
[03:55] <gregday> WHERE'S TEH FEED
[03:55] <Poopr_Scoop> Holy shit. This is like watching it live
[03:55] <down1nit> pixorz NOW
[03:55] <Refugee> Has fedex turned up?
[03:55] <Soos> the webcam back on the street!
[03:55] <dexter> webcam url?
[03:55] <down1nit> it's recording webcam footage...
[03:55] *** [SA]Bluec (_SA_Blueco@ZiRC-1DDA9184.chcgilgm.dynamic.covad.net) joined [03:55] <Poopr_Scoop> i second the webcam url request
[03:55] <down1nit> GUINNESS
[03:55] <[SA]Bluec> dooders
[03:55] <Refugee> !webcam
[03:55] <[SA]Bluec> !webcam
[03:55] <MyNameIsJeff> His webcam in on msm
[03:55] <Soos> noooo
[03:55] *** [SA]Bluec was kicked from #sa by wangzang (faggot)
[03:55] <Soos> he had a good vantage point!
[03:55] <Refugee> oh
[03:56] <down1nit> now it's just staring at a box....
[03:56] *** ChrisDKKK quit (Ping timeout)
[03:56] <Poopr_Scoop> !webcam

[03:56] <ZeromusMog> Oh wows. Did my post help you guys get here or did I just repeat the obvious? 😊
[03:56] <Soos> oh god, that was crazy
[03:56] <down1nit> so?
[03:56] <MyNameIsJeff> SOO?
[03:56] <starbucks> DELIVERED
[03:56] *** Bluecobra (_SA_Blueco@ZiRC-1DDA9184.chcgilgm.dynamic.covad.net) joined [03:56] <Soos> WHAT
[03:56] <Poopr_Scoop> Your post had me research this.
[03:56] <down1nit> WTF
[03:56] <MyNameIsJeff> ARE YOU SURE?
[03:56] <starbucks> DUNNO ABOUT ANYTHING ELSE
[03:56] <down1nit> GET PIX
[03:56] <Turkish> Hahahahaha. Delivered!
[03:56] <dexter> haha
[03:56] <Poopr_Scoop> WOAHAHAHAHAH
[03:56] <starbucks> YUP
[03:56] <Soos> put the webcam back on the truck
[03:56] <dexter> yes
[03:56] <Poopr_Scoop> WHo has the box??
[03:56] <MyNameIsJeff> BIG WHITE BOX???
[03:56] <Bluecobra> dude
[03:57] <ZeromusMog> Oh no way
[03:57] *** TheHotCarl (~the_hot_c@ZiRC-702EC50.midtn.chartertn.net) joined [03:57] <Poopr_Scoop> PIX PIX PIX for posting later!
[03:57] *** TheHotCarl (~the_hot_c@ZiRC-702EC50.midtn.chartertn.net) left ()
[03:57] <ZeromusMog> Is the box seriously coming up over the webcam?!?!
[03:57] <Poopr_Scoop> Who is the romanian scam boy?
[03:57] <Bluecobra> whats the addy for the webcam
[03:57] <Refugee> That's boxx!
[03:57] <Soos> msn webcam
[03:57] <Refugee> boss!
[03:57] *** robocod (elhefe@ZiRC-7F6A32.studby.ntnu.no) joined [03:57] <starbucks> look
[03:57] <down1nit> on msn
[03:57] <starbucks> not all at once
[03:57] <starbucks> its a whitty PC
[03:57] <down1nit> i'm recording will host soon
[03:57] <MyNameIsJeff> arsenal\_fan\_2000@hotmail.com
[03:57] <starbucks> i have decent camera shots from my cybershot
[03:58] <nic0> nice one, down1nit 😊
[03:58] <Poopr_Scoop> This is the most intense goon operation in history. HACK THE PLANET
[03:58] <starbucks> GUYS
[03:58] <ZeromusMog> OK: the webcam can't be seen by all of us for many reasons, anyone care to give a play by play?
[03:58] <Soos> i can host pics
[03:58] *** TheHotCarl (~the_hot_c@ZiRC-702EC50.midtn.chartertn.net) joined
[03:58] <starbucks> OMG
[03:58] <Bluecobra> the package is white isn't it?

[03:58] <starbucks> I JUST NOTICED
[03:58] <MyNameIsJeff> Yes
[03:58] <starbucks> !!!
[03:58] <starbucks> IM IN A GOON THRONE
[03:58] <Bluecobra> !!
[03:58] <Bluecobra> what
[03:58] <gregday> the scammer is METIS??
[03:58] <MyNameIsJeff> 20"x20"6" [03:58] <down1nit> yes you are
[03:58] <starbucks> its the goddamn goon throne
[03:58] <Kickworm> <Poopr_Scoop> This is the most intense goon operation in history. HACK THE PLANET [03:58] <gregday> goon throne?
[03:58] <Bluecobra> is pepski there
[03:58] <down1nit> webcam: we saw a brief scene of fedex walking to door...
[03:58] <Kickworm> I believe the Robot Army will be the best goon operation in history [03:59] <down1nit> now its his limey mug being all british.
[03:59] <ZeromusMog> So fedex came, did you see the white package?
[03:59] *** TheHotCarl changed nick to drawergirl
[03:59] <starbucks> i have decent pics guys
[03:59] <down1nit> webcam: he's wearing a guinness shirt
[03:59] <starbucks> trust me on this [03:59] <down1nit> and he's balding
[03:59] <Poopr_Scoop> I can't believe this is becoming true.
[03:59] *** rottingcorpse (rottingcor@ZiRC-139A1A34.range217-44.btcentralplus.com) joined [03:59] <gregday> you cant keep from bursting out in laughter, be ready to run your ass off
[03:59] <MyNameIsJeff> Listen for their scream of terror and surprise! MWUHAHAHAHAHA
[03:59] <Poopr_Scoop> Get a picture of the scammers face on your way out! A CLOSE UP! Snap it and run when you are done there!
[04:00] <down1nit> wait... was it delivered to the OWNER OF THE BARBERSHOP???
[04:00] *** cowofwar (cowofwar@ZiRC-2572496.vf.shawcable.net) joined [04:00] <Bluecobra> is that the package??
[04:00] <esperantinc> wait...was it delivered?
[04:00] <Bluecobra> did he pay the customs fee
[04:00] <MyNameIsJeff> YES
[04:00] <down1nit> did he seem surprised?
[04:00] <esperantinc> holy shit
[04:00] *** ultralaz0r (~helo@ZiRC-DCD0F0D.client.comcast.net) joined [04:00] <gregday> THREAD DELIVERS
[04:00] *** ChrisDKKK (Chris@ZiRC-1E8186CD.nap.wideopenwest.com) joined [04:00] <dexter> hahah
[04:00] <YodaDarkJedi> I crave soooo much more info
[04:00] <Bluecobra> did he give the fedex guy money????
[04:00] <ZeromusMog> omg voted 5
[04:00] <Thanos> Holy Shit.
[04:00] <down1nit> 555555
[04:01] <Bluecobra> sweet sassy molassy, you're back!
[04:01] <nobunny|nowhere> wait why is this so excited
[04:01] <down1nit> k... need a good .avi chopper now... it's just his hair
[04:01] <starbucks> okay

[04:01] <starbucks> things are quiet
[04:01] <ZeromusMog> Bluecobra: I was back 10 minutes after the b& 😊
[04:01] <Poopr_Scoop> I expect a full debriefing by the Spec Ops goons [04:01] <dexter> has he opened it?
[04:01] <starbucks> i dunno about the P-P-P-POWERBOOK
[04:01] <ultralaz0r> wait what happen :/
[04:01] <Bluecobra> oh lol
[04:01] <starbucks> dunno, im upstairs
[04:01] <dexter> oh
[04:01] <starbucks> the downstairs guy may know something
[04:02] <Soos> i think you need to go back down
[04:02] <dexter> is he on irc?
[04:02] <MyNameIsJeff> You should be able to hear him go AAAAAAAAAAAHHHH
[04:02] <YodaDarkJedi> well go downstairs, ask the guy some stupid shit about computers
[04:02] <starbucks> dont think so
[04:02] <Thanos> What does the tracking page on FedEx say?
[04:02] <Bluecobra> the fedex info is still the same
[04:02] <starbucks> in fact he may have left
[04:02] <dexter> fedex says customs shit
[04:02] <nobunny|nowhere> why is this so exciting
[04:02] <YodaDarkJedi> be like, hey how do i open the internet or something
[04:02] *** nobunny|nowhere changed nick to nobunny
[04:02] <Schroe> Fedex still says delay
[04:02] <down1nit> ask him where the "john" is [04:02] <Bluecobra> no
[04:02] <MyNameIsJeff> Those other threads said that they would get it and it still said regulatory delay blah blah
[04:02] <Bluecobra> its the WC there
[04:02] <ultralaz0r> the lou [04:02] <starbucks> apparently [04:02] <down1nit> watercloset... shit.
[04:03] <starbucks> the P-P-P-POWERBOOK IS IN THE BACK
[04:03] <Bluecobra> what@#?@
[04:03] <Bluecobra> i'm creaming
[04:03] <Poopr_Scoop> ROFL
[04:03] <Soos> WHAT!!!
[04:03] <Thanos> ?
[04:03] <gregday> you better hope there's no keylogger...
[04:03] <starbucks> i will ask if I can go to the loo
[04:03] <MyNameIsJeff> Starbucks
[04:03] <dexter> heh
[04:03] <starbucks> there isnt one
[04:03] <MyNameIsJeff> Look for a flat panel monitor box
[04:03] <MyNameIsJeff> Princeton
[04:03] <starbucks> ive done a hijackthis log and looked around
[04:03] <starbucks> DUDE
[04:03] <starbucks> i saw a white box
[04:03] <starbucks> it was a fedex van

[04:03] <down1nit> cream
[04:03] <starbucks> it was it, blatonly
[04:03] <Kickworm> What in blazes is everyone talking about?
[04:04] <starbucks> i got pics of the van oto
[04:04] <Bluecobra> packages
[04:04] <MyNameIsJeff> WELCOME TO EARTH KICKWORM
[04:04] <starbucks> INTERNET HISTORY Kickworm
[04:04] <Refugee> Jeff you should've marked it somehow [04:04] <YodaDarkJedi> goon team bravo kickworm
[04:04] <Soos> when can you send pictures?
[04:04] <ultralaz0r> oman
[04:04] <dexter> Kickworm: gbs, like 1400 replies
[04:04] <ZeromusMog> OK I've never actually seen one of these goon vigilante justice things ACTUALLY PULLED OFF
[04:04] <starbucks> when i can get to a memory stick reader
[04:04] <Bluecobra> how do you get the webcam up?
[04:04] <nobunny> i want to know also why this is so exciting
[04:04] <Kickworm> mmhmm
[04:04] <nobunny> i looked at the first and last of the thread
[04:04] <Bluecobra> read the 30 page thread
[04:04] <nobunny> but i don't get what's exciting
[04:04] <Kickworm> I still have no clue whats going on [04:04] <nobunny> no
[04:04] <nobunny> 3 hours
[04:04] <jnz> Kickworm: starbucks is in some romanian mafia barber shop
[04:04] <Bluecobra> in london
[04:04] <jnz> or something
[04:04] <down1nit> KICKWORM: <http://forums.somethingawful.com/sh...ostid=286594069>
[04:04] <esperantinc> This is the most amazing thing in the history of the internet [04:04] <dexter> get smitz on irc :/
[04:04] *** ratmankey quit (Ping timeout)
[04:04] <ZeromusMog> Even if we don't get the guy's face when he opens the box, holy shit. I can't believe this.
[04:04] <starbucks> guys]
[04:05] <Poopr_Scoop> Goon Justice is just like a movie 😊
[04:05] <starbucks> i dont think its a romanian connection
[04:05] <Turkish> Where is Pipski?
[04:05] <nobunny> what's in the box
[04:05] <Kickworm> OHHH THAT [04:05] *** ratmankey_ (~ratmankey@ZiRC-2226BFFF.washington-30rh15rt.dc.dial-access.att.net) joined [04:05] <starbucks> pipski is off at work
[04:05] <Bluecobra> yeah, where is bond
[04:05] <starbucks> im off
[04:05] <Schroe> The P-P-P-POWERBOOK is in the box
[04:05] <Poopr_Scoop> Does the barber have a romanian name? accent? what?
[04:05] <nobunny> is it a real powerbook
[04:05] <Soos> smitz is there too
[04:05] <starbucks> im going to set the three computers by mes screensavers to scrolling marquee
[04:05] <Bluecobra> nope

[04:05] <Soos> go meet him
[04:05] <nobunny> i thought the dude was trying to scam him
[04:05] <rottingcorpse> Anyone gonna interrogate the barber? 😊
[04:05] <Schroe> No, it's a P-P-P-POWERBOOK
[04:05] <starbucks> with P-P-P-P-POWERBOOK!!
[04:05] <Poopr_Scoop> Steal some of his mail to get some personal info
[04:05] <gregday> nobunny: R->C->P
[04:05] <down1nit> YES
[04:05] <Bluecobra> yea really
[04:06] <ultralaz0r> o helo schroe, aren't you from the studio?
[04:06] <Kickworm> is there a video???
[04:06] <MyNameIsJeff> OMG
[04:06] <nobunny> i can't waste 3 hours reading the thread
[04:06] <MyNameIsJeff> DO IT
[04:06] <Bluecobra> well you are stupid then
[04:06] <Schroe> I haven't been to studio in like, four years
[04:06] <YodaDarkJedi> HELL YES STARBUCKS
[04:06] <down1nit> L33t
[04:06] <dexter> nobunny: read the first post
[04:06] <dexter> it says where the pics are [04:06] <nobunny> oh
[04:06] *** Lioness quit (Ping timeout)
[04:06] <nobunny> i'm tired
[04:06] <ZeromusMog> nobunny: read the thred. IT COMPELS YOU
[04:06] <starbucks> OK ONE COMPUTER SET
[04:06] *** censer (censer@ZiRC-397746F6.lns01-stge-pth.dsl.comindico.com.au) joined [04:06] <ultralaz0r> haha
[04:06] <Bluecobra> ask him to see the package
[04:06] <ultralaz0r> that's awesome.
[04:06] <nic0> there is a definite requirement to retrieve this P-P_P-POWERBOOK from the bins later 😊
[04:06] <dexter> starbucks: waht are you setting them to?
[04:06] <Soos> ask him what he got [04:06] <nobunny> i red the first and last page sir
[04:06] <gregday> starbucks: what time delay on those? careful
[04:07] <starbucks> okay im off
[04:07] <dexter> P-P-P-P-Powerbook?
[04:07] <MyNameIsJeff> He setting htem to P-P-P-POWERBOOK!!!
[04:07] <Refugee> ask him if he has any Mac stuff
[04:07] <dexter> k
[04:07] <Refugee> Jeff!
[04:07] *** uberdog quit (Ping timeout)
[04:07] <Poopr_Scoop> Steal the PBook, let him see you do it.. and then RUN AWAY!
[04:07] <dexter> hehe
[04:07] <Refugee> E-mail him
[04:07] <Refugee> ask him if delivery was ok
[04:07] <starbucks> i will try and get my pics from my webam asap
[04:07] <Bluecobra> bahaha
[04:07] <starbucks> SEE YA

[04:07] <down1nit> oh shit
[04:07] <Bluecobra> nooooooooo
[04:07] <Refugee> would like to conclude
[04:07] *** starbucks quit (Quit: )
[04:07] *** PenguinMan (PenguinMan@ZiRC-29DD314D.client.comcast.net) joined [04:07] <Refugee> etc
[04:07] <down1nit> late
[04:07] <Candleshire> what the hell is going on [04:07] <Kickworm> Where are the pics?
[04:07] <down1nit> ack
[04:07] <YodaDarkJedi> they are going downstairs
[04:07] <MyNameIsJeff> I am going to wait for him to email
[04:07] <YodaDarkJedi> him and smitz
[04:07] <Thanos> Godspeed Starbucks
[04:07] *** ixnay (~what@ZiRC-FF92B2B.resnet.montana.edu) joined [04:07] <YodaDarkJedi> to obtain pictures etc
[04:07] *** soonmot (soonmot@ZiRC-274439BE.client.comcast.net) joined [04:07] *** ixnay changed nick to Potassium

If this is annoying I'll remove it later, but for those of you not on IRC...

Apr 30, 2004: 11:07

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

iwinatinternet

Joined: Mar 03, 2004

illiterate!!!

quote:

Turkish came out of the closet to say:

I just can't stop laughing. This is amazing.

right there with you.

Apr 30, 2004: 11:07

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

smitz

Joined: Nov 05, 2003

No taxes where payed, sorry.

Let me just run pwdump3 on this here machine and add another administrator 🤪

Apr 30, 2004: 11:08

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

O.J. Simpson

Joined: Jan 20, 2001

ITT go to ITT

there is no emoticon to express how i feel... oh wait.. yes there is

Apr 30, 2004: 11:08

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Walked

Joined: Apr 14, 2003

Victory just might be ours!!

Edit: OMG OMG OMG OMG OMG OMG OMG

Apr 30, 2004: 11:08

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

pooper scooper

Joined: Oct 23, 2003

Did you see the guy? Is he romanian? have a name from him, hear him speak, accent?

Did he pay taxes with a credit card?

Can you peek in his mail? Snap a close of up his face, grab the Pbook and let him see you RUN?

OMG OMG OMG

Apr 30, 2004: 11:08

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

quote:

smitz came out of the closet to say:

No taxes where payed, sorry.

Let me just run pwdump3 on this here machine and add another administrator ☹

He had to have paid taxes at some point.

Apr 30, 2004: 11:10

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

dddd

Joined: Sep 11, 2001

quote:

smitz came out of the closet to say:

No taxes where payed, sorry.

Let me just run pwdump3 on this here machine and add another administrator ☹

Apr 30, 2004: 11:11

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

quote:

Starbucks came out of the closet to say:

okay, im going to leave, with sybershot recording, i have set three upstairs computers to have scrolling marquee with P-P-P-P-POWERBOOK AFTER 20 MINUTES!!!!

I WILL TRY AND POST THE PICS asap

LOLOLO

Apr 30, 2004: 11:12

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

in circles

Joined: Feb 07, 2004

I go in circles running down. I dream to heal your wounds but I bleed myself

Last time my Mum got a package from Fedex she got a bill a few weeks later asking for the tax to be paid. Should make for a nice surprise.

Apr 30, 2004: 11:12

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Thanos

Joined: Apr 28, 2002

You address Omnipotence. Tread Carefully.

This is without a doubt the best thing the internet has ever produced, and I believe this moment is why the internet was created. It's all downhill from here guys.

Apr 30, 2004: 11:12

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Superhaus

Joined: Jun 09, 2003

I have read every page of this thread and I stayed up all night and postponed my compiler project. Now I am just posting to say I was there when goon justice transpired..

Apr 30, 2004: 11:13

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

ComradeChrist

Joined: Feb 29, 2004

quote:

Starbucks came out of the closet to say:

okay, im going to leave, with sybershot recording, i have set three upstairs computers to have scrolling marquee with P-P-P-P-POWERBOOK AFTER 20 MINUTES!!!!

I WILL TRY AND POST THE PICS asap

This emoticon does not get enough use so...

Apr 30, 2004: 11:14

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

inset

Joined: Sep 20, 2003

Secretly plotting your demise..

The pictures of this fabulous event would make my day/month/year/lifetime

Apr 30, 2004: 11:14

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Yossarko

Joined: Jan 22, 2004

The little Armenian boy who could...

YES! HAHA this is AWESOME

CURSE my damn workstation and the lack of IRC! Curse it to hell!

Good going guys can't wait for photos!

Apr 30, 2004: 11:15

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

PopRocks

Joined: Jul 04, 2003

your dixie wrecked?

best. thread. ever.

way to go uk goons (and jeff), i salute you. seriously, tears of joy over here.

PopRocks fucked around with this message at Apr 30, 2004 around 11:19

Apr 30, 2004: 11:15

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Bitter Beard

Joined: Sep 11, 2001

What, the fuck is that!

Oh man this is awesome!

You guys doing the leg work are kick ass!

Apr 30, 2004: 11:18

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Philovirus

Joined: Nov 23, 2002

This space for rent

Nice run! I really think that any of the participating goons that show up at gooncon should get a medal of honor.
Looking forward to hearing the way this ends up 😊

Apr 30, 2004: 11:18

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

ZeromusMog

Joined: Feb 11, 2004

Sweet Sassy Molassy!

More IRC goodness for those who are less privileged. If this is annoying say so and I'll stop.

[04:07] *** ixnay changed nick to Potassium

[04:07] *** Ransom (Ransom@ZiRC-3EE1342D.bhm.bellsouth.net) joined

[04:07] <gregday> this is like h4x0ring but more lol

[04:08] <Bluecobra> where is smitz

[04:08] <Kickworm> Ok, what's going on as of this very moment

[04:08] <Thanos> I can't wait to see pics of this

[04:08] <down1nit> he's leaving

[04:08] <PenguinMan> so did he pay the tax?

[04:08] <Potassium> This is the greatest moment in the history of anything

[04:08] <nobunny> supposedly someone is there for the box?

[04:08] <Ransom> where is the webcam at?

[04:08] <soonmot> okay where's this webcam?
[04:08] <Kickworm> I read the thread when it was first up [04:08] <MyNameIsJeff> He had to of [04:08] *** tk (~eh@31AD0E60.5672CF58.4352388C.IP) joined [04:08] <YodaDarkJedi> he wouldn't have got it without [04:08] <dexter> i doubt he could have gotten the package without paying the taxes
[04:08] <Kickworm> who's leaving?
[04:08] <dexter> damnit
[04:08] <down1nit> webcam off
[04:08] <YodaDarkJedi> does anyone know if the fedex site has updated?
[04:08] <Bluecobra> i hope starbuck takes a few pictures of the box
[04:08] <PenguinMan> I'll check
[04:08] <Soos> fedex site has not updated
[04:08] <Poopr_Scoop> Did he pay with credit card?
[04:08] <down1nit> k... virtualdub here i cum [04:08] <nic0> Yoda: I've had boxes before and been billed by UPS later on :/ [04:08] <dexter> Apr 30, 2004 3:19 am
[04:08] <esperantinc> fedex site is still the same
[04:08] <dexter> Package status
[04:08] <dexter> STANSTED GB
[04:08] <Schroe> Fedex -> <http://www.fedex.com/cgi-bin/tracki...rs=846563452310>
[04:08] <Bluecobra> fedex is outdated
[04:08] <dexter> Regulatory Agency Clearance Delay
[04:09] <SubMerged> <http://www.5chan.net/5chan/upls/108...b646c392b71.jpg> laffo
[04:09] <Bluecobra> how do we know it isn't some other white box
[04:09] <YodaDarkJedi> we don't [04:09] <Bluecobra> this guy might have multiple scams going on [04:09] <nic0> the fedex site will take a while to update, i'd reckon [04:09] *** Wrong (~g@ZiRC-98D53F1.bluecom.no) joined [04:09] <YodaDarkJedi> thats why we need closure
[04:09] <dexter> 404
[04:09] <Bluecobra> is starbucks leaving there for good
[04:09] <dexter> heh, google for the tracking number
[04:09] <Schroe> I recently recieved a fedex package, and, as I recall, it took them four hours to update the site with "delivered"
[04:09] <Bluecobra> or is he going to stick around on the outside
[04:09] <down1nit> shit... MSN KEEPS an xml cache of the coversation
[04:09] <down1nit> someone call him tell him to clear it
[04:09] <dexter> someone pasted that link in some call of duty channel
[04:10] <PenguinMan> the link to what?
[04:10] <Schroe> It won't be updated until the driver goes back to the hub or whatever and gives them the digital signature
[04:10] <PenguinMan> the thread?
[04:10] <Kickworm> Are you guys getting a live feed or something????
[04:10] *** Mach42 (~spgtspm@ZiRC-3C997A8B.slkc.qwest.net) joined [04:10] <down1nit> it's off
[04:10] <Kickworm> damn!
[04:10] <YodaDarkJedi> live feed just turned off

[04:10] <down1nit> london goons... call him clear cache
[04:10] <Soos> if you log on to msn with a unique email, itll ask you if you want to keep a cache [04:10] *** AdeptaCheese (~heywoodja@ZiRC-1339E9C.ACT.netspace.net.au) joined [04:10] <Bluecobra> he can still recover cache with file recovery software
[04:10] <Schroe> once the driver goes back we can see the name of the person who signed for it!!
[04:10] *** tk quit (Quit: [09:52] <@val-> ill sneak a rub while you're asleep)
[04:10] <Bluecobra> of course i don't think he is that smart [04:10] <ZeromusMog> Yeah, second Soos. It won't cache if you tell it not to.
[04:11] <Bluecobra> the scammer that is [04:11] <AdeptaCheese> hay guys whats going on in this laptop scam thread [04:11] <down1nit> true.
[04:11] <nobunny> that's what we all want to know
[04:11] <YodaDarkJedi> we shall find out soon enough
[04:11] <down1nit> wipes forehead
[04:11] *** babywax (~babywax@ZiRC-702EC50.midtn.chartertn.net) joined [04:11] <babywax> YARRRR
[04:11] <nic0> good point, schroe 😊 Does fedex include a picture of their signature?
[04:11] <Poopr_Scoop> A driver? Is there a 2nd person? Who is the driver who is taking off? Did the barber hand the package fof to someone?
[04:11] <soonmot> the excitment is exciting
[04:11] <Mach42> this is beautiful
[04:11] <YodaDarkJedi> no poopr, fedex driver
[04:11] <Potassium> What if customs marked the package value down, so he wouldn't have had to pay the taxes?
[04:11] <Schroe> nic0: no, just an all-caps translation of the scribble
[04:11] <Poopr_Scoop> my nerves are tingly! ok thanks 😊
[04:12] <drawergirl> I guess that means the barber shop is in on it?
[04:12] <Refugee> nico, you sign a digital touch screen thing
[04:12] <Potassium> Of course they're in on it
[04:12] <MyNameIsJeff> Hurry and post the video [04:12] <Potassium> They can't be [04:12] *** Cuerdo (Cuerdo@ZiRC-12674C72.telecable.es) joined [04:12] <Potassium> And FedEx logs your signature
[04:12] <Bluecobra> i don't see how customs can devalue the package
[04:12] <Cuerdo> hithere
[04:12] <Potassium> Whether or not you're the person or not [04:12] <Potassium> Yeah, I know, they can't [04:12] <Refugee> You pay the taxes by phone using a CC
[04:12] <babywax> this is hilarious
[04:12] <Potassium> It's just a possibility as to why he didn't pay them
[04:12] <Refugee> they ring you to say "HALLO FEDEX WNAT YUOR MONEIS FOR HANDLING"
[04:12] <ZeromusMog> One thing that's gotten me about this whole thread: WHY would they devaule the package? It's more taxes for them!
[04:12] <dexter> oh hell yeah
[04:12] <dexter> first this
[04:12] <Potassium> Ahar
[04:12] <dexter> now wargames is on tv
[04:13] <Kickworm> arrrrgh, I had no idea this thread would deliver.. I stopped keeping up at page 5..
[04:13] <Kickworm> damn damn damn

[04:13] <Soos> what happens if this wasn't our package?
[04:13] <babywax> you have 45 pages to read
[04:13] <Potassium> I didn't even see it until page 21
[04:13] <Soos> and now our eyes have left [04:13] *** CRO (CRO@3F25F495.9618D5F8.7365CBC3.IP) joined [04:13] <Potassium> There's no way it can't be our package
[04:13] <YodaDarkJedi> right time, right color, right size
[04:13] <Kickworm> Im trying to scam through and see where it gets good [04:13] <CRO> did they confirm the size of the package?
[04:13] <Bluecobra> he said it was a creme color
[04:13] <nic0> It matched the description
[04:13] <nobunny> i just thought it was someone whining about ebay
[04:13] <Potassium> Even if there were multiple packages, they would have delivered them at the same time
[04:13] <nobunny> so i didn't read
[04:13] <Schroe> Someone totally stole one of my packages so I had to walk over to his house and steal it back
[04:13] <Soos> true
[04:13] <Bluecobra> wow
[04:14] *** Philovirus (~philo@ZiRC-B0E0789.knnwck.wa.charter.com) joined [04:14] <Philovirus> 'sup ppl?
[04:14] <Kickworm> Ok, so what happened, the last I read, you were just sending this guy emails
[04:14] <Soos> lot happened
[04:14] <Refugee> he made a fake laptop
[04:14] <Potassium> A hell of a lot
[04:14] <Bluecobra> he sent him a mailbomb
[04:14] <Kickworm> You actually decided to send the computer?
[04:14] <Kickworm> LOL
[04:14] <Refugee> out of a file binder
[04:14] <ZeromusMog> This is amazing, I finally catch up to this thread and right when I finish the exciting climax happens before my eyes. THREAD DELIVERS.
[04:14] <Mach42> the goon detective squad happened
[04:14] <Potassium> Haha, hell no
[04:14] <babywax> He bombed his house with nerve gas
[04:14] <CRO> the saga is almost over kickworm
[04:14] <AdeptaCheese> has the package actually been delivered yet?
[04:14] <Refugee> and there's a guy at the address
[04:14] <Bluecobra> a mailbomb made out of a binder
[04:14] <babywax> then he went in and finished him off with a crowbar
[04:14] <Potassium> He took apart an old keyboard and binder, built the P-P-P-POWERBOOK and sent it to him
[04:14] <Cuerzo> damnit
[04:14] <Mach42> found out where he lived, delivery area, fake laptop and then we set up a london surveillance squad
[04:15] <Cuerzo> I had to go buy some cigarettes
[04:15] <Bluecobra> with james bond
[04:15] <nobunny> hehehehe
[04:15] <nobunny> okkkaaay
[04:15] <nobunny> now i get it
[04:15] <MyNameIsJeff> Check out page 9 of the thread dude [04:15] *** Phalex (~a@38671A2.8050A603.4E93669.IP) joined [04:15] <Cuerzo> but how can I leave the story like this?

[04:15] <Kickworm> Ok ok, and now you guys are spying from him across the street or something?
[04:15] <MyNameIsJeff> No
[04:15] <MyNameIsJeff> FROM IN THE STORE
[04:15] <Kickworm> ah.
[04:15] <Bluecobra> bahaha
[04:15] <Phalex> Hello heroes
[04:15] <ZeromusMog> Cuerdo: Now may be a good time to quit smoking.
[04:15] <babywax> he uses a cyber cafe
[04:15] <Kickworm> ohhhhhhhhhh
[04:15] <Potassium> THEY'RE POSTING FROM INSIDE THE STORE !!1
[04:15] <CRO> do we have a webcam up??
[04:15] <Kickworm> hahaha
[04:15] <PenguinMan> smitz says no taxes were paid
[04:15] <YodaDarkJedi> not anymore
[04:15] <Soos> starbucks left
[04:15] <babywax> he set up a bunch of the computers in the cyber cafe to have P-P-P-P-POWERBOOK! as the screensaver
[04:15] <PenguinMan> smitz is still there though [04:15] <Bluecobra> bhahahaha
[04:15] <PenguinMan> I think
[04:15] <Potassium> Is Pipski there yet?
[04:16] <Poopr_Scoop> Where did pipex go?
[04:16] <nobunny> hahahaha
[04:16] <PenguinMan> dunno
[04:16] <Potassium> He should be arriving now
[04:16] <Mach42> now when the barber starts screaming, the london squad should yell SOMETHINGAWFUL.COM repeatedly [04:16] <Potassium> Hey, esp
[04:16] <drawergirl> green light...red light!
[04:16] <Kickworm> So where is the ripoff guy right now
[04:16] <Cuerdo> ZeromusMog: I do not smoke, I want it to mix it with other stuff [04:16] <gregday> did he leave the camera there...?
[04:16] <Soos> down1nit: does your feed include the part where the truck pulls up?
[04:16] *** baalzamonbarnes (~baalzamon@ZiRC-3B787875.ucdavis.edu) joined [04:16] <Potassium> "okay, im going to leave, with sybershot recording, i have set three upstairs computers to have scrolling marquee with P-P-P-P-POWERBOOK AFTER 20 MINUTES!!!!"
[04:16] <Bluecobra> i'm sure the barber is a middleman
[04:16] <Potassium> There's no doubt he is [04:16] <Poopr_Scoop> Or the main man
[04:16] <ZeromusMog> Cuerdo: Well maybe it's time to quit that then 😊 [04:16] <Cuerdo> is anyone recording video footage or something?
[04:16] <Mach42> haha good job potassium
[04:16] *** zybl0re changed nick to ZzZzybl0re
[04:16] <Potassium> Why would he just sign for some random package?
[04:17] <Potassium> I do my best
[04:17] <Poopr_Scoop> I would have spoken with the barber to try and hear a romanian accent
[04:17] <Scenix> in that case someone else would have to come get the package from the store.
[04:17] <CRO> wasnt the barber black??

[04:17] <Potassium> One of them is going in to get a haircut, ne?
[04:17] <Poopr_Scoop> maybe there were two barbers? thats right hm
[04:17] <Schroe> What, black people can't be from Romania?
[04:17] <Potassium> Doesn't mean he couldn't have studied Romanian to try and be sneaky
[04:17] <Bluecobra> have you seen starbuck's pics of the package yet jeff?
[04:17] <Potassium> sneaky*
[04:17] * Schroe --> "Potassium Dice Error: Invalid format for sneak attack roll"
[04:17] <babywax> the barber is only a front man
[04:17] <Schroe> bah
[04:17] <drawergirl> but do they give good haircuts?
[04:17] <Potassium> D:
[04:17] <babywax> it's the barbrass who is the real middlewoman
[04:17] <YodaDarkJedi> decent is the reports
[04:17] <Mach42> the barber will probably send it off to somewhere in Romania
[04:17] <Philovirus> It's like bootleggers.
[04:17] <Schroe> I forgot to turn off my geeky D&D script
[04:17] *** esperantinc quit (Quit: ZiRC CGI: IRC : (EOF))
[04:17] *** PenguinMan changed nick to DLCinferno
[04:18] *** esperantinc (~97c9f4b6@ZiRC-296D8E91.pagefault.net) joined [04:18] <gregday> drawergirl: is that a variation of 'did u get head'?
[04:18] *** Pdog (~bob@ZiRC-1007DDA.dialup.clear.net.nz) joined [04:18] *** kenneth (~kenneth@ZiRC-3198ED1B.studby.ntnu.no) joined [04:18] <Poopr_Scoop> Maybe the barber telephones some guy (the romanian) who comes to pick it up
[04:18] *** kenneth changed nick to Diabolic
[04:18] <Bluecobra> well if that was indeed the package, fedex did a good job of getting it there before 12pm
[04:18] <Poopr_Scoop> If the barber phones someone, we need a stakeout, another pronto
[04:18] <Potassium> What time is it there?
[04:18] <Cuerdo> 11:13 there, right?
[04:18] *** esperantinc quit (Quit: esperantinc)
[04:18] <Potassium> It's late here and I'm too lazy to convert time

.... followed by a bunch of BS about what time it is...

Apr 30, 2004: 11:20

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Yossarko

Joined: Jan 22, 2004

The little Armenian boy who could...

quote:

---

ZeromusMog came out of the closet to say:
If this is annoying I'll remove it later, but for those of you not on IRC...

---

Do not remove it, it is Something Awful History.

I'm still confused about some things - did the guy open the package? It IS 100% sure it's the p-p-p-powerbook package right? But it didn't get opened yet? Or it has...or you don't know?

Apr 30, 2004: 11:20

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

LodeRunner

Joined: Dec 27, 2003

Floggins will continue until morale improves.

REFRESH! REFRESH!

REFRESH FASTER DAMN YOU!

Apr 30, 2004: 11:21

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Potassium

Joined: Oct 05, 2003

Cream > you

Whoo, I successfully derailed the conversation.

Waiting for pics. Auto-refresh GO vvv It matched the description perfectly.

Apr 30, 2004: 11:22

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Gevalt

Joined: Apr 15, 2003

Do we have any kind of verification that the FedEx delivery he received was indeed the P-P-P-POWERBOOK or could this be a different delivery?

Apr 30, 2004: 11:22

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

AngryVictim

Joined: Feb 20, 2004

I'm just glad my insomnia allowed me to witness this historical event in REALTIME

Apr 30, 2004: 11:23

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

quote:

Gevalt came out of the closet to say:

Do we have any kind of verification that the FedEx delivery he received was indeed the P-P-P-POWERBOOK or could this be a different delivery?

Starbucks had the webcam on the driver as he walked into the building. I saw the box and know for a fact that was it.

Apr 30, 2004: 11:23

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Walked

Joined: Apr 14, 2003

All I want to know now is if taxes were paid, OR if he's going to get a bill.

If he gets the bill, odds are he will try to get out of it, but we'll see.

edit: I am a goon of history! Posting as this shit goes down!

Apr 30, 2004: 11:23

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

|                                                                                                                                                                          |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| down1nitJoined: Jan 09, 2004Title text (optional; no images are allowed, only text, buttmonger)                                                       | VIDEOhttp://www.astrofunk.info/videos/p-p-p-powerbook.avimirrors requested but not required... it's only 3.2 megs.DONE!!!                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| Apr 30, 2004: 11:24                                                                                                                                               | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| YossarkoJoined: Jan 22, 2004The little Armenian boy who could... | ^ ^ ^ ^YAY! It works, awesome 😊Any screen grabs from the webcam feed?Yossarko fucked around with this message at Apr 30, 2004 around 11:26                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| Apr 30, 2004: 11:24                                                                                                                                               | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| Flint PaperJoined: Jan 15, 2004I spill my DRINK!                                                                                                      | It seems I've caught this thread right at the climax. And what a climax it is!edit- wow, people weren't kidding when they said IRC was drama central. I've been in there all of 15 minutes and there's already some guy having a huge cry about all the people he's never seen before. Oh, it appears he's permabanned. Figures.Anyway, congratulations on your swift Goon Justice. Great thread indeed.Flint Paper fucked around with this message at Apr 30, 2004 around 12:14 |
| Apr 30, 2004: 11:24                                                                                                                                               | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |

deep square leg

Joined: Sep 16, 2003

retired hurt

HURRAH!

Apr 30, 2004: 11:25

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

ZeromusMog

Joined: Feb 11, 2004

Sweet Sassy Molassy!

More IRC goodness.

[04:18] <Potassium> It's late here and I'm too lazy to convert time
 [04:18] <^spanky^> 11:18
 [04:18] <Bluecobra> 11:17
 [04:18] <drawergirl> wink wink
 [04:18] <Potassium> I thought so
 [04:18] <Potassium> Thanks
 [04:18] <Cuerdo> 12:13 in spain, which is GMT+1
 [04:18] <Poopr_Scoop> 12:18 here 😊
 [04:19] <YodaDarkJedi> holy shit, its 5 am here!
 [04:19] <DLCinferno> fucking 03:18 here
 [04:19] <Mach42> 4:18 am here in Salt lake city.
 [04:19] <Soos> 6:18am here
 [04:19] <YodaDarkJedi> wow, goon rush extreme
 [04:19] <Mach42> i need sleep
 [04:19] <Soos> woo!
 [04:19] <MyNameIsJeff> 3:17
 [04:19] <CRO> 8:23pm here
 [04:19] <Cuerdo> obviously my clock is off
 [04:19] <Bluecobra> 5:19... chicago goons represent!
 [04:19] <Potassium> 4:18 in lovely Bozeman, Montana!
 [04:19] <AdeptaCheese> 8:18pm
 [04:19] <AdeptaCheese> lolol australia
 [04:19] <Cuerdo> rofl
 [04:19] <CRO> :
 [04:19] <DLCinferno> where's everyone at?
 [04:19] <Potassium> Bozeman goons represent!
 [04:19] <Kickworm> 3:19 CA woot woot
 [04:19] <nobunny> it's 5:19 in texas too bitchze
 [04:19] <Bluecobra> home
 [04:19] <Potassium> All... 6 of us
 [04:19] <Soos> Toronto!
 [04:19] <DLCinferno> <-- oregon
 [04:19] <Mach42> I want to go out and buy some beer
 [04:19] <MyNameIsJeff> Im pretty sure I can never post a thread again. Ever.
 [04:19] <Mach42> oh shit, i'm in Utah.

[04:19] <Thanos> 5:18 here in Memphis
[04:19] <Cuerzo> are you american people really staying till 5 AM to watch the conclusion? 🏠
[04:19] <Bluecobra> yea
[04:19] <Philovirus> <--- bumfuck washington.
[04:19] <gregday> someone please buy this guy an account when it's over
[04:19] <Potassium> I'm nocturnal, anyway
[04:20] <Cuerzo> hahaha
[04:20] <Schroe> 6:19 est forever
[04:20] <nobunny> i don't sleep anyways
[04:20] <YodaDarkJedi> yes jeff, you have a huge name to live up to now
[04:20] <Potassium> But I was supposed to sleep tonight D:
[04:20] <drawergirl> Music City
[04:20] <Mach42> I'm just awake, like I always am [04:20] <Poopr_Scoop> I would. If I were american.
[04:20] <Bluecobra> i have work later today too
[04:20] <Kickworm> why is he being banned
[04:20] <Schroe> or is it edt right now
[04:20] <Bluecobra> its worth it
[04:20] *** Pdog changed nick to FlintPaper
[04:20] *** Detritus (~wouter@ZiRC-2819EEC1.cable.wanadoo.nl) joined [04:20] <MyNameIsJeff> Nothing will ever match this.
[04:20] <soonmot> woot go chicago goons!
[04:20] <nobunny> you crazy non americans
[04:20] <Bluecobra> jeff
[04:20] <Kickworm> ah
[04:20] <Bluecobra> did you see starbucks pics of the package yet
[04:20] <Mach42> This is way better than lsass.bat
[04:20] <Detritus> what the fuck who are all these people
[04:20] *** Candleshire quit (Quit: ChatZilla 0.9.62dp [Mozilla rv:1.6/20040206])
[04:20] <Schroe> I used to be a Chicago goon but then I moved [04:20] <babywax> Bums and hobos
[04:20] <drawergirl> P P P P P P P P Powergoons
[04:20] <soonmot> they're dead people, and you're seeing them
[04:20] <MyNameIsJeff> no
[04:20] <Bluecobra> crap
[04:20] <Potassium> Former San Diegoon here
[04:20] <MyNameIsJeff> i saw the fedex guy carrying it tho
[04:20] <MyNameIsJeff> live
[04:20] *** Dragobich (drag@ZiRC-E54A6D2.cpe.net.cable.rogers.com) joined [04:21] <Dragobich> what the fuck
[04:21] <Detritus> fucking hell seriously I have never seen any of you
[04:21] <DLCinferno> haha
[04:21] <ultralaz0r> i usta live in sd also :/
[04:21] <Dragobich> delivered??
[04:21] <Bluecobra> was it?
[04:21] <Soos> i saw the truck!
[04:21] <Detritus> and there's like 6
[04:21] <Dragobich> delivered??

[04:21] <Poopr_Scoop> served 😊
[04:21] <Dragobich> is it the same packafe
[04:21] <Dragobich> we sure?
[04:21] <Soos> positive
[04:21] <Bluecobra> can someone post pics of the webcam
[04:21] <babywax> YOU GOT SERVED
[04:21] <babywax> booyeah
[04:21] <AdeptaCheese> has it been opened ?
[04:21] <MyNameIsJeff> Im positive
[04:21] <soonmot> we're all here because of p-p-powerbook
[04:21] <Dragobich> no fucking way
[04:21] <Poopr_Scoop> hahah "SERVED" takes on a whole new meaning
[04:21] <Dragobich> where is the live feed
[04:21] <Detritus> JESUS CHRIST
[04:21] <Dragobich> where is the live feed
[04:21] <Potassium> Did he just put it in back?
[04:21] <MyNameIsJeff> Pics are uploading now
[04:21] <Bluecobra> k
[04:21] <Mach42> when is the webcam feed going to be released?
[04:21] <MyNameIsJeff> YEs
[04:21] <ZeromusMog> Dragobich: It's over
[04:21] <Potassium> Hello, Detritus!
[04:21] <Dragobich> i need sleep but i can't help it
[04:21] <Dragobich> oh my god
[04:21] <Kickworm> LInk to live feed please
[04:21] <Mach42> ok
[04:21] <Phalex> Oooooo, I wanna see these pics
[04:21] <Kickworm> LInk to live feed please
[04:21] <ultralaz0r> gogogo
[04:21] <MyNameIsJeff> It will be in the thread. Im not posting it
[04:21] <Bluecobra> this is so exciting
[04:21] <Bluecobra> thread of the year!
[04:21] <Dragobich> give me a movie then
[04:21] <Dragobich> fuck
[04:21] <Detritus> I CAN COUNT NINE FUCKING FAGGOTS WHO I HAVE NEVER SEEN IN MY LIFE
[04:21] <Phalex> Thread of all time, dood
[04:22] <ultralaz0r> #1-me
[04:22] <AdeptaCheese> ok
[04:22] <Poopr_Scoop> Pipex is arriving on site right?
[04:22] <CRO> #2-me, i lurk
[04:22] *** fofr (~profezza@2A7A2D73.7033D514.6754CFD1.IP) joined [04:22] <Potassium> I would be one of them
[04:22] <AdeptaCheese> because there are 30,000 goons rite
[04:22] <Bluecobra> fedex still the same... damn limeys
[04:22] <ZeromusMog> Wow, this and the unclefucker thread are close competition..... I'd say this one is winning now tho.
[04:22] <AdeptaCheese> you know that?
[04:22] <Schroe> ...

[04:22] <Potassium> I hardly ever stray from my own server
[04:22] <DLCinferno> Detritus, aren't you permabanned?
[04:23] <MyNameIsJeff> I think this is the greatest thread ever.
[04:23] *** qwf (~qwf@ZiRC-2A4318A3.cs.unitn.it) joined [04:23] <Soos> indeeed
[04:23] <Thanos> Agreed
[04:23] <Bluecobra> whats to stop him from opening another account
[04:23] <Philovirus> What goons are still onsite?
[04:23] <Soos> smitz
[04:23] <Phalex> Smitz....
[04:23] <Detritus> Yes I am permabanned why
[04:23] <Kickworm> this is the most successful goon justice thread ever
[04:23] <Potassium> Smitz, I believe
[04:23] <soonmot> it's up there
[04:23] <Soos> hopefully
[04:23] <nobunny> he'll lose his precious registration number
[04:23] <Potassium> Pipski should be showing up, soon [04:23] <nobunny> or
[04:23] <Detritus> who the hell are you DLCinferno
[04:23] <Kickworm> I thought nothing could beat the gay uncle one
[04:23] <nobunny> registration date
[04:23] <Bluecobra> 9/11 reg date, boo ya
[04:24] <gregday> pipski is at work
[04:24] <ZeromusMog> Unclefucker kind of fizzled. Didn't extort any money and the guy who did it was a total attention whore. This thread already delieverd and there's a potential for more.
[04:24] *** babywax changed nick to FecondPirate
[04:24] *** jaymeekae (thegoodchi@ZiRC-2EADE5C9.dyn.gotadsl.co.uk) joined [04:24] <Bluecobra> too bad pipski didn't call in sick
[04:24] <Detritus> 9/11 reg dates are fucking pathetic
[04:24] <Potassium> Wait, is he showig up today?
[04:24] <Philovirus> yeah jeff isn't an attention whore like the unclucker thread.
[04:24] <Potassium> showing* I rule at the typing
[04:24] <AdeptaCheese> its hard to type in gloves
[04:24] <Poopr_Scoop> our spec ops goon justice mercs need custom titles
[04:24] <nobunny> it's 5 am
[04:24] <nobunny> it's not typing hour
[04:24] <Mach42> I wasn't around for Ellis D's downfall
[04:24] <fofr> So I just got here, anyone provide me with a quick to the point summary?
[04:24] <Potassium> No, not in the least
[04:25] <Potassium> Package delivered, signed for, awaiting pics

Apr 30, 2004: 11:25

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

dexter

Joined: Jun 24, 2003

quote:

down1nit came out of the closet to say:

VIDEO

<http://www.astrofunk.info/videos/p-p-p-powerbook.avi>

mirrors requested but not required... it's only 3.2 megs.

1 minute till uploaded

<http://dextah.com/sa/p-p-p-powerbook.avi> MIRRORED

Apr 30, 2004: 11:25

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Walked

Joined: Apr 14, 2003

quote:

down1nit came out of the closet to say:

VIDEO

<http://www.astrofunk.info/videos/p-p-p-powerbook.avi>

mirrors requested but not required... it's only 3.2 megs.

DONE!!!

Codec used? Not working here.

Apr 30, 2004: 11:26

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

pooper scooper

Joined: Oct 23, 2003

I salute the united goon forces, and their covert anti-scam operations.

Apr 30, 2004: 11:26

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Schroe

Joined: Feb 06, 2004

I have bandwidth to waste on my site.

<http://www.schroe.org/sa/p-p-p-powerbook.avi>

Apr 30, 2004: 11:26

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Merlin_Oak

Joined: Aug 21, 2003

Canadian at heart.

I hope they're out of the building by the time any of the computers flash P-P-P-Powerbook. There may be a wild stabbing fest once he sees it.

too slow fellas
V V V V V V V

Merlin_Oak fucked around with this message at Apr 30, 2004 around 11:33

Apr 30, 2004: 11:26

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

dddd

Joined: Sep 11, 2001

quote:

Walked came out of the closet to say:

Codec used? Not working here.

Apr 30, 2004: 11:27

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Walked

Joined: Apr 14, 2003

Mirrored even if it wont play for me.

edit: Seems its not working.. things are fucking up on my end, and I've gotta go to class for at least an hour today.
I'll check it out tonight, link removed.

Apr 30, 2004: 11:27

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Kan

Joined: Oct 23, 2003

Meep! Meep! Meep!

Mirror here.

Apr 30, 2004: 11:28

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Corundum

Joined: Mar 08, 2004

rock hound

Video was amusing but not very satisfying 😞

Vroom vroom FedEx Truck

more more more!

Apr 30, 2004: 11:28

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Dragobich

Joined: Jan 05, 2001

fuck, being banned sucks

Hahaha best operation ever.

Apr 30, 2004: 11:28

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

El_Spankio

Joined: Jan 28, 2004

It works in Media Player Clasic

| El_Spankio   |                               | Folding@Home Team: SAGoons |           |
|--------------|-------------------------------|----------------------------|-----------|
| Work Units:  | 62 / 62 for current team      | Team Stats                 |           |
| Score:       | 3,319 / 3,319 on current team | Team Rank:                 | 16th      |
| Active CPUs: | User Rank: 33,674th           | Team Score:                | 6,933,759 |

Apr 30, 2004: 11:28

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Philovirus

Joined: Nov 23, 2002

This space for rent

Mirror for video: <http://cdcrecords.com/~sigs/rescam/p-p-p-powerbook.avi>

Apr 30, 2004: 11:28

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

AngryVictim

Joined: Feb 20, 2004

quote:

Walked came out of the closet to say:

Codec used? Not working here.

WMP wouldn't work for me, but Quicktime did just fine.

Apr 30, 2004: 11:29

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Yossarko

Joined: Jan 22, 2004

The little Armenian boy who could...

It didn't work for me so I downloaded it and ran it off computer - it worked!

Attachment: goonjustice.gif

This has been downloaded 1877 time(s).

Apr 30, 2004: 11:29

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

|                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| ZpeefJoined: Jan 11, 2003                                | I never expected anyone to actually get pictures and video of the delivery! Amazing thread 🤪 User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| PotassiumJoined: Oct 05, 2003 Cream &gt; you        | WMP worked fine for me.That was beautiful. Starbucks, Smitz, you guys are my new heros. Amazing stakeout. User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| deep square legJoined: Sep 16, 2003 retired hurt    | quote:<hr/>down1nit came out of the closet to say:VIDEOhttp://www.astrofunk.info/videos/p-p-p-powerbook.avimirrors requested but not required... it's only 3.2 megs.<hr/> Another mirror at http://sa.deepsquareleg.com.au/vid...p-powerbook.avi User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More PostsEditQuote |
| KickwormJoined: Oct 27, 2003 situation :emoticon: | I love this thread. User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |

Bluecobra

Joined: Sep 11, 2001

Cobra Commander

Webcam video!

Not sure how long this one is going to last on my presonal webspace.

Edit: taken down because there is an animated gif now.

Bluecobra fucked around with this message at Apr 30, 2004 around 12:13

Apr 30, 2004: 11:30

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Lytinwheedle

Joined: Mar 08, 2004

"I'd go easy on the details of the death when telling their mother."

OH NOES!

This is the best thing I have ever read in my entire life. Thank you SA.

Get someone to design some medals and you can get them done yourself in specialized shops. Just get the forums to chip in with the cash, and this elite squad of goonology shall be rewarded!

Apr 30, 2004: 11:30

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

IndyPunkOne

Joined: Aug 05, 2002

Got a tattooed tit, say Number 13.

awesome 🤪LO🤪

Apr 30, 2004: 11:30

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

PopRocks

Joined: Jul 04, 2003

your dixie wrecked?

edit: beaten like a red headed step child. in any event, video was great, keep the updates coming!

Apr 30, 2004: 11:30

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| AdeptaCheeseJoined: Oct 14, 2003Sovereign Swiss                                                                                                   | for those who cant see the video, it shows the fed ex truck coming up and the fed ex guy going inside the building to deliver the package. Totally awesome. Cannot wait for the absolute RAGE that is going to follow.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| Apr 30, 2004: 11:31User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                           |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| sobridrJoined: Feb 14, 2004Good Night Irene                                                                                                                                                                                                   | Looks like I caught this just in time. I await photos!                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| Apr 30, 2004: 11:31User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More PostsEditQuote |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| YossarkoJoined: Jan 22, 2004The little Armenian boy who could...                                                                                 | So - has the package been opened? Any news on that? I am eating away my entire lunch hour here - someone give me an update! ☺                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| Apr 30, 2004: 11:31User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More PostsEditQuote |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| ultralaz0rJoined: Feb 24, 2003                                                                                                                             | quote:Philovirus came out of the closet to say:Mirror for video: http://cdcrecords.com/~sigs/rescam/p-p-p-powerbook.avimirror^5http://sairplane.lollerskates.com/p...p-powerbook.aviultralaz0r fucked around with this message at Apr 30, 2004 around 11:37 |

|                                                                                                                                                              |                                                                                                                                                          |                                            |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------|
| Apr 30, 2004: 11:31                                                                                                                                   | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts      | Edit Quote |
| FaustusJoined: Mar 15, 2003Born Stubborn                 | Strange under OSX VLC FAILED to play it, but quicktime played it fine. Great job guys.                                                                   |                                            |
| Apr 30, 2004: 11:31                                                                                                                                   | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts      | Edit Quote |
| insetJoined: Sep 20, 2003Secretly plotting your demise.. | WE HAVE VISUALI'm jumping with glee                                                                                                              |                                            |
| Apr 30, 2004: 11:32                                                                                                                                   | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                      | Edit Quote |
| PhalexJoined: May 14, 2002                                  | Download Torrent <sup>81</sup> (1 file; 3.08M)View Torrent Stats <sup>81</sup>info_hashnot found |                                            |
| Apr 30, 2004: 11:32                                                                                                                                   | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts      | Edit Quote |
| LodeRunnerJoined: Dec 27, 2003Floggins will continue until morale improves.                                                               | And to think I almost went to bed! Thank you last second refresh!edit- seeding above torrent                                                     |                                            |
| Apr 30, 2004: 11:32                                                                                                                                   | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                      | Edit Quote |

Gevalt

Joined: Apr 15, 2003

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:

Starbucks had the webcam on the driver as he walked into the building. I saw the box and know for a fact that was it.

Fucking awesome. This is one of the best threads ever.

I can mirror the video when I get home from work if another source is needed.

Apr 30, 2004: 11:33

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

down1nit

Joined: Jan 09, 2004

Title text (optional; no images are allowed, only text, buttmonger)

<http://www.astrofunk.info/videos/vdub.zip>

edited in virtualdub.... use this if you can't play it

Apr 30, 2004: 11:33

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

I will be off for a whiel noe. Hopefully in 3 hours I should have an email from this guy.

Apr 30, 2004: 11:34

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

|                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                                                                                                                                                              |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Wrong IgorJoined: Feb 22, 2004  I'm getting too old. Kill me.                     | Shit I forgot to eat and drink, I am dying here, but THIS IS HISTORY! Great work guys.                                                                                                |
| Apr 30, 2004: 11:34                                                                                                                                                                   | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                  |
| GravitonJoined: Jun 09, 2002  Baby, this is gonna hurt me more than it hurts you. | hahahahahaha, the cheesy smile on starbucks face at the end of the vid is priceless                                                                                                   |
| Apr 30, 2004: 11:35                                                                                                                                                                   | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                  |
| ThanosJoined: Apr 28, 2002  You address Omnipotence.Tread Carefully.        | Delivery! Attachment: delivery.jpgThis has been downloaded 2475 time(s). |
| Apr 30, 2004: 11:35                                                                                                                                                                   | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                  |

Mezzanon

Joined: Sep 16, 2003

The King Of Post Emo

Oh christ on my ass.

I have been patiently reading this thread since its inception, but by god, between the video, pictures, scrolling marquees, taxes paid, and DELIVERY OF THE P-P-P-POWERBOOK!, I just don;t know what to say.

I am shocked, awed, and incredibly sleepy.

But I do not want to miss operation Goon Justice

Apr 30, 2004: 11:35

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

swiss

Joined: Jan 29, 2004

I think I just broke my F5 key.

Apr 30, 2004: 11:36

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Pale

Joined: Sep 18, 2003

8=:30

I'm just speechless.

Apr 30, 2004: 11:36

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Rend

Joined: Apr 30, 2004

In Robotfuture We Trust

Screw sleep I'm staying up to read this, nice work man!

Apr 30, 2004: 11:36

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Schroe

Joined: Feb 06, 2004

waiting for new "this thread delivers" image macro starring that fedex truck

Apr 30, 2004: 11:37

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Mezzanon

Joined: Sep 16, 2003

The King Of Post Emo

quote:

---

Schroe came out of the closet to say:

waiting for new "this thread delivers" image macro starring that fedex truck

---

LO

Greatest idea ever

Apr 30, 2004: 11:38

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Unsane

Joined: Jul 16, 2003

wow, and I thought for sure that the scammer worked for fed-ex and the box would never show.
Goon Justice-Delivered by fed-ex

Apr 30, 2004: 11:39

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

El_Spankio

Joined: Jan 28, 2004

quote:

---

Schroe came out of the closet to say:
waiting for new "this thread delivers" image macro starring that fedex truck

---

Like this?

Attachment: delivery.jpg

This has been downloaded 2344 time(s).

| El_Spankio                           |                     | Folding@Home Team: SAGoons |  |
|--------------------------------------|---------------------|----------------------------|--|
| Work Units: 62 / 62 for current team |                     | Team Stats                 |  |
| Score: 3,319 / 3,319 on current team |                     | Team Rank: 16th            |  |
| Active CPUs:                         | User Rank: 33,674th | Team Score: 6,933,759      |  |

Apr 30, 2004: 11:40

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

slagmatic

Joined: Apr 28, 2004

edit - ahhhhh, too many macros! and mine wasn't that good. i like the flashing one with red text.

slagmatic fucked around with this message at Apr 30, 2004 around 11:45

Apr 30, 2004: 11:41

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Schroe
Joined: Feb 06, 2004

Apr 30, 2004: 11:41

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit Quote

Philovirus
Joined: Nov 23, 2002

Apr 30, 2004: 11:42

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit Quote

dddd

Joined: Sep 11, 2001

quote:

EL_Spankio came out of the closet to say:

Like this?

No, like this.

Apr 30, 2004: 11:42

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

OnionBob

Joined: May 31, 2002

A rip in the very fabric of space and time.

Beaten, but what the hell.

Apr 30, 2004: 11:42

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Potassium

Joined: Oct 05, 2003

Cream > you

Goddamnit, beaten.

Whatever.

vvvv That one is so much better than mine 😞

 Attachment: threaddelivers.jpg

This has been downloaded 2173 time(s).

Potassium fucked around with this message at Apr 30, 2004 around 11:46

Apr 30, 2004: 11:43

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

down1nit

Joined: Jan 09, 2004

Title text (optional; no images are allowed, only text, buttmonger)

quote:

---

dddd came out of the closet to say:

first to quote and lol at image macro

Apr 30, 2004: 11:44

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

El_Spankio

Joined: Jan 28, 2004

quote:

---

dddd came out of the closet to say:

No, like this.

Yeh, so your one is better

| El_Spankio                           |  | Folding@Home Team: SAGoons |           |
|--------------------------------------|--|----------------------------|-----------|
| Work Units: 62 / 62 for current team |  | Team Stats                 |           |
| Score: 3,319 / 3,319 on current team |  | Team Rank:                 | 16th      |
| Active CPUs: User Rank: 33,674th     |  | Team Score:                | 6,933,759 |

Apr 30, 2004: 11:45

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit Quote

jaymeekae

Joined: Aug 30, 2003

screw it

Apr 30, 2004: 11:45

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Bitter Beard

Joined: Sep 11, 2001

What, the fuck is that!

quote:

dddd came out of the closet to say:

No, like this.

Need to have the package being delivered in there so the macro has meaning, blinking text is best.

|                                                                                                           |                                                                                                                                                     |                                            |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------|
| Apr 30, 2004: 11:46                                                                                | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts | Edit Quote |
| girlmechaJoined: Mar 17, 2004IM A RETARDED DOUCHE, ASK ME ABOUT MY CLEANING PROPERTIES | oh my fucking god it's there                                                                                                                        |                                            |
| Apr 30, 2004: 11:47                                                                                | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts | Edit Quote |
| ZeromusMogJoined: Feb 11, 2004Sweet Sassy Molassy!                                     |  Someone had to do it. 😊 Edit: So fucking beaten 😞 |                                            |
| Apr 30, 2004: 11:47                                                                                | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                 | Edit Quote |

|                                                                                                                                                            |                                                                                                                                                                                    |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| LodeRunner Joined: Dec 27, 2003 Floggins will continue until morale improves.                                             | quote: girlmecha came out of the closet to say:oh my fucking god it's there What happened to the ruler and the gelatinous toy? |
| Apr 30, 2004: 11:48                                                                                                                             | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                |
| entity119 Joined: May 13, 2003 my name is nick and i like boys (really) I IGNOREDGIANT REDADMIN TEXT | quote: MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:DaINET? Or what? irc://irc.zirc.org/#SA                                      |
| Apr 30, 2004: 11:48                                                                                                                             | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                |
| ineffable_moose Joined: Apr 10, 2004   | awesome                                                                                                                                                                 |
| Apr 30, 2004: 11:49                                                                                                                             | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                |

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| girlmechaJoined: Mar 17, 2004IM A RETARDED DOUCHE, ASK ME ABOUT MY CLEANING PROPERTIES                                                                                                             | quote:LodeRunner came out of the closet to say:What happened to the ruler and the gelatinous toy? i accidentally pulled my profile up at work.it is a mistake i don't want to make twice. |
| Apr 30, 2004: 11:49                                                                                                                                                                                                             | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                   |
| shepJoined: Aug 31, 2003I am sad because I am stuck in a bucket in the middle of the ocean. | Well this is fucking awesome. Congrats to the insiders, I can't wait to see any emails that get sent. Great work guys!                                       |
| Apr 30, 2004: 11:50                                                                                                                                                                                                             | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                             |
| ultralazOrJoined: Feb 24, 2003                                                                       | quote:ZeromusMog came out of the closet to say:                                                                                                                                                                             |

Someone had to do it. 😊

Edit: So fucking beaten 😞

i still <3 you.

Apr 30, 2004: 11:52

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Phalex
Joined: May 14, 2002

I'm late.

Apr 30, 2004: 11:52

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Thanos
Joined: Apr 28, 2002

You address Omnipotence.
Tread Carefully.

quote:

Phalex came out of the closet to say:
threaddelivers.gif

I'm late.

Quality > Speed

This is my favorite of the macros by far.

Apr 30, 2004: 11:54

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

|                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| down1nitJoined: Jan 09, 2004Title text (optional; no images are allowed, only text, buttmonger)                                                                     | quote: <hr/> girlmecha came out of the closet to say: i accidentally pulled my profile up at work.it is a mistake i don't want to make twice. <hr/>wow... you just pulled it then? someone... perhaps you, posted the link in that lovely hitler laced isketch game. very funny                                                                                     |
| Apr 30, 2004: 11:54                                                                                                                                                             | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| Sergeant RockJoined: Apr 28, 2002"... call the expert at kissing and stuff..." | Well, I've come. <hr/>                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| Apr 30, 2004: 11:55                                                                                                                                                             | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| ZeromusMogJoined: Feb 11, 2004Sweet Sassy Molassy!                                                                                                                  | Oh and for historical purpose, the IRC chat got really faggy after my last post and there's very little worthwhile. If anyone in there disagrees with me feel free to post it. Edit: Oh, and Detritus has serious doubts about all of our heterosexuality because we came into an SA channel to talk about something SA-related. ZeromusMog fucked around with this message at Apr 30, 2004 around 12:02 |
| Apr 30, 2004: 11:59                                                                                                                                                             | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |

pooper scooper

Joined: Oct 23, 2003

Seems the #SA channel has been in the possession of FYAD and permabanned goons. So is the party over? No more goons to send in and stir trouble?

I can't wait for some kind of closure, in the form of an enraged email or something from the romanian.

Also, I vote we send all our multimedia junk as evidence.

Did we ever find out if the barber shop was IT.. or if the barber was a middleman, and some guy will be coming by to pick up the packages later?

Apr 30, 2004: 12:00

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

girlmecha

Joined: Mar 17, 2004

IM A RETARDED DOUCHE, ASK ME ABOUT MY CLEANING PROPERTIES

quote:

down1nit came out of the closet to say:

wow... you just pulled it then?

someone... perhaps you, posted the link in that lovely hitler laced isketch game.

very funny

yes, that was me.

i'd been meaning to change it ps: we can't hijack this thread this thread is historical or something

Apr 30, 2004: 12:00

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Dr-NiKoN

Joined: Jan 17, 2004

foo

It's time to fold our hands and pray to the almighty that the barbershop villain will send an email to Jeff giving us a final chapter of hilarity..

Apr 30, 2004: 12:01

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Potassium

Joined: Oct 05, 2003

Cream > you

quote:

ZeromusMog came out of the closet to say:

Oh and for historical purpose, the IRC chat got really faggy after my last post and there's very little worthwhile. If anyone in there disagrees with me feel free to post it.

Oh shit, guys, people who've never been in the channel before came in let's bitch and whine about it

Apr 30, 2004: 12:03

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Thanos

Joined: Apr 28, 2002

You address Omnipotence.
Tread Carefully.

quote:

ZeromusMog came out of the closet to say:

Edit: Oh, and Detritus has serious doubts about all of our heterosexuality because we came into an SA channel to talk about something SA-related.

I found it ironic he was calling us fags.

Thanos fucked around with this message at Apr 30, 2004 around 12:08

Apr 30, 2004: 12:05

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

swiss

Joined: Jan 29, 2004

quote:

Dr-NiKoN came out of the closet to say:

It's time to fold our hands and pray to the almighty that the barbershop villain will send an email to Jeff giving us a final chapter of hilarity..

I highly doubt that the barber chap is the same dude that originally sent Jeff that email. I think his standard of English betrayed the fact that English was not his first language.

On the other hand, does the barber look Eastern European? Starbucks, did you try to engage him in conversation, or determine if he has an eastern European accent?

Apr 30, 2004: 12:05

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

ultralaz0r

Joined: Feb 24, 2003

TOTALLY NOTEWORTHY NEWS FROM #SA (In regards to detritus)

<DXH> now there's like 10 replies on how big a FAG you are <DXH> care to respond
<DXH> oh wai
<DXH> YOU DON'T HAVE AN ACCOUNT
<DXH> hahahhahahahah

lollin'.

Apr 30, 2004: 12:09

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

DXH

Joined: Dec 08, 2003

He escaped into the waves.

quote:

ultralaz0r came out of the closet to say:

TOTALLY NOTEWORTHY NEWS FROM #SA (In regards to detritus)

<DXH> now there's like 10 replies on how big a FAG you are <DXH> care to respond
<DXH> oh wai
<DXH> YOU DON'T HAVE AN ACCOUNT
<DXH> hahahhahahahah

lollin'.

You forgot:

<@wangzang> o so b&
<shep> dxh you sound like a cunt confirm deny [DXH] yes
[DXH] wait confirm <ZeromusMog> I'm guessing he was b& for being a faggot. Just a hunch.
*** wangzang has kicked DXH from #sa [confirm]

Apr 30, 2004: 12:11

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

nobunny

Joined: Mar 10, 2004

seven ways from dongday

don't make me ignore you!!

even when coming in late, this was a good way to end a night. thank you goons. where can i get a copy of this powerbook?

Apr 30, 2004: 12:11

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

ultralaz0r

Joined: Feb 24, 2003

quote:

nobunny came out of the closet to say:

don't make me ignore you!!

even when coming in late, this was a good way to end a night. thank you goons. where can i get a copy of this powerbook?

I am guessing that if Jeff were to make a replica of the original P-P-P-Powerbook to sell on ebay or what have you, he would make a pretty penny!

Apr 30, 2004: 12:13

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

down1nit

Joined: Jan 09, 2004

Title text (optional; no images are allowed, only text, buttmonger) well... i'm upping the entire webcam feed in case anyone cares.

Trust me, i got the only good part edited up and it's been posted/mirrored/torrented already.

The rest is just starbucks doing the IRC thing. I'm only including it for historical accuracy.

will edit 28min. left to up.

Apr 30, 2004: 12:14

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Yossarko

Joined: Jan 22, 2004

The little Armenian boy who could...

Apologies to Starbucks for bombarding him with "GOOD WORK GOON!" txt messages, but I had to leave for lunch and I wanted to somehow still be apart of the action. If Starbucks could let me know if he recieved them that would be awesome, as each txt to england only cost normal price.

|                                   |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
|-----------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Apr 30, 2004: 12:14 | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts PookaJoined: Sep 12, 2003  Beaten, but:                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| Apr 30, 2004: 12:15 | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts ThanosJoined: Apr 28, 2002  You address Omnipotence.Tread Carefully. quote: <hr/> swiss came out of the closet to say: I highly doubt that the barber chap is the same dude that originally sent Jeff that email. I think his standard of English betrayed the fact that English was not his first language. On the other hand, does the barber look Eastern European? Starbucks, did you try to engage him in converstation, or determine if he has an eastern European accent? <hr/> I don't think he did, the only Romanian connection seemed to be from the IP address of the computer that Starbucks was using. When you google the IP 2 of the 3 results are Romanian web statistic pages.                                      |
| Apr 30, 2004: 12:17 | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts nobunnyJoined: Mar 10, 2004 seven ways from dongday &lt;Detritus&gt; I CAN COUNT NINE FUCKING FAGGOTS WHO I HAVE NEVER SEEN IN MY LIFE&lt;Potassium&gt; I would be one of them&lt;AdeptaCheese&gt; because there are 30,000 goons rite &lt;DLCinferno&gt; Detritus, aren't you permabanned?&lt;Detritus&gt; Yes I am permabanned why &lt;Detritus&gt; JESUS CHRIST WHY ARE ALL THESE PEOPLE COMING IN HERE&lt;Detritus&gt; JESUS CHRIST WHY ARE ALL THESE PEOPLE COMING IN HERE&lt;nobunny&gt; there are always lots of people in here&lt;MyNameIsJeff&gt; Im out - later&lt;Detritus&gt; JESUS CHRIST WHY ARE ALL THESE PEOPLE COMING IN HERE&lt;Detritus&gt; JESUS CHRIST WHY ARE ALL THESE PEOPLE COMING IN HERE&lt;Detritus&gt; JESUS CHRIST WHY ARE ALL THESE PEOPLE COMING IN HERE |

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | &lt;Detritus&gt; JESUS CHRIST WHY ARE ALL THESE PEOPLE COMING IN HERE &lt;YodaDarkJedi&gt; and who knows, we may have to stake out romania &lt;Potassium&gt; Because we love you! &lt;Kickworm&gt; lol * MyNameIsJeff has quit IRC (Quit: ) &lt;Detritus&gt; SOMEONE FUCKING EXPLAIN TO ME * CRO has quit IRC (Quit: ) &lt;Detritus&gt; WHY ALL YOU FAGGOTS ARE HERE &lt;DXH&gt; i'm never playing natural selection while goon history is occuring again |
| Apr 30, 2004: 12:17                                                                                                                                                                                                                | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageSearch For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| elpintogrande Joined: Sep 03, 2000                                                                               | Can you fags stop posting IRC logs? None of them are worth reading.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| Apr 30, 2004: 12:18                                                                                                                                                                                                                | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| Dr.SchadenFreud Joined: Jul 16, 2003  I'm going to have to give you some of my "special medicine..." | quote: MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say: LOLOLO HAHAHAHAHAHAHAHA LOLOLO Salt, meet wound. Wound, meet Mr. Salt.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| Apr 30, 2004: 12:20                                                                                                                                                                                                                | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageSearch For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |

|                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                   |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------|
| Blaise         Joined: Sep 10, 2003  Calculated Karma       | Absolutely fabulous. I'm considering skipping school to f5 this thread. 😞                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                   |
| Apr 30, 2004: 12:20                                                                                                                                      | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                            | Edit Quote |
| Kickworm         Joined: Oct 27, 2003  situation :emoticon: | awaiting final verdict.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                   |
| Apr 30, 2004: 12:20                                                                                                                                      | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                            | Edit Quote |
| ZeromusMog         Joined: Feb 11, 2004 Sweet Sassy Molassy!                                                                                 | quote: <hr/> elpintogrande came out of the closet to say: Can you fags stop posting IRC logs? None of them are worth reading. <hr/> Sorry, Your Pintoness. I got them started. 😞 Should I leave the longer [relevant] logs up for historical purposes? |                   |
| Apr 30, 2004: 12:21                                                                                                                                      | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                            | Edit Quote |

Gen. Specific

Joined: Jan 17, 2004

Hello ladles.

THREAD DELIVERS

THREAD DELIVERS

THREAD DELIVERS

Apr 30, 2004: 12:21

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

esperantinc

Joined: May 05, 2003

quote:

nobunny came out of the closet to say:

<DXH> i'm never playing natural selection while goon history is occuring again

LOLOLO

Apr 30, 2004: 12:21

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

starvey

Joined: Jul 19, 2001

I am irritable and have no sense of humour to speak of. Furthermore, it is evident that I do not understand Cubism.

Mmm.

Laptop justice is a great way to wind down my evening.

Glad to see that the thread delivers. (Hur..)

Apr 30, 2004: 12:24

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Potassium

Joined: Oct 05, 2003

Cream > you

quote:

ZeromusMog came out of the closet to say:

Should I leave the longer [relevant] logs up for historical purposes?

I'd just take the log and put it up in a txt file somewhere.

Apr 30, 2004: 12:24

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Jeet

Joined: Jul 12, 2001

Sexy Balding Veteran

quote:

ZeromusMog came out of the closet to say:

Edit: Oh, and Detritus has serious doubts about all of our heterosexuality because we came into an SA channel to talk about something SA-related.

He'll be banned from there shortly, he's an enormous idiot.

Congrats to all involved, uk members involved need to come to the June meet to get their pints 😊

Apr 30, 2004: 12:25

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Dr.SchadenFreud

Joined: Jul 16, 2003

I'm going to have to give you some of my "special medicine..."

Eagerly awaiting news of angry email from "Gianluca."

Apr 30, 2004: 12:27

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Ron Popeil

Joined: Mar 12, 2003

quote:

Gen. Specific came out of the closet to say:

http://members.optushome.com.au/slyer\_ljb/threadelivers.gif

[http://members.optushome.com.au/sly...readelivers.gif\[/img\]](http://members.optushome.com.au/sly...readelivers.gif[/img])

[http://members.optushome.com.au/sly...readelivers.gif\[/img\]](http://members.optushome.com.au/sly...readelivers.gif[/img])

A delayed package

Apr 30, 2004: 12:28

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

1badkarma

Joined: Mar 02, 2004

I'm sorry, uh, I wasn't listening...

quote:

Merlin_Oak came out of the closet to say:

Holy shit!

Hold on, the FedEx dude is carrying two packages? One seems too small to fit a P-P-P-Powerbook, the other one is waaayy too big.

Checked FedEx Tracking and it didn't say that Delivery has occurred? Maybe this isn't our package guys.

Apr 30, 2004: 12:28

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

|                                                                                                                                                    |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| ZeromusMogJoined: Feb 11, 2004Sweet Sassy Molassy!                                                                              | quote: Potassium came out of the closet to say:I'd just take the log and put it up in a txt file somewhere. Eh, I could host it easily but if someone wants to read this later I'd rather not have them worry about whether or not my host is up. Or if I accidentally deleted the file. So unless a bunch of you REALLY think I should put them in a text file, I'll leave it as-is for now.        |
| Apr 30, 2004: 12:28                                                                                                                         | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
| Dazb0Joined: Feb 05, 2004Just that little bit better...                                                                         | What happened to rhig? Last we heard he was catching a coach to London form Plymouth and due to arrive at the drop point for 10-10:30. Looks like the poor guy missed the boat.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| Apr 30, 2004: 12:29                                                                                                                         | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
| down1nitJoined: Jan 09, 2004Title text (optional; no images are allowed, only text, buttmonger)                                 | k... here's the full feed video... again... there's nothing good on it except for that part i &lt;snip-snipped&gt;. http://www.astrofunk.info/videos/p-...rbook(full).avi (37,959kb uncompressed) still got 6GB bandwidth to use up by tomorrow. down1nit fucked around with this message at Apr 30, 2004 around 12:33 |
| Apr 30, 2004: 12:30                                                                                                                         | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
| FaustusJoined: Mar 15, 2003Born Stubborn | quote: 1badkarma came out of the closet to say: Holy shit!Hold on, the FedEx dude is carrying two packages? One seems too small to fit a P-P-P-Powerbook, the other one is waaayy too big.Checked FedEx Tracking and it didn't say that Delivery has occurred? Maybe this isn't our package guys. Actually that would be about the correct size IIRC.                  |

|                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Heck my Dell laptop box was even thicker then that.                                                                                                                                                   |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| Apr 30, 2004: 12:34                                                                                                                                                                            | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| Dr.SchadenFreudJoined: Jul 16, 2003I'm going to have to give you some of my "special medicine..." | quote: <hr/> Faustus came out of the closet to say: Actually that would be about the correct size IIRC.Heck my Dell laptop box was even thicker then that. <hr/> MyNameIsJeff should be able to positively ID the box in the vid.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| Apr 30, 2004: 12:35                                                                                                                                                                            | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| Bitter BeardJoined: Sep 11, 2001What, the fuck is that!                                           | quote: <hr/> Dr.SchadenFreud came out of the closet to say: MyNameIsJeff should be able to positively ID the box in the vid. <hr/> He has, it's back a couple pages.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| Apr 30, 2004: 12:36                                                                                                                                                                            | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| YossarkoJoined: Jan 22, 2004The little Armenian boy who could...                                | quote: <hr/> 1badkarma came out of the closet to say: Holy shit!Hold on, the FedEx dude is carrying two packages? One seems too small to fit a P-P-P-Powerbook, the other one is waaayy too big.Checked FedEx Tracking and it didn't say that Delivery has occurred? Maybe this isn't our package guys. <hr/> Jeff already confirmed that what we see here IS the powerbook, in the bigger white box. So everything has gone according to plan. Now we just wait for Angry Romanian to send his email. |

Apr 30, 2004: 12:36

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

down1nit

Joined: Jan 09, 2004

Title text (optional; no images are allowed, only text, buttmonger)

quote:

1badkarma came out of the closet to say:

Holy shit!
Hold on, the FedEx dude is carrying two packages? One seems too small to fit a P-P-P-Powerbook, the other one is waaayy too big.
Checked FedEx Tracking and it didn't say that Delivery has occurred? Maybe this isn't our package guys.

we noticed that... thing is... starbucks saw the guy arrive, shot it, then proceeded to IRC and change the screensavers.

another goon, was downstairs with the video camera snapping shots of the delivery.

Now we just hope they get home.

it looks about the right size... it's in a G4 Box (i think).

Apr 30, 2004: 12:37

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Accipiter

Joined: Jan 24, 2004

Pop it, D-Man!

quote:

1badkarma came out of the closet to say:
Hold on, the FedEx dude is carrying two packages? One seems too small to fit a P-P-P-Powerbook, the other one is waaayy too big.
Checked FedEx Tracking and it didn't say that Delivery has occurred? Maybe this isn't our package guys.

quote:

Dr.SchadenFreud came out of the closet to say:
MyNameIsJeff should be able to positively ID the box in the vid.

R->C->P. Jeff already said he's saw the package via cam and is absolutely sure that's the one.

Edit: Beaten like a demoralized hooker.

|                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Apr 30, 2004: 12:38                                                                                                                                                                            | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
| Dr.SchadenFreudJoined: Jul 16, 2003I'm going to have to give you some of my "special medicine..." | The "P-P-P-P-Powerbook!" screensavers should nearly incite the proprietor to murder. I suppose he'll have some heated discussions with the customers in the cafe at the time... LO                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| Apr 30, 2004: 12:38                                                                                                                                                                            | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
| down1nitJoined: Jan 09, 2004Title text (optional; no images are allowed, only text, buttmonger)                                                                                    | quote: <hr/> down1nit came out of the closet to say: we noticed that... thing is... starbucks saw the guy arrive, shot it, then proceeded to IRC and change the screensavers. another goon, was downstairs with the video camera snapping shots of the delivery. Now we just hope they get home. it looks about the right size... it's in a G4 Box (i think). <hr/> SHIT... i need to get some sleep. i quoted instead of edited. 4:40am goons (1600 posts really gets past my brain sometimes... it's not a G4 box???) |
| Apr 30, 2004: 12:38                                                                                                                                                                            | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
| rottingcorpseJoined: Dec 12, 2003you forgot to renew your domain.com                     | I think whats likely to happen is, the box will be forwarded to Romania unopened, the barber shop guy is probably just forwarding stuff unopened and gets a small slice of the profits.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| Apr 30, 2004: 12:39                                                                                                                                                                            | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |

Ataraxia

Joined: Jun 15, 2001

Champion of nothing

quote:

down1nit came out of the closet to say:
it's not a G4 box?

No, he wants to keep the original box so he can sell his REAL powerbook (again)... next week's installment!

Apr 30, 2004: 12:40

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Blaise

Joined: Sep 10, 2003

Calculated Karma

Jeff didn't take any pics of the exterior of the box before mailing it? ??? ☹️

Apr 30, 2004: 12:40

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Faustus

Joined: Mar 15, 2003

Born Stubborn

quote:

rottingcorpse came out of the closet to say:
I think whats likely to happen is, the box will be forwarded to Romania unopened, the barber shop guy is probably just forwarding stuff unopened and gets a small slice of the profits.

Not so sure about that, could be coming from a Romainian IP for a number of reasons, proxy, email service. Also remember it was from a stolen ebay account, so just about anything is possible.

quick question on something I missed: where was the fedex delivery picture taken from? It looks like from insdie the shop? if so then it lends weight to the idea that its someone there, after all they would have access to steal passwords then.

Apr 30, 2004: 12:41

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Blaise Joined: Sep 10, 2003  Calculated Karma                                                        | quote: <hr/> rottingcorpse came out of the closet to say: I think whats likely to happen is, the box will be forwarded to Romania unopened, the barber shop guy is probably just forwarding stuff unopened and gets a small slice of the profits. <hr/> This was predicted back on page ~20 I believe. I believe the predicted outcome was him being offed by the romanian mob as soon as the horrid joke comes through. |
| Apr 30, 2004: 12:41                                                                                                                                                                                                    | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| Dr.SchadenFreud Joined: Jul 16, 2003  I'm going to have to give you some of my "special medicine..." | quote: <hr/> Blaise came out of the closet to say: This was predicted back on page ~20 I believe. I believe the predicted outcome was him being offed by the romanian mob as soon as the horrid joke comes through. <hr/> Triple bonus points if the Romanian mob guy arrives at the Internet cafe and the screensavers are still flashing "P-P-P-P-Powerbook!"                                                          |
| Apr 30, 2004: 12:45                                                                                                                                                                                                    | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| Blaise Joined: Sep 10, 2003  Calculated Karma                                                      | quote: <hr/> Dr.SchadenFreud came out of the closet to say: Triple bonus points if the Romanian mob guy arrives at the Internet cafe and the screensavers are still flashing "P-P-P-P-Powerbook!" <hr/> LOLOLOLO That would eliminate ANY remote chance of him being able to explain his 'innocence'.                                                                                                         |
| Apr 30, 2004: 12:46                                                                                                                                                                                                    | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |

Bitter Beard

Joined: Sep 11, 2001

What, the fuck is that!

quote:

Blaise came out of the closet to say:

LOLOLOLO

That would eliminate ANY remote chance of him being able to explain his innocence.

The greatest part about this is he can't go to the cops, it's like stealing from drug dealers! LO

Apr 30, 2004: 12:47

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Der Shovel

Joined: Dec 26, 2003

Just a 10$ hoe

quote:

down1nit came out of the closet to say:

VIDEO

<http://www.astrofunk.info/videos/p-p-p-powerbook.avi>

mirrors requested but not required... it's only 3.2 megs.

DONE!!!

MIRRORED!

<http://www.paranoia.tuug.fi/~ml/sa/p-p-p-powerbook.avi>

Apr 30, 2004: 12:48

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Cuerzo

Joined: Sep 10, 2002

quote:

Blaise came out of the closet to say:

This was predicted back on page ~20 I believe. I believe the predicted outcome was him being offed by the romanian mob as soon as the horrid joke comes through.

There's a gazillion gipsies in Romania. Let's hope there isn't someone similar Mickey O'Neil receiving the package...

Apr 30, 2004: 12:55

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

1badkarma

Joined: Mar 02, 2004

I'm sorry, uh, I wasn't listening...

Yeah ok, I read it. But what about the FedEx tracker? Why hasn't it been updated?

I guess I'm just being a little doubtful about all this. I'm just thinking maybe the shop gets a lot of parcels or something (seeing as there was another box, that suggests they get other parcels too).

But I guess I'll be slapping myself in the face when we hear in the International News section:

"Tragedy in downtown London: The Barbershop Bloodshed. Owner goes nuts and bludgeons patrons with strange object."

Apr 30, 2004: 12:57

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Yoda

Joined: Dec 11, 2003

A Jedi I am

this is showing up on page 42 for me... closure on page 42... coincidence?

Apr 30, 2004: 12:58

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Dr.SchadenFreud

Joined: Jul 16, 2003

I'm going to have to give you some of my "special medicine..."

quote:

1badkarma came out of the closet to say:

Yeah ok, I read it. But what about the FedEx tracker? Why hasn't it been updated? I guess I'm just being a little doubtful about all this.

It takes FedEx a bit to update their online tracker.

edit: I would *LOVE* to know how the taxes were paid.

Apr 30, 2004: 12:58

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

ELeeming

Joined: Apr 15, 2003

42 pages of joy. This thread keeps getting better.

Apr 30, 2004: 12:59

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

fatman1683

Joined: Jan 08, 2004

Fat Bastard

quote:

1badkarma came out of the closet to say:

"Tragedy in downtown London: The Barbershop Bloodshed. Owner goes nuts and bludgeons patrons with strange object."

That should probably be:

"Tragedy in downtown London: The Barbershop Bloodshed. Owner goes nuts and bludgeons patrons with P-P-P-POWERBOOK!!!."

Apr 30, 2004: 13:02

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

gregday

Joined: May 23, 2003

quote:

1badkarma came out of the closet to say:

Yeah ok, I read it. But what about the FedEx tracker? Why hasn't it been updated? I guess I'm just being a little doubtful about all this. I'm just thinking maybe the shop gets a lot of parcels or something (seeing as there was another box, that suggests they get other parcels too).

Jeff saw the video and confirmed it is the same package he shipped.

Apr 30, 2004: 13:04

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

1badkarma

Joined: Mar 02, 2004

I'm sorry, uh, I wasn't listening...

quote:

gregday came out of the closet to say:

Jeff saw the video and confirmed it is the same package he shipped.

Yeah guys, I know that. It's been said many times. Thanks.

It's just that...

FUCK. This thread is awesome. *sniff*

When I saw Starbucks posting "We have Delivery!", I was like "HOLY SHIT!!!"

Apr 30, 2004: 13:07

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Refugee

Joined: Apr 08, 2004

When FedEx updates, jeff needs to e-mail him to ask if everything's ok and when he can expect payment.

Apr 30, 2004: 13:11

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

dddd

Joined: Sep 11, 2001

quote:

Yoda came out of the closet to say:

this is showing up on page 42 for me... closure on page 42... coincidence?

I dont think anyone else cougth this, but I did. 🤪

Apr 30, 2004: 13:12

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Maldoror

Joined: Oct 05, 2003

As was mentioned previously, he'll get the tax bill later, probably within 1-2 weeks. I've gotten stuff shipped to me from FedEx before to the USA that had taxes on it, and I got the payment forms a little over a week later for each of them. I also know some people in forein countries where the same thing applied to them, so I'm sure that's what's going to happen this time.

What's funny is when he gets the bill, he'll have to pay it. He's going to have a hell of a time contesting it since it involves his criminal actions. 🏠

Apr 30, 2004: 13:13

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

grzydj

Joined: Oct 04, 2000

I will answer your questions about Gore-Tex

This is nucking futs. 🚗

Apr 30, 2004: 13:16

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Pipski

Joined: Apr 18, 2004

Lovely barbershop. Pity I wasn't invited.

Am back at work now. Haven't had to time to read up on what exactly transpired after the delivery yet, will check when I get home. I hope to have some rather randomly aimed photo's of our man signing for it and stashing it, taken from waist level, but I dunno how they'll come out. Really hope Starb. made a live vid feed happen. Christ, I'm tired now. And I still have four point five hours of work to live through ... but it was utterly, utterly worth it.

Apr 30, 2004: 13:21

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

FaceEater

Joined: Aug 15, 2002

TheFraggot

quote:

Pipski came out of the closet to say:

Am back at work now. Haven't had to time to read up on what exactly transpired after the delivery yet, will check when I get home. I hope to have some rather randomly aimed photo's of our man signing for it and stashing it, taken from waist level, but I dunno how they'll come out. Really hope Starb. made a live vid feed happen.

Christ, I'm tired now. And I still have four point five hours of work to live through ... but it was utterly, utterly worth it.

I started reading at 11 PM last night, finished around 1 AM. And I tell you now, your efforts have not been in vain.

The package has arrived. All is right in the world.

Apr 30, 2004: 13:23

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

lagerdrinker

Joined: Jan 12, 2004

Welcomme back - good work 😊

Apr 30, 2004: 13:23

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Bitter Beard

Joined: Sep 11, 2001

What, the fuck is that!

quote:

Pipski came out of the closet to say:

Am back at work now. Haven't had to time to read up on what exactly transpired after the delivery yet, will check when I get home. I hope to have some rather randomly aimed photo's of our man signing for it and stashing it, taken from waist level, but I dunno how they'll come out. Really hope Starb. made a live vid feed happen.

Christ, I'm tired now. And I still have four point five hours of work to live through ... but it was utterly, utterly worth it.

Those pictures should be sent to the guy when he asks 'WTF!' and Jeff unloads his scammer info.

|                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Apr 30, 2004: 13:24                                                                                                                                                                            | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| Dr.SchadenFreudJoined: Jul 16, 2003I'm going to have to give you some of my "special medicine..." | quote: <hr/> Maldoror came out of the closet to say:As was mentioned previously, he'll get the tax bill later, probably within 1-2 weeks. I've gotten stuff shipped to me from FedEx before to the USA that had taxes on it, and I got the payment forms a little over a week later for each of them. I also know some people in forein countries where the same thing applied to them, so I'm sure that's what's going to happen this time. What's funny is when he gets the bill, he'll have to pay it. He's going to have a hell of a time contesting it since it involves his criminal actions. 🤔 <hr/> |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                       | If he used his real name. If he used a fake name, then he probably won't care. edit: I suppose that since the package was delivered, FedEx will be rather interested in collecting. MyNameIsJeff always has an out in that he was merely shipping to some stranger who bought off eBay. I guess FedEx will want to talk to the barber who signed for the box.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| Apr 30, 2004: 13:27                                                                                                                                                                            | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| WoodlongJoined: Oct 23, 2002                                                                         | Good work to all those involved. Best thread in quite some time.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| Apr 30, 2004: 13:28                                                                                                                                                                            | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |

Starbucks

Joined: Jul 07, 2002

Strong Coffee Drinking!

this is starbucks and smitz posting from euston station, me smitz and ....some guy from plymouth, forgot the name didnt note it on my paper, went to wetherspoon for a pint

there was a emergency111!!!! i left my 256 mb usb stick in the pc, and had to go back to rescue it, i was lucky the guy didnt see the marquee. i grabbed the stick an ran. me and plymouh guy had a reccy to try and get the p-p-p-p-p-powerbook back, but the back door seemed locked. on te way back to the meeting spot (mcdonalds) the owner was writing on some paper and giving us some dodgy looks.

welli hope to get my pictures back by 6.30 and smitz intends to get hus up in a couple of hours...

well, im still recovering from that damn breakfast, so i hope im not goatse man by the time i get back to swansea

Apr 30, 2004: 13:33

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Disconnected

Joined: Feb 06, 2004

This is by far one of the best threads I've ever had the pleasure of reading. Good job goons, and I can't wait to meet all of you in Vegas. I really hope Jeff gets a nasty e-mail so we can see how much this guy flips out.

Apr 30, 2004: 13:40

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

ELeeming

Joined: Apr 15, 2003

quote:

Starbucks came out of the closet to say:

this is starbucks and smitz posting from euston station, me smitz and ....some guy from plymouth, forgot the name didnt note it on my paper, went to wetherspoon for a pint

there was a emergency111!!!! i left my 256 mb usb stick in the pc, and had to go back to rescue it, i was lucky the guy didnt see the marquee. i grabbed the stick an ran. me and plymouh guy had a reccy to try and get the p-p-p-p-p-powerbook back, but the back door seemed locked. on te way back to the meeting spot (mcdonalds) the owner was writing on some paper and giving us some dodgy looks.

welli hope to get my pictures back by 6.30 and smitz intends to get hus up in a couple of hours...

well, im still recovering from that damn breakfast, so i hope im not goatse man by the time i get back to swansea

|                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                                                                                                                                                                                                         | You're a hero. A fucking hero.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| Apr 30, 2004: 13:41                                                                                                                                                                              | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                               |
| eclipseJoined: Mar 12, 2003It's gone rather dark all of a sudden...                                 | All I have to say is Incredible work.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| Apr 30, 2004: 13:43                                                                                                                                                                              | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                               |
| schmuckfeaturesJoined: Oct 27, 2003This avatar needs more Rumsfeld                                  | This has been the best thread I have ever had the pleasure of reading.Oh, MyNameIsJeff, if you don't hear anything within a couple of days maybe you should email our man in Romania saying "Well, did you get the P-P-P-P-Powerbook?"                                                                                                                               |
| Apr 30, 2004: 13:50                                                                                                                                                                              | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                               |
| Dr.SchadenFreudJoined: Jul 16, 2003I'm going to have to give you some of my "special medicine..." | quote: schmuckfeatures came out of the closet to say:This has been the best thread I have ever had the pleasure of reading.Oh, MyNameIsJeff, if you don't hear anything within a couple of days maybe you should email our man in Romania saying "Well, did you get the P-P-P-P-Powerbook?" LO guffaw |
| Apr 30, 2004: 13:55                                                                                                                                                                              | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                               |

pharaohdactyl

Joined: Sep 11, 2001

Well played.

Apr 30, 2004: 13:57

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Fistgrrl

Joined: Dec 30, 2000

Queen of Cuddlenaps

You didn't run down to see who accepted the package? You didn't lurk around to watch it be opened? ☹️

Apr 30, 2004: 14:00

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

FrozenEntree

Joined: Jun 11, 2001

God helped me fuck over my creditors so I can continue spending like the selfish dumbfuck I am! Blessed are the spendthrift, my ass! Hallelujah! Praise to Jesus!

See? I want all you FedEx bashing motherfuckers to recognize here, FedEx DELIVERS. It delivers GOON JUSTICE. If FedEx can timely deliver Goon Justice, it can deliver your packages on time too. Next time you need a P-P-P-Powerbook! shipped, you better not even THINK about UPS, or God forbid BAX Global.

Apr 30, 2004: 14:02

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

baka kaba

Joined: Jul 19, 2003

Excellent Excellent Excellent thread. Kudos to everyone involved.

To follow up someone should post an envelope through their door at night, containing another envelope which contains another etc. with LOL written on the front of each in increasingly large letters. Then put a card in the last one which says 'Think Different.'

Apr 30, 2004: 14:05

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

|                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| triple clutcherJoined: Jul 10, 2003Los quernos, the triple clutcher!                                                                                                                     | Holy shit. I went to bed thinking this'd never pan out. Good fucking job.                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| Apr 30, 2004: 14:11                                                                                                                                                                                  | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                          |
| Cousin KevinJoined: Sep 28, 2001                                                                        | If the scammer did indeed register an account here, he should take comfort in the fact that he can probably recoup the taxes he will pay by selling the P-P-P-Powerbook on SA Mart. It's the great Circle of Life.Also, posting in a historic thread. I feel genuinely honored. |
| Apr 30, 2004: 14:13                                                                                                                                                                                  | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                          |
| FrontLineJoined: Sep 17, 2003                                                                           | Wow. Just wow. Fuck. Wow.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| Apr 30, 2004: 14:16                                                                                                                                                                                  | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                          |
| Dr.SchadenFreudJoined: Jul 16, 2003I'm going to have to give you some of my "special medicine..." | MyNameIsJeff, did you send the "Didja get your notebook?" email yet?                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| Apr 30, 2004: 14:18                                                                                                                                                                                  | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                          |

Wrong Igor

Joined: Feb 22, 2004

I'm getting too old. Kill me.

I have to agree to the fellow who posted in one of the first pages (or somewhere) that THIS is the place to visit in London! Fuck Big Ben & the Tower & the Queen & other crappy so-called tourist attractions. We know better.

Apr 30, 2004: 14:19

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Crusader

Joined: Apr 11, 2002

Crying with laughter at all of this; I read the thread when it first began and didn't check back on it until now. Absolutely amazing intelligence gathering work on the part of the UK squad.

Apr 30, 2004: 14:26

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Starbucks

Joined: Jul 07, 2002

Strong Coffee Drinking!

i am in a internet cafe with access to memory stick facilities, expect pictures and perhaps video in a few minutes!! (possibly 10)

Can a mod post my IP history for the last day, I think it would be pretty insane

Apr 30, 2004: 14:30

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

mr_package

Joined: Jun 13, 2000

ehhhhh so did he open it?!!

Apr 30, 2004: 14:31

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Starbucks

Joined: Jul 07, 2002

Strong Coffee Drinking!

quote:

mr_package came out of the closet to say:
ehhhhh so did he open it?!!

dont think so, we think its either a user or this place has other @secret@ facilities that they dont talk about on the door

Apr 30, 2004: 14:32

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

ewiley

Joined: Jul 09, 2003

I am constantly bored.

Woha, someone's gonna have to check dumpsters behind the barber shop for a big white box and the p-p-p-powerbook a little later today.

Starbucks, you are an inspiration to us all! Good work lad

Apr 30, 2004: 14:35

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Yossarko

Joined: Jan 22, 2004

The little Armenian boy who could...

It doesn't matter, it's been delivered and we have pictures of the guy / shop / truck.

I am seriously SLOLing at the thought of when Mr Scammer sees the screensavers and realises that the guys who outscammed him were in his shop under his nose THAT VERY MORNING.

Also, he's probably been gloating to his friends about how he 'totally PWNED' some american kid out of a laptop. Oh, this is too much.

Apr 30, 2004: 14:35

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

noddy1190

Joined: Feb 20, 2003

quote:

Starbucks came out of the closet to say:
expect pictures and perhaps video in a few minutes!!

This shit is legendary 🤪

Apr 30, 2004: 14:37

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Joined: Sep 10, 2003

Yossarko came out of the closet to say:

I am seriously SLOLing at the thought of when Mr Scammer sees the screensavers and realises that the guys who outscammed him were in his shop under his nose THAT VERY MORNING.

Exactly. Then he will check the security tapes (any?) to see who they are and have them offed.

Apr 30, 2004: 14:37

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Joined: Jan 22, 2004

Stealing laptops and murdering two people for 'changing the screensaver at a cyber café' are two very different things. But, if the off chance that our english heroes to get offed, they will die knowing they are Legendary Goons.

Apr 30, 2004: 14:40

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Joined: Sep 10, 2003

Yossarko came out of the closet to say:

Stealing laptops and murdering two people for 'changing the screensaver at a cyber café' are two very different things. But, if the off chance that our english heroes to get offed, they will die knowing they are Legendary Goons.

...and in other news today two men were reportedly shot by members of the Romanian Mafia after exposing their activity on an internet message board. Now for sports...

Apr 30, 2004: 14:41

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

FrozenEntree

Joined: Jun 11, 2001

God helped me fuck over my creditors so I can continue spending like the selfish dumbfuck I am! Blessed are the spendthrift, my ass! Hallelujah! Praise to Jesus!

quote:

Blaise came out of the closet to say:

Exactly. Then he will check the security tapes (any?) to see who they are and have them offed.

LOLOLOLOLOLOLO oh, wait. no, that would suck. I don't think he will be able to tell who they were.

Wait for the plot twist though guys, the Barber shop guy who received the package is actually a long standing goon. MyNameIsJeff and the shop owner have plotted this thread for many a month. They have PRANKED ALL OF US. I know that isn't the reality of it, but that would be hilarious.

Apr 30, 2004: 14:42

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Starbucks

Joined: Jul 07, 2002

Strong Coffee Drinking!

Apr 30, 2004: 14:43

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Corundum

Joined: Mar 08, 2004

Yeeee! more pics!

rock hound

Apr 30, 2004: 14:44

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Blaise

Joined: Sep 10, 2003

Calculated Karma

quote:

FrozenEntree came out of the closet to say:

Wait for the plot twist though guys, the Barber shop guy who received the package is actually a long standing goon. MyNameIsJeff and the shop owner have plotted this thread for many a month. They have PRANKED ALL OF US. I know that isn't the reality of it, but that would be hilarious.

Oh man that would suck. The question is if the other London Goons are involved with the conspiracy or not...

Apr 30, 2004: 14:44

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Blaise

Joined: Sep 10, 2003

Calculated Karma

What's in the Casio box?

Apr 30, 2004: 14:45

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

noddy1190

Joined: Feb 20, 2003

sweet pictures.. I just hope page 44 isn't one giant prank apple.

Apr 30, 2004: 14:46

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Yossarko

Joined: Jan 22, 2004

The little Armenian boy who could...

quote:

Starbucks came out of the closet to say:

This is the best one and needs to be sent to the scammer by email later on, just to fuck with him some more. But we need to photoshop in some SWAT team and maybe turn a neon side on his window to "BUY / SELL Powerbooks here!".

I also like the blurry pavement.

Yossarko fucked around with this message at Apr 30, 2004 around 14:50

Apr 30, 2004: 14:47

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Starbucks

Joined: Jul 07, 2002

Strong Coffee Drinking!

[Right Click, save as \[the barber shop...\]](#)

[Right Click, save as \[the drop off...\]](#)

Apr 30, 2004: 14:50

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Starbucks

Joined: Jul 07, 2002

Strong Coffee Drinking!

quote:

Blaise came out of the closet to say:

What's in the Casio box?

dunno, we thought it could be a scammer lobbing something out, so we took a picture of it, and his car train leaves in 8 mins, that means i have to go

Apr 30, 2004: 14:51

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

karmaflux

Joined: Feb 26, 2004

OMG WATCH OUT FOR TEH
CUCUMBAR!!@$!1

I knew if I stuck around long enough I'd find out why the internet was made.

edit: I never had a reason to like the British. But I like the British now. Next time I'm overseas I'm buying everyone involved all the beer I can afford.

Apr 30, 2004: 14:51

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Blaise

Joined: Sep 10, 2003

Calculated Karma

quote:

Starbucks came out of the closet to say:
Right Click, save as [the barber shop...]
Right Click, save as [the drop off...]

Gah, wmv. Can't view on school Macs.

Any reason Fedex would notice the many thousand views on the same tracking #? Do they check for that?

Apr 30, 2004: 14:51

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Blaise

Joined: Sep 10, 2003

Calculated Karma

quote:

Starbucks came out of the closet to say:
dunno, we thought it could be a scammer lobbing something out, so we took a picture of it, and his car

train leaves in 8 mins, that means i have to go

I wholeheartedly approve of the car pics.

Thank you for the good work, I am not studying for my AP tests now.

Apr 30, 2004: 14:53

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Corundum

Joined: Mar 08, 2004

rock hound

quote:

Starbucks came out of the closet to say:
Right Click, save as [the drop off...]

What exactly is the dialog downstairs? Having trouble getting the words . Scoop of the month anyway, Good Work!

Apr 30, 2004: 14:56

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Ballz

Joined: Dec 16, 2003

not even human

Fantastic. There isn't an emoticon to describe the feelings that are being felt by me right now.

Although 🤖 comes pretty damn close.

Apr 30, 2004: 14:57

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

noddy1190

Joined: Feb 20, 2003

quote:

Corundum came out of the closet to say:

What exactly is the dialog downstairs? Having trouble getting the words . Scoop of the month anyway, Good Work!

Starbucks asks if the guy has memory stick readers and the suspected scammers replies "Nothing storage, we dont allow that".

Apr 30, 2004: 14:57

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Refugee

Joined: Apr 08, 2004

quote:

Corundum came out of the closet to say:

What exactly is the dialog downstairs? Having trouble getting the words . Scoop of the month anyway, Good Work!

StarBucks: Alright mate, got any memory card readers?

Guy: What?

SB: Memory stick readers?

Guy: No, we don't allow them, sorry

SB: Oh, alright cheers anyway.

Or words to that effect, you're not missing much.

Apr 30, 2004: 14:57

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Earwicker

Joined: Jan 06, 2003

I couldn't understand exactly what happened... the barbershop dude got pissed off about the camera?

edit: nm, got it

Earwicker fucked around with this message at Apr 30, 2004 around 15:03

Apr 30, 2004: 14:58

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

ELeeming

Joined: Apr 15, 2003

quote:

Starbucks came out of the closet to say:

|                                                                                                                                           |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                                                                                                                                           | That car is... Vehicle detailsManufacturer VolvoModel 480 SBody type 3 door hatchbackColour RedFuel type PetrolDate manufactured 31 December 1994Number of previous owners 2Last owner change 29 June 1999 only it's not, so either the reg isn't M461XCL, or it's dodgy. <hr/> Resistance Is Character Forming            |
| Apr 30, 2004: 15:00                                                                                                                | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| ewileyJoined: Jul 09, 2003 I am constantly bored.                                                               | Edit: ^ ^ ^ ^ Woha, stolen car/plates?? This keeps getting better. One quick thought: are we sure that was Jeff's package that was delivered? Jeff: is that the right one? Since fedex still hasn't updated, and it's been several hours, it makes me a little suspicious (sorry if this has been mentioned before, this thread is moving so fast it's a little hard to keep up) |
| Apr 30, 2004: 15:01                                                                                                                | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| RefugeeJoined: Apr 08, 2004  | The last two letters could be anything, XDC? XDL? XLC? XCL?                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| Apr 30, 2004: 15:02                                                                                                                | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |

|                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| triple clutcherJoined: Jul 10, 2003 Los quernos, the triple clutcher!                                               | quote: ELeeming came out of the closet to say:only it's not, so either the reg isn't M461XCL, or it's dodgy. Looks like H461XGC to me.                                  |
| Apr 30, 2004: 15:02                                                                                                                                             | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More PostsEditQuote |
| noddy1190Joined: Feb 20, 2003      | I think Jeff identified the package over Starbucks cam stream as 'the drop' took place.                                                                                                                          |
| Apr 30, 2004: 15:02                                                                                                                                             | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More PostsEditQuote |
| LuciferJoined: Mar 23, 2004 Old people have sex.                                                                    | [edit] I should have just assumed I'd be beaten. Yes, Jeff identified it. Also, ELeeming, I think you just got the numbers wrong. The second last one could be an O/O.                     |
| Apr 30, 2004: 15:03                                                                                                                                             | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More PostsEditQuote |
| Ridgely_FanJoined: Aug 02, 2003  | the first letter looks like an 'R' to me. [R,H,M]461 X[O,Q,C,O]C only 12 combinations to try. Ridgely_Fan fucked around with this message at Apr 30, 2004 around 15:07   |
| Apr 30, 2004: 15:04                                                                                                                                             | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                           |

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| MyNameIsJeffJoined: Dec 05, 2003P-P-P-Powerbook.com!No email yet. 😬                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| Apr 30, 2004: 15:07User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| CthuluburgerJoined: Sep 11, 2003gooey, burp, gooey, chomp,I solemnly award you the Congressional Medal of Awesome.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| Apr 30, 2004: 15:07User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| ELeemingJoined: Apr 15, 2003quote:triple clutcher came out of the closet to say:Looks like H461XGC to me.is the right answer!Manufacturer SaabModel 900 I 16VBody type convertibleColour BlueFuel type PetrolDate manufactured 31 December 1991Number of previous owners 1Last owner change 22 October 1996panic over. |

https://www.rac.co.uk/myrac/vehicle\_data\_check , in case anyone's interested.

---

Resistance Is Character Forming

Apr 30, 2004: 15:11

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

baka kaba

Joined: Jul 19, 2003

quote:

---

ELeeming came out of the closet to say:

That car is...

Vehicle details

Manufacturer Volvo

Model 480 S

Body type 3 door hatchback

Colour Red

Fuel type Petrol

Date manufactured 31 December 1994

Number of previous owners 2

Last owner change 29 June 1999

only it's not, so either the reg isn't M461XCL, or it's dodgy.

---

That's a SAAB. Looks like it says 900V, I'll have a check... but yeah, if that's what the plate lookup says, then 🤪

EDIT: Ka-beaten

Apr 30, 2004: 15:12

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

FofR

Joined: Aug 25, 2003

Wow, look at me. I'm not even listening to a word you're saying.

Googled for the barber shop name. Nothing suspect, no complaints or anything suspicious. Just the usual business information, "Jean Climax", telephone number and address.

<http://www.locallife.co.uk/brent/barbershops3.asp>

Apr 30, 2004: 15:14

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Bozza

Joined: Mar 05, 2004

Starbucks, Pipski et al. are my new internet heros.

Any authors here want to write this saga up into some sort of novel? Its cool because you don't know how it ends yet!

Apr 30, 2004: 15:14

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Accipiter

Joined: Jan 24, 2004

Pop it, D-Man!

And there it is.

Apr 30, 2004: 15:22

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit Quote

FrozenEntree

Joined: Jun 11, 2001

^ ^ ^ ^ ^ ^ ^ ^ ^ ^ ^ ^ ^ ^ ^ ^

Nice. 🤔

God helped me fuck over my creditors so I can continue spending like the selfish dumbfuck I am! Blessed are the spendthrift, my ass! Hallelujah! Praise to Jesus!

Apr 30, 2004: 15:25

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit Quote

Shii

Joined: Feb 17, 2004

quote:

Accipiter came out of the closet to say:
And there it is.

How'd you do that without dithering?

Apr 30, 2004: 15:27

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Refugee

Joined: Apr 08, 2004

Image won't load.

Apr 30, 2004: 15:27

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

peer

Joined: Jan 17, 2004

Resetter of Connections

I've been following this thread since the beginning, but haven't posted until now. Absolutely incredible. This will live on forever.

Apr 30, 2004: 15:28

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

ultralazOr

Joined: Feb 24, 2003

quote:

Starbucks came out of the closet to say:

helo telephone number!

Apr 30, 2004: 15:31

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Scenix

Joined: Sep 18, 2002

Apr 30, 2004: 15:31

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Accipiter

Joined: Jan 24, 2004

Pop it, D-Man!

quote:

Shii came out of the closet to say:
How'd you do that without dithering?

I didn't. Floyd-Steinberg dithering with an optimal color palette.

Apr 30, 2004: 15:34

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

EditQuote

noddy1190

Joined: Feb 20, 2003

quote:

Scenix came out of the closet to say:
bbbarbers.jpg

LOLOLO

Apr 30, 2004: 15:35

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Refugee

Joined: Apr 08, 2004

quote:

Accipiter came out of the closet to say:

And there it is.

I can't get that image to load 🙄

Apr 30, 2004: 15:41

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

pw3n

Joined: Mar 06, 2003

It would be great if someone registered p-p-p-powerbook.com or some variant and wrote out the story or put up thread mirrors there once this is over for the sake of preserving and sharing awesome internet history.

Apr 30, 2004: 15:43

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

neato burrito

Joined: Aug 25, 2002

i brought chex mix

quote:

Refugee came out of the closet to say:

I can't get that image to load 🙄

It's goddamned hilarious. You are missing out.

Apr 30, 2004: 15:48

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

Ok. I am getting impatient. I want confirmation.

Email sent.

Hello!

Today is the 3rd day so you should be getting your new laptop!

I saw on the FedEx site and it is delayed! Does that mean it is still waiting to be delivered? I don't know what time it is there, but I hope it gets there today. Or did you get it and FedEx just didn't update their web page? Sorry, I don't send things with FedEx often. I usually just use first class us mail.

Did you pay for the taxes? How much did you end up paying? I am sorry again for that. I didn't mean to cost you extra money. But like I said in my other email, we can work it out.

|                                                                                                                                                                                          |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                                            |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------|
|                                                                                                                                                                                          | How long will the 'ok' process take? I am eager to receive payment! Thank you! Jeff                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                            |
| Apr 30, 2004: 15:49                                                                                                                                                               | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                          | Edit Quote |
| TheChaplainJoined: Apr 22, 2002  God is just the start of your problems, neh? | edit - MOMENTS! DAMN YOU JEFF! If we're concerned about this dude just being some sort of middle-man maybe Jeff should encourage him to open the package if there's no confirmation by the usual 6pm time. Hello sir, did you recieve package? I want to make sure customs stole nothing could you open and see? |                                            |
| Apr 30, 2004: 15:50                                                                                                                                                               | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                          | Edit Quote |
| FistgrrlJoined: Dec 30, 2000  Queen of Cuddlenaps                      | quote: <hr/> Starbucks came out of the closet to say: i am in a internet cafe with access to memory stick facilities, expect pictures and perhaps video in a few minutes!! (possibly 10) Can a mod post my IP history for the last day, I think it would be pretty insane <hr/>             |                                            |
| Apr 30, 2004: 15:51                                                                                                                                                               | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | Edit Quote |

rhig

Joined: Jul 14, 2002

bitches can't hide from this

I'm back at an internet cafe in central london, I didn't get to the cafe till just before 11 but i was there during the pickup, the barber was right next to me the whole time so I couldnt get a picture of the van which sucks because I was pretty much right next to it and I missed a possible high quality video of the delivery. I don't have any pictures which cover anything already shown but I have one of the guy through the shop window from a cafe across the street, if i can enhance it to get a viewable image of him I will - it looks bad on the LCD but it might be ok on a monitor if enlarged.

After the others left I stayed behind for an hour and a half incase the buyer came to pick up the laptop but it didn't leave the ship while I was there. I don't think the barber is the guy getting it in the end. He offers post boxes within the address for £8.99 a month and was getting other deliveries today he also seems a bit dense, I don't think he could pull of a scam as well as this was done.

Apr 30, 2004: 15:54

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

maus

Joined: Jul 25, 2003

Amigos! Look! It is El Macho...
The Thief of Hearts!!

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:

Email sent.

Oh, man, I hadn't checked this thread since 11:00pm CST last night. Thread delivers and then some.

Apr 30, 2004: 15:55

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

fourwood

Joined: Sep 09, 2001

Damn I'll bring them to their knees.

Wow. Waking up today was one of the best things I've ever done. This thread is the greatest thing ever created by man.

I'm sad the barber didn't open it. 😞

fourwood fucked around with this message at Apr 30, 2004 around 16:00

Apr 30, 2004: 15:58

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Otokodate

Joined: Jan 15, 2004

All your nuts are belong to me

quote:

rhig came out of the closet to say:

I don't think the barber is the guy getting it in the end.

We hope it's the scammer who gets it in the end. [REDACTED]

Apr 30, 2004: 16:03

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

filo

Joined: Jan 27, 2004

quote:

filo came out of the closet to say:

I suggest you play his game and then in the end say something like "We have contacted the appropriate authorities and have alerted them to your activities. Have a good day."

Suggested this early in the thread and I still think this needs to be done for the GLORIOUS conclusion. I don't expect the romanian to reply to your latest emails now that he thinks he has the goods. He might reply to something more forceful along these lines. Perhaps we really should go ahead and involve some sort of law enforcement so they can take action against these P-P-P-Powerbook smugglers.

Apr 30, 2004: 16:04

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Disciple

Joined: Oct 07, 2002

This space for rent

Just spent the past couple hours reading the majority of this thread. The Goons abilities never cease to amaze me.

Apr 30, 2004: 16:04

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

swiss

Joined: Jan 29, 2004

quote:

Accipiter came out of the closet to say:

And there it is.

I can't get it to open either. Can someone mirror please?

In any case, it now looks like the barber is just a dumb middleman who simply accepts packages on behalf of other people. I wonder if it might be an idea to let him know that the package is for a scammer. I'm sure he wouldn't take too kindly to being used in such a manner, and might help our cause.

Incidentally, has the package left the barber shop yet? Is the place still being staked out?

Apr 30, 2004: 16:06

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Gizmo_Gun

Joined: Mar 21, 2004

Pow! Bang! Smack! Kablooey!

quote:

filo came out of the closet to say:

Suggested this early in the thread and I still think this needs to be done for the GLORIOUS conclusion. I don't expect the romanian to reply to your latest emails now that he thinks he has the goods. He might reply to something more forceful along these lines. Perhaps we really should go ahead and involve some sort of law enforcement so they can take action against these P-P-P-Powerbook smugglers.

I agree. I think someone needs to call the barber shop and say, "Thank you for receiving smuggled goods, the authorities have been contacted."

Freak him out and make him open all of the packages.

Apr 30, 2004: 16:06

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

solorca

Joined: Mar 29, 2004

quote:

rhig came out of the closet to say:

He offers post boxes within the address for £8.99 a month and was getting other deliveries today he also seems a bit dense, I don't think he could pull off a scam as well as this was done.

That explains everything. He chose a random post box, and probably picks up once a week. I think our guy is going to be hard to track.

Apr 30, 2004: 16:06

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Graviton

Joined: Jun 09, 2002

Baby, this is gonna hurt me more than it hurts you.

Being bored on a friday afternoon with little work to do I phoned the number. Conversation went a like this:

Me - Alright, mate of mine told me you rent out post-boxes at your place?

Him - Yeah

Me - Hows that work then?

Him - Who are you?

Me - Paul

Him - OK, so you want post box?

Me - Yeah, hows that work? How much?

Him - Where are you?

Me - Hackney

Him - Well you come down here and we talk about it ok?

Me - OK, later.

Apr 30, 2004: 16:08

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

ewiley

Joined: Jul 09, 2003

I am constantly bored.

"mirriored" at imagehack

<http://img9.imageshack.us/my.php?lo...image=shop3.gif>

Apr 30, 2004: 16:09

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

ElwoodCuse

Joined: Jan 11, 2004

Boxing's been good to me,
Howard

quote:

---

rhig came out of the closet to say:

I don't have any pictures which cover anything already shown but I have one of the guy through the shop window from a cafe across the street, if i can enhance it to get a viewable image of him I will - it looks bad on the LCD but it might be ok on a monitor if enlarged.

---

zoom in --> ENHANCE

zoom in --> ENHANCE

zoom in --> ENHANCE

"We've got him now!"

Apr 30, 2004: 16:09

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

solorca

Joined: Mar 29, 2004

quote:

Graviton came out of the closet to say:

Being bored on a friday afternoon with little work to do I phoned the number. Conversation went a like this:

Me - Alright, mate of mine told me you rent out post-boxes at your place?

Him - Yeah

Me - Hows that work then?

Him - Who are you?

Me - Paul

Him - OK, so you want post box?

Me - Yeah, hows that work? How much?

Him - Where are you?

Me - Hackney

Him - Well you come down here and we talk about it ok?

Me - OK, later.

Sounds like he is well aware that it is for illegal purposes.

Apr 30, 2004: 16:09

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

karmaflux

Joined: Feb 26, 2004

OMG WATCH OUT FOR TEH
CUCUMBERS!!@$!1

quote:

solorca came out of the closet to say:

That explains everything. He chose a random post box, and probably picks up once a week. I think our guy is going to be hard to track.

If I weren't a continent away, I would quit my job and spend every waking moment waiting for that fucker to come get his three-ring binder. He's got to show up sometime, especially with Jeff poking at him about it.

Apr 30, 2004: 16:11

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

esky
Joined: Apr 15, 2003

quote:

---

solorca came out of the closet to say:
That explains everything. He chose a random post box, and probably picks up once a week. I think our guy is going to be hard to track.

---

- The only options now are:
- a) people take shifts outside the cafe until somebody comes and picks up the laptop box, at which point they tail them to the new location
  - b) someone tricks/bribes the barber into telling us who has that mailbox for the laptop

Apr 30, 2004: 16:11

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts Edit Quote

Upuaut
Joined: Jan 16, 2003

Proconsul to you mate...

Accipiter's image mirrored :

Upuaut fucked around with this message at Apr 30, 2004 around 17:16

|                                                                            |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Apr 30, 2004: 16:12                                                        | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| HojoJoined: Dec 10, 2003Hey Goons, goon me a goon goon? | I say everyone sit tight and let this thing play out naturally with as little extra Goon interference as possible. Don't play your hand too soon guys, be patient. 😊 Have to add: This is probably the most amazing thing I've ever read on the internet. Apr 30, 2004: 16:12 User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote |

Lazee

Joined: Feb 23, 2004

He-Pimp

Surveillance Camera

Someone mentioned that you could buy footage taken from security cameras?

Unless that camera is owned privately perhaps this would be possible?

Sucks how it's pointing AWAY from the entrance to the barbers, though.

Lazee fucked around with this message at Apr 30, 2004 around 16:18

Apr 30, 2004: 16:15

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

rhig
Joined: Jul 14, 2002

bitches can't hide from this

quote:

---

swiss came out of the closet to say:
I can't get it to open either. Can someone mirror please?

In any case, it now looks like the barber is just a dumb middleman who simply accepts packages on behalf of other people. I wonder if it might be an idea to let him know that the package is for a scammer. I'm sure he wouldn't take too kindly to being used in such a manner, and might help our cause.

Incidentally, has the package left the barber shop yet? Is the place still being staked out?

---

Noone was left after I went about 2:30, if he picks it up now there will be no pictures. I think the only fun left is to wait to see if the scammer sends an email or to have fun with the info we have. Unless we threaten to tell the police or something or somehow scam this guy again.

It could have gone before 2:30 if it went out the back too, I could only cover the front entrance but its unlikely he went through the back. The customers who seemed to know him all used the front door.

Apr 30, 2004: 16:15

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

FrozenEntree
Joined: Jun 11, 2001

God helped me fuck over my creditors so I can continue spending like the selfish dumbfuck I am! Blessed are the spendthrift, my ass! Hallelujah! Praise to Jesus!

quote:

---

solorca came out of the closet to say:

Sounds like he is well aware that it is for illegal purposes.

---

We totally need to play this shopkeep then.

Goon: Hello, I am the one who called about the "post box" (action of quotations being made with fingers.)
Shopkeep: I remember, what do you need it for?
Goon: Some "friends" and I like to ship each other "stuffed animals" that are very valuable. It's a "hobby" of ours.
Shopkeep: How valuable are these "stuffed animals?"
Goon: Valuable enough to pay extra for "safe storage."

This could be prank extension ++

Apr 30, 2004: 16:16

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

|                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| wargasmJoined: Mar 04, 2004[M] village drunkard                                                                                                  | delivery confirmed for awesomest thread of the year! worth every penny, would scam again A+++++++!!!1111                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| Apr 30, 2004: 16:16                                                                                                                                          | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| rhigJoined: Jul 14, 2002bitches can't hide from this        | quote: <hr/> Lazee came out of the closet to say: <input type="checkbox"/> Someone mentioned that you could buy footage taken from security cameras? Unless that camera is owned privately perhaps this would be possible? Sucks how it's pointing AWAY from the entrance to the barbers, though. <hr/> It would have to be requested by one of the three of us who will be on the tape I think and any of us going back is not really a good idea. I think the guy was getting suspicious the last couple of time I saw him, we were in and out a lot. |
| Apr 30, 2004: 16:18                                                                                                                                          | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| noddy1190Joined: Feb 20, 2003                                  | So to recap, the current thinking is that the barber is just being used as a drop off point and the actual scammer is most likely a Romanian with connections in American Interior Design circles?                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| Apr 30, 2004: 16:18                                                                                                                                          | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| Gizmo_GunJoined: Mar 21, 2004Pow! Bang! Smack! Kablooeey! | What if we could blackmail or threaten to blackmail the owner for information of the guy who the package was sent to? "Hello, it has come to our attention that you signed for some carefully hidden contraband. This will ultimately fall on your shoulders unless you give us info regarding _____." We could then send video of the FedEx guy to him somehow. via mail or whatever.                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| Apr 30, 2004: 16:19                                                                                                                                          | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |

|                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| DvlosJoined: Aug 26, 2003 I usually don't eat my poo, but this sprayed everywhere. | I can't believe I missed this goodness I have read pages 1-33, then skipped to the end and glad to know it HAS NOT ARRIVED. I am not on the "Can't wait to see what he does" anticipation bandwagon. EDit: VVVV I will, but I have to leave the office for a while VVVVVV Dvlos fucked around with this message at Apr 30, 2004 around 16:22                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| Apr 30, 2004: 16:19                                                                                                                                                                                 | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| PhalexJoined: May 14, 2002                                                              | You should blackmail him now, saying that he has to send you $2200USD or you'll report his Barbershop address. Then ship him a box with the value declared as $2200, and all it has in it is a piece of paper that says "Your Freedom" edit: Arg, can't spell when I stay up all night Edit: quote: <hr/> Dvlos came out of the closet to say:I can't believe I missed this goodness I have read pages 1-33, then skipped to the end and glad to know it HAS NOT ARRIVED. I am not on the "Can't wait to see what he does" anticipation bandwagon. <hr/> Read more of it. Phalex fucked around with this message at Apr 30, 2004 around 16:50 |
| Apr 30, 2004: 16:19                                                                                                                                                                                 | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| cunnelatioJoined: Aug 08, 2002 I'M A HUGE FAGGOT                                                                                                                  | How close are you guys to tracking down the scammer? I haven't checked this thread for maybe 2 days and it went from 6 pages to 45.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| Apr 30, 2004: 16:20                                                                                                                                                                                 | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |

Blaise

Joined: Sep 10, 2003

Calculated Karma

quote:

---

FrozenEntree came out of the closet to say:

We totally need to play this shopkeep then.

Goon: Hello, I am the one who called about the "post box" (action of quotations being made with fingers.)

Shopkeep: I remember, what do you need it for?

Goon: Some "friends" and I like to ship each other "stuffed animals" that are very valuable. It's a "hobby" of ours.

Shopkeep: How valuable are these "stuffed animals?"

Goon: Valuable enough to pay extra for "safe storage."

This could be prank extension + +

---

Oh man. Version 2.0 may be golden as well.

Apr 30, 2004: 16:21

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

karmaflux

Joined: Feb 26, 2004

OMG WATCH OUT FOR TEH CUCUMBERS!!@$!1

quote:

---

noddy1190 came out of the closet to say:

So to recap, the current thinking is that the barber is just being used as a drop off point and the actual scammer is most likely a Romanian with connections in American Interior Design circles?

---

I know Elmore Leonard is reading this thread and scribbling furiously. Somewhere.

Apr 30, 2004: 16:22

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Blaise

Joined: Sep 10, 2003

Calculated Karma

quote:

cunnelatio came out of the closet to say:

How close are you guys to tracking down the scammer? I haven't checked this thread for maybe 2 days and it went from 6 pages to 45.

Read it, asstard, that's not a simple question. It's complicated.

Apr 30, 2004: 16:22

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

rhig

Joined: Jul 14, 2002

bitches can't hide from this

quote:

cunnelatio came out of the closet to say:

How close are you guys to tracking down the scammer? I haven't checked this thread for maybe 2 days and it went from 6 pages to 45.

Without another attempt I doubt we can get any more done, especially seeing as this guy will probably realise he should get a new PO box.

Edit: Even if we could send him something else I think we would need at least 10 goons to cover the shops entrances/exits for a day. If the guy doesn't close his PO box which is possible we may be able to send him a new parcel which he might pick up. It will also only be possible if the guy uses a different name to the barbers to have his parcels sent to, we got the initials the barber used to sign for the parcel today but I don't remember them, I think Starbucks might have them. If the name the powerbook was sent to is different there may be a chance it would work.

rhig fucked around with this message at Apr 30, 2004 around 16:26

Apr 30, 2004: 16:22

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

RSPsych0

Joined: May 22, 2002

Anyone seen Super Joe?

Is that a Daewoo in the front of that place? God those were awful.

Apr 30, 2004: 16:23

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

The foster

Joined: Jun 22, 2003

Just because I'm not born yet, doesn't mean I won't slap you in the nuts

quote:

Starbucks came out of the closet to say:...

Looks like your hosting is down....mirrors anyone?

Apr 30, 2004: 16:26

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

fourwood

Joined: Sep 09, 2001

Damn I'll bring them to their knees.

We needed a tracking device in the P-P-P-POWERBOOK's box.

Apr 30, 2004: 16:27

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

cunnelatio

Joined: Aug 08, 2002

I'M A HUGE FAGGOT

quote:

rhig came out of the closet to say:

Without another attempt I doubt we can get any more done, especially seeing as this guy will probably realise he should get a new PO box.

It's pretty much a dead end anyway. From what I've read this type of scam is pretty common, so the best thing would probably be attempting to educate people on how to spot scams like this.

quote:

Blaise came out of the closet to say:

Read it, asstard, that's not a simple question. It's complicated.

Yeah, I'll just go ahead and spend the better part of the day catching up on this thread. 😊

Apr 30, 2004: 16:27

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| FistgrrlJoined: Dec 30, 2000Queen of Cuddlenaps quote:cunnelatio came out of the closet to say:Yeah, I'll just go ahead and spend the better part of the day catching up on this thread. 😏Your title is fitting. Get the fuck out of this thread.                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| Apr 30, 2004: 16:28LandslideJoined: Sep 02, 2003 User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| Apr 30, 2004: 16:29BlaiseJoined: Sep 10, 2003Calculated Karma quote:fourwood came out of the closet to say:We needed a tracking device in the P-P-P-POWERBOOK's box.How would we track it? Is there a cheap &amp; small device that would be trackable via GPS? Links? User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More PostsEditQuote |

rhig
Joined: Jul 14, 2002

bitches can't hide from this

quote:

---

cunnelatio came out of the closet to say:

It's pretty much a dead end anyway. From what I've read this type of scam is pretty common, so the best thing would probably be attempting to educate people on how to spot scams like this.

Yeah, I'll just go ahead and spend the better part of the day catching up on this thread. 😊

---

Your probably right and a failed attempt would suck if he didnt fall for it.

It should be up to Jeff but it might be worthwhile informing the police over here in a few days once we know its dead. Theres a lot of random info they might be able to use, the proxy IPs, mail box etc and it would completely pis off the barber, he was ranting about the police all the time till his powerbook came. I'm off home anyway, I should be back for 11 😊

Apr 30, 2004: 16:32

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Berto2112
Joined: Oct 02, 2003

Can I get a hell yeah?

I AM at work and I AM sitting here refreshing the page.... 😊

Apr 30, 2004: 16:33

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Blaise

Joined: Sep 10, 2003

Calculated Karma

quote:

Fistgrl came out of the closet to say:

Your title is fitting. Get the fuck out of this thread.

I got a few to register and lurk the boards just by telling them that it was awesome based on this thread, then they didn't understand it was funny.

Go figure, they wanted cliffnotes.

Apr 30, 2004: 16:33

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Wandering Idiot

Joined: Jul 22, 2003

I Suffer From Mild Retarderations

I'm glad it's about 12:30am right now where I am, I can just sit up all night and watch this go down in history.

Jeff is a true American 🇺🇸😊

Brits, outstanding work. I have a new found respect for you lads across the pond.

Apr 30, 2004: 16:33

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

swiss

Joined: Jan 29, 2004

quote:

Blaise came out of the closet to say:

How would we track it? Is there a cheap & small device that would be trackable via GPS?
Links?

Even if there was such a product available that we could track, there is still the problem of putting it either into the box, or in an inconspicuous location on the box. Given that the barber is already suspicious of our London operatives, I doubt he'd let them anywhere near that package, and would probably watch them like hawks.

Apr 30, 2004: 16:34

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

|                                                                                                                                                     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| DartJoined: Nov 24, 2003                                                                                                                 | Damn me and my college, I really wanted to be there... oh well, I guess important revision notes for my A2s would be a little stupid to miss, even for this awesomeness. Great job, those who made it.                                                                                                                                                                   |
| Apr 30, 2004: 16:38                                                                                                                          | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| hellocruelworldJoined: Feb 28, 2003                                                                                                      | Boy does this thread deliver. I eagerly await the scammers'(as speculated it could be a ring of scammers) response. But yeah...the UK fellows should continue to fuck with the Barbershop guy by phoning him...man this could go on for a little while. That would be great if we could find out exactly who the Romanian is.                                                   |
| Dude, I See God!                                               |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| Apr 30, 2004: 16:42                                                                                                                          | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| Dr.SchadenFreudJoined: Jul 16, 2003                                                                                                      | quote: <hr/> Phalex came out of the closet to say:You should blackmail him now, saying that he has to send you $2200USD or you'll report his Barbershop address. Then ship him a box with the value declared as $2200, and all it has in it is a piece of paper that says "You're Freedom" Edit: Read more of it. <hr/> |
| I'm going to have to give you some of my "special medicine..." | Erm, might try that as, "your freedom."                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| Apr 30, 2004: 16:43                                                                                                                          | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

I HAVE BAD NEWS.

The ringer was not delivered. I just called FedEx. It was never paid for. Probably because the jack ass gave me a bunk phone number.

I got transferred to the International Rep but hung up before I got to them. 😞

Apr 30, 2004: 16:43

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

KiwiBoi

Joined: Mar 13, 2004

^^^ oh poop 🍌

Can anyone tell me what codec movie1.wmv & movie2.wmv from a few pages back are in? WMP9 on OS X not likey 😞 Or, does anyone have them in a more platform neutral format? cheers.

KiwiBoi fucked around with this message at Apr 30, 2004 around 16:48

Apr 30, 2004: 16:44

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Dr.SchadenFreud

Joined: Jul 16, 2003

I'm going to have to give you some of my "special medicine..."

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:

I HAVE BAD NEWS.

The ringer was not delivered. I just called FedEx. It was never paid for. Probably because the jack ass gave me a bunk phone number.

I got transferred to the International Rep but hung up before I got to them. 😞

MyNameIsJeff, I thought you were able to ID the box from the video?

edit: What kind of fucking *idiot* would scam a Powerbook all the way to the U.K. and then fail to pay the duties? The notebook would be the deal of the century, even after having to pay the fees.

Dr.SchadenFreud fucked around with this message at Apr 30, 2004 around 16:47

Apr 30, 2004: 16:45

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

baka kaba

Joined: Jul 19, 2003

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:

I HAVE BAD NEWS.

The ringer was not delivered. I just called FedEx. It was never paid for. Probably because the jack ass gave me a bunk phone number.

I got transferred to the International Rep but hung up before I got to them. ☹️

So where is it now? They just hold it until someone calls and gives them a real phone number?

Apr 30, 2004: 16:45

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Lazee

Joined: Feb 23, 2004

He-Pimp

MIRRORED for starbucks

<http://www.theheights.sa.edu.au/hom...er/DSC00561.JPG>

<http://www.theheights.sa.edu.au/hom...er/DSC00567.JPG>

<http://www.theheights.sa.edu.au/hom...er/DSC00568.JPG>

<http://www.theheights.sa.edu.au/hom...er/DSC00569.JPG>

<http://www.theheights.sa.edu.au/hom...er/DSC00570.JPG>

<http://www.theheights.sa.edu.au/hom...er/DSC00572.JPG>

<http://www.theheights.sa.edu.au/hom...er/DSC00573.JPG>

<http://www.theheights.sa.edu.au/hom...er/DSC00574.JPG>

<http://www.theheights.sa.edu.au/hom...er/DSC00575.JPG>

<http://www.theheights.sa.edu.au/hom...er/DSC00576.JPG>

<http://www.theheights.sa.edu.au/hom...er/DSC00579.JPG>

<http://www.theheights.sa.edu.au/hom...er/DSC00581.JPG>

<http://www.theheights.sa.edu.au/hom...er/DSC00589.JPG>

<http://www.theheights.sa.edu.au/hom...er/DSC00591.JPG>

<http://www.theheights.sa.edu.au/hom...er/DSC00592.JPG>

<http://www.theheights.sa.edu.au/home/dpedler/movie1.WMV>

<http://www.theheights.sa.edu.au/home/dpedler/movie2.WMV>

Lazee fucked around with this message at Apr 30, 2004 around 16:52

Apr 30, 2004: 16:47

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Chewie

Joined: Jul 24, 2003

quote:

Dr.SchadenFreud came out of the closet to say:

MyNameIsJeff, I thought you were able to ID the box from the video?

maybe another laptop from someone else they're scamming?? the video wasn't particularly high-res so i can see why he might mistake it, but strange that it was the right size on the right day and all

edit: it would've been funny if the guy DID open it on camera with goons all over the world watching, and a real powerbook was inside. delay of goon justice, but still a funny situation

Chewie fucked around with this message at Apr 30, 2004 around 16:50

Apr 30, 2004: 16:48

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Skrewloose

Joined: Feb 11, 2002

TICK TOCK

quote:

Dr.SchadenFreud came out of the closet to say:

MyNameIsJeff, I thought you were able to ID the box from the video?

It's just a box, it probably looked pretty close to his, but it IS just a box, after all.

Apr 30, 2004: 16:48

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Biter

Joined: Apr 05, 2004

Once is never enough

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:

I HAVE BAD NEWS.

The ringer was not delivered. I just called FedEx. It was never paid for. Probably because the jack ass gave me a bunk phone number.

I got transferred to the International Rep but hung up before I got to them. ☹

|                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                                                                                                                                       | Crap 😞 looks like the game is off, then. Try to keep in touch via emails, but if nothing happens, I guess it's time to just turn him in (or bully the barber into turning over his information). If I lived in London, I would be up for a bit of bribery / forced persuasion to get the barber to release some info.                                                                                                                  |
| Apr 30, 2004: 16:48                                                                                                                   | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| noddy1190Joined: Feb 20, 2003         | FUCK. The ball is in the scammers court.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| Apr 30, 2004: 16:48                                                                                                                   | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| nic0Joined: Dec 28, 2003              | quote: <hr/> baka kaba came out of the closet to say: So where is it now? They just hold it until someone calls and gives them a real phone number? <hr/> They'll try the number a few times, but eventually I think they mail out an invoice. He may or may not pick that up at the same drop box, pay the bill, and get the package delivered. That's gonna take a while to happen, in any event. |
| Apr 30, 2004: 16:49                                                                                                                   | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| Dr.SchadenFreudJoined: Jul 16, 2003 | I think MyNameIsJeff needs to send an indignant email to Gianluca, demanding to know why he hasn't paid the charges!                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| Apr 30, 2004: 16:49                                                                                                                   | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |

Dvlos

Joined: Aug 26, 2003

I usually don't eat my poo, but this sprayed everywhere.

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:

I HAVE BAD NEWS.

The ringer was not delivered. I just called FedEx. It was never paid for. Probably because the jack ass gave me a bunk phone number.

I got transferred to the International Rep but hung up before I got to them. 😞

Time for another e-mail, this time tell him how the shipment has been delayed, that you really need this transfer to go through because the $2,200 payment is desperately needed. Tell him you crashed your Vespa scooter into the front door of your house. A small fire ensued, and your oriental rug, Xbox, TV, Gameboy, and Roots DVD collection were destroyed in the fire before you regained consciousness and put it out. You've been using Whirlpool refrigerator box as a door, with a small cut-out opening for deliveries. You're girlfriend is going to leave you unless you get a real door and replace the Roots DVD collection. Also tell him you're going to call the FBI if he doesn't move on this, if he doesn't call FedeX and give them a real phone number.

Send him a picture of you sobbing pitifully, wearing a Scooby Doo T-shirt, and silk boxers.

Apr 30, 2004: 16:50

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Gizmo_Gun

Joined: Mar 21, 2004

Pow! Bang! Smack! Kablooeey!

FUCK.

That probably means he's going to try and pick it up from FedEx or he's going to contact them someway and get the package.

Shit. What can we do? Maybe tip off FedEx and tell them that he's scamming?

Apr 30, 2004: 16:50

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Aeolius

Joined: Jul 16, 2003

Über Lord of Time and Space

That lazy fucker. Couldn't even be bothered to pay pennies for stolen goods. I agree that an indignant email is in order.

I've been following this thread since its inception, and I would just like to say that I'm proud to be here, and I'm proud of everyone involved in this.

RESPECT (of a total stranger on the internet) + +

Apr 30, 2004: 16:52

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Dr.SchadenFreud

Joined: Jul 16, 2003

I'm going to have to give you some of my "special medicine..."

quote:

Gizmo_Gun came out of the closet to say:
FUCK.

That probably means he's going to try and pick it up from FedEx or he's going to contact them someday and get the package.

Shit. What can we do? Maybe tip off FedEx and tell them that he's scamming?

FedEx won't care. Fuck it, let him pick it up. He'll have to show ID if it's under a fake name. Regardless, he has to provide some method (stolen or not) of paying the duties. Let him go through all that trouble only to find that he has received a...P-P-P-P-P-PowerBook!

Apr 30, 2004: 16:52

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

quote:

Dr.SchadenFreud came out of the closet to say:

MyNameIsJeff, I thought you were able to ID the box from the video?

edit: What kind of fucking *idiot* would scam a Powerbook all the way to the U.K. and then fail to pay the duties? The notebook would be the deal of the century, even after having to pay the fees.

Well, I was wrong. . . It doesn't make sense.

I'm too afraid to talk to the FedEx people about it. What do I say? The guy gave me a bunk phone number?

Anyone brave enough to call?

Apr 30, 2004: 16:52

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Gizmo_Gun

Joined: Mar 21, 2004

Pow! Bang! Smack! Kablooeey!

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:

Well, I was wrong. . . It doesn't make sense.

I'm too afraid to talk to the FedEx people about it. What do I say? The guy gave me a bunk phone number?

Anyone brave enough to call?

I'll do it.

Apr 30, 2004: 16:54

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

RSPsych0

Joined: May 22, 2002

Anyone seen Super Joe?

quote:

Dr.SchadenFreud came out of the closet to say:

I think MyNameIsJeff needs to send an indignant email to Gianluca, demanding to know why he hasn't paid the charges!

Yeah, after all he already fronted the money for shipping and now the laptop is stuck in England.

Then again, these scammers aren't complete morons. I'm sure that as soon as they sense anything is wrong in the least, they just back away. The escrow site went down and had tons of referrers from here, not to mention the fake sales posted.

Then it got reported as a fake escrow site.

It'd be better to forget that one laptop and lay low for a bit, then try your scam again when the heat is off than it would be to risk anything.

EDIT: And I forgot all the morons who called the guy's cell phone.

Apr 30, 2004: 16:54

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

smitz
Joined: Nov 05, 2003

quote:

---

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:

Well, I was wrong. . . It doesn't make sense.
I'm too afraid to talk to the FedEx people about it. What do I say? The guy gave me a bunk phone number?

Anyone brave enough to call?

---

Noooooooooooo! Well I had fun 😊

Apr 30, 2004: 16:54

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit Quote

chizarlie
Joined: Oct 12, 2003

For shizzle

Just one person call. Too many will definitely make them think something is up.

Apr 30, 2004: 16:54

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit Quote

fuckingtest
Joined: Mar 31, 2001

We can rebuild him. but I don't wanna spend alot of money.

quote:

---

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:

I HAVE BAD NEWS.

The ringer was not delivered. I just called FedEx. It was never paid for. Probably because the jack ass gave me a bunk phone number.

I got transferred to the International Rep but hung up before I got to them. 😞

---

SHIT. TEAMS 4,5,6 PULL OUT...WE HAVE BEEN COMPROMISED, REPEAT WE HAVE BEEN COMPROMISED!

|                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                                                                                                                       | That sucks man, so what are you going to do know? Email the scammer and see what the deallie is? Have fedEx return it to you and pay the difference? Re-ship it to this fellow as a gift? Im down for $10 bux if you owe any fees man, since I never got you the title I mentioned. Im sure if you owe anyone money you could get it back from everyone who enjoyed this thread. |
| Apr 30, 2004: 16:54                                                                                            | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| burntoutjoyJoined: Jul 21, 2003                                                                            | hehehe: http://www.theregister.co.uk/2004/04/30/scam_of_t_net/ Amazing thread! This is what the power of the goons should be used for - not ruining some poor guy's life (idiot or not), but legally served justice. Respect to all involved 😊🇺🇸🇬🇧                                                    |
| Lemons Through the Time Tunnel!! |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| Apr 30, 2004: 16:55                                                                                            | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| MyNameIsJeffJoined: Dec 05, 2003                                                                           | quote: <hr/> Gizmo_Gun came out of the closet to say: I'll do it. <hr/>                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
| P-P-P-Powerbook.com!            | Good man.1.800.Go.FedEx(1.800.463.3339) If you go to technical support, there is a rep option. My last name is Harris just incase they askit came from 826 so. 22nd pl #a mount vernon wa 98273 Edit - One thing I don't get is, he has to have done this before. Sometihng this big, international requires a phone number to receive!       |
| Apr 30, 2004: 16:56                                                                                            | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                   |

type-Retard

Joined: Oct 26, 2002

Fed Ex is obviously in on this. This thing goes all the way to the top!!!

Apr 30, 2004: 16:56

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Dvlos

Joined: Aug 26, 2003

I usually don't eat my poo, but this sprayed everywhere.

quote:

Gizmo_Gun came out of the closet to say:

Shit. What can we do? Maybe tip off FedEx and tell them that he's scamming?

I don't think so, seriously he probably did this to cover his tracks, he's not going to give Jeff his real phone number and start getting threatening phone calls. He's probably planning on going to FedEx in person, with an ID with an old address, and paying for it in cash. The P.O. Box in the Barber's is probably not even legit, if all his international Ebay scams are done this way, this is probably his M.O. all the time. Any UK goon that's ever wanted to be a spy, infiltrate the FedEx office that package is in, and await someone asking for that tracking number, then trail him back to his real house.

Sit outside his door, when you hear "OH MY GOD THAT ASSHOLE!" Crash the door down, take a picture, and yell "That's what we call Goonvenge!!!"

Apr 30, 2004: 16:56

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Gizmo_Gun

Joined: Mar 21, 2004

Pow! Bang! Smack! Kablooey!

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:

Good man.

1.800.Go.FedEx
(1.800.463.3339)

If you go to technical support, there is a rep option.

My last name is Harris

just incase they ask it came from 826 so. 22nd pl #a mount vernon wa 98273

|                                                                                                                                     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                            |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------|
|                                                                                                                                     | PM me with your number. I want to clear details w/you first.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                            |
| Apr 30, 2004: 16:56                                                                                                          | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | Edit Quote |
| OctoberJoined: Jul 10, 2001Read the FAQ at the top of the page next time, jerky!                          | quote: <hr/> type-Retard came out of the closet to say:Fed Ex is obviously in on this. This thing goes all the way to the top!!! <hr/> Quick, somebody tell Bush and we'll invade London!                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                            |
| Apr 30, 2004: 16:56                                                                                                          | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | Edit Quote |
| Ridgely_FanJoined: Aug 02, 2003 | quote: <hr/> MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say: Well, I was wrong. . . It doesn't make sense.I'm too afraid to talk to the FedEx people about it. What do I say? The guy gave me a bunk phone number? Anyone brave enough to call? <hr/> No don't try to get FEDEX to deliver it without having the duties paid. That would ruin the best part of the plan. I think it's better to just wait. There's a chance the guy will never show to get the thing because he can't front the cash, but it still leaves us a shot at having the prank work out in full force. Calling FEDEX is admitting defeat and giving up on all the well-laid (well, reasonable well-laid) plans. I think at most the action to be taken would be to e-mail the guy to try to get him to hurry his ass up. But definitely no more. |                                            |
| Apr 30, 2004: 16:57                                                                                                          | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | Edit Quote |

Aeolius

Joined: Jul 16, 2003

Über Lord of Time and Space

quote:

fuckingtest came out of the closet to say:

That sucks man, so what are you going to do know? Email the scammer and see what the deallie is? Have fedEx return it to you and pay the difference? Re-ship it to this fellow as a gift?

Im down for $10 bux if you owe any fees man, since I never got you the title I mentioned. Im sure if you owe anyone money you could get it back from everyone who enjoyed this thread.

I'll throw down, too. If he's really running away with his tail between his legs, I'm sure you could get a good auction going for the P-P-P-Powerbook among the goon community. I know I want it.

Apr 30, 2004: 16:57

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Frog Vomit

Joined: Jul 11, 2001

quote:

type-Retard came out of the closet to say:

Fed Ex is obviously in on this. This thing goes all the way to the top!!!

I think you scammed me out of that Big Green Egg you were supposed to FedEx to me.

Apr 30, 2004: 17:01

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Shifter Car

Joined: Apr 19, 2004

Have you ever heard of a luxury car? You know what luxury means? Have you ever heard of Cadillac? Cadillac Eldorado? That's what I drive. I drive cars that sh

Why not call him and invite him to dinner.
Go to the restaurant early.
Wait for him in the parking lot.
Rush him and shoot him in his fucking face.
Drag the body back to his house.
Leave bleeding corpse on doorstep.
Write a note reading:
"A+! Great shipping, a pleasure to deal with! Would buy from again!!! Thanx!!!!!"
Nail it to his forehead.
Urinate on the front door.
Throw bottle filled with gasoline, topped with flaming rag thru window.
Flee to Mexico.
Simple.

Apr 30, 2004: 17:02

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

quote:

Aeolius came out of the closet to say:

I'll throw down, too. If he's really running away with his tail between his legs, I'm sure you could get a good auction going for the P-P-P-Powerbook among the goon community. I know I want it.

The lady at the "Everett Pack Man" said that if it is rejected it will cost money to have it shipped back. I think she said she would be billed, then I would pay her to get it back.

Apr 30, 2004: 17:02

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Lazee

Joined: Feb 23, 2004

He-Pimp

Going to sleep now will see how things go in the morning.

Remember we're still awaiting an email back from the scammer after mynameisjeff sent one earlier asking if he received his laptop. The scammer is going to have to explain why he hasn't paid.

Also explain how the deal is going to work when there is no escrow - that is, if the scammer still thinks it's all legit.

Apr 30, 2004: 17:03

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

biznatchio

Joined: Mar 31, 2001

Technical Superhero of the Gods

I would wait until you hear from the scammer via email. We've got this far, don't go messing it up by letting FedEx know the package is a phony.

Apr 30, 2004: 17:04

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

chizarlie

Joined: Oct 12, 2003

For shizzle

I know I'd throw down to pay for the duties to see it on its way.

Apr 30, 2004: 17:08

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

paper pope hat

Joined: Sep 27, 2000

quote:

RSPsych0 came out of the closet to say:
Then again, these scammers aren't complete morons. I'm sure that as soon as they sense anything is wrong in the least, they just back away. The escrow site went down and had tons of referrers from here, not to mention the fake sales posted.

Then it got reported as a fake escrow site.

It'd be better to forget that one laptop and lay low for a bit, then try your scam again when the heat is off than it would be to risk anything.

EDIT: And I forgot all the morons who called the guy's cell phone.

I think this is probably the situation. This guy has scammed at least a few times before. He must have some concept of caution if he's avoided getting caught so far. Any one of the things RSPsych0 mentioned could have made him back away. When you add it all together - tons of hits on the escrow site, phone calls, losing his stolen ebay account and getting his escrow listed as a fake... that all adds up in a major way. And if he has any contact with the barbernet shop, he'd know about the influx of shady-looking goons.

I hope I'm giving him more credit than he deserves, but I'm afraid it seems he won't be taking any more action on this if he has any brain at all.

Apr 30, 2004: 17:09

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Gizmo_Gun

Joined: Mar 21, 2004

Pow! Bang! Smack! Kablooeey!

Okay, I just called FedEx and told them that my husband and I (sorry Jeff) were concerned about what was going to happen to the package at this point.

She said that they were currently waiting for him to call and give them further information. I did NOT, I repeat, I did NOT authorize the ability for him to pick up the package at FedEx. It has to be delivered.

She made a notation that we were going to contact him via email and get him to contact the office of FedEx.

So, now we wait until he contacts them. We can always call back and check up on the status.

Apr 30, 2004: 17:10

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

BonoMan

Joined: Feb 20, 2002

The scammer isn't ever going to email Jeff back I presume.

All he wants to do is get Jeff to mail the package...once that's done he cuts off all ties with Jeff permanently. If there's a problem that requires Jeff's attention he MIGHT email him. Otherwise he'll never speak to him again. Even if he does get the package and sees the P-P-P-Powerbook he's just going to get pissed but chalk it up to experience and probably never email Jeff. 😞

Apr 30, 2004: 17:11

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Bed

Joined: Apr 20, 2004

...sometimes you wakeup,
sometimes you die, and
sometimes you fly...

either way, this thread still shows the fucking awesomeness of everyone involved.

Apr 30, 2004: 17:15

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Dvlos

Joined: Aug 26, 2003

I usually don't eat my poo, but this sprayed everywhere.

quote:

paper pope hat came out of the closet to say:

I hope I'm giving him more credit than he deserves, but I'm afraid it seems he won't be taking any more action on this if he has any brain at all.

I still disagree, I don't think this guy is very bright (check e-mails), he's just found a relatively simple scam to getting expensive items cheap off E-bay. I think everyone should stop panicking and calling FedEx, the forced delivery to the barbershop might be a bad idea, that Barbershop PO Box might not really be his, and this is part of his little scam.

Just back off (and send him an email with what I said, especially the part about the Vespa scooter), he's probably all scared that the ebay account and escrow fell through, but at the same time he may be ecstatic he has one more item that came in, the P-p-p-powerbook. So far Jeff has sounded legit, there is no way he's not going to go "check" this package, but if someone calls him and says "OMG YOU ARE A SCAMMER!!!" it's going to ruin this.

Apr 30, 2004: 17:16

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

quote:

Gizmo_Gun came out of the closet to say:

Okay, I just called FedEx and told them that my husband and I (sorry Jeff) were concerned about what was going to happen to the package at this point.

She said that they were currently waiting for him to call and give them further information. I did NOT, I repeat, I did NOT authorize the ability for him to pick up the package at FedEx. It has to be delivered.

She made a notation that we were going to contact him via email and get him to contact the office of FedEx.

So, now we wait until he contacts them. We can always call back and check up on the status.

Great job Mrs. Harris hahahaha i will be needing pics of my new wife.

Ok. So I can email him and tell him that I just received an email from FedEx sayin that they cannot contact him, and that he needs to contact them to complete the shipment.

Apr 30, 2004: 17:17

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Nodelphi

Joined: Jan 30, 2004

Yeah I'd lay low and let his greed lure him in.

Apr 30, 2004: 17:22

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

burntoutjoy

Joined: Jul 21, 2003

Lemons Through the Time Tunnel!!

quote:

Shifter Car came out of the closet to say:
Why not call him and invite him to dinner.
Go to the restaurant early.
Wait for him in the parking lot.
Rush him and shoot him in his fucking face.
Drag the body back to his house.
Leave bleeding corpse on doorstep.
Write a note reading:
"A+! Great shipping, a pleasure to deal with! Would buy from again!!! Thanx!!!!"
Nail it to his forehead.
Urinate on the front door.
Throw bottle filled with gasoline, topped with flaming rag thru window.
Flee to Mexico.
Simple.

wgwrldlwanutfs ???

Apr 30, 2004: 17:24

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Syn

Joined: Jan 08, 2003

Ingvar's dirty little bitch

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:

The lady at the "Everett Pack Man" said that if it is rejected it will cost money to have it shipped back. I think she said she would be billed, then I would pay her to get it back.

Christ, you had to drive all the way to Everett to get this thing shipped?

Apr 30, 2004: 17:25

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

|                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| paper pope hatJoined: Sep 27, 2000                                  | Oh, I completely agree that no one should do anything else at this point. If he has been scared off, it's because the whole thing received too much attention. Having the package forced through would DEFINITELY set off another warning signal. Also, I don't think this guy is brilliant or anything. I didn't mean to imply that. I just figure that if he has scammed a fair amount in the past, he probably has a decent paranoid streak that would cause him to be suspicious of this situation. Maybe he's just been a lucky bastard so far though - I hope so. |
| Apr 30, 2004: 17:25                                                                                                                                                               | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| Str8DogJoined: Apr 07, 200401010101010                                                                                                               | I am officially not getting shit done today.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| Apr 30, 2004: 17:25                                                                                                                                                               | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| Black SunshineJoined: Apr 04, 2004Down With The Sickness | off topic....sort of Jesus Christ!!! This thread will soon be at the 2,000 post level. Does anyone ever remember a thread larger than this? I haven` t been here very long so I couldn` t say. Jeff,Starbucks and the rest of the goon crew overseas:You guys are fucking amazing!!! Great work and mad props are extended to each and every one of you. This thread truly does deliver.                                                                                                                                                    |
| Apr 30, 2004: 17:26                                                                                                                                                               | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| MyNameIsJeffJoined: Dec 05, 2003P-P-P-Powerbook.com!   | quote:Syn came out of the closet to say:Christ, you had to drive all the way to Everett to get this thing shipped?It's right outside of my work. I walked. 😊quote:Black Sunshine came out of the closet to say:off topic....sort of                                                                                                                                                                                                   |

Jesus Christ!!! This thread will soon be at the 2,000 post level. Does anyone ever remember a thread larger than this? I haven` t been here very long so I couldn` t say.

Jeff,Starbucks and the rest of the goon crew overseas:You guys are fucking amazing!!! Great work and mad props are extended to each and every one of you. This thread truly does deliver.

---

Yes, but there are a lot of useless posts. Not that I mind. i wonder if the mods are going to get irritated with it. I hope not. ☹️

MyNameIsJeff fucked around with this message at Apr 30, 2004 around 17:30

Apr 30, 2004: 17:26

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit Quote

Gizmo_Gun

Joined: Mar 21, 2004

Pow! Bang! Smack! Kablooey!

The package can't be "forced" through. a) he has to call and give them info, b) he has to pay taxes. You can't make someone pay taxes on a package they don't accept.

Apr 30, 2004: 17:26

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit Quote

Dvlos

Joined: Aug 26, 2003

I usually don't eat my poo, but this sprayed everywhere.

quote:

Gizmo_Gun came out of the closet to say:

The package can't be "forced" through. a) he has to call and give them info, b) he has to pay taxes. You can't make someone pay taxes on a package they don't accept.

---

Think he was referring to the goon community paying for the package as if it were him, so that it gets delivered anyway.

Black Sunshine, there's a 56 page thread on Splinter Cell 2 in Games, I think the World Series thread was like 164 pages, I'm sure this thread will top out at 400.

|                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Apr 30, 2004: 17:29                                                                                                                             | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| RSPsych0Joined: May 22, 2002Anyone seen Super Joe? | quote: <hr/> Black Sunshine came out of the closet to say:off topic....sort of Jesus Christ!!! This thread will soon be at the 2,000 post level. Does anyone ever remember a thread larger than this? I haven` t been here very long so I couldn` t say. Jeff,Starbucks and the rest of the goon crew overseas:You guys are fucking amazing!!! Great work and mad props are extended to each and every one of you. This thread truly does deliver. <hr/> Several, but the biggest one I can remember was the Pele/Oddjob marriage post. |
| Apr 30, 2004: 17:30                                                                                                                             | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| FufoJoined: Apr 24, 2002UNEXPECTED!                | quote: <hr/> Dvlos came out of the closet to say: Think he was referring to the goon community paying for the package as if it were him, so that it gets delivered anyway. Black Sunshine, there's a 56 page thread on Splinter Cell 2 in Games, I think the World Series thread was like 164 pages, I'm sure this thread will top out at 400. <hr/> Then there was that other undying thread in ADTRW some time ago. And don't forget the Morrowind one still almost alive in Games.                                                                     |
| Apr 30, 2004: 17:31                                                                                                                             | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |

yosarian

Joined: Jan 22, 2002

"A chicken in every pot and a cap in every ass"

Ya know, he may also be wary of a package that he has to pay huge duties on when he specified a small amount. Granted, Jeff said "Oh I am new, oh I am nervous, oh I needed to for insurance" to cover up the fact he put down the full "value" of the p-p-p-powerbook.

I know when I ship things to folks over seas, I put down $20 if I can so they taxes are low and the items is delivered right to their door. This guy may say "Shit, I have to pay $xxx for it and I may have to show ID (for a high val item) fuck that, I will let it go."

Then again he may be a greedy little prick and we could catch him.

sweet sweet justice.

Apr 30, 2004: 17:32

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Syn

Joined: Jan 08, 2003

Ingvar's dirty little bitch

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:

It's right outside of my work. I walked. 😊

LOL, that's about 5 blocks from where I'm typing this. Good show. Washington goons represent!

Apr 30, 2004: 17:33

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Citizen Dildoe

Joined: Jan 28, 2003

When I left work yesterday I was around page 23, after catching up from the previous day, and now I have finally reached the end. Some pretty great developments here, unfortunately the latest news wasn't what we had hoped for but I am shocked and awed by the SA community coming together to track this scammer down and be on site for potential delivery. I have never been prouder to be a member of this elite task force. I have laughed and been kept in anticipation as I read through it all, can't wait for Goon Justice to be served. Best of luck to those on the steak out and those everywhere else who have made this thread fantastic.

Apr 30, 2004: 17:36

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Earwicker

Joined: Jan 06, 2003

I don't understand why the scammer is not doing what it takes to get the package, unless he knows its a fake. I don't think he's going to email Jeff again, because he probably doesn't plan on sending any money Jeff's way - but theoretically he does need the package to complete his scam, yes? So does this mean theres a good chance he's found out what's up?

Apr 30, 2004: 17:36

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Ivan Drago

Joined: Jan 17, 2003

The Russian Peenarm

quote:

Dvlos came out of the closet to say:

Black Sunshine, there's a 56 page thread on Splinter Cell 2 in Games, I think the World Series thread was like 164 pages, I'm sure this thread will top out at 400.

There was an official NHL playoffs thread last season that extended through the playoffs and into the offseason which had several thousand replies. Not sure what ever happened to it, but it was the biggest I've seen.

Apr 30, 2004: 17:37

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

TheHotCarl

Joined: Dec 14, 2003

Bulk Male Playmate of the Month: January, 1967

quote:

Then again he may be a greedy little prick and we could catch him

My money is on this, as long as no one gets anxious and emails or calls him...

Apr 30, 2004: 17:37

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

benhamtroll
Joined: Mar 08, 2004

Track Shipments

Printable Version Quick Help

Detailed Results

Tracking number

Ship date

Estimated delivery date

P-P-P-Powerbook

Apr 28, 2004

Apr 30, 2004 by 12:00 pm

Delivery location

Service type

COLINDALE GB

Freakin' Goon Justice Thread

| Date/time    | Status   | Location                 | Comments                                           |
|--------------|----------|--------------------------|----------------------------------------------------|
| Apr 30, 2004 | 3:19 am  | Thread status            | Regulatory Agency Clearance Delay -Still delivers! |
| Apr 29, 2004 | 9:19 pm  | Thread status            | Package available for clearance                    |
|              | 9:19 pm  | Arrived at FedEx Ramp    |                                                    |
|              | 6:55 pm  | Arrived at FedEx Ramp    |                                                    |
|              | 11:03 am | Thread status            |                                                    |
|              | 3:54 am  | Left FedEx Sort Facility |                                                    |

EDIT: Made it a .png, per request. Sorry . . .

benhamtroll fucked around with this message at Apr 30, 2004 around 17:48

Apr 30, 2004: 17:38

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Joe-Randomosity
Joined: Sep 21, 2003

YOUR STALKER IS WATCHING YOU

^^^
What does that mean? A Phonecall and delivery is required?

Apr 30, 2004: 17:42

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

EditQuote

mroach

Joined: Sep 11, 2001

Actual Reg Date: Dec 26, 2002
Isbjörnar!

quote:

TheHotCarl came out of the closet to say:

My money is on this, as long as no one gets anxious and emails or calls him...

Indeed. The ensuing comedy would be priceless.

also, benhamtroll, dont use jpeg for pics like that, gif or png only plz

Your info:

Norway
NextGenTel AS Internet Explorer
Windows XP

How did I do this? | GBSFM Statistics

24 goons listening to Luscious Jackson - Down To Earth

Apr 30, 2004: 17:43

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

ChlamydiaJones

Joined: Sep 27, 2002

It just took me an hour to get caught up on the wonderfull delight that is this thread. If I were in the UK I would buy several rounds for the solders. You folks are the greatest thing ever. Come to gooncon and accept your cudos.

I think that monitoring the box through FedEx is the way to go, probably with occasional phone calls by MyNameIsJeff. We know where it is. We know that the guy is a greedy, theiving son-of-a-bitch. We know where that box is supposed to go. I'm betting that the guy waits a bit for the "seller" to flail around a little more. He probably expects a few more pissed off e-mails.

He MAY just blow the whole thing off and not pay the taxes and not really give a shit if the "seller" pays the taxes and the reverse shipping.

He may write back to the "seller" and try to get him to pay the whole amount.

He may, however, just wait around a bit and pay the taxes at his leisure.

In a sense, the p-p-p-p-powerbook is money in the bank for him as long as he CAN pay the taxes and receive it. I think that, as him, I'd just wait till it was convenient for me to pay the taxes and get my laptop.

Apr 30, 2004: 17:43

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

RSPsych0

Joined: May 22, 2002

Anyone seen Super Joe?

quote:

Joe-Randomosity came out of the closet to say:

^ ^ ^ ^

What does that mean? A Phonecall and delivery is required?

It means this thread still delivers.

Apr 30, 2004: 17:44

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Fufo

Joined: Apr 24, 2002

UNEXPECTED!

quote:

Joe-Randomosity came out of the closet to say:

^ ^ ^ ^

What does that mean? A Phonecall and delivery is required?

Hahahahahahahahaha. Thanks. Another nice drop of laughter in this oh so large pool of it.

Apr 30, 2004: 17:45

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Dvlos

Joined: Aug 26, 2003

I usually don't eat my poo, but this sprayed everywhere.

quote:

yosarian came out of the closet to say:

sweet sweet justice.

What's he have to come up with? $300? $400? I'd borrow that money just to get a new G4 Powerbook that is roughly worth 2 grand, you could sell that on the street as a "hot" item for $1,200-1,400 depending on the sap. Also consider that he has other laptops, or whatever he's picking up and selling from other people he might have duped.

Apr 30, 2004: 17:45

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Unixmonkey

Joined: Jul 03, 2002

quote:

Earwicker came out of the closet to say:

I don't understand why the scammer is not doing what it takes to get the package, unless he knows its a fake. I don't think he's going to email Jeff again, because he probably doesn't plan on sending any money Jeff's way - but theoretically he does need the package to complete his scam, yes? So does this mean theres a good chance he's found out what's up?

Why don't you ask Dofca?

<http://forums.somethingawful.com/me...fo&userid=53764>

Edit: by the way, I added him to my "Buddy List", and he's been online all morning. Even RIGHT NOW.

Edit2: by "morning" I mean the past 5-6 hours. (I know people are reading this in multiple time zones)

Edit3: I'm a moron, he's been "Offline" all that time. I kept going to control panel and seeing the name, and assuming he's online. Sorry 😞

Unixmonkey fucked around with this message at Apr 30, 2004 around 18:03

Apr 30, 2004: 17:48

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

paper pope hat

Joined: Sep 27, 2000

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:

Ok. So I can email him and tell him that I just received an email from FedEx sayin that they cannot contact him, and that he needs to contact them to complete the shipment.

Did you already do this? If not, it would be better to wait until tomorrow or something. If he's already suspicious, this won't help. I don't know for sure, but I'm guessing FedEx doesn't immediately e-mail the sender at any little hitch. It's just another thing that wouldn't quite add up. Tomorrow you could plausibly say that you were wondering what happened so you called FedEx (which is what actually happened anyway).

Apr 30, 2004: 17:48

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Dvlos

Joined: Aug 26, 2003

I usually don't eat my poo, but this sprayed everywhere.

Forget about the scammer being suspicious, I wonder if FedEx workers are just going to end their curiosity and just open the package that has brought them 10,000 hits a day to that tracking number since it was picked up.

Apr 30, 2004: 17:51

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Phalex

Joined: May 14, 2002

Also remember that he's expecting you to be anxious about receiving your money, so if you've done a few things that seem aggressive so far, it's probably not that bad.

Apr 30, 2004: 17:52

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

ChlamydiaJones

Joined: Sep 27, 2002

quote:

paper pope hat came out of the closet to say:

Did you already do this? If not, it would be better to wait until tomorrow or something. If he's already suspicious, this won't help. I don't know for sure, but I'm guessing FedEx doesn't immediately e-mail the sender at any little hitch. It's just another thing that wouldn't quite add up. Tomorrow you could plausibly say that you were wondering what happened so you called FedEx (which is what actually happened anyway).

Think of it from the scammers perspective; why WOULDN'T a seller track his 2k powerbook and alert the person who is supposed to pay him for it. It makes sense to contact him - and the scammer SHOULD be expecting the e-mail - he gave the seller a fake phone number after all. He'll expect an e-mail when FedEx shows the book is in the UK. At that point the scammer calls up FedEx and handles the taxes in whatever way.

No skin off his nose either way.

Apr 30, 2004: 17:52

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Ataraxia

Joined: Jun 15, 2001

Champion of nothing

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:

Edit - One thing I don't get is, he has to have done this before. Sometihng this big, international requires a phone number to receive!

My take on it: his fake escrow site got pulled, he shits a brick and forgets ALL ABOUT 9b. we'll never get him.

Apr 30, 2004: 17:53

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

ChlamydiaJones

Joined: Sep 27, 2002

quote:

Sorry! That user has specified that they (dofca) do not wish to receive emails through this board. If you still wish to send an email to this user, please contact the administrator and they may be able to help.

Has anyone done this?

Apr 30, 2004: 17:55

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

chizarlie

Joined: Oct 12, 2003

For shizzle

quote:

Unixmonkey came out of the closet to say:

Why don't you ask Dofca?

<http://forums.somethingawful.com/me...fo&userid=53764>

Edit: by the way, I added him to my "Buddy List", and he's been online all morning. Even RIGHT NOW.

Edit2: by "morning" I mean the past 5-6 hours. (I know people are reading this in multiple time zones)

what the heck? My buddy list has shown him offline the whole time! But at least his sweet sweet avatar has shown up.

Apr 30, 2004: 17:56

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Rhyno

Joined: Mar 22, 2003

quote:

Unixmonkey came out of the closet to say:

Why don't you ask Dofca?

<http://forums.somethingawful.com/me...fo&userid=53764>

Edit: by the way, I added him to my "Buddy List", and he's been online all morning. Even RIGHT NOW.

Edit2: by "morning" I mean the past 5-6 hours. (I know people are reading this in multiple time zones)

I really hope that guy isn't involved at all. I can't wait to see his reaction to the custom title.

Apr 30, 2004: 17:57

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

FrozenEntree

Joined: Jun 11, 2001

God helped me fuck over my creditors so I can continue spending like the selfish dumbfuck I am! Blessed are the spendthrift, my ass! Hallelujah! Praise to Jesus!

I thought of something, but then it hit me it wouldnt work.

When MyNameIsJeff told the guy about the value of the shipment, he closed a door. Had that not went through, he could have called FedEx and said "my friend was alerted that the value of this shipment is $2,000. I wrote down 20.00, this this is only worth 20 bux." Then the guy could have at least gotten nothing and scammed.

Apr 30, 2004: 17:58

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

chizarlie

Joined: Oct 12, 2003

For shizzle

quote:

Rhyno came out of the closet to say:

I really hope that guy isn't involved at all. I can't wait to see his reaction to the custom title.

I'm going to be so pissed if he wastes our $10 on a shitty "hay guys I'm new here!!" thread...

Apr 30, 2004: 17:59

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Gizmo_Gun

Joined: Mar 21, 2004

Pow! Bang! Smack! Kablooeey!

quote:

Rhyno came out of the closet to say:

I really hope that guy isn't involved at all. I can't wait to see his reaction to the custom title.

I hope so too. Mainly because there have been a lot of people on here posting personal information like email addresses, addresses, phone numbers, and locations close to where they work.

Apr 30, 2004: 18:03

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

RSPsych0

Joined: May 22, 2002

Anyone seen Super Joe?

quote:

Ataraxia came out of the closet to say:

My take on it: his fake escrow site got pulled, he shits a brick and forgets ALL ABOUT 9b. we'll never get him.

That's exactly what I said at the bottom of page 46 (but of course it was the last post, so no one ever read it, I'm sure 😊)

Apr 30, 2004: 18:04

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Unixmonkey

Joined: Jul 03, 2002

quote:

chizarlie came out of the closet to say:

what the heck? My buddy list has shown him offline the whole time! But at least his sweet sweet avatar has shown up.

Dammit! I'm a moron. He's been "Offline" all this time. Every time I went to User CP, I'd see his name in the list and assume he was still online. On closer inspection, the "Buddy list" shows even offline buddies.

Sorry to re-ignite that flame, but the theory still stands.

|                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Apr 30, 2004: 18:05                                                                                                                                                                                   | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| liquorheadJoined: Jul 11, 2002elephant parts 4 life                                                      | The problem with pranks like this is that there's always going to be some asshole who fucks it up that has an axe to grind with SA. Too much attention. I've thoroughly enjoyed this thread, and only just read the whole thing this morning, but the chances that some dick emailed the guy and tipped him off are pretty strong. Or called FedEx and told them something about it. It was a hilarious setup, but I think we're all going to be very unfulfilled about this. And in hindsight, emailing him about the customs value was a mistake. As was making the value that high to begin with. It would have been just as funny had he just got the package o' crap, in my opinion. |
| Apr 30, 2004: 18:05                                                                                                                                                                                   | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| FistgrrlJoined: Dec 30, 2000Queen of Cuddlenaps                                                          | quote: <hr/> MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:Yes, but there are a lot of useless posts. Not that I mind. i wonder if the mods are going to get irritated with it. I hope not. ☹️ <hr/> It would be nice to see more content and less "OMG I READ THIS WHOLE THREAD."                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| Apr 30, 2004: 18:06                                                                                                                                                                                   | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| ColinMooreJoined: Aug 13, 2002strength +10charm +12wonder +9FAGGOTRY +ABILLION | quote: <hr/> Dvlos came out of the closet to say: Think he was referring to the goon community paying for the package as if it were him, so that it gets delivered anyway. Black Sunshine, there's a 56 page thread on Splinter Cell 2 in Games, I think the World Series thread was like 164 pages, I'm sure this thread will top out at 400. <hr/> FatKao's Goon Map thread is at 5269 posts, or 132 pages.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| Apr 30, 2004: 18:07                                                                                                                                                                                   | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |

Fistgrrl

Joined: Dec 30, 2000

Queen of Cuddlenaps

quote:

Unixmonkey came out of the closet to say:

Why don't you ask Dofca?

<http://forums.somethingawful.com/me...fo&userid=53764>

Edit: by the way, I added him to my "Buddy List", and he's been online all morning. Even RIGHT NOW.

Edit2: by "morning" I mean the past 5-6 hours. (I know people are reading this in multiple time zones)

Edit3: I'm a moron, he's been "Offline" all that time. I kept going to control panel and seeing the name, and assuming he's online. Sorry 😞

Dofca has a North American ISP email address on his account.

Apr 30, 2004: 18:08

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Wandering Idiot

Joined: Jul 22, 2003

I Suffer From Mild Retarderations

That whole longest thread thing, well, this has got a ways to go if it's going to go for the record. The map thread is at over 5000 replies itself. I don't know if there's a higher thread, more than likely there is though.

"Pledge Allegiance To Yourself, Not War, Greed, Power and Wealth."

Apr 30, 2004: 18:10

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Ridgely_Fan

Joined: Aug 02, 2003

quote:

ColinMoore came out of the closet to say:

FatKao's Goon Map thread is at 5269 posts, or 132 pages.

Mac megathread is around 4000 posts, but it's been going for months like the Goon Map.

I bet this is the most posts in the shortest time span ever for the forums though. At least pretty close. 2000 posts over a single week.

|                                                                                                                                                   |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Apr 30, 2004: 18:11                                                                                                             | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| EarwickerJoined: Jan 06, 2003  | quote: Unixmonkey came out of the closet to say: Why don't you ask Dofca?http://forums.somethingawful.com/me...fo&amp;userid=53764Edit: by the way, I added him to my "Buddy List", and he's been online all morning. Even RIGHT NOW.Edit2: by "morning" I mean the past 5-6 hours. (I know people are reading this in multiple time zones) I thought it had been shown that "Dofca" is actually just the name of a city in Israel and that "G.ood E.nough T.o S.teal" is just a reference to Burroughs' cut-up works. For some reason I find it hard to believe that the author of the emails we've seen, given the nature of the text, is really into Burroughs cut-up works or even aware of their existence. |
| Apr 30, 2004: 18:11                                                                                                             | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| IznogoodJoined: Jul 10, 2001  | quote: Ridgely_Fan came out of the closet to say: Mac megathread is around 4000 posts, but it's been going for months like the Goon Map.I bet this is the most posts in the shortest time span ever for the forums though. At least pretty close. 2000 posts over a single week. No its not. I can think of a lot of threads that beat it. One famous one is the 9/11 thread. Also any sports/war thread gets 1000 times bigger. Still a great thread 😊                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| Apr 30, 2004: 18:33                                                                                                             | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |

|                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| TheRedEyeJoined: Sep 10, 2003  You're making me very unhappy. | Let's not forget the Geno thread from last year. That got pretty insane. EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| Apr 30, 2004: 18:46                                                                                                                                                              | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| kripesJoined: Aug 14, 2002  BRRRRRAAAAIIIIINNNSSS                    | We've hit a lull in the funny. Quick, someone say something stupid. EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| Apr 30, 2004: 18:53                                                                                                                                                              | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| EarwickerJoined: Jan 06, 2003                                                  | quote:<hr/>Iznogood came out of the closet to say:No its not. I can think of a lot of threads that beat it. One famous one is the 9/11 thread.<hr/> Is that readable anywhere? I remember looking for it in the archives but I don't they they go that far back. EditQuote |
| Apr 30, 2004: 18:53                                                                                                                                                              | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |

Mort

Joined: Feb 15, 2003

Veljko Power!

quote:

Fistgrl came out of the closet to say:

Dofca has a North American ISP email address on his account.

Thank you. Some people in this thread have gotten way too paranoid about this whole Dofca thing, based on the flimsiest of non-evidence.

Apr 30, 2004: 18:54

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

DiscoJ

Joined: Jun 23, 2003

The Oscar thread from this year got to about 3500 iirc, and that was in one night, most of the posts being made in a five hour period.

Apr 30, 2004: 18:54

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Iznogood

Joined: Jul 10, 2001

quote:

Earwicker came out of the closet to say:

Is that readable anywhere? I remember looking for it in the archives but I don't they they go that far back.

It is. Someone has a site with all the famous SA threads archived on it but I do not have a link 😞
I bet it'll get posted soon enough.

Apr 30, 2004: 18:56

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

quote:

kripes came out of the closet to say:

We've hit a lull in the funny. Quick, someone say something stupid.

Lets try to keep the posts in relevant information, opinions, and ideas.

Thanks.

Apr 30, 2004: 19:00

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

lostsailor

Joined: Jan 28, 2004

The desires we deny will find us in fate.

okay...

i vote from this point on we quit talking about whose thread's bigger than whose. its not quantity it quality, and i fear the quality of this is getting off track, derailing and heading straight for an overflowing construction site port-a-potty next to a dynamite factory. we need to get back to the lecture at hand...

..being, nothing is fucked here. we got great goon reconnaissance and basically all we can do it wait in limbo on jeff to get a response email.

Apr 30, 2004: 19:02

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Pipski

Joined: Apr 18, 2004

Lovely barbershop. Pity I wasn't invited.

Hi gooneroonies. Home from work, have just taken an HOUR to bring myself up to speed with these shenanigans (forums strictly prohibited at work, though I confess to a couple of anxious peeks 😊). Anyway, as the other 'on-the-spot' guys are presumably still commuting back to Plymouth / Wales (I can't believe they made those journeys! THAT is dedication people!) I thought I'd let you know a bit more about what this morning was like (although there are bits I can't account for, as you will see). btw, it fucking sucks if that was not the p-p-p-powerbook! Guy gets two parcels, by coincidence, this morning, from Fedex? If that works out as an average two parcels a day then there are a LOT of people getting ripped off by this cunt. (Which would also make him less likely to pay the tax to release the ringer. Even if it does mean he's loaded. Ulp, it occurs that if he's been that busy then this really could be some damned Mob crime ring. /checks out of window for unfamiliar cars/).

Anyways, after posting this morning I probably had a shower and did my teeth - can't quite remember, wasn't really awake - and caught the train into London, jumped on the Northern Line and pitched up rather earlier than I expected, half past seven. At which time it was fucking cold, fucking wet and fucking windy. The shop, obviously, was still shut. Lurked around in the street until Starbucks showed up when we went for coffee in a very convenient cafe on the other side of the street (convenient except that buses kept stopping next to it and blocking our view!). It made for a nice warm obbo point so we stayed there and tossed around theories about whether or not the package was actually going to arrive, had some breakfast, it was all quite civilised actually.

By ten o'clock I was starting to get antsy. No sign of any relief shift turning up and I'd been planning to cut and run by half ten, to get back to work while I still had some. This is more or less when Starb. decided to breach the perimeter and at least get some data off one of the PCs there, while I stayed outside and - well, no point in trying to glamourise it - watched the traffic. Still no sign of FedEx but a guy pitched up on a motorbike who we'd seen earlier on and suspected of being a goon (when I asked him at that point he said, no, he wasn't planning on meeting anyone. But we'd noticed him staring at the barber's before it had even opened for business, and now he was back. I began wondering if this was actually our scammer). So, I decided to track him and scooted over the road just as he went into the Internet Cafe NEXT DOOR to the barber/net. At this point the FedEx van rolled up. Because I can't work my blasted new mobile phone properly it took me a while to retrieve Starb.s number and call him - I think it's me you can see him talking to on the feed as the van arrives - we basically both just hissed at each other `it's here, it's fucking here!' By the time that was done the delivery person had just entered the shop. I stood in the doorway right behind them, as if I was waiting to get in, while Sweeney Todd signed for his package. I definitely heard him spelling out the surname `Sessarego' for her. (Take a moment to think about that, he was signing for his packages in our scammer's name. Of course it could be a `hive identity' used by a few different people.)

Once she left he took the boxes through a curtained off entrance right at the back of the shop into another room but returned pretty sharpish. At this point I didn't even know we had a goon downstairs in there so I went straight upstairs to see how Starb. was getting on. After a couple of minutes, secure in the knowledge that we had good coverage of the event, I took my leave and legged it to the tube station. Then I started thinking about how best to scam my employers into believing I had a legitimate reason for not being there all morning. And that was basically that as far as I was involved. I regret missing the pub visit afterwards, that had to have been a rewarding pint, and it's a shame I didn't get to meet any of the other operatives apart from Starbucks, but we can't have everything.

Oh, and as far as `what happens next?' goes, I fall firmly into the relax for at least 24 hours camp. This guy might not have cleared with FedEx because he hasn't checked his e-mail lately, or he's been away, or in hospital, or had cashflow problems or any number of things. If there's still no joy by the end of the weekend then turn this whole thread and all its attachments over to, I dunno, the Met or the National Crime Squad or the FBI. Even if we can't locate our scammer, they surely have enough evidence to bring everyone even remotely connected to 9B in for questioning and turn the screws on them until they cough. Plus back-engineer every fucking HD in the place looking for info. It's an option.

EDIT : Oh, and don't assume his `phone is stolen, I see no evidence for it. It might be just a £12 throwaway PAYG that he never turns on and only uses for scams.

Pipski fucked around with this message at Apr 30, 2004 around 19:06

Apr 30, 2004: 19:02

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Otokodate

Joined: Jan 15, 2004

All your nuts are belong to me

Ok, all of you "Oh shit, it failed!" types are lowering my opinion of the Goon Intelligence Service. Give it time! The guy might be home sick, he might not have the tax money ready, or a hundred other things. Just let the tension build and enjoy the ending when Jeff get's the "WTF! Where my PowerBook? I cut your balls off I see you in street!" email.

Apr 30, 2004: 19:07

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Ulf

Joined: Jul 15, 2001

The Iraq War thread (now goldmined) was up to, what, 200 pages in 3-4 days? Not even close.

Apr 30, 2004: 19:08

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Fistgrrl

Joined: Dec 30, 2000

Queen of Cuddlenaps

quote:

Ulf came out of the closet to say:

The Iraq War thread (now goldmined) was up to, what, 200 pages in 3-4 days? Not even close.

SHUT UP SHUT UP SHUT UP ABOUT THE GODDAMNED LENGTH OF THE FUCKING THREAD

Apr 30, 2004: 19:11

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

RajaKumar

Joined: Jun 13, 2002

Dr Rajakumar

I AM I DON QUIXOTE

Nice update Pipski. I'm curious about the biker, but with the store clerk signing with the same last name, there'd seem to be no reason for him to be so careful, as the store most likely is involved, at least somehow, and he could find out from the clerk if anything was suspect. Though a paranoid scammer is probably a somewhat more successful one.

quote:

Otokodate came out of the closet to say:

Ok, all of you "Oh shit, it failed!" types are lowering my opinion of the Goon Intelligence Service. Give it time! The guy might be home sick, he might not have the tax money ready, or a hundred other things. Just let the tension build and enjoy the ending when Jeff get's the "WTF! Where my PowerBook? I cut your balls off I see you in street!" email.

I never saw it, but for a few hours, the scammer's (alleged) phone number was posted. Did anyone attempt to call it? Was it a valid number? Did anyone answer? If it was a fake number to begin with, I'm curious to see as to how he will ever be able to claim the package.

LN DCS v3.2.0b LiquidNinjas.com

|             |            |            |  |
|-------------|------------|------------|--|
| Member:     | Rajakumar  |            |  |
| Work Units: | 377        | Team ID:   |  |
| Ladder:     | -10.00     | 150        |  |
| Score:      | 21564      | Team Rank: |  |
| User Rank:  | 49 of 2194 | 262616     |  |
| Score Avg:  | 4426.58    |            |  |

Apr 30, 2004: 19:16

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

Wow Pipski, I am impressed. Great work!

I have my email on auto send/receive every minute. I really don't know the next step to take other then wait.

Apr 30, 2004: 19:17

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Otokodate

Joined: Jan 15, 2004

All your nuts are belong to me

By the way, if any members of the field team have employment problems these people and these people are hiring.

Apr 30, 2004: 19:22

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Dr. VonHugenstein

Joined: Feb 16, 2004

They Call Him Monsterrod

quote:

Pipski came out of the closet to say:

Oh, and as far as `what happens next?' goes, I fall firmly into the relax for at least 24 hours camp.

I strongly agree with Pipski. Sometimes the key to pulling off a good prank is patience--if you go into it overzealously you can ruin the whole setup. Wait at least a day or so, then e-mail him with something to the effect of "hey, do you like your new laptop? I think I might be able to get a hold of another one cheap for your friend. what

|                                           |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
|-------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                                           | do I need to do with escrow right now," etc.. If you never hear from him again...then you can work out a plan B, perhaps involve the UK recon squad. Have them plaster the door of the cafe with pictures of the pppowerbook or call the barbershop posing as some sort of Fedex representative.                                                            |
| Apr 30, 2004: 19:25                | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| DLCinfernoJoined: Feb 22, 2003 | quote: <hr/> Pipski came out of the closet to say:It made for a nice warm obbo point so we stayed there and tossed around theories about whether or not the package was actually going to arrive, had some breakfast, it was all quite civilised actually. <hr/>                                                                         |
|                                           | Damn but you British are so refined. Spot of tea and fag before going undercover, all in a day's work. Your title suits you. Compliments from your fellow goon across the pond. 😊                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| Apr 30, 2004: 19:26                | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| SchroeJoined: Feb 06, 2004     | quote: <hr/> RajaKumar came out of the closet to say:I never saw it, but for a few hours, the scammer's (alleged) phone number was posted. Did anyone attempt to call it? Was it a valid number? Did anyone answer? If it was a fake number to begin with, I'm curious to see as to how he will ever be able to claim the package. <hr/> |
|                                           | It was determined that it was a mobile number with the Virgin service and it is currently off.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
| Apr 30, 2004: 19:27                | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                       |

chizarlie

Joined: Oct 12, 2003

For shizzle

quote:

Fistgrrl came out of the closet to say:

Dofca has a North American ISP email address on his account.

Haha is it hotmail? i.e. irunscamsonebay@hotmail.com? Either way he better fucking start contributing to these wonderful forums... so we can find him and learn everything about him. grarg class.. O well, probably nothing will transpire during class.

Jeff, hopefully he will email you soon! It's getting late there (I think). I hope he won't just drop everything. Unless he's in jail.. in which case I want pics. or streaming webcam coverage. With what this thread has delivered thus far, I wouldn't put it past us to do this..

Apr 30, 2004: 19:29

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Str8Dog

Joined: Apr 07, 2004

01010101010

OK, its 7:25 PM in London. The fedex site says it has been ready for clearance since 3:19 AM. Is that 3:19 our time or London time?

code:

Tracking Number : 846563452310

Reference Number :

Ship Date : 04/28/2004

Delivered To :

Delivery Location : COLINDALE GB

Delivery Date/Time :

Signed For By :

Service Type : International Priority Service

Estimated Delivery Date : 04/30/2004 12:00

| Scan Activity                     | Date/Time        | Scan Exceptions             |
|-----------------------------------|------------------|-----------------------------|
| -----                             | -----            | -----                       |
| Package status STANSTED GB        | 04/30/2004 03:19 | Regulatory Agency Clearance |
| Delay                             |                  |                             |
| Package status STANSTED GB        | 04/29/2004 21:19 | Package available for       |
| clearance                         |                  |                             |
| Arrived at FedEx Ramp STANSTED GB | 04/29/2004 21:19 |                             |
| Arrived at FedEx Ramp STANSTED GB | 04/29/2004 18:55 |                             |
| Package status STANSTED GB        | 04/29/2004 11:03 |                             |

Left FedEx Sort Facility MEMPHIS TN 04/29/2004 03:54
Left FedEx Sort Facility MEMPHIS TN 04/29/2004 02:02
Arrived at Sort Facility MEMPHIS TN 04/29/2004 01:17
Left FedEx Ramp SEATTLE WA 04/28/2004 19:11
Arrived at FedEx Ramp SEATTLE WA 04/28/2004 18:42
Left FedEx Origin Location BOTHELL WA 04/28/2004 17:30
Picked up by FedEx BOTHELL WA 04/28/2004 15:10

Disclaimer

-----
FedEx has not validated the authenticity of any email address.

Apr 30, 2004: 19:29

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

quote:

Str8Dog came out of the closet to say:

OK, its 7:25 PM in London. The fedex site says it has been ready for clearance since 3:19 AM.

Is that 3:19 our time or London time?

That is London time.

Apr 30, 2004: 19:33

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Str8Dog

Joined: Apr 07, 2004

01010101010

So it has been sitting there waiting for him to pay the duties on it for 18 some odd hours? Is that what we are waiting for with baited breath?

Apr 30, 2004: 19:34

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Fistgrrl

Joined: Dec 30, 2000

Queen of Cuddlenaps

quote:

chizarlie came out of the closet to say:

Haha is it hotmail? i.e. irunscamsonebay@hotmail.com?

NORTH AMERICAN ISP. Understand that? Not hotmail. Not yahoo. Not ANY FREE EMAIL ACCOUNT.

Apr 30, 2004: 19:42

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

kripes

Joined: Aug 14, 2002

BRRRRRAAAAAIIIIINNNSSS

quote:

chizarlie came out of the closet to say:

Haha is it hotmail?

YES HOTMAIL IS AN ISP NOW

Apr 30, 2004: 19:45

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Gizmo_Gun

Joined: Mar 21, 2004

Pow! Bang! Smack! Kablooeey!

quote:

Pipski came out of the closet to say:

Todd signed for his package. I definitely heard him spelling out the surname `Sessarego' for her. (Take a moment to think about that, he was signing for his packages in our scammer's name. Of course it could be a `hive identity' used by a few different people.)

So the guy at the barber shop signed the name of the guy Jeff sent the package to? Even though Jeff's package is still at FedEx?

Perfect! That means they are involved in some manner at the very least a unknowing cover.

Now all we have to do if we don't hear from the scammer, is have the UK recon team drive the barber shop mad with insanities.

Maybe serenade the shop with "badger badger badger badger.....ITS A P-P-P Powerbook! "

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Apr 30, 2004: 19:48 User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                 |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| MyNameIsJeffJoined: Dec 05, 2003P-P-P-Powerbook.com!                                  | Another think that sucks is Starbucks set the screen savers to P-P-P-POWERBOOK!                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
| Apr 30, 2004: 19:49 User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| withakJoined: Jan 15, 2003F != m * a                                                  | quote:MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:Another think that sucks is Starbucks set the screen savers to P-P-P-POWERBOOK! He won't have any idea what it means. He never will if he just forwards the package on to his Romanian overlords without opening it.                                                                                              |
| Apr 30, 2004: 19:51 User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                 |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| RSPsych0Joined: May 22, 2002Anyone seen Super Joe?                                  | quote:withak came out of the closet to say:He won't have any idea what it means. He never will if he just forwards the package on to his Romanian overlords without opening it. He might if the Romanians call him up and tell him, but I think he's probably unwitting, and even if he DID find out, who cares? By then he won't be able to do anything about it. |
| Apr 30, 2004: 19:53 User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                 |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |

Earwicker

Joined: Jan 06, 2003

quote:

withak came out of the closet to say:

He won't have any idea what it means. He never will if he just forwards the package on to his Romanian overlords without opening it.

Damn, it's going to suck if ends up that we're going to have to send a team into Romania. I've never been there but I've been to many of Romania's nieghboring countries, the resident's of which urged me never to go into Romania because, as they put it "no one has any idea what happens inside that country". It sucks because my ancestors are from there and I've always wanted to visit. I still plan on it at some point.

Apr 30, 2004: 19:53

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MrCheese

Joined: Jun 28, 2003

Frrrg rrrrrf, yrrrr crrrrndz

quote:

withak came out of the closet to say:

He won't have any idea what it means. He never will if he just forwards the package on to his Romanian overlords without opening it.

Unless the Barber shop guy spends a couple of days thinking "what the hell is p-p-p-powerbook", and then then it all falls into place if he opens the package from Fed-Ex.

MrCheese fucked around with this message at Apr 30, 2004 around 19:56

Apr 30, 2004: 19:53

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Dr.SchadenFreud

Joined: Jul 16, 2003

I'm going to have to give you some of my "special medicine..."

quote:

Str8Dog came out of the closet to say:

So it has been sitting there waiting for him to pay the duties on it for 18 some odd hours? Is that what we are waiting for with baited breath?

Yes.

Apr 30, 2004: 19:56

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

sneakymango

Joined: Apr 28, 2004

quote:

Syn came out of the closet to say:

LOL, that's about 5 blocks from where I'm typing this. Good show. Washington goons represent!

yakima in tha heezy

Apr 30, 2004: 19:57

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Gripnizzy

Joined: Sep 14, 2000

If this were any more realistic, you'd be able to TASTE the penis length!

I've been reading this thread for 7 hours now. I like the top secret UK spy action. 😏

Apr 30, 2004: 20:17

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Trastion

Joined: Jul 24, 2003

The one and only.

Ive been following this thread for 2 days now. I have to say everyone involved has done some great work. I am sure this scammer is getting multiple packages sent to him daily. The Barber guy is obviously in on it, if he was just renting the boxes to someone he would not forge the name on the package. FedEx lets others sign for the package in cases like that,where there is a PO box involved and such. Usually they just want a signature to verify that someone accepted it and that the driver or someone did steal it.Either way I defianatly am waiting to see what happens next.

If all else fails maybe we can just start sending random packages there to them to flood them with junk.

Trastion fucked around with this message at Apr 30, 2004 around 23:35

Apr 30, 2004: 20:39

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

When Starbucks was at the cafe, someones MSM username and password was saved. He posted the address and I added it thinking he was just going to use it.

I just came back form my lunch and have a message asking:

"Who is this?"

They are signed off now. I hope that isn't one of our marks.

Apr 30, 2004: 20:48

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Pipski

Joined: Apr 18, 2004

Lovely barbershop. Pity I wasn't invited.

Odds are against it being. But that does remind me, is your `phone number still posted somewhere in this thread? You posted it when you went to the gym or something iirc. Seeing as no direct covert activity is underway we're unlikely to need people's phone numbers etc., might be a good idea for anyone who still has one posted to edit it out.

Apr 30, 2004: 20:53

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

charliemaul

Joined: Jun 07, 2003

quote:

---

Gizmo_Gun came out of the closet to say:
FUCK.

That probably means he's going to try and pick it up from FedEx or he's going to contact them someway and get the package.

Shit. What can we do? Maybe tip off FedEx and tell them that he's scamming?

---

Tell them he's picking up drugs.

Apr 30, 2004: 20:53

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

charliemaul

Joined: Jun 07, 2003

quote:

---

chizarlie came out of the closet to say:

Haha is it hotmail? i.e. irunscamsonebay@hotmail.com? Either way he better fucking start contributing to these wonderful forums

---

Wait, if you post and are new it's all "LURKKK MORE NOOOB!!!@!?$!" and if he follows the rules and lurks a little then it's "WHY DOESN'T THIS NEW GUY POST!!??"

|                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Apr 30, 2004: 21:05                                                                                                                                                                            | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| Dr.SchadenFreudJoined: Jul 16, 2003I'm going to have to give you some of my "special medicine..." | tapping fingers impatiently on desk and stabbing for the nth time at F5 Any updates?                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| Apr 30, 2004: 21:34                                                                                                                                                                            | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| MyNameIsJeffJoined: Dec 05, 2003P-P-P-Powerbook.com!                                              | No, not at this time. I am just sitting here watching my outlook send and receive over and over.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| Apr 30, 2004: 21:37                                                                                                                                                                            | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| yosarianJoined: Jan 22, 2002"A chicken in every pot and a cap in every ass"                     | I don't know how it works in the UK, but in when I worked at a Mail Boxes Etc. (for 2+ years about 12 years ago and then 6 months as a manager last year due to underemployment) if you wanted to rent a mail box, you had to provide a drivers license and fill out a bunch of forms and then the local post office had to give it the ok, since we were acting as an agent of the post office. Only once did an application get rejected. Now... I would "assume" that the British Post would have some sort of arrangement with mailing places, etc. It is possible this "barber" is selling a service that is a mail drop, that isn't quite legit. Maybe its time to call in The Inspectors? |

Apr 30, 2004: 21:39

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit Quote

Nodelphi

Joined: Jan 30, 2004

Maybe I missed it (please forgive me, this is a lot of information to digest), but is it possible this "Barber" is the scammer? He did sign for the package with the name Jeff gave him... Or maybe the scammer is a family member? 9B might be where they live.

Was anyone able to get the name of the store owner?

Apr 30, 2004: 21:44

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit Quote

chizarlie

Joined: Oct 12, 2003

For shizzle

quote:

charliemaul came out of the closet to say:

Wait, if you post and are new it's all "LURKKK MORE NOOOB!!!@!?$!" and if he follows the rules and lurks a little then it's "WHY DOESN'T THIS NEW GUY POST!!??"

wow apparently I need to shut the fuck up. I am apparently not funny. anyways, I just want to see if he notices his avatar, because i spent $5 on it. and him having registered with a US ISP's email doesn't completely discount the possibility that it's him, but thank you Fistgrl for actually contributing info to the thread unlike me.

|                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                            |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------|
| Apr 30, 2004: 21:46                                                                                                                                                  | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | Edit Quote |
| sn0wJoined: Oct 06, 2003WILL WRITE-'SPLOITS SUCK COCKFOR $$$                                                                         | tell a goon in that area to throw said package through his windowor chainsaw his gasmeter/front door                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                            |
| Apr 30, 2004: 21:49                                                                                                                                                  | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | Edit Quote |
| MyNameIsJeffJoined: Dec 05, 2003P-P-P-Powerbook.com!                | Ok. If nothing has changed by Tonight at 1am Seattle time - (9am London time), I am going to send him another email. (Provided it wasn't a one time use account for this scam in which he has no intention of ever logging onto again.)I will tell him that I was informed by FedEx that they cannot deliver the Powerbook because they cannot get ahold of anyone to pay for it and confirm delivery.How far away is STANSTED from COLINDALE? I assume those are names of areas, not individual cites. |                                            |
| Apr 30, 2004: 21:50                                                                                                                                                  | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | Edit Quote |
| Package MolestoJoined: Aug 05, 2002It trained them to shoot skeet. | Stansted is the airport, not sure where Colindale is.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                                            |
| Apr 30, 2004: 21:53                                                                                                                                                  | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | Edit Quote |

|                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| PipskiJoined: Apr 18, 2004Lovely barbershop. Pity I wasn't invited. | No distance at all. Well, not by American standards. Will get a precise figure, hang on ... EDIT - 43.8 miles by road from the airport to Colindale tube station, plus about half a mile to the barbers.                   |
| Apr 30, 2004: 21:55                                                                                                                                                                  | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                               |
| charliemaulJoined: Jun 07, 2003                                                | quote:yosarian came out of the closet to say:The Inspectors? Iron Eagle: 2K4 |
| Apr 30, 2004: 21:55                                                                                                                                                                  | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                               |

Frog Vomit

Joined: Jul 11, 2001

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:

No, not at this time. I am just sitting here watching my outlook send and receive over and over.

Introduce yourself to a hobby.

Apr 30, 2004: 21:59

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

quote:

Package Molesto came out of the closet to say:

Stansted is the airport, not sure where Colindale is.

Ok, well if Stansted is the airport, he's not very well going to walk on over the the customs dept. of the airport, "Sup dudes, can I have my package?"

quote:

Frog Vomit came out of the closet to say:

Introduce yourself to a hobby.

I am at work. Thread and email get %100 of attention.

Apr 30, 2004: 21:59

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Str8DogJoined: Apr 07, 200401010101010                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | quote:<hr/>MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:<hr/>Ok, well if Stansted is the airport, he's not very well going to walk on over the the customs dept. of the airport, "Sup dudes, can I have my package?"<hr/> What is the chance this guy has such a large volume of scam shit comeing in he will say screw this one as the $500 is to steep compared to the $free he is used to?                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| Apr 30, 2004: 22:01                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| Shifter CarJoined: Apr 19, 2004Have you ever heard of a luxury car? You know what luxury means? Have you ever heard of Cadillac? Cadillac Eldorado? That's what I drive. I drive cars that sh | quote:<hr/>MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:<hr/>Ok, well if Stansted is the airport, he's not very well going to walk on over the the customs dept. of the airport, "Sup dudes, can I have my package?"<hr/> No no no man! Take the fucking customs desk by storm. Create a diversion at the nearest Starbucks in the airport, have several armed howler monkers attack security guards. Now use a grappling hook and swing from the overhead lights and jump behind the customs desk. Throw viles of nerve agent and place anti-toxin membrane over mouth and nose. Pick wallets of customs agents, look for badge. Take said package and flee to armored attack hovercraft waiting conveniently outside in the white zone (for loading and unloading only). |
| Apr 30, 2004: 22:05                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |

Crazy685

Joined: Jun 17, 2002

a swing and a miss

quote:

Nodelphi came out of the closet to say:

Maybe I missed it (please forgive me, this is a lot of information to digest), but is it possible this "Barber" is the scammer? He did sign for the package with the name Jeff gave him... Or maybe the scammer is a family member? 9B might be where they live.

Was anyone able to get the name of the store owner?

slow down man, you just blew my mind

Apr 30, 2004: 22:05

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Starbucks

Joined: Jul 07, 2002

thread makes me sad ☹️

Strong Coffee Drinking!

Apr 30, 2004: 22:10

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Anaclisis

Joined: Apr 18, 2003

ceci n'est pas une grenouille

So what's the problem with him picking it up? By this point I don't think it would be very practical (or nice to the London goons) to arrange another foray to the Barbershop.

I think the best thing at this point would be if he got it at all, so why not authorize pickup?

Apr 30, 2004: 22:10

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Shifter Car

Joined: Apr 19, 2004

Have you ever heard of a luxury car? You know what luxury means? Have you ever heard of Cadillac? Cadillac Eldorado? That's what I drive. I drive cars that sh

quote:

sneakymango came out of the closet to say:

yakima in tha heezy

Fort Lewis. where's the beer?

Apr 30, 2004: 22:15

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

quote:

Starbucks came out of the closet to say:

thread makes me sad ☹️

It isn't over. Do not be sad.

Apr 30, 2004: 22:20

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Pipski

Joined: Apr 18, 2004

Lovely barbershop. Pity I wasn't invited.

Hey Starbucks, take it you made it home then. 😊

Can't help but wonder, if I was a semi-literate, gutless, dumbass Ebay scammer, what would my e-mail password be?

Apr 30, 2004: 22:20

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

K3vl4r v2.0

Joined: Dec 25, 2003

quote:

Pipski came out of the closet to say:

Can't help but wonder, if I was a semi-literate, gutless, dumbass Ebay scammer, what would my e-mail password be?

GOD

(hack the planet)

Apr 30, 2004: 22:21

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Lukano

Joined: Apr 28, 2003

Ungood's Disciple

quote:

Pipski came out of the closet to say:

Hey Starbucks, take it you made it home then. 😊

Can't help but wonder, if I was a semi-literate, gutless, dumbass Ebay scammer, what would my e-mail password be?

Might eventually be "ppppowerbook".

Apr 30, 2004: 22:21

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

liveslowdieold

Joined: Feb 12, 2004

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:

It isn't over. Do not be sad.

I sure as shit hope it's not over. I at least want an email from the scam man.

Apr 30, 2004: 22:22

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

ultralaz0r

Joined: Feb 24, 2003

quote:

Pipski came out of the closet to say:

Hey Starbucks, take it you made it home then. 😊

Can't help but wonder, if I was a semi-literate, gutless, dumbass Ebay scammer, what would my e-mail password be?

sex, love, or ....GOD.

i am suddenly so ashamed of my handle.

edit: i'm ;_;-in' on the inside.

ultralaz0r fucked around with this message at Apr 30, 2004 around 22:34

Apr 30, 2004: 22:23

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Gravy

Joined: Sep 07, 2003

Everything goes better with Gravy.

quote:

Pipski came out of the closet to say:

Hey Starbucks, take it you made it home then. 😊

Can't help but wonder, if I was a semi-literate, gutless, dumbass Ebay scammer, what would my e-mail password be?

God

Everything I know about computers I learned from Hackers.

Edit: Damn this fast thread...And whoever it was that beat me to it!

Apr 30, 2004: 22:23

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

ultralaz0r

Joined: Feb 24, 2003

quote:

Shifter Car came out of the closet to say:

Fort Lewis. where's the beer?

^ ^

also, best username ever.

Apr 30, 2004: 22:23

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Biter

Joined: Apr 05, 2004

Once is never enough

quote:

Pipski came out of the closet to say:

Hey Starbucks, take it you made it home then. 😊

Can't help but wonder, if I was a semi-literate, gutless, dumbass Ebay scammer, what would my e-mail password be?

You guys are all wrong. What's god in Romanian? Or German, or whatever fucking language this guy speaks (natively).

Apr 30, 2004: 22:26

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

ultralaz0r

Joined: Feb 24, 2003

edit: whoops. useless.

ultralaz0r fucked around with this message at Apr 30, 2004 around 22:48

Apr 30, 2004: 22:28

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

K3vl4r v2.0

Joined: Dec 25, 2003

quote:

ultralaz0r came out of the closet to say:

sex, love, or ....GOD.

i am suddenly so ashamed of my handle.

VV beaten like a bitch <3

Look 3 replies above yours.

Apr 30, 2004: 22:31

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

ultralaz0r

Joined: Feb 24, 2003

quote:

K3vl4r v2.0 came out of the closet to say:

Look 3 replies above yours.

Hey man, quit fagging up the thread. :/
You just ruined my day.

Apr 30, 2004: 22:33

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

The Hackers references and different words for god are neat and all, but as the thread count reaches 2000, lets try to keep the posts relevant ok? Questions, answers, ideas, concerns. If this keeps bumping to the top, people are going to think there are updates.

Apr 30, 2004: 22:39

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

ChlamydiaJones

Joined: Sep 27, 2002

quote:

---

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:

Ok. If nothing has changed by Tonight at 1am Seattle time - (9am London time), I am going to send him another email. (Provided it wasn't a one time use account for this scam in which he has no intention of ever logging onto again.)

---

I doubt that, the e-mail has shown up in other scams posted earlier in this thread (auctionblacklist I think). I think he's a dumbass that thinks he can't be tracked down through an e-mail address that he checks at an internet cafe.

Given that the guy in the cafe/barbershop signed the same name that we have contacted him through, I sort of wish that someone had imedeatly addressed the guy by that name to see the reaction. We know that he rents, in a sense, anonymous mail drop services. Given that he signed the scammers name he is either;

1)the scammer

2)the drop FOR the scammer and the scammer does so much buisness that he always signs for FedEx packages with the scammer's name

3)always signs the same name regardless of deliverer so that the various scammers who use his shop as a drop location know to use that name.

Sort of makes you want to send the UK equivalent of a registered letter, in the scammers name, to the shop to see how he handles the transaction. Or have an agent deliver something in a box to the shop, addressed to the scammer, to see what the clerk guy does.

Apr 30, 2004: 22:42

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

RajaKumar

Joined: Jun 13, 2002

Dr Rajakumar

I AM I DON QUIXOTE

quote:

---

ultralaz0r came out of the closet to say:

german is Gott. No idea in Romanian, which is probably what you mean!

---

OK, the false leads people keep harping on are starting to make this comedic.

Apr 30, 2004: 22:42

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

yosarian

Joined: Jan 22, 2002

"A chicken in every pot and a cap in every ass"

quote:

ChlamydiaJones came out of the closet to say:

Sort of makes you want to send the UK equivalent of a registered letter, in the scammers name, to the shop to see how he handles the transaction. Or have an agent deliver something in a box to the shop, addressed to the scammer, to see what the clerk guy does.

That is an awesome idea.

Also, maybe we should setup another ebay auction for a "powerbook" for sale to see if this jerk-off tries the same thing...hmmm...my friend just told me he almost got scammed by someone who was going to drive down to DC with a "cashiers check" to pay for it. The guy never showed... hmmm...

Apr 30, 2004: 22:52

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

ultralaz0r

Joined: Feb 24, 2003

sorry for being useless, i'm just in a very sleep deprived stupor due to this thread.

Was the barber/professor man's email addie a hotmail one (too tired to go back and check)? If so, I've a friend that works for MSN who has gotten me certain info once before -- not sure if he could do so now since he's switched positions, but he may still have connections from former co-worker buddies.

Apr 30, 2004: 22:54

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

TrojanHoarse

Joined: Apr 07, 2004

Fear the Greek

Jeff, I'll be in Edmonds for the summer. Your drinks are on me. I salute you.

Apr 30, 2004: 23:02

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Pipski

Joined: Apr 18, 2004

Lovely barbershop. Pity I wasn't invited.

/faintly flickering lightbulb appears above head!/

Been thinking about how this cunt expects to shift his ill-gotten gains. He has several options.

1. Professional fence. Somehow I doubt this.
2. `No questions asked' 2nd hand computer business. All too likely.
3. Free Ads.
4. Trade magazines like Micro Mart, in the classified's section.
5. Ebay. Surely no-one is fucking stupid enough to try and sell on Ebay something they stole from Ebay. And yet we know that the escrow IP also had an Ebay page. At the time it was assumed that his 8 +ive feedbacks were faked, but I just looked again and the usernames feeding back seem too random, and sort-of `unthemed', to have been made up by one person. Perhaps he uses his Ebay page to move his wares.
6. At proper auction (as opposed to virtual one).
7. Putting cards in newsagent's windows, on university notice boards etc.

If it's 3 or 4 it might be possible to turn up either the mobile number he gave Jeff or the landline number of the shop by searching the ads. If he uses a local paper, they probably have a website. If he uses a local free paper, they probably don't.

Of course he won't be trying to shift Jeff's `powerbook' yet `cause he don't have it. He might be trying to shift other stuff though (like the stuff that arrived this morning ...)

EDIT: It's late, and I'm operating at about 40% efficiency now. Half his feedback is from sellers, the other half from buyers. One of the `sellers' praising him so highly is an auction firm. Maybe he actually runs an auction firm to dispose of his goods, and feedback to himself.

EDIT2: Scratch that - it's had 8,091 feedbacks in the last 12 months. I doubt even our scammer keeps himself that busy.

Pipski fucked around with this message at Apr 30, 2004 around 23:11

Apr 30, 2004: 23:02

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

RSPsych0

Joined: May 22, 2002

Anyone seen Super Joe?

quote:

Pipski came out of the closet to say:

EDIT2: Scratch that - it's had 8,091 feedbacks in the last 12 months. I doubt even our scammer keeps himself that busy.

I thought we had already determined it to be a stolen account? Which would make it really EASY for him to sell the stolen goods on eBay.

Apr 30, 2004: 23:12

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| withakJoined: Jan 15, 2003F != m * a I predict that you never hear from the sleazeball again. If I was scamming people out of ebay P-P-P-Powerbooks, I would stop contact as soon as the merchandise leaves the owners hands. Delivery only takes a few days at most and the owner won't figure out the scam until well after I've taken delivery. There is no reason for the scammer to further communicate with you. Hell, if it was me, it might not even be worth the effort and possible paper trail to have to go somewhere to pay the customs tax on it.This is assuming that the internet barbershop is actually the end point of the scheme. If it isn't, the middleman might just have instructions to not mess with customs at all and ignore any calls from the feds about paying it. Apr 30, 2004: 23:26User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More PostsEditQuote <tr><td>deeboJoined: Jan 21, 2004I get the feeling the guy wouldnt be stupid enough to use his own address for the scam. I think the barbershop guy knows something is sus and is getting paid to forward all these packages to somewhere.Maybe after a fair while someone should ring him up and say they know whats going on and to give up the scammers details or the police will be involved?Edit: Also seems weird that this address has been used in scams before but nothing has been done? Also that he signed with the scammers name.. pondersdeebo fucked around with this message at Apr 30, 2004 around 23:37Apr 30, 2004: 23:32User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More PostsEditQuote<tr><td>ChlamydiaJonesJoined: Sep 27, 2002quote:<hr/>withak came out of the closet to say:This is assuming that the internet barbershop is actually the end point of the scheme. If it isn't, the middleman might just have instructions to not mess with customs at all and ignore any calls from the feds about paying it.<hr/>That's an interesting point. I usually assume that a scam takes so little energy on the part of the scammer that he(or she) can put a tiny bit of effort into a whole damn lot of attempted scams and only add more effort on the ones that look promising.So with our boy he got step one; interest in dealing was expressed.He then went to step two and our boy apparently bit at it; "look at this escrow and see how much I wan't your shit!".He then went to step three, tell him how and where to ship the item; and our boy obviously bit - scammer now has proof that something, probably a powerbook, was shipped and is in the UK.He is now at step four; evaluate whether or not to expose himself by trying to actualy GET the scammed goods.He MAY have been tipped off somewhere between three and four and be completely ignoring the whole deal</td></tr></td></tr> | deeboJoined: Jan 21, 2004 I get the feeling the guy wouldnt be stupid enough to use his own address for the scam. I think the barbershop guy knows something is sus and is getting paid to forward all these packages to somewhere.Maybe after a fair while someone should ring him up and say they know whats going on and to give up the scammers details or the police will be involved?Edit: Also seems weird that this address has been used in scams before but nothing has been done? Also that he signed with the scammers name.. pondersdeebo fucked around with this message at Apr 30, 2004 around 23:37 Apr 30, 2004: 23:32User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More PostsEditQuote <tr><td>ChlamydiaJonesJoined: Sep 27, 2002quote:<hr/>withak came out of the closet to say:This is assuming that the internet barbershop is actually the end point of the scheme. If it isn't, the middleman might just have instructions to not mess with customs at all and ignore any calls from the feds about paying it.<hr/>That's an interesting point. I usually assume that a scam takes so little energy on the part of the scammer that he(or she) can put a tiny bit of effort into a whole damn lot of attempted scams and only add more effort on the ones that look promising.So with our boy he got step one; interest in dealing was expressed.He then went to step two and our boy apparently bit at it; "look at this escrow and see how much I wan't your shit!".He then went to step three, tell him how and where to ship the item; and our boy obviously bit - scammer now has proof that something, probably a powerbook, was shipped and is in the UK.He is now at step four; evaluate whether or not to expose himself by trying to actualy GET the scammed goods.He MAY have been tipped off somewhere between three and four and be completely ignoring the whole deal</td></tr> | ChlamydiaJonesJoined: Sep 27, 2002 quote:<hr/>withak came out of the closet to say:This is assuming that the internet barbershop is actually the end point of the scheme. If it isn't, the middleman might just have instructions to not mess with customs at all and ignore any calls from the feds about paying it.<hr/> That's an interesting point. I usually assume that a scam takes so little energy on the part of the scammer that he(or she) can put a tiny bit of effort into a whole damn lot of attempted scams and only add more effort on the ones that look promising.So with our boy he got step one; interest in dealing was expressed.He then went to step two and our boy apparently bit at it; "look at this escrow and see how much I wan't your shit!".He then went to step three, tell him how and where to ship the item; and our boy obviously bit - scammer now has proof that something, probably a powerbook, was shipped and is in the UK.He is now at step four; evaluate whether or not to expose himself by trying to actualy GET the scammed goods.He MAY have been tipped off somewhere between three and four and be completely ignoring the whole deal |
| deeboJoined: Jan 21, 2004 I get the feeling the guy wouldnt be stupid enough to use his own address for the scam. I think the barbershop guy knows something is sus and is getting paid to forward all these packages to somewhere.Maybe after a fair while someone should ring him up and say they know whats going on and to give up the scammers details or the police will be involved?Edit: Also seems weird that this address has been used in scams before but nothing has been done? Also that he signed with the scammers name.. pondersdeebo fucked around with this message at Apr 30, 2004 around 23:37 Apr 30, 2004: 23:32User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More PostsEditQuote <tr><td>ChlamydiaJonesJoined: Sep 27, 2002quote:<hr/>withak came out of the closet to say:This is assuming that the internet barbershop is actually the end point of the scheme. If it isn't, the middleman might just have instructions to not mess with customs at all and ignore any calls from the feds about paying it.<hr/>That's an interesting point. I usually assume that a scam takes so little energy on the part of the scammer that he(or she) can put a tiny bit of effort into a whole damn lot of attempted scams and only add more effort on the ones that look promising.So with our boy he got step one; interest in dealing was expressed.He then went to step two and our boy apparently bit at it; "look at this escrow and see how much I wan't your shit!".He then went to step three, tell him how and where to ship the item; and our boy obviously bit - scammer now has proof that something, probably a powerbook, was shipped and is in the UK.He is now at step four; evaluate whether or not to expose himself by trying to actualy GET the scammed goods.He MAY have been tipped off somewhere between three and four and be completely ignoring the whole deal</td></tr>                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | ChlamydiaJonesJoined: Sep 27, 2002 quote:<hr/>withak came out of the closet to say:This is assuming that the internet barbershop is actually the end point of the scheme. If it isn't, the middleman might just have instructions to not mess with customs at all and ignore any calls from the feds about paying it.<hr/> That's an interesting point. I usually assume that a scam takes so little energy on the part of the scammer that he(or she) can put a tiny bit of effort into a whole damn lot of attempted scams and only add more effort on the ones that look promising.So with our boy he got step one; interest in dealing was expressed.He then went to step two and our boy apparently bit at it; "look at this escrow and see how much I wan't your shit!".He then went to step three, tell him how and where to ship the item; and our boy obviously bit - scammer now has proof that something, probably a powerbook, was shipped and is in the UK.He is now at step four; evaluate whether or not to expose himself by trying to actualy GET the scammed goods.He MAY have been tipped off somewhere between three and four and be completely ignoring the whole deal                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| ChlamydiaJonesJoined: Sep 27, 2002 quote:<hr/>withak came out of the closet to say:This is assuming that the internet barbershop is actually the end point of the scheme. If it isn't, the middleman might just have instructions to not mess with customs at all and ignore any calls from the feds about paying it.<hr/> That's an interesting point. I usually assume that a scam takes so little energy on the part of the scammer that he(or she) can put a tiny bit of effort into a whole damn lot of attempted scams and only add more effort on the ones that look promising.So with our boy he got step one; interest in dealing was expressed.He then went to step two and our boy apparently bit at it; "look at this escrow and see how much I wan't your shit!".He then went to step three, tell him how and where to ship the item; and our boy obviously bit - scammer now has proof that something, probably a powerbook, was shipped and is in the UK.He is now at step four; evaluate whether or not to expose himself by trying to actualy GET the scammed goods.He MAY have been tipped off somewhere between three and four and be completely ignoring the whole deal                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |

|                                       |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                            |
|---------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------|
|                                       | (evidence could be the demise of the escrow site). He may also just have not had an opportunity to take step four. He may also be evaluating his options; he knows he has a package he may already know what he would have to pay to get it out of customs. he knows that our boy is keeping track of the deal (as evidenced through him writing to ask if there is a problem) he knows that he could get viciously busted if this is a UK police anti-scam artist sting. Our question, then, is; how do we give him that extra little push to take the p-p-p-powerbook out of customs. We know his scammer name is known at the internet cafe. We know that at least one package was accepted by the clerk, in the scammers name, at the internet cafe. Is it worthwhile for the "irate" seller, having written the buyer and gotten no response (after some time has passed), to try to contact the seller through the only other contact that he HAS for him; the address that he mailed the p-p-p-powerbook to? |                                            |
| Apr 30, 2004: 23:51                   | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | Edit Quote |
| KreezJoined: Oct 18, 2003  | "Jeff", being an internet/ebay noob, is probably wondering where in hell his money is, and why his "buyer" has not replied in 18 hours after replying very quickly to all other emails... Come on, this is $2200 we are talking about here, and if Jeff is really trying to make a sale here, he wants to know where his money is, and why the site that runs this is down. I think Mr. scammer might get suspicious if Jeff all of a sudden goes quiet... I vote for sending an email inquiring as to why the site holding his money is down and why the package is not being claimed, and most importantly, when is he getting his money.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                                            |
| Apr 30, 2004: 23:52                   | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | Edit Quote |
| Dra'kxJoined: Mar 27, 2003 | Wow, I've been reading this since it was half a page long and I never expected all this. Sure it was growing fast for a while but just getting home from work today was an extra 14 pages of posts plus 4 more as I was reading. My point? I don't really have one, beyond noting how much of an event this has become. Just wanted to contribute to make it worse for the next poor sap who mistakenly waited a day before checking again. I can hardly wait to see the next person who nearly gets scammed and how they might apply the great things learned here. Nothing exciting ever happens here...                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                                            |
| May 01, 2004: 00:00                   | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | Edit Quote |

Refugee

Joined: Apr 08, 2004

May 01, 2004: 00:05

Jeff. Write him a letter. "Hello I was wondering if you were ok. E-mail soon please kthx kiss kiss" recorded delivery.

GoGo!

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

I agree with Kreez.

Next Email:

Hi,

I was just wondering if you knew why the Escrow site is down. I'm starting to get kind of worried here. . . I haven't heard from you in a long time. Also, I see that on the FedEx tracking it is delayed somewhere over there. Are you going to go get it? I would like to receive my payment. I never entered my paypal information, and shipping address with the escrow site. . . If it is down, how can I do that?

Please contact me as soon as possible!

Thank you!

Also, I just had a thought. FedEx wants a phone number of the recipient. He gave me a fake number to give them.

Why don't I give them a number our friends can be reached at?

May 01, 2004: 00:05

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

EditQuote

TheHotCarl

Joined: Dec 14, 2003

Bulk Male Playmate of the Month: January, 1967

i wouldnt do anything, just let him get it. If he wants it, he'll go for it. the more pressure you put on him the more suspicious he will probably be.

May 01, 2004: 00:10

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

quote:

TheHotCarl came out of the closet to say:

i wouldnt do anything, just let him get it. If he wants it, he'll go for it. the more pressure you put on him the more suspicious he will probably be.

You're right. I will wait on the phone number thing. I will still send the email.

May 01, 2004: 00:13

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Refugee

Joined: Apr 08, 2004

Yes, send that e-mail, but also write to him, he hasn't responded by e-mail and you have his address (You could always put your return as a local Post Office couldn't you?)

May 01, 2004: 00:16

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Kreez

Joined: Oct 18, 2003

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:

I agree with Kreez.

Also, I just had a thought. FedEx wants a phone number of the recipient. He gave me a fake number to give them. Why don't I give them a number our friends can be reached at?

[img]http://www.accipiter.org/~ccurzio/awful/shop.gif[img]

OMG an internet celebrity said my name! ❤️❤️❤️😄

I think if there is no reply to the above email and following emails demanding payment, perhaps you could think about going to fedex to help them track him down as more aggressive action is obviously needed to keep this going.

May 01, 2004: 00:19

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Gizmo_Gun

Joined: Mar 21, 2004

Pow! Bang! Smack! Kablooney!

I wouldn't give the shop's phone number unless a couple of days go by without him contacting you and no move on the package. That would blow the cover, and then he would know something was up.

May 01, 2004: 00:24

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Phalex

Joined: May 14, 2002

Damn, I almost feel as though the package will go through the entire scammer circles' hands and finally get purchased by some poor sap expecting a real laptop.

May 01, 2004: 00:30

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Lodin

Joined: Jul 31, 2003

That's a heck of an arm you've got there! And what an eye!

Something awful happened tonight, and I witnessed the whole thing!

May 01, 2004: 00:31

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Smekerman

Joined: Feb 02, 2001

Oh yeah, I just remembered that Starbucks said when he first infiltrated the barbershop/internet cafe that he was still logged in to some guy's Yahoo account, named balanpetrica. Balan Petrica is a Romanian name. Maybe someone should infiltrate the internet cafe again and print out a page with "SUNTETI NISTE POPONARI IMPUTITI" (or some other witty saying) on it in big, bold, pink letters.

May 01, 2004: 00:41

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Pipski

Joined: Apr 18, 2004

Lovely barbershop. Pity I wasn't invited.

I think giving them the shop's phone number is an A1 idea, but not just yet. It could backfire if they actually ring him and he asks where they got the number. This guy really is a prize pillock though, it's hard to believe that he's ever successfully scammed anyone if he doesn't know that giving out a fake phone no. will hold up his package.

May 01, 2004: 00:45

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

AdeptaCheese

Joined: Oct 14, 2003

Sovereign Swiss

quote:

Wandering Idiot came out of the closet to say:

That whole longest thread thing, well, this has got a ways to go if it's going to go for the record. The map thread is at over 5000 replies itself. I don't know if there's a higher thread, more than likely there is though.

the Azumanga Daioh thread in ADTRW has 130 pages and 5178 replies.

May 01, 2004: 00:46

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Potassium

Joined: Oct 05, 2003

Cream > you

quote:

Smekerman came out of the closet to say:

Oh yeah, I just remembered that Starbucks said when he first infiltrated the barbershop/ internet cafe that he was still logged in to some guy's Yahoo account, named balanpetrica. Balan Petrica is a Romanian name. Maybe someone should infiltrate the internet cafe again and print out a page with "SUNTETI NISTE POPONARI IMPUTITI" (or some other witty saying) on it in big, bold, pink letters.

I don't know, I think Starbucks and other Goon operatives who've gone in before shouldn't go in again, lest they be recognized. It might all look a bit suspicious to the owner/possible scammer if a bunch of people randomly start coming in to use his computers and put random screensavers/print out witty sayings.

May 01, 2004: 00:49

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Lunaran

Joined: Feb 21, 2003

quote:

Smekerman came out of the closet to say:

Oh yeah, I just remembered that Starbucks said when he first infiltrated the barbershop/ internet cafe that he was still logged in to some guy's Yahoo account, named balanpetrica.

Did any of our spies think to check the browser histories on the machines? Since we know the shop's being used for this somehow, that could give us a really clear picture of how (ie front/relay).

May 01, 2004: 00:51

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

|                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| PipskiJoined: Apr 18, 2004Lovely barbershop. Pity I wasn't invited. | quote:Smekerman came out of the closet to say:Balan Petrica is a Romanian name. balan petrica - petebalan@yahoo.comromania, , barladBarlad is a place in Romania. Found this info by Googling Balan Petrica. Anyone know of a free Romanian-English dictionary?                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| May 01, 2004: 00:51                                                                                                                                                                                        | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
| SmekermanJoined: Feb 02, 2001                                                  | quote:Potassium came out of the closet to say:I don't know, I think Starbucks and other Goon operatives who've gone in before shouldn't go in again, lest they be recognized. It might all look a bit suspicious to the owner/possible scammer if a bunch of people randomly start coming in to use his computers and put random screensavers/print out witty sayings. You're right about the witty sayings, that was more of a joke than anything. I still find it weird that some random Romanian guy had his Yahoo account open on the computer Starbucks accessed. The chances of it being a coincidence are pretty slim in my opinion. It seems much more likely that he's somehow connected to this scam deal.Edit: Pipski, try www.dictionare.com for a free Romanian-English/English-Romanian dictionary. Second thing is, Barlad is indeed a city in Romania; however Petrica is the diminutive of Petre which is Romanian for Peter, and Balan is not that unusual of a last name.Smekerman fucked around with this message at May 01, 2004 around 00:59 |
| May 01, 2004: 00:54                                                                                                                                                                                        | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |

Potassium

Joined: Oct 05, 2003

Cream > you

quote:

Smekerman came out of the closet to say:

You're right about the witty sayings, that was more of a joke than anything.

Oh, good 😊

quote:

I still find it weird that some random Romanian guy had his Yahoo account open on the computer Starbucks accessed. The chances of it being a coincidence are pretty slim in my opinion. It seems much more likely that he's somehow connected to this scam deal.

Definitely. The fact that he signed for the packaged in the scammer's name just seals the whole thing.

May 01, 2004: 00:57

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Thud

Joined: Dec 17, 2002

A Shit eater?

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:

Also, I just had a thought. FedEx wants a phone number of the recipient. He gave me a fake number to give them. Why don't I give them a number our friends can be reached at?

This sounds like an excellent idea to try out if the guy still hasn't replied by tomorrow.

May 01, 2004: 01:00

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

--Buzz--

Joined: Mar 27, 2004

Maybe a number of UK Goons should wander in and have "direct" discussions with the barber about: we know about the e-bay and escrow scams, we know about the false signatures, we know about Gianluca (or whatever his name was), the receiving of items that have been sent from abroad with sole intention of de-frauding the vendor etc. etc., we have footage of delivery of same, acceptance of same by the proprietor by witnesses... the list could be endless if well planned.

I don't know about this particular dickhead, but it would scare the shit out of ME if I was a petty middleman.

Opinions?

NOTE: Buzz you are a prick is an assertion, NOT an opinion 😊

|                                                                                                                                                                                   |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |                                            |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------|
|                                                                                                                                                                                   | edited - I was thinking this may be an option for in "a few days" time," if all goes quiet... --Buzz-- fucked around with this message at May 01, 2004 around 01:11                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                            |
| May 01, 2004: 01:09                                                                                                                                                        | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | Edit Quote |
| MyNameIsJeffJoined: Dec 05, 2003  P-P-P-Powerbook.com!                 | gianluca's profile Profile StatsLast Updated: 08/23/1996 My EmailPrivate ----- BasicsYahoo! ID: GIANLUCA Everything else is blank.                                                                                                                                                                    |                                            |
| May 01, 2004: 01:11                                                                                                                                                        | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | Edit Quote |
| PipskiJoined: Apr 18, 2004  Lovely barbershop. Pity I wasn't invited. | quote: <hr/> Smekerman came out of the closet to say: Edit: Pipski, try www.dictionare.com for a free Romanian-English/English-Romanian dictionary. Second thing is, Barlad is indeed a city in Romania; however Petrica is the diminutive of Petre which is Romanian for Peter, and Balan is not that unusual of a last name. <hr/> |                                            |
| May 01, 2004: 01:16                                                                                                                                                        | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | Edit Quote |

Smekerman

Joined: Feb 02, 2001

What do you need to translate? Romanian is my first language.

May 01, 2004: 01:20

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Ionized

Joined: Nov 13, 2003

WHOA, it's a Star Destroyer!!!

Not that it probably matters much now, but here's my contribution. A lookup of Starbucks' IP addresses while posting.

217.206.152.27 - Doesn't resolve

WHOIS:

descr: Reload Internet

address: London

address: W2 1RH

address: GB

mnt-by: EASYNET-UK-MNT

81.153.112.171 - host81-153-112-171.range81-153.btcentralplus.com

WHOIS:

netname: BT-CENTRAL-PLUS

address: Suffolk

address: IP5 3RE

address: U.K.

mnt-by: BTNET-MNT

213.78.157.225 - adsl-213-78-157-225.oneteldsl.net

WHOIS:

descr: Onetel UK Broadband Services

address: London

address: SW7 4TP

address: United Kingdom

nic-hdl: OI94-RIPE

81.152.188.172 - host81-152-188-172.range81-152.btcentralplus.com

WHOIS:

netname: BT-CENTRAL-PLUS

address: Stafford

address: Staffordshire

address: ST16 2LY

address: U.K.

That's pretty weird, having computers in the same place running IP's with different delegations...

|                                                                                                                                                                         |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| May 01, 2004: 01:21                                                                                                                                              | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| PipskiJoined: Apr 18, 2004Lovely barbershop. Pity I wasn't invited. | 3 counts of theft.http://img5.imageshack.us/my.php?lo...alanPetrica.jpgI think that's his picture.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| May 01, 2004: 01:24                                                                                                                                              | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| PipskiJoined: Apr 18, 2004Lovely barbershop. Pity I wasn't invited. | quote: Smekerman came out of the closet to say:What do you need to translate? Romanian is my first language.Thank God, `cause this is painfully slow!http://www.online.ro/timpolis/831/ctrl + F `Balan Petrica' to find the bit. It seems to be an i/view with him.EDIT: There's also this, what the Hell is this?http://www.google.co.uk/search?q=cache:qcXnKey3pqkJ:www.impozitelocale-pneamt.ro/files/datornici/o.PDF+%22balan+petrica%22&amp;hl=enPipski fucked around with this message at May 01, 2004 around 01:28 |
| May 01, 2004: 01:26                                                                                                                                              | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| AK74Joined: Mar 05, 2003Put a big block in it                     | Wait wait wait.If he thinks that you believe the address you sent the package to is an escrow company, why would you email him asking him why he hasn't picked the package up yet? It's supposed to be in escrow .                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| May 01, 2004: 01:41                                                                                                                                              | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |

cucumbrrr

Joined: Apr 19, 2004

robot

quote:

Ionized came out of the closet to say:
IP stuff

Were all of these IP's ones that Starbucks used from the barbershop internet cafe? I thought he posted from another computer closer to a train station, after he left 9B. That could explain the differences in IP information. Also, if that guy in the picture really is our man, some of the UK goons should print it out and try to ID him the next time they visit the drop point.

side note - been following this thread since the beginning, the internet doesn't get any better!

^^^edit: The package was never meant to be sent to escrow. We went over this a while ago, but only the payment goes through it. The package goes straight to the buyer and once it is released, the escrow releases payment to the seller.

May 01, 2004: 01:43

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Smekerman

Joined: Feb 02, 2001

The first link is about some convict who ran away from home at 13 and has lived on the streets, ever since, stealing from any place he could, including the church. He was arrested for theft three times. The last time he was arrested, he was stealing money trying to pay the hospital bill after having a chronic lung disease or something. That happened in 2000. He's probably out now, but I doubt he's the guy, since he has a wife and little daughter to take care of, and said that having found out he had a child changed him, and that even though he had fled to Spain to escape conviction, he returned because of his kid. Syrupy "how i changed my life for the better" story, basically.

The second link is a list of all the people that owe money to the Piatra Neamt municipal council (or vice versa -- Romanian legalspeak has always confused the fuck out of me).

May 01, 2004: 01:44

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

quote:

AK74 came out of the closet to say:
Wait wait wait.

If he thinks that you believe the address you sent the package to is an escrow company, why would you email him asking him why he hasn't picked the package up yet? It's supposed to be in escrow.

No, it was made clear that the laptop would be sent to him. Once he received the laptop and found it to be ok, he would let the escrow know, and they would release the money to me.

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| May 01, 2004: 01:54 chizarlieJoined: Oct 12, 2003  For shizzle                              | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts Edit Quote quote: <hr/> AK74 came out of the closet to say:Wait wait wait. If he thinks that you believe the address you sent the package to is an escrow company, why would you email him asking him why he hasn't picked the package up yet? It's supposed to be in escrow. <hr/> no no. If I understand it right, with an escrow, buyer sends money to escrow, escrow tells seller it has money ok, seller sends product to buyer, buyer gets product and OK's it, then escrow releases money to seller. edit ^^ damn the quickness                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| May 01, 2004: 01:54 Y2KdoggJoined: Dec 25, 2003                                                   | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote Not sure if it's much help, but seeing as how he has been suspected of using certain Yahoo ID's and in the chance that he may actually use one of them for personal use, wasn't there a program posted on the forums a while ago that allowed people access to all user's Yahoo Briefcase pictures? I did a search for the thread but could not find it. If anyone still has this program then maybe something could actually benefit from it? It's sort of out there, but ah well, it could be worth investigating.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| May 01, 2004: 01:58 PipskiJoined: Apr 18, 2004  Lovely barbershop. Pity I wasn't invited. | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote quote: <hr/> cucumbrrr came out of the closet to say: Were all of these IP's ones that Starbucks used from the barbershop internet cafe? I thought he posted from another computer closer to a train station, after he left 9B. That could explain the differences in IP information. Also, if that guy in the picture really is our man, some of the UK goons should print it out and try to ID him the next time they visit the drop point. <hr/> He posted from Paddington twice I think, once on the way up and once on the way back. What I want to know is how he ended up in an area with an Ipswich (IP) postcode travelling between Swansea and London! (Ipswich is on completely the other side of London, probably 100 miles or more from where we were.) |

|                                                                                                                                                                 |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                            |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------|
|                                                                                                                                                                 | EDIT: Cheers Smekerman. Guess that's a dead end then. 😞                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                            |
| May 01, 2004: 02:05                                                                                                                                             | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | Edit Quote |
| OtokodateJoined: Jan 15, 2004All your nuts are belong to me | quote: <hr/> Pipski came out of the closet to say:3 counts of theft. http://img5.imageshack.us/my.php?lo...alanPetrica.jpg I think that's his picture. <hr/>                                                                        |                                            |
|                                                                                                                                                                 | Yoiks! With those ears he probably doesn't need a direct connection to go online.Here's the IP information: http://www.ripe.net/perl/whois?form...o_search=Search                                                                                                                     |                                            |
| May 01, 2004: 02:28                                                                                                                                             | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | Edit Quote |
| vegajiJoined: Apr 14, 2004Owned by Hawk989s                                                                                                  | My opinion is that the Romania link is nothing important. He either got a username/password of a Romanian for some service (ebay or something), or he is using a Romanian proxy. But I could of missed some information in the thread. Let's all just hope we get some gratification, it takes hours to read through this entire thread. |                                            |
| May 01, 2004: 02:37                                                                                                                                             | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                           | Edit Quote |
| kripesJoined: Aug 14, 2002BRRRRRAAAAAIIIIINNNSSS          | quote: <hr/> vegaji came out of the closet to say:But I could of missed some information in the thread. <hr/>                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                            |
|                                                                                                                                                                 | COULD HAVE Seriously, what the fuck is going on these days with this?                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                            |
| May 01, 2004: 02:44                                                                                                                                             | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                           | Edit Quote |

triple clutcher

Joined: Jul 10, 2003

Los quernos, the triple clutcher!

quote:

kripes came out of the closet to say:

COULD HAVE Seriously, what the fuck is going on these days with this?

For all intensive purposes, their the same thing.

May 01, 2004: 02:48

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Syntonica

Joined: Aug 28, 2003

Lynza loves me so she bought me this account

quote:

vegaji came out of the closet to say:

My opinion is that the Romania link is nothing important. He either got a username/password of a Romanian for some service (ebay or something), or he is using a Romanian proxy.

But I could of missed some information in the thread.

Let's all just hope we get some gratification, it takes hours to read through this entire thread.

OMG! He's a Romanian spy! In fact, "vegaji" is an ancient Dacian word that means "he who disassembles on the Intarweb"!

I think we need some cold hard facts. Any of our British brothers feel like putting on their deerstalkers? 🦌

May 01, 2004: 02:49

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Dr.SchadenFreud

Joined: Jul 16, 2003

I'm going to have to give you some of my "special medicine..."

quote:

vegaji came out of the closet to say:

My opinion is that the Romania link is nothing important. He either got a username/password of a Romanian for some service (ebay or something), or he is using a Romanian proxy.

But I could of missed some information in the thread.

Let's all just hope we get some gratification, it takes hours to read through this entire thread.

I think it's a Romanian with friends in London who's doing it. I suspect that the balanpetrica username is relevant, too.

|                                                                                                                                                                         |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| May 01, 2004: 02:50                                                                                                                                              | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| rhigJoined: Jul 14, 2002bitches can't hide from this                | I think we should really wait till at least Monday evening till anyone thinks of doing anything that could avoid suspicion, the guy may want to get the laptop from fed-ex to stop it hanging around there, he's obviously getting a lot of mail and they will realise if he just ignores things with tax to be paid. Even if he is currently thinking of leaving it if Jeff's e-mails are convincing enough it's possible he might change his mind and risk it. |
| May 01, 2004: 02:56                                                                                                                                              | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| PipskiJoined: Apr 18, 2004Lovely barbershop. Pity I wasn't invited. | quote: <hr/> Dr.SchadenFreud came out of the closet to say:I suspect that the balanpetrica username is relevant, too. <hr/> It would be a bit of a coincidence if Starbuck happened to pick the same terminal our scammer last used though, out of the dozen odd in there. Stranger things have happened, but the odds are against it.                                                                                   |
| May 01, 2004: 03:02                                                                                                                                              | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| vegajiJoined: Apr 14, 2004Owned by Hawk989s                                                                                                          | I have a feeling that the P-P-P-Powerbook screensaver will tip the guy off. But yet again, he may never even give a second thought to it.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| May 01, 2004: 03:05                                                                                                                                              | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| MyNameIsJeffJoined: Dec 05, 2003P-P-P-Powerbook.com!              | quote: <hr/> Pipski came out of the closet to say: <hr/> It would be a bit of a coincidence if Starbuck happened to pick the same terminal our scammer last used though, out of the dozen odd in there. Stranger things have happened, but the odds are against it. <hr/> Maybe that fag likes to sit next to the window. SB sat there so he could see the street. Maybe he does too.                                  |

|                                                                                                                                                                                      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                                                                                                                                                                                      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| May 01, 2004: 03:05                                                                                                                                                                  | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| rhigJoined: Jul 14, 2002  bitches can't hide from this | He used an upstairs terminal so the odds arnt too bad, the scammer wouldn't want to use the computers downstairs as the screens are too easy to read. Edit: Posting this guy something to get a signature is also a good idea, citylink put the signature online but I dont know if the PO do, he must have his real name registered somewhere for his business too. rhig fucked around with this message at May 01, 2004 around 03:17 |
| May 01, 2004: 03:05                                                                                                                                                                  | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| minJoined: May 12, 2001                                           | quote: <hr/> AdeptaCheese came out of the closet to say: the Azumanga Daioh thread in ADTRW has 130 pages and 5178 replies. <hr/> before it got closed and pruned the diablo II 1.10 thread in the games forum was well over 10,000 posts.                                                                                                                                                                               |
| May 01, 2004: 03:11                                                                                                                                                                  | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| PhalexJoined: May 14, 2002                                      | quote: <hr/> min came out of the closet to say: before it got closed and pruned the diablo II 1.10 thread in the games forum was well over 10,000 posts. <hr/> quote: <hr/> Fistgrrl came out of the closet to say: SHUT UP SHUT UP SHUT UP ABOUT THE GODDAMNED LENGTH OF THE FUCKING THREAD <hr/>                                                                                           |

|                                                                                                                                                                         |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| May 01, 2004: 03:16                                                                                                                                              | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| PipskiJoined: Apr 18, 2004Lovely barbershop. Pity I wasn't invited. | quote: <hr/> rhig came out of the closet to say:he must have his real name registered somewhere for his business too. <hr/> I think so too, but I'm not sure how in the hell you found out. The council must have a list but Gawd knows if it's public access or not. Will try and find out more about that tomorrow but I really must get some shuteye now.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| May 01, 2004: 03:34                                                                                                                                              | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| TekilahJoined: Apr 15, 2004Everything good was taken                                                                                                 | quote: <hr/> rhig came out of the closet to say:He used an upstairs terminal so the odds arnt too bad, the scammer wouldn't want to use the computers downstairs as the screens are too easy to read. Edit: Posting this guy something to get a signature is also a good idea, citylink put the signature online but I dont know if the PO do, he must have his real name registered somewhere for his business too. <hr/> You could try paying for your internet time by cheque...:P Ok, it probably won't work, but if you were to send the bastard a cheque with some sort of good reason, he'd probably try to cash it if he could. 😊 |
| May 01, 2004: 03:34                                                                                                                                              | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |

rhig
Joined: Jul 14, 2002

bitches can't hide from this

quote:

Pipski came out of the closet to say:

I think so too, but I'm not sure how in the hell you found out. The council must have a list but Gawd knows if it's public access or not. Will try and find out more about that tomorrow but I really must get some shuteye now.

I did a search on Yell and got nothing but that's voluntary, those local business pages similar to yellow pages might have it but I don't think there is online access to those. <http://www.companieshouse.gov.uk/> Has a webcheck which allows access to free company information but I'm not sure if that will do it and its only accessible Monday to Saturday 7:00am to 12 Midnight UK Time.

quote:

Tekilah came out of the closet to say:

You could try paying for your internet time by cheque...:P

Ok, it probably won't work, but if you were to send the bastard a cheque with some sort of good reason, he'd probably try to cash it if he could. 😊

Hell his internet was £1 an hour or something, maybe I could open a PO box with one 😊 Even if it was nearer I don't think I'd go there for a while, the guy really thought something was up before we left. Of course opening a PO box would be the best source of info as someone could ask if they had to give their name/ID etc.

rhig fucked around with this message at May 01, 2004 around 03:45

May 01, 2004: 03:39

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit Quote

Shady

Joined: Apr 16, 2003

It's always a few degrees cooler in the shade...

quote:

triple clutcher came out of the closet to say:

For all intensive purposes, their the same thing.

"For all intents and purposes, they're the same thing."

vvvvvvv sup Lauren, long time no talk 😊

Shady fucked around with this message at May 01, 2004 around 05:33

May 01, 2004: 03:53

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Lauren

Joined: Sep 12, 2001

Much respect to all involved. 🙏

May 01, 2004: 03:56

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Rate thread:

Post

Reply

The Awful Forums > Archives > Comedy Goldmine > This guy is trying to rip me off on ebay. How should I respond to his email

(4): << 1 2 3 4 >>

Subscribe to this Thread

Powered by: Our hacked version of vBulletin
Copyright ©2000-2002, Jelsoft Enterprises Limited, although we did more work on the software than they did.
<http://www.somethingawful.com>

Something Awful Forums - Forum Archives - Something Awful Website - Buy SA Merchandise! - Shop Through SA Affiliates

\*\*\* LOG IN \*\*\* - Change Your Custom Title - Change a User's Custom Title - Change Your Username - Buy a Banner Ad - Register an Account - Donate to SA - Upgrade User to Platinum - Remove All Ads - Purchase Bonus Features

User Control Panel - Search the Forums - Member Directory - Private Messages - Download the SA Forums PSD tag - Calendar - Forum Rules - Dictionary/FAQ -

YOU HAVE NOT REGISTERED A SOMETHING AWFUL FORUMS ACCOUNT!

(Or you have not logged in yet. If you do have a forums account and something does not appear to be working correctly, please email forumsaccount@somethingawful.com and we'll try to get you fixed up.)

This annoying message will appear on every screen until you register an account! Please get rid of this annoying message by registering your own SA Forums Account and joining us in our putrid rollercoaster ride to hell. You're only seeing a small slice of the SA Forums, and trust me, there are a ton of other exciting forums you currently lack access to, ones full of wonder and people who enjoy the forbidden Internet fruits of pleasure (pictures of dead fat people). So do us all a favor and join us for the low, low one-time price of \$9.95! We charge money to register because it can cost us up to $2,000 per month for bandwidth bills alone, and since we don't believe in shoving popup ads down your throats, we try to make the money back through forum registrations. The SA Forums are one of the last friendly, troll-free popular communities left on the Internet, and we'd love it if you could become another honorary SA Goon. We've got over 20,000 highly active members yet maintain a strong community full of exciting and moderately psychotic people who may or may not stab you if you meet them in real life. So, in conclusion..

>>> JOIN US! <<<

The Awful Forums > Archives > Comedy Goldmine > This guy is trying to rip me off on ebay.
How should I respond to his email

(4): « 1 2 3 4 »

| Author                                                             | Thread                                                                                                                                                                                                | Post | Reply |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------|-------|
| murphyrulezJoined: Mar 06, 2004The King of Pain | quote: <hr/> Shady came out of the closet to say: "For all intents and purposes, they're the same thing." <hr/> For all intensive purposes, he was kidding. |      |       |

|                                                                                                                                |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| May 01, 2004: 03:56                                                                                                     | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| charliemaulJoined: Jun 07, 2003 | fuck even if this is a dead stick right now please post much appreciation and don't let goon dedication to a worthy cause die. Your trials and tribulations were not in vain. Cheers to Starbucks, Jeff, Pipski all others that rode in head first and put their lives and jobs and freedom on the line for the sake of justice. If there was a salute smiley it'd be right here :salute: |
| May 01, 2004: 04:15                                                                                                     | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| vegajiJoined: Apr 14, 2004Owned by Hawk989s                                                                 | I have to admit that Starbucks was pretty brave. He changed the screensavers, caught the delivery (whether or not it was the triple P Powerbook) on webcam, and acquired info about the computer(s) BRAVO                                                                                                                                                                          |
| May 01, 2004: 04:18                                                                                                     | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| TheHotCarlJoined: Dec 14, 2003Bulk Male Playmate of the Month: January, 1967                                | he'll pick it up sooner or later, just let the bait sit.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| May 01, 2004: 04:32                                                                                                     | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| ForeskinJoined: Dec 15, 2003    | quote: <hr/> murphyrulez came out of the closet to say: For all intensive purposes, he was kidding. <hr/> I dont know if you're kidding or not but its "intents and purposes" not intensive purposes.                                                                                                                                                  |
| May 01, 2004: 04:34                                                                                                     | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| ShiiJoined: Feb 17, 2004      | quote: <hr/> charliemaul came out of the closet to say: If there was a salute smiley it'd be right here :salute: <hr/>                                                                                                                                              |
| May 01, 2004: 04:35                                                                                                     | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |

|                                                                                                                                                                                                           |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| TheHotCarlJoined: Dec 14, 2003Bulk Male Playmate of the Month: January, 1967                                                            | quote: Foreskin came out of the closet to say:I dont know if you're kidding or not but its "intents and purposes" not intensive purposes. read 5 lines up, or is that too much work?                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| May 01, 2004: 04:46                                                                                                                                                                                       | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| BluecobraJoined: Sep 11, 2001Cobra Commander | How long does it take for the Fedex thing to update? Its been 17 hours since the delivery took place.http://www.fedex.com/cgi-bin/tracki...rs=846563452310                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| May 01, 2004: 04:53                                                                                                                                                                                       | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| LazeeJoined: Feb 23, 2004He-Pimp                                                                                                        | quote: Bluecobra came out of the closet to say:How long does it take for the Fedex thing to update? Its been 17 hours since the delivery took place.http://www.fedex.com/cgi-bin/tracki...rs=846563452310 no no no, the package never got delivered it was the wrong one. The scammer still needs to pay import tax before the package can get delivered, that's we're waiting on now - for the taxes to get paid. |
| May 01, 2004: 04:57                                                                                                                                                                                       | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| PrimarisJoined: Feb 15, 200411 out of 12 physicians agree I have a large penis.                                                         | INCOMING ORIGINALITY POST I just want you guys to know Im not paying the tax on that fake laptop, I know what you guys are up to! /END ORIGINALITY                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| May 01, 2004: 04:58                                                                                                                                                                                       | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |

chizarlie

Joined: Oct 12, 2003

For shizzle

quote:

Primaris needs to burn in hell for this lovely post
****INCOMING ORGINALITY POST******

I just want you guys to know Im not paying the tax on that fake laptop, I know what you guys are up to!

/END ORGINALITY

quote:

The mad moderators forum you stupid fuck
Posting as if you were the person in the original post unless intensely humorous

Example:
First post:
"This guy said I stole his 10 dollars."

Your post:
"YOU STOLE MY 10 DOLLASR!!! LOL!!! THAT WAS ME IN YOUR ORIGINAL STORY AND I WANT MY MONEY BACK I AM A CLEVAR INDIVIDUAL NOW EVERYBODY BE MY EFRIEND"

Your originality escapes me. I would say many have done what you've done before.

May 01, 2004: 05:06

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

oddmanout

Joined: Feb 02, 2003

Damn, I dont visit this thread for a whole day and it has grown to 50 some pages. Wish there was a way to archive all of the relevant posts!

A little...odd.

May 01, 2004: 05:08

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

CountOfNowhere

Joined: Feb 26, 2004

.....there's 20 of them!

quote:

oddmanout came out of the closet to say:
Damn, I dont visit this thread for a whole day and it has grown to 50 some pages. Wish there was a way to archive all of the relevant posts!

like yours?

May 01, 2004: 05:10

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

KiwiBoi
Joined: Mar 13, 2004

quote:

---

Shii came out of the closet to say:

---

It needs to be waving a British flag and perhaps have one of those big-ass black fuzzy hat things that those palace guards have (sorry, I forget the name). Changing of the guard and all that...

May 01, 2004: 05:16

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit Quote

AngryVictim
Joined: Feb 20, 2004

I'm going to end this here, as if I had the authority.

quote:

---

Foreskin came out of the closet to say:

I don't know if you're kidding or not, but it's "intents and purposes," not intensive purposes.

---

As they say, fixed.

May 01, 2004: 05:31

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit Quote

Imasalmon
Joined: Mar 19, 2003

Guy in the Green Hat

I think bravo team could get away with returning to 9B, but they would need a cover story. Causally mention to the owner that you just moved into the area, and try to get a little chummy with him. I think his being suspicious of the goons was not too out of line. I would probably be a little suspicious if a couple of dudes I had never seen before all of a sudden started coming in and out all day, acting squirrely and never seemed to leave the area. That's why it might pay off to go back with a cover story. It also might be beneficial to look into what it takes to get a PO Box at 9B, it might be worth while to help figure out how aware the owner is of the activities of the scammer.

quote:

---

CountOfNowhere came out of the closet to say:

like yours?

---

zing!

May 01, 2004: 05:33

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit Quote

|                                                                                                                                                                                 |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| PrimarisJoined: Feb 15, 200411 out of 12 physicians agree I have a large penis.                                          | Maybe I also should have mentioned for the reading comprehension impaired that I was being sarcastic?.....It saddens me you went to all that trouble to find the post in the things the moderator's dislikes thread....😞 EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| May 01, 2004: 05:35                                                                                                                            | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| FrontLineJoined: Sep 17, 2003 | quote:Primaris came out of the closet to say:Maybe I also should have mentioned for the reading comprehension impaired that I was being sarcastic?.....It saddens me you went to all that trouble to find the post in the things the moderator's dislikes thread....😞Get off my Interweb.This works so well...FrontLine fucked around with this message at May 01, 2004 around 05:48 May 01, 2004: 05:45 User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More PostsEditQuote |

evilhanz
Joined: Mar 05, 2002

quote:

---

KiwiBoi came out of the closet to say:

It needs to be waving a British flag and perhaps have one of those big-ass black fuzzy hat things that those palace guards have (sorry, I forget the name). Changing of the guard and all that...

---

How's this one?

evilhanz fucked around with this message at May 01, 2004 around 06:12

May 01, 2004: 06:09

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

EditQuote

skroll
Joined: Jun 24, 2002

quote:

---

withak came out of the closet to say:

He won't have any idea what it means. He never will if he just forwards the package on to his Romanian overlords without opening it.

---

What if the Romanians are some big mafia-esque operation, and they kill the barbershop owner because they think he ripped them off?

Hilarity ensues!

---

When all is said and done, there's no love lost.

May 01, 2004: 06:52

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

MyNameIsJeff
Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

I keep imagining 2 big Russians coming to my house for revenge just like 'The Boondock Saints.' Except they are Romanian.

May 01, 2004: 06:59

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

EditQuote

absolut1
Joined: Sep 18, 2003

Absolut Awful

If he never goes to pick it up, and everything goes down the tubes, I would be very interested in a follow-up on the 'mailbox' rental side of things. Also, if he never picks it up, you could consider making another p-p-p-powermac and sending it. Except this time, send it w/o any extra weight in it (so the shipping is cheaper), and mark 'gift' and $10 on the customs form, and also include pictures of the barbershop inside the binder.

Probably don't need another post saying how awesome this is, but it is.

May 01, 2004: 07:18

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Capt_J
Joined: May 02, 2003

quote:

---

charliemaul came out of the closet to say:
fuck even if this is a dead stick right now please post much appreciation and don't let goon dedication to a worthy cause die. Your trials and tribulations were not in vain. Cheers to Starbucks, Jeff, Pipski all others that rode in head first and put their lives and jobs and freedom on the line for the sake of justice. If there was a salute smiley it'd be right here : salute:

---

This has been a wonderful thread. GG all. I await further devolpments

May 01, 2004: 07:25

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

EditQuote

pooper scooper
Joined: Oct 23, 2003

Sessarego = Salsa Rico ?

I don't know how to speak Romanian, but it does come from the same family. Could that be a bogus name as well used by our scammer at PoBOX 9b Barbershop ?

Also, I think the scammer cut-and-ran. There is no reason for him to stick around and get caught. He knows what he is doing. Even if the risk is minimal, it would be stupid for him to stand opposite customs agents- a successful scammer would never go into the lion's den.

He can be safe and 200 bucks richer by concentrating efforts on another scam.

May 01, 2004: 07:29

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Fistgrrl
Joined: Dec 30, 2000

Queen of Cuddlenaps

quote:

---

Smekerman came out of the closet to say:

You're right about the witty sayings, that was more of a joke than anything. I still find it weird that some random Romanian guy had his Yahoo account open on the computer Starbucks accessed. The chances of it being a coincidence are pretty slim in my opinion. It seems much more likely that he's somehow connected to this scam deal.

Edit: Pipski, try www.dictionare.com for a free Romanian-English/English-Romanian dictionary. Second thing is, Barlad is indeed a city in Romania; however Petrica is the diminutive of Petre which is Romanian for Peter, and Balan is not that unusual of a last name.

---

|                                                                                                                                                     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |      |       |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------|-------|
|                                                                                                                                                     | I hope you like your new avatar.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |      |       |
| May 01, 2004: 07:40                                                                                                                                 | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | Edit | Quote |
| HestlerJoined: Apr 08, 2004king bahamut bought me this account for my birthday because I'm a fag with no credit card             | Great thread, subscribed Anyways, I don't think that our guy will cut and run, even with all the action on the fake escrow site. His "mark" has confirmed delivery, and as we can see the barber is still picking up deliveries. There is probably some trouble on his end with funds or some crazy romanian hyjinx. I don't think authorities would screw around by calling his mobile phone or posting fake items on an escrow site. They would definately bust up the barbers p.o. boxes. Ideally, he will resume with email, pay taxes like a good scammer, open box, get screwed, die horribly. |      |       |
| May 01, 2004: 07:50                                                                                                                                 | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | Edit | Quote |
| amputeeJoined: Aug 05, 2003i might be wrong...                                                                                   | personally, im still kind of blaming the delay on customs. a while back, i ordered a poster from canada, via ebay. it took about 6 or 7 weeks for it to come in (i live in the states, AR to be specific). i still have hope and much anticipation that this thread has resolution in jeff's and our favour.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |      |       |
| May 01, 2004: 07:53                                                                                                                                 | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | Edit | Quote |
| LuciferJoined: Mar 23, 2004Old people have sex.                                                                                  | OK, so the barber signed for the package with the scammer's name. I think we still need to rule out the possibility that the barber actually IS the scammer. I think someone should call the barbernet shop, say, posing as an angry customer. "I'm not happy. I want to talk to the owner. What's you name?" etc. Or, if the the barber isn't the owner, ask for the barber's name. I would do it if it weren't for my fairly strong Australian accent and the fact that the call would cost me so goddamn much 😞.                                                                           |      |       |
| May 01, 2004: 08:04                                                                                                                                 | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | Edit | Quote |
| gorbJoined: Sep 24, 2002El Hombre Mas Fino | Every rose has its thorn.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |      |       |
| May 01, 2004: 08:06                                                                                                                                 | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | Edit | Quote |

Piglet
Joined: Jan 22, 2002

ZUB! ZUB!

quote:

---

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:
I keep imagining 2 big Russians coming to my house for revenge just like ‘The Boondock Saints.’ Except they are Romanian.

---

Or maybe they'll shove your head in the toilet and then piss on your rug.

May 01, 2004: 08:30

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

EditQuote

MyNameIsJeff
Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

quote:

---

gorb came out of the closet to say:
Every rose has its thorn.

---

It does?!?

This is fantastic information.

EXCELLENT WORK.

May 01, 2004: 09:23

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

EditQuote

liquorhead
Joined: Jul 11, 2002

elephant parts 4 life

quote:

---

Fistgrl came out of the closet to say:

---

I hope you like your new avatar.

---

Hahah! Classic!

May 01, 2004: 09:33

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Powercrazy
Joined: Feb 15, 2004

I am become death, the
destroyer of worlds.

Robert Oppenheimer

Another vote for just a customs delay. I'm sure the scammer was using the escrow site in multiple scams. Thus it is no surprise that it got shut down, that is probably standard operating procedure. Now the only problem is if he thinks something about the thousand or so SA referrals.

Just give it time. A few days would be best, or until FedEx updates. Which ever comes first.

May 01, 2004: 09:37

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Celdin

Joined: Sep 02, 2003

I wouldn't be surprised either if it's a customs delay. I spent 6 months living in Sweden last year, and a few packages sent to me from the States were delayed because of customs, with one being stuck in customs for about 2 weeks. Hopefully this wont also get stuck in customs for such a long time.

May 01, 2004: 09:49

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuoteIce Blue

Joined: Mar 20, 2002

Sigh.

quote:

murphyrulez came out of the closet to say:

For all intensive purposes, he was kidding.

What the fuck is an instensive purpose? It's intents and purposes.

So do we know if he paid the tax or what? (I read this thread from 1-12 when it was newer but then it exploded, so I don't have time to wade through all the posts.)

May 01, 2004: 10:07

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuoteMyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

quote:

Ice Blue came out of the closet to say:

What the fuck is an instensive purpose? It's intents and purposes.

So do we know if he paid the tax or what? (I read this thread from 1-12 when it was newer but then it exploded, so I don't have time to wade through all the posts.)

No, he didn't. He did happen to get a package a lot like our ringer the same day. There is an unknown delay at customs.

May 01, 2004: 10:41

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

EditQuotePotassium

Joined: Oct 05, 2003

Cream > you

quote:

Ice Blue came out of the closet to say:

What the fuck is an instensive purpose? It's intents and purposes.

No shit, Sherlock. We have established that people were kidding by posting "intensive purposes."

May 01, 2004: 10:58

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Accipiter Joined: Jan 24, 2004  Pop it, D-Man!                                                        | Feh, maybe I missed the context for the intentional grammar fuckups, but whatever. Accipiter fucked around with this message at May 01, 2004 around 11:20                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| May 01, 2004: 11:13 IndyPunkOne Joined: Aug 05, 2002  Got a tattooed tit, say Number 13.   | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote  PACKAGE JUST RELEASED FROM CUSTOMS, I REPEAT IT HAS BEEN RELEASED                                                                                             |
| May 01, 2004: 11:34 Lucifer Joined: Mar 23, 2004 Old people have sex.                                                                                                                 | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote quote:IndyPunkOne came out of the closet to say:PACKAGE JUST RELEASED FROM CUSTOMS, I REPEAT IT HAS BEEN RELEASED Still listed as delayed for me. |
| May 01, 2004: 11:41 IndyPunkOne Joined: Aug 05, 2002  Got a tattooed tit, say Number 13. | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote quote:Lucifer came out of the closet to say:Still listed as delayed for me.  You need to download the lastest internet browser                                                                                          |
| May 01, 2004: 11:45                                                                                                                                                                                                    | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |

Tom
Joined: Jun 08, 2000

WHERE IS MY CHEESE?

I can't belive I actually read (fast forwarded to all of MyNamelsJeff's posts) this entire thread. Good stuff, great work

May 01, 2004: 11:50

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Phalex
Joined: May 14, 2002

quote:

IndyPunkOne came out of the closet to say:

PACKAGE JUST RELEASED FROM CUSTOMS, I REPEAT IT HAS BEEN RELEASED

Choke on your lies!

May 01, 2004: 11:54

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Ice Blue
Joined: Mar 20, 2002

Sigh.

quote:

Potassium came out of the closet to say:

No shit, Sherlock. We have established that people were kidding by posting "intensive purposes."

Way to use a really old and retarded catchphrase.

May 01, 2004: 12:01

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

FrontLine
Joined: Sep 17, 2003

quote:

Ice Blue came out of the closet to say:

Way to use a really old and retarded catchphrase.

Way to counter this 'old and retarded catchphrase' with another one.

oh wai

|                                                                                                                                                    |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| May 01, 2004: 12:06                                                                                                                                | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| WoofJoined: Nov 03, 2002                                                                                                                | Lets not forget, Monday is a public holiday in the UK, so there will be delays in processing.I doubt if the parcel is not cleared today, then nothing much will happen until Tuesday.                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
| May 01, 2004: 12:11                                                                                                                                | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| Dr.SchadenFreudJoined: Jul 16, 2003                                                                                                     | Dammit! Come on, Gianluca! Don't make your P-P-P-P-PowerBook wait any longer than it already has!                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| I'm going to have to give you some of my "special medicine..." |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| May 01, 2004: 12:38                                                                                                                                | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| deeboJoined: Jan 21, 2004                                                                                                               | quote: IndyPunkOne came out of the closet to say: PACKAGE JUST RELEASED FROM CUSTOMS, I REPEAT IT HAS BEEN RELEASED  no                                          |
| May 01, 2004: 12:43                                                                                                                                | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| sven523Joined: Dec 18, 2003                                                                                                             | quote: IndyPunkOne came out of the closet to say: PACKAGE JUST RELEASED FROM CUSTOMS, I REPEAT IT HAS BEEN RELEASED  Hmmm, I don't know what you're smoking. |

catpot

|                                                                                                                                                   |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                      |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------|
|                                                                                                                                                   | Is it possible that the scammer has payed the tax via credit card over the phone, and that the delay is entirely due to customs inspection? It's really too bad all the UK goons made such an appearance and it didn't get delivered. We got some great intelligence (thanks guys) but it would be nice if someone could be there when it gets delivered. Any other UK goons hiding out there? |                      |
| May 01, 2004: 12:47                                                                                                                               | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | EditQuote |
| HawkmanJoined: Aug 06, 2002  JAFFA KREE | Fear the P-P-P-P-P-Powerbook, for it is mighty and with much processing power.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |                      |
| May 01, 2004: 13:13                                                                                                                               | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | EditQuote |
| pooper scooperJoined: Oct 23, 2003             | Tracking number846563452310Ship dateApr 28, 2004 Delivery locationCOLINDALE GBService typeInternational Priority Service Apr 30, 2004 3:19 am Package statusSTANSTED GB Regulatory Agency Clearance Delay Apr 29, 2004 9:19 pm Package statusSTANSTED GB Package available for clearance    |                      |
| May 01, 2004: 13:22                                                                                                                               | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | EditQuote |

|                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Paul_Klein Joined: May 23, 2003 Jesus Saves! - And Takes Half Damage!!                                                                                            | 1) Something tells me this thread probably won't fully bloom for at least another day or two. However, see #2. 2)I really, really, really doubt* you will ever hear from this guy if he DOES get the package and opens it. *really, really, really, really doubt.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
| May 01, 2004: 13:48                                                                                                                                                                                | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| Otokodate Joined: Jan 15, 2004  All your nuts are belong to me         | quote: pooper scooper came out of the closet to say:Also, I think the scammer cut-and-ran. There is no reason for him to stick around and get caught. He knows what he is doing. Even if the risk is minimal, it would be stupid for him to stand opposite customs agents- a successful scammer would never go into the lion's den. No, I think he or somebody else will pick it up. He knew he was going to have to deal with customs just because of the size of the package.                                                                                                                  |
| May 01, 2004: 14:01                                                                                                                                                                                | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| eclipse Joined: Mar 12, 2003  It's gone rather dark all of a sudden... | If he's going to pick it up, it'll have to be today or then from Tuesday next week most likely as it's a bank holiday weekend here (Monday everything is closed).                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| May 01, 2004: 14:04                                                                                                                                                                                | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| Woof Joined: Nov 03, 2002                                                                                                                                                    | Did any of the Barbershop Reccy Squad see the barber sign for, or any type of signature, in the shop whilst working under cover? It looks like we can view the signature of the person who signs for the package, using the 'Signature Proof' button beneath the tracking screen, and view this online. We could compare the signature of the barber in the shop against the signature of the scammer, to see if they are one of the same. We maybe able to nail our man through his signature. We may need another reccy into the shop looking for hand written notes, signs or signatures for comparison. |
| May 01, 2004: 14:14                                                                                                                                                                                | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |

charliemaul

Joined: Jun 07, 2003

Me: Hello Fed Ex?
FE: Yessir, How can I help ye?
Me: package# 846563452310, you have 1 hour and 15 seconds to deliver it
FE: What?
Me: 1 hour and 13 seconds, 12, 11, 10, 9, 8....better hurry there buddy.
FE: Oh shit!

Maybe it'll work, maybe it won't. Who wants to try it.

May 01, 2004: 14:15

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

smitz

Joined: Nov 05, 2003

quote:

Woof came out of the closet to say:

Did any of the Barbershop Reccy Squad see the barber sign for, or any type of signature, in the shop whilst working under cover?

Yes, initials where G. A. [something else unintelligable]

May 01, 2004: 14:51

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Berto2112

Joined: Oct 02, 2003

Can I get a hell yeah?

Gonna add yet another "great thread" post but also some fun an hijinks.

I know this was probably covered before (read: yes it was) but we know that this guy received multiple packages in a single day and most likely gets packages several times a week. We should start mailing letters to the scammer at that box with little bits of info in it each time. Toss in a couple of pictures from the UK Goon Recon Squad, maybe sentence fragments that he has to combine with other letters to get the full sentence basically calling him out on his whole scamming business. If people want to pony up, we can send him more shit (I'll throw down some bills personally). More or less, just mess with his head. Of course, this should all be done at a later time once this whole act plays out. And of course, send what flimsy evidence we have to some sort of authorities in the small hopes that they actually do something (doubtful). This is just too good a chance of screwing a scammer to pass up.

This vaguely reminds me of that email story that went around years ago witht he guy who kept getting wrong number phone calls and put the numbers in his speed dial and whenever he got stressed out he'd call one of them and yell "ASS" and hang up. Eventually he got the two people to get in a fight in one of their front lawns. It was a great story...anyone remember that?

Short version:

Once this is over, lets fuck with the guy some more.

May 01, 2004: 14:58

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Pipski

Joined: Apr 18, 2004

Lovely barbershop. Pity I wasn't invited.

Interesting. I sort of assumed that `Gianfranco Sessarego' was a nom de plume, but I just spoke to directory enquiries and asked for a number for him at `9 Varley Parade'. They told me his number was ex-directory. So there is a phone account in that name at that address.

EDIT:

Whoah! Check this out - account by a guy in Canada who nearly got scammed by these guys (not massively enlightening, but fleshes out the picture a bit) - with more information on the Romanian connection at the bottom:

http://www.auctionblacklist.com/view\_fraud.php?case\_id=182
http://www.auctionblacklist.com/view\_fraud.php?case\_id=86
<http://www.bikez.biz/ads/showad.php?ad=5821>

New e-mail address for the perp as well.

Screen Name: bowling
Name: Benone Takini
E-mail: btakini@yahoo.com
Phone:
Address: 9B Varley Parkade
City: London, Colindale State: Unknown Zip: NW9 6RR
Country: UK

Screen Name: italian
Name: LIPMERIS KOSTAS
E-mail: pungaruv@yahoo.com
Phone: 3203862645
Address: 9B Varley Parade
City: COLINDALE State: Unknown Zip: NW96RR

Any UK goons got a motorbike license? (I doubt the Blackbird actually exists, but that needn't stop us offering to buy it off him and going for a test drive.)

EDIT: Beaten like Saints.

Pipski fucked around with this message at May 01, 2004 around 20:31

May 01, 2004: 15:09

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

qwf

Joined: Mar 12, 2004

I have a strong convincement that the guy is not Romanian, but Italian. Gianluca Sassarego is an Italian name, while "Benone" means "Very well" in Italian.

In any case I'll try to devote more goon effort no nail his ass, rather than just making fun of him! With some more investigations our UK goons may report to authorities.

qwf fucked around with this message at May 01, 2004 around 15:46

May 01, 2004: 15:36

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Voice of Reason
Joined: Jul 20, 2002

quote:

Berto2112 came out of the closet to say:
This vaguely reminds me of that email story that went around years ago witht he guy who kept getting wrong number phone calls and put the numbers in his speed dial and whenever he got stressed out he'd call one of them and yell "ASS" and hang up. Eventually he got the two people to get in a fight in one of their front lawns. It was a great story...anyone remember that?

Nope, never heard of it.

May 01, 2004: 15:52

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

schmuckfeatures
Joined: Oct 27, 2003

This avatar needs more Rumsfeld

quote:

Ice Blue came out of the closet to say:
What the fuck is an instensive purpose?

It's like intensive care, only more purposeful.

May 01, 2004: 15:52

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Clown
Joined: Mar 04, 2004

Rent this space!

The package he got the other day was probably another laptop he scammed from someone else 😞
Also I doubt he is going to return a reply whether he gets the laptop or not. If I was him, and some newbie eBay had told me that he sent the goods, I would have considered that scam complete.

I have a question though. With a real escrow service, couldn't you wait until you got the package and then take the money back?

If people have said this before, I don't care. I'm not reading through 50-odd pages to find out 😊

May 01, 2004: 16:07

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Voice of Reason
Joined: Jul 20, 2002

quote:

Clown came out of the closet to say:
I have a question though. With a real escrow service, couldn't you wait until you got the package and then take the money back?

No. The escrow service won't give you your money back if the seller can prove shipment.

May 01, 2004: 16:09

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

kiimo
Joined: Jul 24, 2003

quote:

---

Ice Blue came out of the closet to say:
What the fuck is an instensive porpoise?

---

 Attachment: r.jpg
This has been downloaded 2051 time(s).

May 01, 2004: 16:14      User's Profile / Image   Send a Private Message   Search For More Posts

Edit   Quote

StinkyWizzleateats
Joined: Mar 21, 2004

Third Quartermaster of the New England Calvinball Combination

quote:

---

Clown came out of the closet to say:
If people have said this before, I don't care. I'm not reading through 50-odd pages to find out 😊

---

Don't be lazy. Amend this.

May 01, 2004: 17:19      User's Profile / Image   Send a Private Message   Search For More Posts

Edit   Quote

MyNameIsJeff
Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

For those of you wondering, no, I have not received any email from him. 😞

May 01, 2004: 18:07      User's Profile / Image   Send a Private Message   User's Homepage   Search For More Posts

Edit   Quote

Chido
Joined: Dec 07, 2003

Does fedex deliver on weekends? If it doesn't, and with what somebody said about Monday being a holiday in England, then we'll have to wait until Tuesday 😞.

May 01, 2004: 18:21      User's Profile / Image   Send a Private Message   Search For More Posts

Edit   Quote

black sheep

Joined: Jul 01, 2003

Pie > Cake

quote:

charliemaul came out of the closet to say:

Me: Hello Fed Ex?

FE: Yessir, How can I help ye?

Me: package# 846563452310, you have 1 hour and 15 seconds to deliver it

FE: What?

Me: 1 hour and 13 seconds, 12, 11, 10, 9, 8....better hurry there buddy.

FE: Oh shit!

Maybe it'll work, maybe it won't. Who wants to try it.

yes, somebody should give it a try, don't forget to add "please don't shake too hard, we wouldn't want it to go off to early", we need more prison goons. that'll help increase membership

May 01, 2004: 18:23

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Tamtam

Joined: Apr 10, 2003

A tall asian...

Haha clearance delay... something must be up

May 01, 2004: 18:39

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Refugee

Joined: Apr 08, 2004

This man obviously uses this addres A LOT. I Strongly think we should alert the Police, or the Cyber Fraud Squad (I think that's the gay name they use), it's obvious he does it from abroad (Buys from abroad) because of there's less chance that people will be able to locate the place. We have:

- 1)Information on where the place is
- 2)Evidence that packages are frequent here (The guy didn't seem surprised at having packages, and he had a place to put them, rather than just setting them down, or opening them to see what they were)
- 3)A long record of him doing this.

We should get someone (Pipski seems the most clued up on his activities, and he's been to the place), to collate all the information we have on this place, and then hand it in, we haven't really done anything illegal, and it doesn't matter if we've done it, because the police can still use it because they didn't do it.

May 01, 2004: 18:45

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

rhig

Joined: Jul 14, 2002

bitches can't hide from this

quote:

Refugee came out of the closet to say:

This man obviously uses this addres A LOT. I Strongly think we should alert the Police, or the Cyber Fraud Squad (I think that's the gay name they use), it's obvious he does it from abroad (Buys from abroad) because of there's less chance that people will be able to locate the place. We have:

- 1)Information on where the place is
- 2)Evidence that packages are frequent here (The guy didn't seem surprised at having packages, and he had a place to put them, rather than just setting them down, or opening them to see what they were)
- 3)A long record of him doing this.

We should get someone (Pipski seems the most clued up on his activities, and he's been to the place), to collate all the information we have on this place, and then hand it in, we haven't really done anything illegal, and it doesn't matter if we've done it, because the police can still use it because they didn't do it.

|                                                                                                                                                           |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                                                                                                                                                           | I think it might be best to wait a while on the power book first, if it is delivered and we have notice from fed-ex someone could maybe get pictures of the box getting picked up and maybe a registration number of the car they drive away in. Failing that simply pictures of someone leaving this barbers with other fed-ex parcels, I would imagine this guy only has a couple of customers and it's likely we would get the guy. If the guy is moving a lot of stuff which is likely I doubt he's picking up the parcels personally but the identity of whose doing it could be useful. The police might not get anything on him as the barber probably doesn't have his real name but its unlikely this scam is elaborate enough to have a car registered under a fake name. quote: <hr/> bgack came out of the closet to say:I don't think there is really any reason he would email Jeff back at this point, even if he never picks up the package. If he doesn't know that you're on to him he got what he wanted, the package was sent. Depending on how much traffic that escrow site was getting before, maybe he got scared and will never go pick it up. <hr/> |
|                                                                                                                                                           | It's probably best for the emails to carry on being send tho, every convincing email is a reminder that theres a laptop waiting for him, if Jeff breaks contact theres no chance he will try and get it. rhig fucked around with this message at May 01, 2004 around 19:12                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| May 01, 2004: 19:02                                                                                                                                       | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| bgackJoined: Jun 07, 2002    | I don't think there is really any reason he would email Jeff back at this point, even if he never picks up the package. If he doesn't know that you're on to him he got what he wanted, the package was sent. Depending on how much traffic that escrow site was getting before, maybe he got scared and will never go pick it up.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| May 01, 2004: 19:07                                                                                                                                       | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| FeanorJoined: Mar 08, 2003 | quote: <hr/> Pipski came out of the closet to say:Interesting. I sort of assumed that `Gianfranco Sessarego' was a nom de plume, but I just spoke to directory enquiries and asked for a number for him at `9 Varley Parade'. They told me his number was ex-directory. So there is a phone account in that name at that address. <hr/>                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| May 01, 2004: 19:47                                                                                                                                       | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |

Pipski

Joined: Apr 18, 2004

Lovely barbershop. Pity I wasn't invited.

quote:

Refugee came out of the closet to say:
I Strongly think we should alert the Police, or the Cyber Fraud Squad

I know that Scotland Yard's computer division is basically snowed under at the moment, and has been for the last few years - too much work and not enough specialists. It might take them ages to get around to it, even if they agreed to. OFT might take an interest but I suspect they'd only hit him with lesser charges, they wouldn't, for example, be that interested in identity theft. I was seriously wondering about whether it would be worth anonymously turning our evidence over to the BBC or someone. There's half a dozen crappy programmes churned out each week that set out to get footage of people committing crimes and then turn them in. However, legitimate programme makers have a. lots of cool equipment (buttonhole cameras, cameras hidden in hats or sunglasses, big ass zoom lenses, b. lots of money (big teams of people to stake out places, the best obbo points) c. most importantly, influence (to persuade FedEx or customs to play along, to persuade the polis to prosecute the twat). Personally, I'd be reluctant to let anyone else nab this fucker until we've finished with him though. It's a Bank Holiday weekend now so it's unlikely anything much'll change before Tuesday imho.

May 01, 2004: 19:48

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

pihwlook

Joined: Jun 01, 2003

what what what what

quote:

Voice of Reason came out of the closet to say:

Nope, never heard of it.

Fuckin' Jerk!

May 01, 2004: 19:53

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

DrBubba

Joined: May 09, 2002

BANDWIDTH LEECH

quote:

Pipski came out of the closet to say:

I know that Scotland Yard's computer division is basically snowed under at the moment, and has been for the last few years - too much work and not enough specialists.

Perhaps they should hire you and Starb...

quote:

(buttonhole cameras

I read this as "butthole cameras" the first time I saw it. 😞

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                                            |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------|
| May 01, 2004: 20:03                                                                                                                                                                                                                | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | Edit Quote |
| Dr.SchadenFreud Joined: Jul 16, 2003  I'm going to have to give you some of my "special medicine..."   | quote: skroll came out of the closet to say: What if the Romanians are some big mafia-esque operation, and they kill the barbershop owner because they think he ripped them off? Hilarity ensues! Now, THAT'S what I call COMEDY!                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                            |
| May 01, 2004: 20:16                                                                                                                                                                                                                | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | Edit Quote |
| Unixmonkey Joined: Jul 03, 2002                                                                                   | quote: Pipski came out of the closet to say: I was seriously wondering about whether it would be worth anonymously turning our evidence over to the BBC or someone. Holy crap, yes. Screw the cops, and turn this over to the Press. If they pick up on the story, the police (bobbys?) will be forced to take care of it. Identity theft and ebay fraud are both mainstream press stories in the US right now.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                            |
| May 01, 2004: 20:18                                                                                                                                                                                                                | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | Edit Quote |
| Dr.SchadenFreud Joined: Jul 16, 2003  I'm going to have to give you some of my "special medicine..." | quote: Pipski came out of the closet to say: Screen Name: bowlling Name: Benone Takini E-mail: btakini@yahoo.com Phone: Address: 9B Varley Parkade City: London, Colindale State: Unknown Zip: NW9 6RR Country: UK Screen Name: italian Name: LIPMERIS KOSTAS E-mail: pungaruv@yahoo.com Phone: 3203862645 Address: 9B Varley Parade City: COLINDALE State: Unknown Zip: NW96RR I posted those a few pages back...fake names. |                                            |

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| May 01, 2004: 20:18                                                                                                                                                                                                       | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| PipskiJoined: Apr 18, 2004  Lovely barbershop. Pity I wasn't invited.                               | quote: Dr.SchadenFreud came out of the closet to say: I posted those a few pages back...fake names. So you did. Apologies. This thread is taking so many twists it's getting impossible to keep track of!                                                                                                                                                                     |
| May 01, 2004: 20:28                                                                                                                                                                                                       | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| Dr.SchadenFreudJoined: Jul 16, 2003  I'm going to have to give you some of my "special medicine..." | quote: Pipski came out of the closet to say: So you did. Apologies. This thread is taking so many twists it's getting impossible to keep track of! No worries--you are the one doing all the intrigue!                                                                                                                                                                        |
| May 01, 2004: 20:33                                                                                                                                                                                                       | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| TomJoined: Jun 08, 2000  WHERE IS MY CHEESE?                                                | quote: Unixmonkey came out of the closet to say: Holy crap, yes. Screw the cops, and turn this over to the Press. If they pick up on the story, the police (bobbys?) will be forced to take care of it. Identity theft and ebay fraud are both mainstream press stories in the US right now. good idea! here in the US 'Channel 7 on Your Side' sorta things EAT THIS SHIT UP |
| May 01, 2004: 20:45                                                                                                                                                                                                       | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |

Smekerman

Joined: Feb 02, 2001

quote:

Fistgrrl came out of the closet to say:

I hope you like your new avatar.

Hahah, that's awesome. That's especially fitting, considering my name's Vlad as well.

Thank you.

May 01, 2004: 21:00

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

yosarian

Joined: Jan 22, 2002

"A chicken in every pot and a cap in every ass"

quote:

Tom came out of the closet to say:

good idea! here in the US 'Channel 7 on Your Side' sorta things EAT THIS SHIT UP

"There's that newsvan again!" (former NY goon represent)

May 01, 2004: 21:13

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Ballz

Joined: Dec 16, 2003

not even human

I'm also in support of the news thing. I work at a local TV station (yes, "12 On Your Side!") and stuff like this is ratings gold.

But since this particular story spans two continents, local stations may be a bit wary. A British report would want the human interest to Jeff's side of the story, but he's in America. So maybe a local U.S. station might be interested, but then that story can easily miss the intrigue and criminal pursuit that's in London.

I'm tempted of saying a story like this is better suited for CNN or the BBC than a local market. 😊

Although wait, are there even local news markets in Britain, or is it all just basically like Sky and BBC and such?

May 01, 2004: 21:30

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

cYz

Joined: May 20, 2001

honestly, that story is so comedy gold, do you want it on TV ? this is something where a LOT of TV-Station/magazines would jump in and give you a nice accompaniying team to help get pics of this scammer and all

May 01, 2004: 21:50

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| HypeTeleconJoined: May 19, 2003I AM GAY AND I DON'T CARE WHEN SOMEONE'S DOG DIES | If nothing happens in the next few days, and assuming MyNameIsJeff doesn't get any emails from him...would anyone that went to the barbershop be willing to flat out confront the guy about the whole thing? Maybe while recording with a DV cam hidden in a jacket or something? I would just love to see the look on the guy's face if he was in on it. I'm also all for dumping the information to the proper department that could take care of this situation. Hopefully, because the evidence against the guy is so vast, the computer crimes department could expedite the process and throw this case on the top? |
| May 01, 2004: 22:44                                                                                                                                                                                                     | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| ArmadildoJoined: Feb 02, 2004                                                               | so confused @ this point. He sold computer, d00d got it ? or no ? now Sherlock Holmsboy is on the case ? 'WTF                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| May 01, 2004: 22:50                                                                                                                                                                                                     | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| amputeeJoined: Aug 05, 2003i might be wrong...                                                                                                                              | better idea. give it a week or so. have a goon go to the barbershop, saying that he's jeff and wanted to personally make sure the p-p-powermac got there ok, and see if he can just have his money right then. record reactions. threaten to call authorities if needed. VVVV edit - if it wasnt clear enough, this post is to be used for amusement purposes only. amputee fucked around with this message at May 01, 2004 around 23:16                                                                                                                                                            |
| May 01, 2004: 22:50                                                                                                                                                                                                     | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| LukanoJoined: Apr 28, 2003Ungood's Disciple                                                                                                                                 | quote: amputee came out of the closet to say:better idea. give it a week or so. have a goon go to the barbershop, saying that he's jeff and wanted to personally make sure the p-p-powermac got there ok, and see if he can just have his money right then. record reactions. threaten to call authorities if needed. Do you really think Jeff would fly ACROSS THE ATLANTIC OCEAN just to make sure he got the notebook?                                                                                                                                                               |
| May 01, 2004: 22:57                                                                                                                                                                                                     | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |

yosarian

Joined: Jan 22, 2002

"A chicken in every pot and a cap in every ass"

quote:

Lukano came out of the closet to say:
Do you really think Jeff would fly ACROSS THE ATLANTIC OCEAN just to make sure he got the notebook?

"Hey, my company sent me here on business and I thought I would pop in..."

of course, the Uk goon would need a killer US accent...

Unless said UK goon said "My friend Jeff asked me to stop in..."

May 01, 2004: 23:06

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

ChemicalWarfare

Joined: Jul 15, 2003

I wonder who's Kissinger now!

If you could make up a convincing story about how you ran into enough money to fly over and get the money, because you are desperate for the money. They probably wouldn't believe that though. Just keep sending increasingly worried e-mails about the money. That should probably do it.

May 01, 2004: 23:08

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Lukano

Joined: Apr 28, 2003

Ungood's Disciple

Still doesn't make much sense.

Option (a) with the friend, then why not send it to the friend, have him/her deliver (and collect payment) it and ensure safe/timely delivery?

Option (b) if he was that desperate for cash, he wouldn't blow half the cost of the notebook on a round trip plane ticket, when he could be patient and have $3000+ instead of just $2000+.

Lukano fucked around with this message at May 01, 2004 around 23:21

May 01, 2004: 23:19

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

deebo

Joined: Jan 21, 2004

How much is it to send say.. a brick locally via fedex?

If he is just forwarding we could send him a brick each day. If not.. hey enjoy your bricks, maybe attach a note to each one.

May 01, 2004: 23:40

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

yosarian
Joined: Jan 22, 2002

"A chicken in every pot and a cap in every ass"

quote:

Lukano came out of the closet to say:
Still doesn't make much sense.

Option (a) with the friend, then why not send it to the friend, have him/her deliver (and collect payment) it and ensure safe/timely delivery?

UK friend could say that he was at Uni with him, worked with him, "place-lie-why-they-were-in-Washington-State-here" and where back in the UK and were going to check in about the package.

Bear in mind:

- a) This couldn't be a goon who was seen lurking around the shop for a haircut, etc. That would raise suspicions
  - b) If the scammer is the barber, he might have opened the package, realized he was found out and might go after the unfortunate goon playing Jeff's friend.
- If the barber is just the middle man, as I think we have decided was the case, he may just look at Mr. UK Goon and say "hey, I just sign for the packages. I have no idea what you are talking about."

And then he goes and calls the Romanian mob.

quote:

Option (b) if he was that desperate for cash, he wouldn't blow half the cost of the notebook on a round trip plane ticket, when he could be patient and have $3000+ instead of just $2000+.

True, but he could always say "Hi, I just hit the lottery/My name is really Paul Whatshisface who owns the SuperSonics and is a Microsoft gazillionaire.

yosarian fucked around with this message at May 02, 2004 around 00:35

May 01, 2004: 23:45

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

HypeTelecon
Joined: May 19, 2003

I AM GAY AND I DON'T CARE
WHEN SOMEONE'S DOG DIES

quote:

Armadildo came out of the closet to say:
so confused @ this point.

He sold computer, d00d got it ? or no ?
now Sherlock Holmsboy is on the case ?

WTF

How about you read the fucking thread.

May 01, 2004: 23:54

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Pipski
Joined: Apr 18, 2004

Lovely barbershop. Pity I wasn't invited.

quote:

---

deebo came out of the closet to say:
How much is it to send say.. a brick locally via fedex?

If he is just forwarding we could send him a brick each day. If not.. hey enjoy your bricks, maybe attach a note to each one.

---

Bollocks to that, I say we send them for free, from about five yards away.

May 02, 2004: 00:03

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Uhclem
Joined: Jan 11, 2004

Really...

Just finished reading the entire thread, good fucking work guys, love the James Bond style spying from the goons and Pipski himself.

Since I can't aid you in any real way, considering much of what needed to be done already has been, I'll just give you some words of encouragement.

Even if the package is never delivered, even if our said scammer has registered here and discovered our purpose; remember that for the sake of comedy brave goons willingly put their jobs, and perhaps even their lives on the line. For the sake of drama brave goons spent many man hours tracking down and confirming delivery locations, names, phone numbers, internet addresses, and other scams this man has perpetrated. And for no reason other than a common interest goons have rallied around one another, and given their all against a just crusade.

By god, we are a force to be reckoned with, and may he have mercy against those unjust men who find themselves under our attack.

May 02, 2004: 00:47

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Armadildo
Joined: Feb 02, 2004

quote:

---

HypeTelecon came out of the closet to say:

How about you read the fucking thread.

---

I was with this thread for a good while.....

It got replied to INTO OBLIVION.

sound advice though... I'll stick a pin in it for later

May 02, 2004: 00:50

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

TheRedEye

Joined: Sep 10, 2003

You're making me very unhappy.

If this does get on TV, and you guys are interviewed, you should demand that your names on the screen be followed with "From The Internet." You know, like, on the bottom, where it would say your occupation or whatever. When they ask how you know each other, say "from The Internet," refer to Jeff being "from America's Internet," leave in the middle of the interview saying that "The Internet needs you," etc.

May 02, 2004: 00:51

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

kripes

Joined: Aug 14, 2002

BRRRRRAAAAIIIIINNNSSS

Safe to say the fun is over. He would have picked it up by now, or risk it being labeled as undeliverable, and returned. He'd want to pick it up ASAP, just in case the victim gets wise and calls FedEx and puts a stop on it.

Oh well. I had fun 🤪

May 02, 2004: 03:21

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Teflon Bob

Joined: Feb 02, 2004

Fedex is closed, he couldn't pick it up if he wanted to

May 02, 2004: 03:23

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

ZeromusMog

Joined: Feb 11, 2004

Sweet Sassy Molassy!

quote:

TheRedEye came out of the closet to say:

If this does get on TV, and you guys are interviewed, you should demand that your names on the screen be followed with "From The Internet." You know, like, on the bottom, where it would say your occupation or whatever. When they ask how you know each other, say "from The Internet," refer to Jeff being "from America's Internet," leave in the middle of the interview saying that "The Internet needs you," etc.

What the hell? That made little-no sense, yet I L O ed anyway...

May 02, 2004: 03:27

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Enlightened1

Joined: Oct 14, 2003

My eyes water from reading through all these pages, and now I wish I had paid more attention to this thread earlier...BUT...I should be relocating back home to the UK in June. Pipski, Starbucks, if you guys are ever desperate for a drink, it'll be on me.

May 02, 2004: 05:50

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

VileInt

Joined: Dec 31, 2002

If you don't hear from the guy for a while and the package is still at FedEx you can try to threaten to have it shipped back. This might motivate him to pick it up.

May 02, 2004: 06:41

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Love Muscle

Joined: Jan 26, 2004

quote:

Pipski came out of the closet to say:

legitimate programme makers have [...] influence (to persuade FedEx or customs to play along, to persuade the polis to prosecute the twat).

Which makes me think... there might be enough to arrest whoever picks up/receives the package. What about contacting the cops and Fedex, and getting them to cuff the guy when he picks up/receives the P-P-Powerbook.

May 02, 2004: 07:37

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Lollerich

Joined: Mar 25, 2004

OMG! THEY ARE HERE!

quote:

Armadildo came out of the closet to say:

so confused @ this point.

He sold computer, d00d got it ? or no ?

now Sherlock Holmsboy is on the case ?

WTF

Refrain from using AOL speak. It's impossible to read.

May 02, 2004: 11:16

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

|                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Lucifer Joined: Mar 23, 2004 Old people have sex.                                                                                                                       | I'm in favour of talking to the media as soon as possible, but making sure Scammer McScamster doesn't get tipped off.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| May 02, 2004: 11:30                                                                                                                                                                                      | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| 1badkarma Joined: Mar 02, 2004 I'm sorry, uh, I wasn't listening...                                                                                                     | quote:MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:I HAVE BAD NEWS.The ringer was not delivered. I just called FedEx. It was never paid for. Probably because the jack ass gave me a bunk phone number.I got transferred to the International Rep but hung up before I got to them. 😞 FUCK. I told you motherfuckers.I hate it when I'm right sometimes. 😞The FEDEX tracker would've updated the minute they send it out of the depot. They scan it and it registers into the system before the courier leaves the depot.Damn. I suggest we just sit tight.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
| May 02, 2004: 13:08                                                                                                                                                                                      | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| Thunderstorm Joined: Jul 07, 2002 I &lt;3 Hitler p.s. Nazis are wicked cool | Very nice thread. 😊 However much fun it is, there were a few flaws in execution though. 1. Most webhosts do offer an overview over the referring hits. It's not unlikely he noticed a large amount of SA referers and invested 10 bux to check. That romanian named account - are we sure it's a gimmick? Can Lowtax maybe assist with localizing the owners origin?2. The phone. Many cellphone providers register calling attempts while the phone is turned off. Again, I cannot say if this is the case here, but it is very well possible, that he was informed of a large amount of calls right after he shared that phone number.3. Your ebay auction finnished with a highest bidder - it wasn't canceled. I am sure he is in posession of enough ebay accounts to check on that. Maybe he fell for the "multiple notebooks" story, maybe not.4. It's also possible that all is well. He just didn't have the time/cash to pay whatever they want him to pay. Why would he be in a hurry?5. The "lay low, leave him alone" approach: You just shipped of a very expensive Notebook. The guy pushed to have you send it express, yet he didn't pick it up. You should be getting really nervous and should fire off more emails like the last one you did.6. These fake escrow sites are usually only up when they are needed, which usually isn't more than a day or two. He most likely has plenty of them. Which made the fake entries from SA very suspicious.7. If he didn't check SA he probably doesn't expect what he is in for. However, all the small things he could have noticed added together, plus a certain sudden influx of strangers in his little barbershop can be enough for him to expect the cops, not a prank. Suggestions: 1. Install backdoors on their computers. Try to get a monitor on the whole network. Maybe he uses a cheap hub to network the machines, then a |

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | simple network sniffer will do. Else it could help what kinda router he is using to connect to the internet. 2. Get the cops involved. If anything backfires it'll be a good idea to have told your story already. Gives it more credibility. 3. Bug the house. 4. Monitor the shop after it closed. See if anyone is around and uses the computers, or if everyone just goes home.                                                                                                                                            |
| May 02, 2004: 13:28                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| FeanorJoined: Mar 08, 2003 <td>quote:<hr/>Thunderstorm came out of the closet to say:2. The phone. Many cellphone providers register calling attempts while the phone is turned off. Again, I cannot say if this is the case here, but it is very well possible, that he was informed of a large amount of calls right after he shared that phone number.<hr/>No, it was a Vodaphone number. They don't do this in the UK, only Orange do.Beautiful thread by the way....</td>          | quote:<hr/>Thunderstorm came out of the closet to say:2. The phone. Many cellphone providers register calling attempts while the phone is turned off. Again, I cannot say if this is the case here, but it is very well possible, that he was informed of a large amount of calls right after he shared that phone number.<hr/> No, it was a Vodaphone number. They don't do this in the UK, only Orange do.Beautiful thread by the way....                                   |
| May 02, 2004: 14:21                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| KarmaSutraJoined: Apr 30, 2004while (tired) acquire(caffeine) <td>quote:<hr/>Thunderstorm came out of the closet to say:2. Get the cops involved. If anything backfires it'll be a good idea to have told your story already. Gives it more credibility.<hr/>In case there aren't enough goons to back up the story, and the thread is not enough? ;o)..Other than that, I'd say you're probably right.. He'd have to be either very stupid, or overconfident to have not checked out why he was getting so many referrers on his escrow site.</td>                     | quote:<hr/>Thunderstorm came out of the closet to say:2. Get the cops involved. If anything backfires it'll be a good idea to have told your story already. Gives it more credibility.<hr/> In case there aren't enough goons to back up the story, and the thread is not enough? ;o)..Other than that, I'd say you're probably right.. He'd have to be either very stupid, or overconfident to have not checked out why he was getting so many referrers on his escrow site. |
| May 02, 2004: 14:42                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| PipskiJoined: Apr 18, 2004 <td>A lot of escrow sites are used by more than one scammer. Although I reckon that this one was put together by our guy, `cause he seems to have been using it for a while (based on other complaints against him), there could be several other scammers around the world using it themselves. He wouldn't know about them, or care about them doing it `cause it wouldn't impinge his efforts. If he even checks the hits he gets he probably just attributes them to other people's scams / attempted scams.</td> | A lot of escrow sites are used by more than one scammer. Although I reckon that this one was put together by our guy, `cause he seems to have been using it for a while (based on other complaints against him), there could be several other scammers around the world using it themselves. He wouldn't know about them, or care about them doing it `cause it wouldn't impinge his efforts. If he even checks the hits he gets he probably just attributes them to other people's scams / attempted scams.                             |
| May 02, 2004: 14:57                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |

Oddity

Joined: Jun 22, 2003

First off, amazing thread.

Second off, Jeff - As I was reading this thread I saw your number quoted in some of the replies, you edited your original post but they didn't edit the quote. Think that's a problem? I wouldn't want my # on The Internet, and I don't really have any reason to fear, I'm just paranoid. <_<

May 02, 2004: 14:58

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Thunderstorm

Joined: Jul 07, 2002

I <3 Hitler p.s. Nazis are wicked cool

quote:

KarmaSutra came out of the closet to say:

In case there aren't enough goons to back up the story, and the thread is not enough? ;o)..

Well, yes, if push comes to shove, there'll be enough facts on our side. However, if the cops are "in the know" you can avoid a lot of trouble. Checking SA and the other possible proof is not going to happen right away by Joe Cop - that would happen higher up the ladder. But we wouldn't want it to escalate in the first place. Can't hurt to tell Joe Cop that you are one of the good guys. Then, even if you do break a few laws, they'll know what it's about and not lock you up suspecting something more evil.

I wasn't refering to Jeff, either, but rather to the UK goons "in the field", as they would be the one catching the flak. Nothing Jeff did would get him into serious trouble.

May 02, 2004: 14:59

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

KoalaReRe

Joined: Apr 20, 2003

The Breast Plate of Righteousness

Jeff, any news? Or will i just be left sitting here forever refreshing?

May 02, 2004: 15:40

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Jobbernowl

Joined: Mar 12, 2004

\\Job"ber*nowl`\\, n. [OE. jobbernoule, fr. jobarde a stupid fellow; cf. E. noll.] A blockhead. [Colloq. & Obs.]

I doubt Jeff will waste any time in letting us know if/when something happens. I woke up about 4 hours ago and read the entire thread without getting up once, worth the price of my account alone.

Jobbernowl fucked around with this message at May 02, 2004 around 15:58

|                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                            |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------|
| May 02, 2004: 15:45                                                                                                                                                            | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | Edit Quote |
| charliemaulJoined: Jun 07, 2003                              | I've read everything here and so far no update on the FedEx site http://www.fedex.com/cgi-bin/tracki...rs=846563452310                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                                            |
| May 02, 2004: 15:54                                                                                                                                                            | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | Edit Quote |
| highmeJoined: May 25, 2001  It's golfin time, da? | quote: <hr/>Thunderstorm came out of the closet to say:1. Most webhosts do offer an overview over the referring hits. It's not unlikely he noticed a large amount of SA referers and invested 10 bux to check. That romanian named account - are we sure it's a gimmick? Can Lowtax maybe assist with localizing the owners origin? Unless you're not referring to Dofca, Fisty already said that they use a US based ISP and are pretty much in the clear.                                                                                                                                       |                                            |
| May 02, 2004: 15:55                                                                                                                                                            | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | Edit Quote |
| logical fallacyJoined: Mar 16, 2001                         | quote: <hr/>Thunderstorm came out of the closet to say:1. Install backdoors on their computers. Try to get a monitor on the whole network. Maybe he uses a cheap hub to network the machines, then a simple network sniffer will do. Else it could help what kinda router he is using to connect to the internet. I'm not sure of the laws in the UK, but in the US this would be a very bad idea. Committing a crime against a criminal is still a crime, and any computer related crime is subject to "being made an example" and the law wouldn't look any more highly on us than the scammer. |                                            |
| May 02, 2004: 16:06                                                                                                                                                            | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | Edit Quote |

bob_dole_nz

Joined: Jan 15, 2004

Fifty four goddamned pages later and I know that in a couple of days it will be another 20. FUCK YOU ALL.

This is a brilliant thread, and if the package is not picked up in a week or so I urge everyone to pitch together to get the package sent back to the states. Assuming then that there will be no need for duties to be paid. Another 100 bucks would be well worth it to see the P-p-p-powerbook auctioned on SAmart or donated to Gooncon as a prize, or some shit like that.

Thread delivers, unlike FedEx.

May 02, 2004: 17:39

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Refugee

Joined: Apr 08, 2004

quote:

Pipski came out of the closet to say:

A lot of escrow sites are used by more than one scammer. Although I reckon that this one was put together by our guy, `cause he seems to have been using it for a while (based on other complaints against him), there could be several other scammers around the world using it themselves. He wouldn't know about them, or care about them doing it `cause it wouldn't impinge his efforts. If he even checks the hits he gets he probably just attributes them to other people's scams / attempted scams.

We should tell WatchDog. Just so the Scottish guy can shout at the barber for a bit.

May 02, 2004: 17:55

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

quote:

KoalaReRe came out of the closet to say:

Jeff, any news? Or will i just be left sitting here forever refreshing?

quote:

Jobbernowl came out of the closet to say:

I doubt Jeff will waste any time in letting us know if/when something happens. I woke up about 4 hours ago and read the entire thread without getting up once, worth the price of my account alone.

As soon as something happens, I'll have it posted here in minutes.

quote:

[i]Oddity cameout of the closet to say:

First off, amazing thread.

Second off, Jeff - As I was reading this thread I saw your number quoted in some of the replies, you edited your original post but they didn't edit the quote. Think that's a problem? I wouldn't want my # on The Internet, and I don't really have any reason to fear, I'm just paranoid. <_<

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |  |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--|
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |  I edited out. I think I got all the posts.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |  |
| May 02, 2004: 17:58                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |  |
| sofoklesJoined: Feb 07, 2004                                                                      | Great action. Don't push this guy to much on the Escrow site being down, that might alarm him as even a very naive seller would be very worried about that. Just play the FedEx line , and pretend you never asked him about it in the first place - shoot of another email on tuesday that he needs to contact FedEx urgently. He'll call and arrange a cash on delivery arrangment with them. If he doesn't reply or contact Fedex you could tease him more by later in the week mailing and saying that FedEx are telling you they will have to return it to you and whine that you might have to pay import duties to the US due to improper documentation (no Proforma Invoice) on the export file. |  |
| May 02, 2004: 18:34                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |  |
| DudleyJoined: Feb 24, 2003I am the Walrus. I am not on speaking Terms with the eggman | quote: logical fallacy came out of the closet to say:I'm not sure of the laws in the UK, but in the US this would be a very bad idea. Committing a crime against a criminal is still a crime, and any computer related crime is subject to "being made an example" and the law wouldn't look any more highly on us than the scammer. The UK has had for decades what's known as "the computer misuse act". In short an act like that could well get you 5 years in prison.                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |  |
| May 02, 2004: 19:33                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |  |
| ThunderstormJoined: Jul 07, 2002I &lt;3 Hitler p.s. Nazis are wicked cool            | quote: highme came out of the closet to say:Unless you're not referring to Dofca, Fisty already said that they use a US based ISP and are pretty much in the clear. I was under the impression he used Yahoo and noone was entirely sure if Yahoo allowed you to view your referers. No? I admit only skimming the last 20 pages for relevant information. I might have missed that part.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |  |
| May 02, 2004: 21:32                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |  |

Thunderstorm

Joined: Jul 07, 2002

I <3 Hitler p.s. Nazis are wicked cool

quote:

logical fallacy came out of the closet to say:

I'm not sure of the laws in the UK, but in the US this would be a very bad idea. Committing a crime against a criminal is still a crime, and any computer related crime is subject to "being made an example" and the law wouldn't look any more highly on us than the scammer.

I was speaking purely hypothecial, assessing the situation without taking local laws into account. I do in no way condone illegal actions.

So, purely hypothetical, a scammer is unlikely to report such findings, as finding the culprit would need some investigating into his intarnet thingies, which he probably wouldn't like.

May 02, 2004: 21:37

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Starbucks

Joined: Jul 07, 2002

Strong Coffee Drinking!

Well I finally have time to make a lengthy post about what happened on the day.

Around 2:30 am I felt compelled to come there early because at that time there was a major 8:30 am - 9am Gap in which it could have come, and I havent been down to london for ages, so I checked the train timetable and decided to catch the 3:30 am train from Swansea to London Paddington, after having a few cups of coffee to keep me awake on the train I arrived at around 6:45, I then made my first post on SA basically saying im here and O shit whats the address again? After that I FINALLY found the platform for the hammersmith and city line and took the tube to Kings Cross, where I then took a tube down to the tube station which is a 20 minute walk from the drop off point, I then rang pipski who directed me there and I rang him from a phone box near the barber shop.

We then went to the Cafe and ordered a couple of coffees, pipski then went off for a piss and I ordered a breakfast (big mistake, but the waitress was hot). After that we had a couple of more teas until the place opened and I waited about 20 minutes and decided to go in and report back, the place had webcams SWEET. I then logged onto MSN and the account held on Yahoo, and got some hijack this logs. The Program someone suggested on here didnt unzip so I didnt use it, I then screenshotted the offline messages in Yahoo! Messenger (I will post these tomorrow for our translator as they definately seemed eastern european), MyNameIsJeff was the only one contacting me on the Yahoo before I decided to give everyone a webcam show 😊 and then i hopped on IRC to give up to the minute info on whats going on, before I knew it the van turned up and i span the webcam around before getting out my digicam and taking a few shots. After that I took the thing downstairs and decided to try and get the digicam on the package, but was too late it was in the back.

I returned upstairs with pipski before deciding to get everything off and get outside, I set up scrolling marquees on three PC's and set my digicam to record (BUT I DIDNT ARRGH), and went downstairs to pay, and even gave the guy a tip for him being so helpful 😊. I then was about to go before he said I forgot my phone which he gave to me and I then went across the street and grabbed a coke from the cafe. Everything after that has been explained.

It sucks it wasnt the package though, leave the next mission out for me the last one was expensive enough (around £50 including food and train fare)

May 02, 2004: 21:57

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Dr.SchadenFreud

Joined: Jul 16, 2003

I'm going to have to give you some of my "special medicine..."

May 02, 2004: 22:15

quote:

---

Starbucks came out of the closet to say:
I will post these tomorrow for our translator as they definately seemed eastern european

---

Oooh! Post them NOW! Let's see what they are! HURRY! *rubbing hands*

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

pahnub

Joined: Jun 09, 2003

Smurfin' Booty Since 1982

May 02, 2004: 22:39

quote:

---

Dr.SchadenFreud came out of the closet to say:

---

Oooh! Post them NOW! Let's see what they are! HURRY! *rubbing hands***

---

Agreed, eagerly awaitng Starbuck's post for more golden, intrigue, goodness.

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Gozinbulx

Joined: Feb 19, 2004

This is a free country, but on this stage we dance.

May 03, 2004: 00:30

woa, took me about 2 days to reach this point. good job guys.

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

DarkLotus

Joined: Sep 30, 2001

I Haven't Been Fucked Like That Since Grade School!!!

May 03, 2004: 00:47

Thread Archived up to pahnub's post. Will post link whenever

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

 Update

Well, at least we know FedEx didn't take it out back and burn it. It is still being handled.

No emails from our mark. ☹

May 3, 2004 3:59 am

Package status

STANSTED GB

Regulatory Agency Clearance Delay

|                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                      |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------|
| May 03, 2004: 04:08                                                                                                                                                                   | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | EditQuote |
| GraviteeJoined: Nov 20, 2003Crumbs! | quote:MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:👤 Update 👤Well, at least we know FedEx didn't take it out back and burn it. It is still being handled.No emails from our mark. 😞May 3, 2004 3:59 amPackage statusSTANSTED GBRegulatory Agency Clearance Delay The "package" is still being "handled". LO Good night folks! I'll be here all week! Try the veal and tip your waitresses! They work on your tips and your tips alone! Thanks for keeping us posted Sir MyNameIsJeff the Lionhearted                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                      |
| May 03, 2004: 04:27                                                                                                                                                                   | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | EditQuote |
| AltyJoined: Mar 20, 2004I'll take a quiet life. and a handshake of carbon monoxide                                             | Another Congratulatory Post:Having sat here reading this, I'm sorry, but I feel something has to be said.This will go down in history as one of the best threads ever. I'm just sorry that i missed it from the outset, as a British Goon, I would have loved to go on the Goon Recon missions.This truly is one of the greatest British-American coalition operations ever (not forgetting our Romanian input). Well done.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                      |
| May 03, 2004: 08:36                                                                                                                                                                   | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | EditQuote |
| pooper scooperJoined: Oct 23, 2003           | Yes, hats off to our romanian goon(s) who have helped us draw a profile of the scammer. I seriously think this community is just as powerful as the CIA/NSA. Whereas the CIA/NSA has a million dollars, their budget is always restricted by congress. Goons however, are not accountable to anybody but themselves. This freedom, this independent organization goes unrestricted, and therefore can accomplish more in less time.. Its better, faster cheaper. Consider this. We have our translators. We have our analysts. A lot of goons may do this for a living, but use such talents to assist in privatized operations like these. We have access to technology.. and we have goons who know how to use/exploit such technology to get the job done. We can find out anything about anybody. We have a lot of old-school hacker types who understand not just computers but also social engineering; the human flaws and organizational weaknesses are lain bare in the eyes of our hacker elite goons. Such weaknesses allows us to dig up information when we need it. We are international, spread out worldwide, and are thus not subjected to statutory laws that govern each state. This also means our operatives, |                      |

|                                                                                                           |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                            |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------|
|                                                                                                           | our goons are within mere hours of any "hot spot" around the globe. We are motivated. We do this for pure justice. I wonder what the hell we could do.. if we hardened our security online, and organized ourselves better, I bet this community could even help fight the war on terror in a big way. If we wanted to. Also like every organization, we have our fuckups, and morons who are unintentionally ruining things.. which we also do a damn good job maintaining as well so that it doesnt get out of hand. Ah I love it here. I am anxious to see the screenshots Starbucks took so our translators can get to work. This will be leet. |                                            |
| May 03, 2004: 09:34                                                                                | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | Edit Quote |
| Fil5000Joined: Jun 23, 2003                                                                    | www.globalfrequency.orgWarren Ellis THOUGHT of it, but you guys actually did it. Nice.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                            |
|                           |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                            |
| May 03, 2004: 12:45                                                                                | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | Edit Quote |
| Dell_ZinchtJoined: Nov 05, 2003                                                                | Hopefully by tomorrow, we will have a conclusion to this wonderful thread. Damn bank holidays.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                            |
| I eat Chaos Emeralds. |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                            |
| May 03, 2004: 14:17                                                                                | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | Edit Quote |
| ChidoJoined: Dec 07, 2003                                                                      | Who's going to be there on Tuesday to record the delivery? Or nobody is?                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                            |
|                         |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                            |
| May 03, 2004: 16:18                                                                                | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | Edit Quote |

Blaise
Joined: Sep 10, 2003

Calculated Karma

quote:

Dell_Zincht came out of the closet to say:
Hopefully by tomorrow, we will have a conclusion to this wonderful thread. Damn bank holidays.

Yes. Wish it would have been today, finals starts for me tommorrow 😞

May 03, 2004: 17:06

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

ChlamydiaJones
Joined: Sep 27, 2002

I continue to believe that, eventually, something will happen.
At least FedEx updated the status this morning. Doesn't SAY anything new unfortunately, but it's good to see that the loyal FedEx Regulatory Agency Clearance Delay Employees(FERACDE) continue to pay our parcel some attention.

May 3, 2004 3:59 am

Package status

STANSTED GB

Regulatory Agency Clearance Delay

Apr 30, 2004 3:19 am

Package status

STANSTED GB

Regulatory Agency Clearance Delay

May 03, 2004: 17:41

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

solorca
Joined: Mar 29, 2004

quote:

ChlamydiaJones came out of the closet to say:
I continue to believe that, eventually, something will happen.
At least FedEx updated the status this morning. Doesn't SAY anything new unfortunately, but it's good to see that the loyal FedEx Regulatory Agency Clearance Delay Employees(FERACDE) continue to pay our parcel some attention.

I doubt they are working today. I would assume that it will be released tommorow, if at all.

May 03, 2004: 17:46

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

ChlamydiaJones

Joined: Sep 27, 2002

quote:

solorca came out of the closet to say:

I doubt they are working today. I would assume that it will be released tommorow, if at all.

I'm just pointing out that the tracking was updated. Someone, somewhere typed that in at 3am.

May 03, 2004: 17:52

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

DarkLotus

Joined: Sep 30, 2001

I Haven't Been Fucked Like That Since Grade School!!!

You know, this guy might just say fuck it. He isn't paying Jeff for the package, so he isn't out anything if he decides not to pay the tax. If anything, he might be just as happy thinking he fucked some American out of a Powerbook and letting it rot in customs.

May 03, 2004: 18:03

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Starbucks

Joined: Jul 07, 2002

Strong Coffee Drinking!

<http://homepage.ntlworld.com/craig.peters1/SS1.PNG>

translate plz

May 03, 2004: 18:26

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

queenbee

Joined: Mar 09, 2004

pottymouth

The scammer's probably got this thing going with tens of people. Maybe one laptop isn't going to be a priority for him, he'll just get it when he gets it.

If I was him, even if I suspected something was fishy, the fact that Jeff paid almost $100 out of his own pocket to send the package would cancel out the idea that it wasn't legit.

May 03, 2004: 18:37

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Smekerman

Joined: Feb 02, 2001

quote:

Starbucks came out of the closet to say:
<http://homepage.ntlworld.com/craig.peters1/SS1.PNG>

translate plz

sandrasandra111: bye sandrasandra111: i'll see you tomorrow sandrasandra111: i'm sleepy sandrasandra111: so i'm gonna go as well sandrasandra111: i see that you disconnected sandrasandra111: ok sandrasandra111: and i said that for...

nothing crucial, unfortunately 😊 should've highlighted the last message, since there probably was more to it.

May 03, 2004: 18:47

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

pooper scooper

Joined: Oct 23, 2003

Smekerman, I have an idea.

Is it possible that we can turn you into our Romanian field analyst.

Can you add this user to your yahoo list under a fake name (of course) and proceed to impersonate our mark? Try to illicit some information that could concern our P-P-P-Powerbook

If its too risky, or other goons have better ideas.. throw em around!

May 03, 2004: 19:50

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Starbucks

Joined: Jul 07, 2002

Strong Coffee Drinking!

quote:

pooper scooper came out of the closet to say:
Smekerman, I have an idea.

Is it possible that we can turn you into our Romanian field analyst.

Can you add this user to your yahoo list under a fake name (of course) and proceed to impersonate our mark? Try to illicit some information that could concern our P-P-P-Powerbook

If its too risky, or other goons have better ideas.. throw em around!

I cant think of any better ideas, go for it I say (add both to your list, and contact with two DIFFERENT yahoo UIN's)

May 03, 2004: 19:59

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

frankenbeans

Joined: Feb 16, 2003

This has got to be the best thread I have ever witnessed. I spent several hours reading through this, and don't regret a second of it.

congratulations one and all.

May 03, 2004: 20:01

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

EditQuote

sven523

Joined: Dec 18, 2003

catpot

quote:

---

DarkLotus came out of the closet to say:
You know, this guy might just say fuck it. He isn't paying Jeff for the package, so he isn't out anything if he decides not to pay the tax. If anything, he might be just as happy thinking he fucked some American out of a Powerbook and letting it rot in customs.

---

If he didn't pay the tax it would probably be sent back to the sender rather than rotting in customs. He probably knows this so I doubt he would think he's fucking anyone out of a Powerbook.

May 03, 2004: 20:33

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Pipski

Joined: Apr 18, 2004

Lovely barbershop. Pity I wasn't invited.

quote:

---

Starbucks came out of the closet to say:
I cant think of any better ideas, go for it I say (add both to your list, and contact with two DIFFERENT yahoo UIN's)

---

Nice idea. If at any point they start to question your identity try and make out like you're some Romanian script kiddie with `1337 hax0ring skillz' who `pwned their ass' (or Romanian equivalent ☺). Or, how about sending an e-mail containing a link to a site - constructed by us, natch - that will snatch as many details about their location and system as possible? (I should point out that I am not techie at all so I might well be talking airily out of my ass.) At the same time we could tap on all of our friend's bogus e-mail accounts too, see which ones he is answering. For maximum chance of success the e-mail should probably be something like an advert for a new computer auction site or something. Or is there little new that we could find out that way? Have I been watching Hackers too much?

May 03, 2004: 21:30

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Smekerman

Joined: Feb 02, 2001

The covert stuff sounds good except I'm at work right now and I can't do much from here. I'll set up two other Yahoo accounts when I get home, but I don't know when I'll be able to catch them online.

May 03, 2004: 21:43

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Dr.SchadenFreud

Joined: Jul 16, 2003

I'm going to have to give you some of my "special medicine..."

Anybody else think the Romanian connection at 9B is no coincidence?

May 03, 2004: 22:14

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

thesacrifice

Joined: May 03, 2004

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:

Hah, i got there a lot. Almost every weekend. I'm going to take you up on that soon!

where you guys gonna go out to?

May 03, 2004: 22:53

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

SignalTwoFive

Joined: Dec 28, 2003

Bob Sapp is laughing AT you, not WITH you.

quote:

thesacrifice came out of the closet to say:

where you guys gonna go out to?

why? are YOU the scammer?

██████████

May 03, 2004: 23:54

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

thesacrifice

Joined: May 03, 2004

quote:

SignalTwoFive came out of the closet to say:

why? are YOU the scammer?

██████████

naa cause im in olympia too and maybe dudes know a good bar

|                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                      |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------|
| May 04, 2004: 00:42                                                                                                                                                                         | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | EditQuote |
| Starbucks Joined: Jul 07, 2002  Strong Coffee Drinking!         | quote: Dr.SchadenFreud came out of the closet to say:Anybody else think the Romanian connection at 9B is no coincidence? nope, the guys owning it didn't seem romanian at all though. Nice bloke too, shame about the fact he is dodgy as fuck, he was nice to me because I gave him a £1 tip [REDACTED]                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                      |
| May 04, 2004: 01:08                                                                                                                                                                         | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | EditQuote |
| DLCinferno Joined: Feb 22, 2003                                            | quote: Pipski came out of the closet to say:Or, how about sending an e-mail containing a link to a site - constructed by us, natch - that will snatch as many details about their location and system as possible? Getting their IP address would be easy...is that what you are looking for? I don't know much else, you could get their port as well, but it would be 80 or their host, but you could look that up off their IP. Do you want me to setup a page for this real quick?                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                      |
| May 04, 2004: 01:51                                                                                                                                                                         | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | EditQuote |
| Otokodate Joined: Jan 15, 2004  All your nuts are belong to me |  THE FORUMS ARE OPEN TO THE PUBLIC!I REPEAT: THE FORUMS ARE OPEN TO THE PUBLIC! http://forums.somethingawful.com/sh...hreadid=1031391  |                      |
| May 04, 2004: 02:03                                                                                                                                                                         | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | EditQuote |
| OniKun Joined: Jul 23, 2003 Yeah.                                                                                                                          | I have no idea what this thread is about, but its fun to read.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                      |
| May 04, 2004: 02:10                                                                                                                                                                         | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | EditQuote |

Verm
Joined: Sep 11, 2001

Reality continues to ruin my life.

Just read the whole thread in one sitting.

Outstanding and mad I didn't open this sooner.

Subscribing and awaiting the glorious outcome.

May 04, 2004: 02:32

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

liquorhead
Joined: Jul 11, 2002

elephant parts 4 life

quote:

Otokodate came out of the closet to say:

THE FORUMS ARE OPEN TO THE PUBLIC!
I REPEAT: THE FORUMS ARE OPEN TO THE PUBLIC!

<http://forums.somethingawful.com/sh...hreadid=1031391>

I'm sure he's already been tipped off by now. Too many footprints pointing back here. Think about it, a "secret" sting with over a quarter million page views. I'd give up hope...

May 04, 2004: 03:28

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

EditQuote

MyNameIsJeff
Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

Only FedEx can give you updates that arn't really updates.

May 4, 2004 3:02 am
Package status
STANSTED GB
Regulatory Agency Clearance Delay

May 3, 2004 3:59 am
Package status
STANSTED GB
Regulatory Agency Clearance Delay

Apr 30, 2004 3:19 am
Package status
STANSTED GB
Regulatory Agency Clearance Delay

Do they not fucking sleep in London? Maybe they can get the shit delivered if they try during business hours.

MyNameIsJeff fucked around with this message at May 04, 2004 around 03:44

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| May 04, 2004: 03:28                                                                                                                                                                                                         | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| MrlynBnny Joined: Dec 16, 2003                                                                                    | quote: Otokodate came out of the closet to say: I had a class taught by a guy from China who had a thick accent AND a lisp. My boyfriend had a Chinese woman (not Chinese-American) teach one of his English classes. A linguistics class, in fact. ???                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| May 04, 2004: 04:23                                                                                                                                                                                                         | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| Mannequin Joined: Mar 08, 2003  The difference between fiction and reality? Fiction has to make sense. | quote: Thunderstorm came out of the closet to say: I was under the impression he used Yahoo and noone was entirely sure if Yahoo allowed you to view your referers. No? Well, his site was coded in PHP and with PHP you could easily generate a script to determine where your referers were coming from - even if you didn't have access to "raw logs." Actually, he was using what appeared to be a database that allowed users to sign up, add items and then modify them. quote: Thunderstorm came out of the closet to say: Very nice thread. 😊 You also left out the possibility that he may have been arrested. This guy's an international criminal. I'm sure he had other scams going other than this one. Props to the UK Goons who invested their time, money and bravery into this. This has been a VERY exciting read!                                                                                                                                                                   |
| May 04, 2004: 04:41                                                                                                                                                                                                         | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| neddle Joined: May 04, 2004 "Eight hours later they brought her up by mule"!                                                                                                                      | Okay have finally finished reading and am all up to date. I am P1PSK1's brother and may (just may) be able to help. Part of my job involves maintaining a large database of dodgy types, mostly from London. If you give me all the names connected to this whole debacle (I didn't think about writing them all down until about 3 mins ago and I have to go to bed) I will check the files. I can also contact our 5 London branches and they can run them as well. If I find a match I will be able to furnish you with addresses and D.O.B's and whatever criminal activities we know that they are involved in. Plus I know a couple of coppers (keep them supplied with coffee and Penguins on the cold winter nights) so I could ask some purely hypothetical questions if any of them turn up. I am playing golf this afternoon and will try to check in about 19:00GMT before work. If you post the names I will check tonight and update tomorrow morning. PS He is soooooooo not James Bond! More like... Eric Morecambe in "The Intelligence Men" |
| May 04, 2004: 07:09                                                                                                                                                                                                         | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |

Blaise
Joined: Sep 10, 2003

Calculated Karma

Wow, worst ending to the best story ever. ☹️☹️☹️

May 04, 2004: 13:24

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Helpplease
Joined: Apr 20, 2004

quote:

Blaise came out of the closet to say:

Wow, worst ending to the best story ever. ☹️☹️☹️ agreed

May 04, 2004: 13:34

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

StinkyWizzleteats
Joined: Mar 21, 2004

Third Quartermaster of the
New England Calvinball
Combination

quote:

Blaise came out of the closet to say:

Wow, worst ending to the best story ever. ☹️☹️☹️

It's not over. It CAN'T be over. Not like this...

May 04, 2004: 14:00

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

ChlamydiaJones
Joined: Sep 27, 2002

quote:

neddle came out of the closet to say:

Okay have finally finished reading and am all up to date. I am P1PSK1's brother and may (just may) be able to help. Part of my job involves maintaining a large database of dodgy types, mostly from London. If you give me all the names connected to this whole debacle (I didn't think about writing them all down until about 3 mins ago and I have to go to bed) I will check the files. I can also contact our 5 London branches and they can run them as well. If I find a match I will be able to furnish you with addresses and D.O.B's and whatever criminal activities we know that they are involved in.

How about locations? That drop site aught to be on every single dodgy list on the planet.

May 04, 2004: 15:20

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Dvlos

Joined: Aug 26, 2003

I usually don't eat my poo, but this sprayed everywhere.

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:
Do they not fucking sleep in London? Maybe they can get the shit delivered if they try during business hours.

I'm starting to think the closing of the fake escrow, the phone calls, the seizure of his stolen ebay account, has raised his alarm levels. He may not try and hit this package, the only two other options would be to e-mail him and let him know you can't wait for customs, you will pay for his taxes because you need the 2 grand really bad. Second option is to just let it die? Maybe the romanian/UK goon combo can find this guy's address and instead of the FedEx package, deliver a P-p-p-p-punch?

May 04, 2004: 15:27

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Landrobot

Joined: Jul 14, 2001

quote:

StinkyWizzleats came out of the closet to say:

It's not over. It CAN'T be over. Not like this...

I learned from this thread that a barber in London can run a shop with the name, "Jean Climax"

May 04, 2004: 16:09

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

DarkLotus

Joined: Sep 30, 2001

I Haven't Been Fucked Like That Since Grade School!!!

quote:

sven523 came out of the closet to say:

If he didn't pay the tax it would probably be sent back to the sender rather than rotting in customs. He probably knows this so I doubt he would think he's fucking anyone out of a Powerbook.

It won't go back to the sender unless the sender pays for return shipping. Remember Jeff said the Lady at the shipping place said that if it doesn't get delivered it will get shipped back, but it has to be paid for?

May 04, 2004: 16:28

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

karmaflux

Joined: Feb 26, 2004

OMG WATCH OUT FOR TEH CUCUMBAR$!!@$!1

quote:

DarkLotus came out of the closet to say:

It won't go back to the sender unless the sender pays for return shipping. Remember Jeff said the Lady at the shipping place said that if it doesn't get delivered it will get shipped back, but it has to be paid for?

I personally guarantee he would make his money back by putting the P-p-p-powerbook up for auction on ebay.

|                                                                                                                                                                              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                            |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------|
| May 04, 2004: 16:32                                                                                                                                                          | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | Edit Quote |
| neddleJoined: May 04, 2004 "Eight hours later they brought her up by mule!"                                                                | quote: ChlamydiaJones came out of the closet to say: How about locations? That drop site aught to be on every single dodgy list on the planet. Good idea I can get London to run a postode match, a street match and maybe a phone number match... not sure about that. The main London branch is on Edgware Road as well so there's a chance he's been in as a customer. I still need the names though so if anyone knows any off the top of their heads please post them ASAP. I really haven't got time to read back through 50 odd pages to find it all. You know it's a bad day on the golf course when you get hit in the eye by a hailstone and the bunkers have turned into water hazards! |                                            |
| May 04, 2004: 16:35                                                                                                                                                          | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | Edit Quote |
| MyNameIsJeffJoined: Dec 05, 2003 P-P-P-Powerbook.com! | quote: StinkyWizzleteats came out of the closet to say: It's not over. It CAN'T be over. Not like this... THIS IS NOT OVER.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                            |
| May 04, 2004: 16:48                                                                                                                                                          | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | Edit Quote |
| toolboiJoined: Jul 24, 2002 I asked for a larger and more obnoxious custom tittle. Krursk bought me this one instead.                      | Have you thought about emailing him saying something along the lines of that you are waiting and are starting to get worried, and if you dont get a response you will have no choice but to contact the police. Anything to get a response from him.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                            |
| May 04, 2004: 16:54                                                                                                                                                          | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | Edit Quote |
| YimJoined: Feb 12, 2004 [ Corruption ]                                                                                                     | quote: toolboi came out of the closet to say: Have you thought about emailing him saying something along the lines of that you are waiting and are starting to get worried, and if you dont get a response you will have no choice but to contact the police. Anything to get a response from him. considering thats his $2000 p-p-p-p-p-ower book stuck in fed ex transit, go for gold 😊                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                                            |
| May 04, 2004: 17:31                                                                                                                                                          | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | Edit Quote |

pooper scooper
Joined: Oct 23, 2003

Pretend not to know what is going on with FedEx, and ask him for your money.

May 04, 2004: 17:34

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Bluecobra
Joined: Sep 11, 2001

Cobra Commander

quote:

toolboi came out of the closet to say:

Have you thought about emailing him saying something along the lines of that you are waiting and are starting to get worried, and if you dont get a response you will have no choice but to contact the police. Anything to get a response from him.

Yes, and we can sweeten the pot by presenting him with all the info we know about him so far, including pictures.

May 04, 2004: 19:19

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Dvlos
Joined: Aug 26, 2003

I usually don't eat my poo, but this sprayed everywhere.

quote:

Bluecobra came out of the closet to say:

Yes, and we can sweeten the pot by presenting him with all the info we know about him so far, including pictures.

Not a bad idea if executed properly, send him an angry e-mail like "OMG U NOT PICKING UP THE POWERBOOK SO I HAXED YOUR IP!!! IF YOU DONT PICK IT UP AND RELEASE ESCROW I WILL TELL THE FBI YOU ARE: John Macabee"

May 04, 2004: 19:41

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

ChlamydiaJones
Joined: Sep 27, 2002

quote:

neddle came out of the closet to say:

Good idea I can get London to run a postode match, a street match and maybe a phone number match... not sure about that. The main London branch is on Edgeware Road as well so there's a chance he's been in as a customer. I still need the names though so if anyone knows any off the top of their heads please post them ASAP. I really haven't got time to read back through 50 odd pages to find it all.

I think that the only reall name we even HAVE so far is Jean Climax (the barber). The other names were used through the escrow service and may or may NOT be true. Anyone else want to post some names that MAY actually be true?

We know that Jean Climax haircuttingplace is a drop for the romanian name anyway...

|                                                                                                                                                               |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                            |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------|
| May 04, 2004: 19:59                                                                                                                                    | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | Edit Quote |
| PhalexJoined: May 14, 2002                                     | Let's give it another week, and then if the package is still in limbo, we can release a barage of pranks/posting pictures of the barbershop/tipping off press/tipping off authorities.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                                            |
| May 04, 2004: 20:03                                                                                                                                    | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | Edit Quote |
| sven523Joined: Dec 18, 2003catpot                          | I think we need to find out what "Regulatory Agency Clearance Delay" means. There's a good chance that the package is stuck in there whether he wants to pick it up or not. Perhaps it will get through this and get delivered and we're all worrying for nothing. I'd suggest calling FedEx and asking them what the hell is up with the package. VVVVVV - FUCK it IS the taxes. That's pretty fucked up. I say contact the guy before you pay anything. - VVVVVV sven523 fucked around with this message at May 04, 2004 around 21:38 |                                            |
| May 04, 2004: 21:14                                                                                                                                    | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | Edit Quote |
| Gizmo_GunJoined: Mar 21, 2004Pow! Bang! Smack! Kablooeey! | JEFF! We have a situation! FedEX just called me (I gave them my number on the spot to contact, since yours was MIA) and asked if we had gotten a hold of the receiver. I obviously said no, and said that we were very concerned. Well, FedEx wants to know if we will pay the dues and have it delivered anyway, or we will be charged a storage fee. I told the woman at FedEx that I would confer with you and have you contact them.                                                                                                |                                            |
| May 04, 2004: 21:36                                                                                                                                    | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | Edit Quote |
| MyNameIsJeffJoined: Dec 05, 2003P-P-P-Powerbook.com!     | OH GOD DAMNIT.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                                            |
| May 04, 2004: 21:44                                                                                                                                    | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | Edit Quote |

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:
OH GOD DAMNIT.

GIVE THEM HIS NUBER FROM THE SHOP!!!!

May 04, 2004: 21:46

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

STFU DONNY

Joined: Apr 08, 2004

V.I. Lenin. Vladimir Illanich Uleninov!

I think it's time to contact the authorities guys, unless we goons spend 50 pages to get scammed by the scammer!

May 04, 2004: 21:47

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

hollykat

Joined: Mar 22, 2003

Meow.

quote:

Landrobot came out of the closet to say:

I learned from this thread that a barber in London can run a shop with the name, "Jean Climax"

A barbershop/cybercafe combo, no less. I really do live in the wrong city.

May 04, 2004: 21:48

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

FrozenEntree

Joined: Jun 11, 2001

God helped me fuck over my creditors so I can continue spending like the selfish dumbfuck I am! Blessed are the spendthrift, my ass! Hallelujah! Praise to Jesus!

quote:

Gizmo_Gun came out of the closet to say:
JEFF! We have a situation!

FedEX just called me (I gave them my number on the spot to contact, since yours was MIA) and asked if we had gotten a hold of the receiver. I obviously said no, and said that we were very concerned. Well, FedEx wants to know if we will pay the dues and have it delivered anyway, or we will be charged a storage fee.

I told the woman at FedEx that I would confer with you and have you contact them.

Call FedEx and say that you want to pay the duties, after all a couple dollars shouldn't be too bad. Then, when they say it is 250+ say "wft?!" After that, explain that FedEx must have input the wrong Declared Value. Then show pictures of the item to the rep so they know it is only worth 20 dollars. Then get them to change the duties to a couple of dollars and get it mailed out.

May 04, 2004: 21:49

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| MyNameIsJeffJoined: Dec 05, 2003 P-P-P-Powerbook.com! | WE should just try to get it sent back.THEM THEM TO THROW IT AWAY                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| May 04, 2004: 21:53                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| LordEvilElmoJoined: Feb 08, 2004 The box... says no                                                                                              | I hate to say, but it looks to me like the mark has got a letter from customs and excise asking him for some shinny sheckels for his delightful new machine. He most likely expects you to pay for it through desperation and desire for the cash.V V funny thread by the way 😊                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| May 04, 2004: 21:53                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| MyNameIsJeffJoined: Dec 05, 2003 P-P-P-Powerbook.com! | quote:LordEvilElmo came out of the closet to say:I hate to say, but it looks to me like the mark has got a letter from customs and excise asking him for some shinny sheckels for his delightful new machine. He most likely expects you to pay for it through desperation and desire for the cash.V V funny thread by the way 😊That could very well be it! That crafty little bastard!I will send another email! |
| May 04, 2004: 21:55                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| AtomonJoined: Mar 15, 2003 I can't remember my legs                                                                                              | quote:MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:THEM THEM TO THROW IT AWAYwait. what?                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| May 04, 2004: 21:55                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |

FrozenEntree

Joined: Jun 11, 2001

God helped me fuck over my creditors so I can continue spending like the selfish dumbfuck I am! Blessed are the spendthrift, my ass! Hallelujah! Praise to Jesus!

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:
WE should just try to get it sent back.

THEM THEM TO THROW IT AWAY

Try to get the DV changed first guys.

May 04, 2004: 21:55

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Curufin

Joined: Oct 06, 2003

Fifth Son of Fëanor

Jeff, you didn't give them your real address or anything did you? I hope this isn't going to become postal fraud or anything serious like that. Why couldn't he have just paid the taxes and gotten it delivered already? 🍷

EDIT: The past tense of "pay" is "paid", not "payed".

Curufin fucked around with this message at May 05, 2004 around 22:15

May 04, 2004: 21:56

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

quote:

Curufin came out of the closet to say:

Jeff, you didn't give them your real address or anything did you? I hope this isn't going to become postal fraud or anything serious like that. Why couldn't he have just payed the taxes and gotten it delivered already? 🍷

No, I didn't.

May 04, 2004: 22:00

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

ChlamydiaJones

Joined: Sep 27, 2002

Stay calm MyNameIsJeff - I'm sure that you will get support if they DO get your addie and try to charge you an arm and a leg. It would be great if Mr. Scammypants would just ANSWER HIS E-MAIL!!!

May 04, 2004: 22:03

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

Thanks!

Quote

Quote

Quote

Well, what would we want to do?
Get it lowered (if we can) and have it sent to him anyway?
Pay for the return shipping?
OR forget about it in customs and never speak of htis again?

|                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| May 04, 2004: 22:18                                                                                                                                                                                | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| Wrong IgorJoined: Feb 22, 2004  I'm getting too old. Kill me.         | It wouldn't be much fun if the taxes were paid by goons and the package delivered unless you establish contact with the scammer first.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| May 04, 2004: 22:23                                                                                                                                                                                | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| Random NonsenseJoined: Nov 02, 2002 I don't drive recklessly, I drive interestingly.                                                                             | quote: MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say: Get it lowered (if we can) and have it sent to him anyway? I think this is the best option. If you can't get it lowered, though, then you should see what it would cost to get it sent back. I'm sure we'll be able to get the money together to get it shipped back, if that's what it comes down to. |
| May 04, 2004: 22:26                                                                                                                                                                                | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| Voice of ReasonJoined: Jul 20, 2002                                             | I think he's wise.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| May 04, 2004: 22:26                                                                                                                                                                                | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| IndyPunkOneJoined: Aug 05, 2002  Got a tattooed tit, say Number 13. | quote: MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say: forget about it in customs and never speak of htis again?                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| May 04, 2004: 22:37                                                                                                                                                                                | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

-----Original Message-----

From: MyNameIsJeff [mailto:mynameisjeff@bootsix.net]

Sent: Tuesday, May 04, 2004 2:34 PM

To: 'scont06@yahoo.com'

Subject: Package cannot be delivered!

Hello!

I received a call from FedEx saying that they are unable to get a hold of you to deliver the package. I really need payment for my laptop, so the sooner you get it and approve of it, the sooner the escrow can release my money to me. They said that they will have to charge me to hold it if they cannot deliver it. If that is the case, I will just pay to have it sent back.

Do you have another phone number? I was going to try to look you up by address maybe, but I don't think that will work, so I thought I'd ask you first! Please respond as soon as you can! I am very eager to complete the transaction!

Thank you!

Jeff

May 04, 2004: 22:39

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

thefunkygibbon

Joined: Jul 23, 2002

by my reckoning the duty to be paid on it if it was declared as $2000 would be £195 or $350.

if it is at all possible to convince them that you made a mistake in the declaration then that would be the way to go. but since he no doubt knows about all this i dont think it would worth paying the duty and getting it shipped. hell get it shipped back to you and ebay it or sell it on SAMart as i bet that you'd get your money back now that the item is forum history...worth much more in years to come when the forum museum opens 😊

May 04, 2004: 22:40

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

quote:

thefunkygibbon came out of the closet to say:

by my reckoning the duty to be paid on it if it was declared as $2000 would be £195 or $350.

if it is at all possible to convince them that you made a mistake in the declaration then that would be the way to go. but since he no doubt knows about all this i dont think it would worth paying the duty and getting it shipped. hell get it shipped back to you and ebay it or sell it on SAMart as i bet that you'd get your money back now that the item is forum history...worth much more in years to come when the forum museum opens 😊

I would also rather have it sent back before he gets it without paying the taxes.

Edit:

If we do get it sent back, I declare assault on his phone number and address.

MyNameIsJeff fucked around with this message at May 04, 2004 around 22:47

May 04, 2004: 22:45

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Lungboy Joined: Aug 23, 2002  Nothing is True, Everything is Permitted                       | Blimey, top stuff to all concerned so far. I don't see the point in a collection to pay the tax so it gets sent to the git. Better off using the cash to have it sent back to the US. Just seems daft wasting money when all that will happen is it gets trashed. Pipski: I'm a UK goon with a motorbike licence. Unfortunately, i'm right in the middle of my busiest week of my uni career so far so there is no way i can get to London to view the bike. Sorry. Lungboy fucked around with this message at May 04, 2004 around 22:51                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
| May 04, 2004: 22:48                                                                                                                                                                                                      | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| fuckingtest Joined: Mar 31, 2001  We can rebuild him. but I don't wanna spend alot of money. | Holy shit...We should all do a paypal drive. We only need 20 goons to send Jeff $10 bucks. Err, well maybe 30 or so...But c'mon Im so in for $10 if it means a chance for some other London Goons to setup another recon mission and actually see what happens when the package is delivered. Maybe the guy in the barbershop is just a front, but there has to be more to the story. We even had a guy speaking Romanian in a yahoo messnger window...WE ARE SO CLOSE. Or not.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| May 04, 2004: 22:49                                                                                                                                                                                                      | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| MyNameIsJeff Joined: Dec 05, 2003  P-P-P-Powerbook.com!                                      | quote: <hr/> fuckingtest came out of the closet to say: Holy shit...We should all do a paypal drive. We only need 20 goons to send Jeff $10 bucks. Err, well maybe 30 or so...But c'mon Im so in for $10 if it means a chance for some other London Goons to setup another recon mission and actually see what happens when the package is delivered. Maybe the guy in the barbershop is just a front, but there has to be more to the story. We even had a guy speaking Romanian in a yahoo messnger window...WE ARE SO CLOSE. Or not. <hr/> I think we should wait for Gizmo to get back to us with a cost for return shipping. I really don't want to pay the tax for this jerk. He won't be crushed if he didn't pay for it. |
| May 04, 2004: 22:50                                                                                                                                                                                                      | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| Vince McMahon Joined: Dec 18, 2003                                                                    | Just abort if he won't accept it. It's not really much of a punishment for him for you lot to spend $300 or whatever.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| May 04, 2004: 22:51                                                                                                                                                                                                      | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageSearch For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |

Gizmo_Gun

Joined: Mar 21, 2004

Pow! Bang! Smack! Kablooeey!

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:

I think we should wait for Gizmo to get back to us with a cost for return shipping. I really don't want to pay the tax for this jerk. He won't be crushed if he didn't pay for it.

They haven't called back, and I told them you would call them. I have plans for tonight and early tomorrow so I won't be able to call again until tomorrow afternoon (around 2:30 pm central).

I would advise you calling.

May 04, 2004: 22:55

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Lungboy

Joined: Aug 23, 2002

Nothing is True, Everything is Permitted

Yeah, if it's not the scammer losing money then i don't really see the point.

May 04, 2004: 22:55

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

my new title makes me sad.

May 05, 2004: 00:10

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

DLCinferno

Joined: Feb 22, 2003

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:

my new title makes me sad.

Hahaha. I didn't do it but that is damn funny.

May 05, 2004: 00:14

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

|                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| sofoklesJoined: Feb 07, 2004                                  | That last email you sent was very good. Very good. EditQuote                                                                                                                                                 |
| May 05, 2004: 00:15                                                                                                                                                 | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                      |
| KyguyJoined: Jul 30, 2002Snow!                    | I like the old one 😊 EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                               |
| May 05, 2004: 00:15                                                                                                                                                 | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                      |
| vegajiJoined: Apr 14, 2004Owned by Hawk989s                                                                                                   | quote:MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:my new title makes me sad. I liked P-P-P-Powerbook more. EditQuote                                         |
| May 05, 2004: 00:39                                                                                                                                                 | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More PostsEditQuote                                      |
| donny_paycheckJoined: Sep 11, 2001Clean my area. | quote:vegaji came out of the closet to say:I liked P-P-P-Powerbook more. Me too. The new one is pretty funny in a "haha it's not me" way, though. EditQuote |
| May 05, 2004: 00:54                                                                                                                                                 | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                      |

Otokodate

Joined: Jan 15, 2004

All your nuts are belong to me

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:
my new title makes me sad.

It makes me angry. I'm the one who got the other one that I think everybody liked better. I may have the old avatar if you want to get it back.

May 05, 2004: 00:59

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

GC

Joined: Jul 08, 2002

zoom zoom

Protip: just because he pays the taxes doesn't mean he can't get them back. All he has to do is file a claim form explaining that you misreported the value of the item and they will reconsider it. Usually it involves taking the package back to the post office or FedEx's clearing house. Not sure what FedEx's relationship is with the system over there.

Sorry.

May 05, 2004: 01:06

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

liquorhead

Joined: Jul 11, 2002

elephant parts 4 life

never mind...wrong post

May 05, 2004: 01:16

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Scotsman

Joined: Jun 09, 2002

What about calling the barber shop, pretending to be Fedex, and ask if they're going to pay the taxes, or even when it can be delivered?

May 05, 2004: 01:21

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Keisuke
Joined: May 05, 2002

quote:

---

GC came out of the closet to say:
Protip: just because he pays the taxes doesn't mean he can't get them back. All he has to do is file a claim form explaining that you misreported the value of the item and they will reconsider it. Usually it involves taking the package back to the post office or FedEx's clearing house. Not sure what FedEx's relationship is with the system over there.

Sorry.

---

Yeah, but I don't think he would do this if he did pick it up, it would seem to be calling too much attention to himself. I imagine he has plenty of other scams going on that it isn't worth the trouble for him to shell out $350 or whatever for this one screwup. Probably shouldn't have gotten greedy and relied on the p-p-powerbook to piss him off, but what're you going to do at this point.

May 05, 2004: 05:34

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts Edit Quote

neddle
Joined: May 04, 2004

"Eight hours later they brought her up by mule"!

Okay I have done an extensive search of our files and checked the London database and have found nothing on that specific address. I can give you the name and D.O.B. of his next door neighbour or the guy who lives a bit further down the road. I did a postcode search on our software (which is usually pretty accurate I think it's issued by the post office) and the only possible address that could relate to that property is "Colindale Corporate Services". No barbers, no internet cafe. The Indian restaurant is listed (if anyone wants a decent dose of food poisoning), as are all the other properties on the photos.

I would therefore assume that the barbers shop is extremely dodgy and that some form af hardened clay building material coming into contact with their facia windowpane would not be totally out of line.

Sorry I couldn't be more help.

In my opinion I'd ship "the package" back to the states and then you can all come up with a new idea to take this motherfucker to goon school. Sell the PPPPowerbook to the highest goon bidder and then use any remaining proceeds to fund the next mission. I'm pretty sure a few of us would like it as a souvenir. If at first you don't succeed... start bottling petrol and tearing up rags!

May 05, 2004: 05:54

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote

Jack Burton
Joined: Mar 01, 2002

It's all in the reflexes.

Well, that's a bummer. I was really looking forward to some kind of thrilling conclusion. Alas, t'was not to be.

Shit. 😞

May 05, 2004: 06:19

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote

neddle
Joined: May 04, 2004

"Eight hours later they brought her up by mule"!

Patience everyone. You know enough about the scam to launch a second operation. I don't think he'll stop doing this he'll just change his methods a little bit.

May 05, 2004: 06:28

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote

Yossarko

Joined: Jan 22, 2004

The little Armenian boy who could...

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:
my new title makes me sad.

Me too. I spent a lot of time and effort and that P-P-P-Powerbook avatar. well, not really, but it was made with Goon Love.

May 05, 2004: 08:20

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Waffle Zone

Joined: Mar 17, 2004

Justice is a dish best served cold!

Edit: Very cold.

May 05, 2004: 08:56

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Nimrod "Felcher" Soames

Joined: Jul 07, 2002

quote:

chiizukami came out of the closet to say:
Justice is a dish best served cold!

Edit: Very cold.

Gazpacho Justice

May 05, 2004: 09:00

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Dazb0

Joined: Feb 05, 2004

Just that little bit better...

quote:

Scotsman came out of the closet to say:

What about calling the barber shop, pretending to be Fedex, and ask if they're going to pay the taxes, or even when it can be delivered?

I think that's a pretty good idea.

Personally I think the second the scammer read Jeff's email saying he had marked the value at $2000 was the second he decided he wasn't going to be collecting the parcel. He's a scammer, no matter what you email him, im sure won't respond now.

The best link you have to this guy is the barber shop. FedEx delivered two parcels to that place when the UK goons were on their spy mission. He

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                      |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------|
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | is more than likely taking deliveries for dodgy guys with their dodgy P.O. Boxes. (I'm aware this has already been suggested on the thread) Contacting the place posing as FedEx and listening to the barbers response has to be in some way worthwhile. Having goons pay the taxes for this parcel is a complete waste of time.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                      |
| May 05, 2004: 12:30                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | EditQuote |
| TybleroneJoined: Dec 12, 2003Some People Just Need To Be Shot                                                                                                                                  | quote:Dazb0 came out of the closet to say:I think that's a pretty good idea.Personally I think the second the scammer read Jeff's email saying he had marked the value at $2000 was the second he decided he wasn't going to be collecting the parcel. He's a scammer, no matter what you email him, im sure won't respond now.The best link you have to this guy is the barber shop. FedEx delivered two parcels to that place when the UK goons were on their spy mission. He is more than likely taking deliveries for dodgy guys with their dodgy P.O. Boxes. (I'm aware this has already been suggested on the thread)Contacting the place posing as FedEx and listening to the barbers response has to be in some way worthwhile.Having goons pay the taxes for this parcel is a complete waste of time. I have no idea what's going on now, nor did I when this thread started. WTF is GOING ON?                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                      |
| May 05, 2004: 12:41                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | EditQuote |
| Dr.SchadenFreudJoined: Jul 16, 2003I'm going to have to give you some of my "special medicine..." | Forget about a collection to pay duties--that's a waste of good dough. Call FedEx and give them the barbershop's phone number. You could even exercise a bit of creative license and tell FedEx that the winning eBay bidder said it was being shipped to his friend's barbershop and that his friend was to sign for the package and pay the duties. Then give the barbershop phone number. If the barber is in on it, then he'll get irritated with the calls.edit: Next package to 9B should contain 1000 frozen Japanese hornets, postpaid. They should thaw out nicely by the time they're delivered."People are not the Japanese giant hornet's usual prey, but those who have felt its sting describe the pain as excruciating. Masato Ono, an entomologist at Tamagawa University, near Tokyo, said it's "like a hot nail through my leg."Someone who is stung by the hornet and doesn't receive proper treatment soon thereafter can die from the venom, which is powerful enough to disintegrate human flesh. About 40 people die each year after being stung by giant hornets, mainly as a result of an allergic reaction to the venom."Dr.SchadenFreud fucked around with this message at May 05, 2004 around 13:36 |                      |
| May 05, 2004: 13:33                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | EditQuote |

Teflon Bob

Joined: Feb 02, 2004

quote:

Tyblerrone came out of the closet to say:

I have no idea what's going on now, nor did I when this thread started. WTF is GOING ON?

We are going to fuck your mom, and there is nothing you can do about it.

May 05, 2004: 14:16

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Gozinbulx

Joined: Feb 19, 2004

This is a free country, but on this stage we dance.

quote:

Dr.SchadenFreud came out of the closet to say:

Forget about a collection to pay duties--that's a waste of good dough. Call FedEx and give them the barbershop's phone number. You could even exercise a bit of creative license and tell FedEx that the winning eBay bidder said it was being shipped to his friend's barbershop and that his friend was to sign for the package and pay the duties. Then give the barbershop phone number. If the barber is in on it, then he'll get irritated with the calls.

edit: Next package to 9B should contain 1000 frozen Japanese hornets, postpaid. They should thaw out nicely by the time they're delivered.

"People are not the Japanese giant hornet's usual prey, but those who have felt its sting describe the pain as excruciating. Masato Ono, an entomologist at Tamagawa University, near Tokyo, said it's "like a hot nail through my leg."

Someone who is stung by the hornet and doesn't receive proper treatment soon thereafter can die from the venom, which is powerful enough to disintegrate human flesh. About 40 people die each year after being stung by giant hornets, mainly as a result of an allergic reaction to the venom."

Yeah, lets KILL him!

May 05, 2004: 14:33

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

StickGuy

Joined: Dec 09, 2000

We are on an expedition. Find the moon is our mission.

quote:

Tyblerrone came out of the closet to say:

I have no idea what's going on now, nor did I when this thread started. WTF is GOING ON?

Here's an idea:

|                                                                                                                                 |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                                                                                                                                 |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
| May 05, 2004: 14:41                                                                                                             | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| clckwrkMalchickJoined: Nov 14, 2003when God created hate we had a standard utility | I've been keeping up with this, excellent work all. Just $.02, but I think you should have the thing shipped back, then auction it. Take the money and recoupe your losses, then report the fucker to the police. Then begin the goon justice, er harrassmentquote:Teflon Bob came out of the closet to say:We are going to fuck your mom, and there is nothing you can do about it.LO |
| May 05, 2004: 14:53                                                                                                             | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |

esky
Joined: Apr 15, 2003

Hey, so what's going on 30 pages later?

May 05, 2004: 15:00

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

EditQuote

CountOfNowhere
Joined: Feb 26, 2004

.....there's 20 of them!

quote:

---

StickGuy came out of the closet to say:

Here's an idea:

o

o

---

that is fucking

May 05, 2004: 15:00

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

ChlamydiaJones

Joined: Sep 27, 2002

I think I'm on the "give FedEx the barber's number" bus. Then work that shop over somehow.

May 05, 2004: 15:31

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

Ok. Still no emails from the mark. Here is my plan:

Give FedEx the number to the shop. Once this is done, we wait. While I'm on the phone with fedex, I will get a cost for return shipping. (This will be the cheap long method)
If fedex still can't get it delivered, we have it returned, and I guess I can auction it off. Then we give the little barber shop a call. Or a few hundred.
Then we report him.

May 05, 2004: 15:51

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

King-O-Pork

Joined: Nov 28, 2001

Spread her ass cheeks and have an honest look. Just you and the asshole. Describe the colors to yourself, describe the textures in your mind. See that fucking tiny joint-looking roll of toilet paper on her asshole? Remember it.

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:

Ok. Still no emails from the mark. Here is my plan:

Give FedEx the number to the shop. Once this is done, we wait. While I'm on the phone with fedex, I will get a cost for return shipping. (This will be the cheap long method)
If fedex still can't get it delivered, we have it returned, and I guess I can auction it off. Then we give the little barber shop a call. Or a few hundred.
Then we report him.

I actually think it's this simple man: another goon probably told him. The forums are filled with every type of person from everywhere, I mean look at the people we got to stake the place out. He probably had a buddy on here. And now that the forums are public, it's gonna just get more difficult.

May 05, 2004: 15:58

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

TheRedEye

Joined: Sep 10, 2003

You're making me very unhappy.

quote:

King-O-Pork came out of the closet to say:

I actually think it's this simple man: another goon probably told him.

Scammers and their friends don't strike me as the kind to casually read GBS in the morning.

May 05, 2004: 17:06

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Gizmo_Gun

Joined: Mar 21, 2004

Pow! Bang! Smack! Kablooeey!

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:

Ok. Still no emails from the mark. Here is my plan:

Give FedEx the number to the shop. Once this is done, we wait. While I'm on the phone with fedex, I will get a cost for return shipping. (This will be the cheap long method)

If fedex still can't get it delivered, we have it returned, and I guess I can auction it off. Then we give the little barber shop a call. Or a few hundred.

Then we report him.

I think that's a good idea. Especially where the barber shop gets several hundred calls.

I vote to call from the states.

May 05, 2004: 19:07

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

liquorhead

Joined: Jul 11, 2002

elephant parts 4 life

quote:

Gizmo_Gun came out of the closet to say:

I think that's a good idea. Especially where the barber shop gets several hundred calls.

I vote to call from the states.

Aside from being the shipping address, how do you know the Barber Shop has anything to do with the fraud? Why harass a possibly innocent shop owner? Encouraging hundreds of calls to be made to this business, despite your CIA quality reserach, is not very responsible. Then, of course, so is committing mail fraud to fight mail fraud.

What exactly would you have done if fedex lost your package? Would you have accepted the value you claimed it to have been worth?

liquorhead fucked around with this message at May 05, 2004 around 19:17

May 05, 2004: 19:15

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Hellafied4

Joined: Jun 05, 2003

Your freedom of speech does not mean I'm obligated to listen. Now get the hell out of Broad Street you dirty hippies.

They saw him signing for packages in the name of the guy who tried to scam him.

Never thought Id get a responsibility lecture form a guy named Liquorhead with a Mike Nesmith avatar...

May 05, 2004: 19:23

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

harrybozack

Joined: Jun 06, 2002

"I BOUGHT A PIG IN A
POKE WITH THIS ONE,
ABBY. LET'S HOPE IT DOESN'T BLOW UP ON THE STAND!"

quote:

liquorhead came out of the closet to say:

Aside from being the shipping address, how do you know the Barber Shop has anything to do with the fraud? Why harass a possibly innocent shop owner? Encouraging hundreds of calls to be made to this business, despite your CIA quality reserach, is not very responsible. Then, of course, so is committing mail fraud to fight mail fraud.

What exactly would you have done if fedex lost your package? Would you have accepted the value you claimed it to have been worth?

This was a question I had, but was unwilling to read through a million pages to see if it had been asked/answered

May 05, 2004: 19:24

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

liquorhead

Joined: Jul 11, 2002

elephant parts 4 life

quote:

Hellafied4 came out of the closet to say:

They saw him signing for packages in the name of the guy who tried to scam him.

Never thought Id get a responsibility lecture form a guy named Liquorhead with a Mike Nesmith avatar...

I thought it was established that the package never went there? Did someone actually match the exact signature the guy gave to FedEx for other packages? I read this thread, and must have missed that part.

May 05, 2004: 19:26

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

ChlamydiaJones

Joined: Sep 27, 2002

harrybozack:

quote:

Hellafied4 came out of the closet to say:

They saw him signing for packages in the name of the guy who tried to scam him.

quote:

Hellafied4 came out of the closet to say:

They saw him signing for packages in the name of the guy who tried to scam him.

quote:

Hellafied4 came out of the closet to say:

They saw him signing for packages in the name of the guy who tried to scam him.

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| May 05, 2004: 19:28                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| harrybozackJoined: Jun 06, 2002"I BOUGHT A PIG IN A POKE WITH THIS ONE, ABBY. LET'S HOPE IT DOESN'T BLOW UP ON THE STAND!" | ChlamydiaJones: quote:I quoted him before the response was posted. quote:I quoted him before the response was posted. quote:I quoted him before the response was posted.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| May 05, 2004: 19:30                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| Hellafied4Joined: Jun 05, 2003Your freedom of speech does not mean I'm obligated to listen. Now get the hell out of Broad Street you dirty hippies.                                                                   | quote:liquorhead came out of the closet to say:I thought it was established that the package never went there? Did someone actually match the exact signature the guy gave to FedEx for other packages? I read this thread, and must have missed that part. I thought the recon team saw and heard him signing for packages using the name of the guy that MyNameIsJeff was allegedly selling his computer to. He signed for other packages as the scammer. Maybe im hallucinating. Can any of the guys who were there confirm/deny? |
| May 05, 2004: 19:32                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| cheesebotJoined: Jul 21, 2002I cheesebot                                                                                 | quote:harrybozack came out of the closet to say:This was a question I had, but was unwilling to read through a million pages to see if it had been asked/answered I see it this way. The value of the P-P-P-Powerbook! is obviously not intrinsic - it's sentimental or collectible. On eBay, Best Brains were auctioning off props and pieces of the MST3K set. People were paying hundreds and thousands of dollars for something like a grey spray-painted Hungry, Hungry Hippos game. Who's to say this isn't a similar case?               |

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| May 05, 2004: 19:32                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| PipskiJoined: Apr 18, 2004Lovely barbershop. Pity I wasn't invited.quote:Hellafied4 came out of the closet to say:I thought the recon team saw and heard him signing for packages using the name of the guy that MyNameIsJeff was allegedly selling his computer to. He signed for other packages as the scammer.Maybe im hallucinating. Can any of the guys who were there confirm/deny?                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | Yes, I heard him spelling the name `Sessarego' to the FedEx delivery driver. It doesn't mean that he WAS G.S., but if he's prepared to sign his name then he should be prepared to take anything else G.S. has coming to him. Jeff, this is your call buddy but, whatever you decide to do, be aware that recruiting goons to observe any drop will be easier at a weekend then on a working day. There is no damned way on Earth I could make it there during office hours now, I've pretty much burned my boats on that front. iiwy I'd try and get FedEx to revalue it, even if it means them opening and resealin it. Apart from anything else, if the parcel does end up being delivered to that address and ACCEPTED AND SIGNED FOR there, then it limits this fucknut's capacity to wriggle out of the issue should he ever end up in court. (And if he refuses to sign for it then we know damned well that we've go a rat on board.) I wouldn't pay for the dollarage on a Powerbook to achieve that, but I would pay the dollarage on a ringbinder. I see little point in expecting him to do that anymore, guy's a deadbeat, just won't spend a pound to make a pound. If it turns out that this thing IS dead in the H2O then it'll be time to call in the big boys. |
| May 05, 2004: 20:59                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| yosarianJoined: Jan 22, 2002"A chicken in every pot and a cap in every ass"quote:MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:Ok. Still no emails from the mark. Here is my plan:Give FedEx the number to the shop. Once this is done, we wait. While I'm on the phone with fedex, I will get a cost for return shipping. (This will be the cheap long method)If fedex still can't get it delivered, we have it returned, and I guess I can auction it off. Then we give the little barber shop a call. Or a few hundred.Then we report him. |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | Phone cards are your anonymous friend                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| May 05, 2004: 21:13                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |

solorca

Joined: Mar 29, 2004

quote:

liquorhead came out of the closet to say:

Aside from being the shipping address, how do you know the Barber Shop has anything to do with the fraud? Why harass a possibly innocent shop owner? Encouraging hundreds of calls to be made to this business, despite your CIA quality reserach, is not very responsible. Then, of course, so is committing mail fraud to fight mail fraud.

What exactly would you have done if fedex lost your package? Would you have accepted the value you claimed it to have been worth?

It is my understanding that he didn't purchase insurance on the item. The $2000 was claimed as the value, so that the scammer would have to pay fees on it.

If he had no insurance, he wouldn't have gotten anything anyway. If he DID have insurance, they are obligated to pay he whatever he claims it as, because he paid the amount neccessary to cover said amount.

May 05, 2004: 21:18

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Ionized

Joined: Nov 13, 2003

WHOA, it's a Star Destroyer!!!

quote:

yosarian came out of the closet to say:

Phone cards are your anonymous friend

Whenever we goons call, we gotta record the conversations. Set it to speakerphone and talk away.

I'm sure this will generate even more hillarity.

May 05, 2004: 21:40

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

-----Original Message-----

From: Gianluca [mailto:scont06@yahoo.com]

Sent: Wednesday, May 05, 2004 1:59 PM

To: MyNameIsJeff

Subject: Re: Package cannot be delivered!

Hello

I call to fedex and he tell me tomorow or of friday will send me the package to my address.The money is ready in my hand to pay the taxes.What insurance do you put for this?

I will email you when I will pick up the laptop.

Thank you and sorry for this incovenience.

Gianluca

YES!

May 05, 2004: 23:29

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

EditQuote

SebOfBrackley
Joined: Dec 26, 2003

^_^ can i get a whoop whoop ^_^

quote:

---

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:
Three small blue avatars of a person with a blue face and white hair.

-----Original Message-----
From: Gianluca [mailto:scont06@yahoo.com]
Sent: Wednesday, May 05, 2004 1:59 PM
To: MyNameIsJeff
Subject: Re: Package cannot be delivered!

Hello
I call to fedex and he tell me tomorow or of friday will send me the package to my address.The money is ready in my hand to pay the taxes.What insurance do you put for this?
I will email you when I will pick up the laptop.
Thank you and sorry for this incovenience.

Gianluca

YES!

Awesome! I've been looking through this whole thread just now - wasn't around at the start - and I'm pretty damn impressed by how things are taking a turn for the better.

May 05, 2004: 23:34

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

DLCinferno
Joined: Feb 22, 2003

quote:

---

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:
Three small blue avatars of a person with a blue face and white hair.

YES!

Unexpected turn for the better! You may have a chance to redeem yourself and get your custom title back.

May 05, 2004: 23:35

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

hydrafuck

Joined: Jan 05, 2001

I have and always thought that it lacked respect. Sometimes it start out funny but the goatselol crew always comes in and post useless unfunny garbage a few thousands times.

Good good!

May 05, 2004: 23:40

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Bad_Mojo

Joined: Jan 11, 2002

May 05, 2004: 23:41

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Gally

Joined: May 31, 2001

Rar!

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:

-----Original Message-----

From: Gianluca [mailto:scont06@yahoo.com]

Sent: Wednesday, May 05, 2004 1:59 PM

To: MyNameIsJeff

Subject: Re: Package cannot be delivered!

Hello

I call to fedex and he tell me tomorrow or of friday will send me the package to my address.The money is ready in my hand to pay the taxes.What insurance do you put for this?

I will email you when I will pick up the laptop.

Thank you and sorry for this inconvenience.

Gianluca

YES!

I echo the 'oh please oh please oh please'. Lets hope this guy just deals in such a large volume of scams it took him a while to get around to this one.

May 05, 2004: 23:42

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MRXMRX

Joined: Feb 23, 2004

OMG YES!!!!!! 🤡 🤡

May 05, 2004: 23:44

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

logical fallacy
Joined: Mar 16, 2001

If he's still replying now, we can definitely expect a response from him when he opens the package. (oh please!)

May 05, 2004: 23:45

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Y2Kdogg
Joined: Dec 25, 2003

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:

Oh God, yes! You my friend, are on your way to the status of E-LEGEND.

Also, I really want your P-P-Powerbook! custom back.

May 05, 2004: 23:48

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

ChlamydiaJones
Joined: Sep 27, 2002

This is the greatest thing in the entire world and I will be refreshing AGAIN every few seconds. Please Please Please Please actually pay the taxes Mr Scammerman. PLEASE!!!

[edit] did his language skillz decrease or is it just my imagination?[/edit]

May 05, 2004: 23:49

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MyNameIsJeff
Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

I just hope he doesn't respond with

YOU'RE DEAD

Cause that would scare me.

May 05, 2004: 23:51

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

ChlamydiaJones

Joined: Sep 27, 2002

|                |                                                                                                                                                |                                 |                      |
|----------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------|----------------------|
| SERIOUS | This guy is trying to rip me off on ebay.How should I respond to his email ( 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 ... Last page ) | MyNameIsJeff    | 2269 |
| 2TUPID  | what happened to you today that made you feel really good? ( 1 2 )                                                             | Watch your eyes | 68   |

You'll be fine MyNameIsJeff. I think....

May 05, 2004: 23:53

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Imasalmon

Joined: Mar 19, 2003

Guy in the Green Hat

quote:

---

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:
I just hope he doesn't respond with

YOU'RE DEAD

Cause that would scare me.

---

With all the goon power already shown in this thread, I think you would be protected if he decided to come after you. Hell, I got a place you can hide at and some crazy connections that could keep you safe if need be.

May 05, 2004: 23:55

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

EditQuote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

quote:

---

Imasalmon came out of the closet to say:

With all the goon power already shown in this thread, I think you would be protected if he decided to come after you. Hell, I got a place you can hide at and some crazy connections that could keep you safe if need be.

---

Well, it was "sent" from a way old address way up north. I am also moving in two weeks.

May 05, 2004: 23:56

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Hung0v3r

Joined: Mar 20, 2004

Avast scurvy dogs!

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:

-----Original Message-----

From: Gianluca [mailto:scont06@yahoo.com]

....

YES!

Oh man. I've got a raging anticipation e-boner.

May 05, 2004: 23:56

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

vegaji

Joined: Apr 14, 2004

Owned by Hawk989s

Fucking. Awesome. This thread can still deliver even more funny.

The only downside is that we have to wait until Friday or later.

May 05, 2004: 23:57

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Manic Shampoo

Joined: Feb 09, 2004

I hope this means that our goon recon team will be at the barbershop again! I want to see more webcam spy pictures.

May 05, 2004: 23:58

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Campbell`

Joined: Jan 29, 2004

rgr.

Fuck yes.

May 05, 2004: 23:58

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

|                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| sven523 Joined: Dec 18, 2003  catpot                    | Awesome. I don't have any papers to do this time so I'll just make some ramen and camp out here.                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| May 05, 2004: 23:59                                                                                                                                                      | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageSearch For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                        |
| MyNameIsJeff Joined: Dec 05, 2003  P-P-P-Powerbook.com! | So what should I cook up for the haha email?                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| May 06, 2004: 00:00                                                                                                                                                      | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                              |
| vegaji Joined: Apr 14, 2004 Owned by Hawk989s                                                                                                      | quote:sven523 came out of the closet to say:Awesome. I don't have any papers to do this time so I'll just make some ramen and camp out here. I have a paper due for Spanish tomorrow. Camp out here...do paper that will raise my grade from B+ to A- in Spanish...I'll camp out here. |
| May 06, 2004: 00:01                                                                                                                                                      | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                              |
| ChlamydiaJones Joined: Sep 27, 2002                              | I still think that an edited version of this entire thread is the correct approach. Course then he may ACTUALLY go insane and come after you.                                                                                                                                                                       |
| May 06, 2004: 00:01                                                                                                                                                      | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                              |

|                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| kiimo Joined: Jul 24, 2003                                                                                                                | quote: MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:    Attachment: e.jpgThis has been downloaded 2242 time(s). |
| May 06, 2004: 00:03                                                                                                                                                        | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| clayw Joined: Jan 31, 2003  awesomest hat ever | quote: MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say: So what should I cook up for the haha email?  Pics of the middle fingers of every single goon in this thread. Accompanied with with a big FUCK YOU!!! in huge macro-style font.                                                                   |
| May 06, 2004: 00:04                                                                                                                                                        | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                         |
| vegaji Joined: Apr 14, 2004 Owned by Hawk989s                                                                                             | quote: clayw came out of the closet to say:  Pics of the middle fingers of every single goon in this thread. Accompanied with with a big FUCK YOU!!! in huge macro-style font.  I REALLY wish I had a digital camera/webcam right now.                                                    |
| May 06, 2004: 00:05                                                                                                                                                        | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                         |
| Imasalmon Joined: Mar 19, 2003 Guy in the Green Hat                                                                                       | quote: MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say: So what should I cook up for the haha email?  Act like you sent him a legitimate Powerbook and that you cannot understand why he is pissed. See how long you can keep up the charade.                                                             |
| May 06, 2004: 00:06                                                                                                                                                        | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                         |

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Str8DogJoined: Apr 07, 200401010101010                                                                                                                                                   | quote:Imasalmon came out of the closet to say: Act like you sent him a legitimate Powerbook and that you cannot understand why he is pissed. See how long you can keep up the charade. ^^I Agree With This Post                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| May 06, 2004: 00:07MyNameIsJeffJoined: Dec 05, 2003P-P-P-Powerbook.com! | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More PostsEditQuote quote:Imasalmon came out of the closet to say: Act like you sent him a legitimate Powerbook and that you cannot understand why he is pissed. See how long you can keep up the charade. Ok.                                                                |
| May 06, 2004: 00:08ShatneresqueJoined: Apr 15, 2001It's my ship! My ... SHIP!                                                                                      | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More PostsEditQuote quote:MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say: I just hope he doesn't respond with YOU'RE DEAD Cause that would scare me. With this guy it'll be more like "UR DED", which will be funny instead of scary. |
| May 06, 2004: 00:15                                                                                                                                                                                                       | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| PipskiJoined: Apr 18, 2004Lovely barbershop. Pity I wasn't invited.                                                                                                  | YES!!!! Get in!!!! You see, just like any other kind of fishing, just requires patience and a firm grip on your rod.                                                                           |
| May 06, 2004: 00:15                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                 |
| vegajiJoined: Apr 14, 2004Owned by Hawk989s                                                                                                                                                                                                          | And if he sends pictures of the P-P-P-Powerbook to show you of the lack of a real Powebook, tell him that he's lying and made the P-P-P-Powerbook himself and is just trying to scam you.      |
| May 06, 2004: 00:17                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts Edit Quote |
| jhnrknsnJoined: Mar 07, 2003OL LOL LOL LTacticalPenis bought me this title because he is a worthless bastard and i have to help him do shit all the time. | This rules. I hope it ships out tomorrow.                                                                                                                                                      |
| May 06, 2004: 00:19                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                 |
| MannequinJoined: Mar 08, 2003The difference between fiction and reality? Fiction has to make sense.                                                         | This is AWESOME news! Man, I'm really excited now. He probably just got delayed, stupid bastard.                                                                                               |
| May 06, 2004: 00:19                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts Edit Quote |
| WheelerJoined: Nov 24, 2003                                                                                                                                            | I am very confused as to why this thread became so insanelly popular.                                                                                                                          |
| May 06, 2004: 00:22                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                 |

|                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| vegajiJoined: Apr 14, 2004Owned by Hawk989s                                                                                                                 | quote: Wheeler came out of the closet to say:I am very confused as to why this thread became so insanely popular. Two words: Goon. Justice.                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| May 06, 2004: 00:24                                                                                                                                                                                     | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| SLOSiFlJoined: Aug 10, 2002                                                 | ^^ ^^ Did you read it, you shitmitten?                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| May 06, 2004: 00:24                                                                                                                                                                                     | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| SebOfBrackleyJoined: Dec 26, 2003^_^ can i get a whoop whoop ^_^ | quote: Wheeler came out of the closet to say:I am very confused as to why this thread became so insanely popular. Because it's a riveting tale of deception and international intrigue. It's like a James Bond movie, except nobody has been killed and nobody gets to have sex. It even has the hilarious gadgets (in this case, the p-p-p-p-powerbook) |
| May 06, 2004: 00:32                                                                                                                                                                                     | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| sven523Joined: Dec 18, 2003catpot                              | quote: Imasalmon came out of the closet to say:Act like you sent him a legitimate Powerbook and that you cannot understand why he is pissed. See how long you can keep up the charade. When you can't keep it up anymore send him a copy of this thread (edited in some way or another of course).                                                       |
| May 06, 2004: 00:41                                                                                                                                                                                     | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |

vegaji

Joined: Apr 14, 2004

Owned by Hawk989s

quote:

sven523 came out of the closet to say:

When you can't keep it up anymore send him a copy of this thread (edited in some way or another of course).

Or, leave printed copies of the thread in the mailbox of the barber shop. Also, save the thread in file format and put them on like 20 CDs. Put these CDs in each of the CD drives of the computers of the barber shop. As if the P-P-P-Powerbook screensavers haven't tipped them off enough.

May 06, 2004: 00:43

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

GC

Joined: Jul 08, 2002

zoom zoom

I suggest sending him this picture:

I helped! 🤪

May 06, 2004: 00:56

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

|                                                                                                                                                                                    |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| dalstrsJoined: Mar 11, 2004 KingPin                                                                                                              | Do we have any goons that have confirmed they will be there for delivery tomorrow? I think this is the top priority.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| May 06, 2004: 01:01                                                                                                                                                                | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| TacocriminalJoined: May 09, 2003                                 | quote:MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:So what should I cook up for the haha email? How about a fake email from the same domain as his escrow service that tells you your "real" powerbook had been picked up, but the other package you sent (with the p-p-p-powerbook) to check as see if fedex actually inspects international deliveries for tax purposes is still there? Say something like "You paid me to ship the p-p-p-powerbook! Where's the real computer I sent you!?"Make it seem like someone he knows is scamming him.                                                                                        |
| May 06, 2004: 01:09                                                                                                                                                                | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| MyNameIsJeffJoined: Dec 05, 2003 P-P-P-Powerbook.com! | quote:Tacocriminal came out of the closet to say:How about a fake email from the same domain as his escrow service that tells you your "real" powerbook had been picked up, but the other package you sent (with the p-p-p-powerbook) to check as see if fedex actually inspects international deliveries for tax purposes is still there? Say something like "You paid me to ship the p-p-p-powerbook! Where's the real computer I sent you!?"Make it seem like someone he knows is scamming him. I can always forward the email from ebay stating that his account was stolen! I did get that after I sent the p-p-p-powerbook. |
| May 06, 2004: 02:10                                                                                                                                                                | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| Bad_MojoJoined: Jan 11, 2002                                   | quote:So what should I cook up for the haha email? Just this picture.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |

It's coming from inside the barber shop!!

|                                                                                                                      |                                                                                                                                                                          |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| May 06, 2004: 02:24                                                                                                  | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote |
| BedJoined: Apr 20, 2004...sometimes you wakeup,sometimes you die, andsometimes you fly... | I love the idea of accusing him of scamming you (as in, you sent a REAL powerbook and know nothing of this p-p-p-powerbook!)                                             |
| May 06, 2004: 02:53                                                                                                  | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote |
| LuciferJoined: Mar 23, 2004Old people have sex.                                                   | Re-voicing my suggest that someone get the name of the barber before this shit goes down.                                                                                |
| May 06, 2004: 02:58                                                                                                  | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote |

Landrobot

Joined: Jul 14, 2001

quote:

Lucifer came out of the closet to say:
Re-voicing my suggest that someone get the name of the barber before this shit goes down.

"JEAN CLIMAX" !!!
hahahawtf?

seriously, am I the only one that thinks that's a strange name for a barber shop... only in England...
plus, all those signs on the storefront look like complete ass.

Landrobot fucked around with this message at May 06, 2004 around 03:18

May 06, 2004: 03:15

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

rottingcorpse

Joined: Dec 12, 2003

you forgot to renew your domain.com

What I don't understand is, if you look up the email address from the scammer you get the account that eBay said was stolen (msalamon) and was given back to the original owner. So, did this guy hack the email address? Maybe the email address has been taken back by the original owner?

May 06, 2004: 03:24

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Jack Burton

Joined: Mar 01, 2002

It's all in the reflexes.

Damn! This thread is the roller coaster of the forums. I can't believe it turned around yet again. I await the thrilling conclusion with...some combination of compelling adjectives!!!

Jack Burton fucked around with this message at May 06, 2004 around 04:40

May 06, 2004: 03:38

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Sexual Pilgrim

Joined: Dec 02, 2002

quote:

SebOfBrackley came out of the closet to say:
nobody gets to have sex.

theres always that waitress...

May 06, 2004: 04:13

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

|                                                                                                                                                                                              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| DarkLotusJoined: Sep 30, 2001I Haven't Been Fucked Like That Since Grade School!!! | I have archived this entire thread up to now, If someone has hosting with shit loads of bandwidth, I would be more than happy to upload it, otherwise I might torrent it but don't really have the bandwidth to support all the leeches in the world. PM me with upload info, file is approximately 35-40 mb with all videos and images.Edit: thats a lot of commas, leaving them in for comedy factor!Edit2: Fuck it, I will torrent it for now, I will run it for a day or 2 and hopefully you guys can help me seed it.Download Torrent<sup>81</sup>(1 file; 34.36M)View Torrent Stats<sup>81</sup>Complete: 0Incomplete: 0DarkLotus fucked around with this message at May 06, 2004 around 04:51                                                     |
| May 06, 2004:04:25                                                                                       | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
| neddleJoined: May 04, 2004"Eight hours later they brought her up by mule!"         | I have also found the name of the bloke / business at 9A Varley Parade... Missed it yesterday due to... being a goober. If anyone can think of a reason for me supplying it that is even slightly valid, taking the recent FUCKING AWESOME developments into account, let me know. Otherwise I shall protect the possibly innocent.Nice one JeffAny goons who actually go into the barbershop should NOT be the same ones who went in last time. It might tip them off that something is afoot and if they are criminal types they are also probably more than a little paranoid. So UK goons need to recruit and / or step up. I would but I am playing golf and working (not at the same time). If it looks like happening on Monday or Tuesday I am free (I think) and I have somewhere to stay in London. Hear that PIPSKI? Get the beers in.God I hope the fucker opens it right there! |
| May 06, 2004:04:46                                                                                       | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
| ShadyJoined: Apr 16, 2003It's always a few degrees cooler in the shade...          | I vote for just sending him the 'Ha Ha Internet' picture, that would creep him out good                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| May 06, 2004:04:51                                                                                       | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
| neddleJoined: May 04, 2004"Eight hours later they brought her up by mule!"         | No no! You send him the photo of front of the barber shop with "We know where you are and what you're doing, the National Criminal Intelligence Service has been informed. Expect them." Best delivery method would be wrapped round a brick and hefted through the window into one of the PC's monitors at 4:00am.Like I say I'm free next Monday.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| May 06, 2004:05:00                                                                                       | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |

deebo
Joined: Jan 21, 2004

Remains of barbershop

Edit: Someone needs to get access to the computers there and sumhow set up one of the webcams to permanently stream :P

May 06, 2004: 05:03

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Dr.SchadenFreud
Joined: Jul 16, 2003

I'm going to have to give you some of my "special medicine..."

This is the BEST THREAD EVER. HANDS DOWN.

I'll be happy to provide a pic of my middle finger. Also, "Jean Climax" sounds like a David Bowie song to me.

CAT FUD

May 06, 2004: 05:28

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

fuckingtest

Joined: Mar 31, 2001

We can rebuild him. but I don't wanna spend alot of money.

quote:

deebo came out of the closet to say:
Remains of barbershop

I beg to differ, at least after the ROMANIAN MAFIA hears about this:

May 06, 2004: 05:42

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

BonziBUDDY

Joined: Jun 17, 2002

I AM STUPID
STUPID
STUPID
STUPID
STUPID
STUPID
STUPID
STUPID
STUPID

I think if you replied with simply a picture of the barber shop to him that'd be so fucking hilarious. He'd probably be scared shitless and shoot himself.

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                      |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------|
| May 06, 2004: 05:46                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                           | EditQuote |
| BluecobraJoined: Sep 11, 2001Cobra Commander                                                       | quote:BonziBUDDY came out of the closet to say:I think if you replied with simply a picture of the barber shop to him that'd be so fucking hilarious. He'd probably be scared shitless and shoot himself. That is fucking brilliant. Jeff, you must include this picture in the haha email. |                      |
| May 06, 2004: 05:49                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | EditQuote |
| G. HosafatJoined: Apr 16, 2003I WANT TO RAPE YOUR FACE                                                                                                                                        | Just be sure to let him know that "The entire internet is laughing at you."                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                      |
| May 06, 2004: 05:50                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | EditQuote |
| neddleJoined: May 04, 2004"Eight hours later they brought her up by mule"!                                                                                                                    | Love the burnt out barber shop. That is definately the way to go! Maybe include a picture of the owner with a crosshair aimed at his forehead.                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                      |
| May 06, 2004: 05:51                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | EditQuote |
| Dr.SchadenFreudJoined: Jul 16, 2003I'm going to have to give you some of my "special medicine..." | quote:Bluecobra came out of the closet to say:That is fucking brilliant. Jeff, you must include this picture in the haha email. I think it definitely needs to be the "HA HA INTERNET" version.                                                                                             |                      |
| May 06, 2004: 05:51                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | EditQuote |
| osirisdeadJoined: Jun 23, 2003I want my MG-42                                                    | quote:MRXMRX came out of the closet to say:OMG YES!!!!!! 🤪🤪                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                      |
| May 06, 2004: 05:54                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | EditQuote |

pooper scooper
Joined: Oct 23, 2003

quote:

---

rottingcorpse came out of the closet to say:
What I don't understand is, if you look up the email address from the scammer you get the account that eBay said was stolen (msalamon) and was given back to the original owner. So, did this guy hack the email address? Maybe the email address has been taken back by the original owner?

---

If this is really what happened, that would be even funnier!

Nah, seriously, we do need some goons to stake out the joint and get pictures again! I will donate blood if needed.

May 06, 2004: 05:54

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Dr.SchadenFreud
Joined: Jul 16, 2003

I'm going to have to give you some of my "special medicine..."

quote:

---

neddle came out of the closet to say:
Love the burnt out barber shop. That is definately the way to go! Maybe include a picture of the owner with a crosshair aimed at his forehead.

---

Now, now...let's not send anything that might be construed by the authorities as violent threats.

edit: Okay, so the Japanese hornets thing *might* be construed as threatening. OTOH, perhaps Mr. Sassarego is an amateur entomologist...nah.

May 06, 2004: 05:57

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Morand
Joined: Apr 16, 2004

quote:

---

Bad_Mojo came out of the closet to say:

Just this picture.

It's coming from inside the barber shop!!

I heartily endorse this.

May 06, 2004: 06:10

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

doctormidnight

Joined: Apr 28, 2004

Observation and Deduction
Motherfucker, DO YOU SPEAK
IT?

quote:

DarkLotus came out of the closet to say:

I have archived this entire thread up to now, If someone has hosting with shit loads of bandwidth, I would be more than happy to upload it, otherwise I might torrent it but don't really have the bandwidth to support all the leeches in the world. PM me with upload info, file is approximately 35-40 mb with all videos and images.

Edit: thats a lot of commas, leaving them in for comedy factor!

Edit2: Fuck it, I will torrent it for now, I will run it for a day or 2 and hopefully you guys can help me seed it.

Download Torrent<sup>81</sup> (1 file; 34.36M)

View Torrent Stats<sup>81</sup>

Complete: 0
Incomplete: 0

|                                                                                                            |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                            |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------|
|                                                                                                            | I've downloaded the torrent and I'm putting the .rar file on my space right now. Unlimited bandwidth on an .edu server. Should be done at 11:00 PM Pacific.                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                                            |
| May 06, 2004: 06:26                                                                                 | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | Edit Quote |
| Mojo_MonkeyJoined: May 06, 2004                                                                 | haha, I registered just to finish reading this entire thread (it wanted me to register 17pgs in). I have to say that the level of cooperation amongst everyone involved is unprecedented, and ive loved every minute spent reading this thread! I just cant belive the coordination, great work guys, this is by far the greatest thing I have ever seen on the internet. |                                            |
|                            |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                            |
| May 06, 2004: 06:31                                                                                 | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | Edit Quote |
| Boom316Joined: May 28, 2003                                                                     | I just read from pages 1-20 of this thread. I skipped to the end, as I saw the last shipping update was of this morning, and not much has happened. I didn't realize how long this thread is... part of me is glad I skipped some 30 pages, some 700 posts (as it is nearly 1AM here, and I have class tomorrow morning), but part of me wants to go back and read it.    |                                            |
| tl ;dr is bannable                                                                                  | Either way, I'm greatly anticipating the results of what has to be the most elaborate and amazing e-justice ever. It's threads like this that make me firmly believe that the SA community can, and often does, accomplish wonderful evil.                                                                                                                                |                                            |
| May 06, 2004: 06:49                                                                                 | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | Edit Quote |
| nosleepJoined: Jan 20, 2004                                                                     | I also just started reading this thread today. Read it from page 1 to 59 (skimmed a lot of it). I've seen it sitting there for days, just never read it for some reason.                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                            |
| Life sucks, get a helmet.                                                                                  | This shit is epic. Props to Jeff and all the spies helping out. Can't wait to see how this ends up.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                            |
| May 06, 2004: 07:01                                                                                 | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | Edit Quote |
| MyNameIsJeffJoined: Dec 05, 2003                                                                | Good idea with the "HAHA Internet" pic. I will be sure to send that post delivery. I hope this is it this time.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                                            |
| P-P-P-Powerbook.com! |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                            |
| May 06, 2004: 07:22                                                                                 | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | Edit Quote |

Falenseraf

Joined: Sep 09, 2003

quote:

Mojo_Monkey came out of the closet to say:
this is by far the greatest thing I have ever seen on the internet.

Better than porn? ... I didn't think so.

I can't belive this guy is taking the bait I hope he likes his p p p powerbook when he gets it.
😂😂😂😂😂

May 06, 2004: 07:23

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Rib Feast

Joined: Feb 18, 2003

Half the peanuts, but double the corn!

I have not left my seat since page 1. Please wrap this up, the shit and piss all over the floor is most uncomfotable 😞

Best thread ever!! 😄

May 06, 2004: 07:24

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

doctormidnight

Joined: Apr 28, 2004

Observation and Deduction
Motherfucker, DO YOU SPEAK IT?

OK, direct download link now available. Hopefully someone will archive the thread again in a few days and I will replace it.

34.36 MB .rar file

May 06, 2004: 07:44

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

maus

Joined: Jul 25, 2003

Amigos! Look! It is El Macho...
The Thief of Hearts!!

quote:

cheesebot came out of the closet to say:
People were paying hundreds and thousands of dollars for something like a grey spray-painted Hungry, Hungry Hippos game. Who's to say this isn't a similar case?

[derail]I believe a goon owns that particular piece, actually.[/derail]

Also: yay! Response from the Romanian!

|                                                                                                                                                            |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                                                                            |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| May 06, 2004: 07:56                                                                                                                                 | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| PowercrazyJoined: Feb 15, 2004I am become death, thedestroyer of worlds.Robert Oppenheimer                                  | Wow, I cannot fucking wait. I definetly agree with sending him the "ha ha internet" picture. With a picture of the barber shop guy too.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| May 06, 2004: 08:18                                                                                                                                 | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| hellocruelworldJoined: Feb 28, 2003Dude, I See God! | Another vote for the "HA HA" picture...it's, subtle, clever, and creepy at the same time. Make him scared...don't reveal to much...call the barber shop later and start talking about suspicious packages and see if the barber gets scared...There is oh so much that can be done. And of course at the end of the day notify the authorities so no one else falls victim to this asshole.                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| May 06, 2004: 08:41                                                                                                                                 | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| Dix8675309Joined: Feb 08, 2004                        | I'm so glad that I fixed my internet connection tonight. This is seriously the best thing I have ever gotten off of the internet.First of all, thumbs up to everyone involved. It must have taken balls the size of basketballs to do this. Secondly, I'm so glad that your mark replied, and am anticipating a great ending to this story.Who needs those four hours of sleep I didn't get because I read this, definitely not me.As for the reply when he emails you again, just send a picture of the actual powerbook with huge text on the screen saying "OWNED". |
| May 06, 2004: 09:02                                                                                                                                 | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |

|                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| sven523 Joined: Dec 18, 2003  catpot | If stuff is just being forwarded to him from the barbershop the "Ha ha Internet" picture won't mean anything. He'll just think it's weird but it won't creep him out unless he knows that it means that people were staking out his delivery point. He probably would know that but still, something to think about.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| May 06, 2004: 09:15                                                                                                                                              | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageSearch For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| neddle Joined: May 04, 2004 "Eight hours later they brought her up by mule!"                                                    | quote: sven523 came out of the closet to say:If stuff is just being forwarded to him from the barbershop the "Ha ha Internet" picture won't mean anything. He'll just think it's weird but it won't creep him out unless he knows that it means that people were staking out his delivery point. He probably would know that but still, something to think about. I think Mr Barbershop will know about the PPPPowerbook about 30 seconds after the person he forwards it to does. I think there's a decent chance he will, at that time, be declaring his complete ignorance of it and worrying about the future of his knee caps. Criminals suspect everyone they know, because a lot of the people they know are also criminals. |
| May 06, 2004: 09:30                                                                                                                                              | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageSearch For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| deebo Joined: Jan 21, 2004                     | Someone should go into the barbershop and take a picture of themselves with a powerbook and send that to him :P If he's forwarding it, the guy will think he stole it, if not it might annoy him :P                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| May 06, 2004: 10:00                                                                                                                                              | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageSearch For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| Lucifer Joined: Mar 23, 2004 Old people have sex.                                                                               | quote: Landrobot came out of the closet to say:"JEAN CLIMAX" !!!hahahawtf?seriously, am I the only one that thinks that's a strange name for a barber shop... only in England...plus, all those signs on the storefront look like complete ass. Surely that isn't the name of the man himself. I refuse to believe that anyone has the last name 'Climax'. Still, we should find out the names of the other employees too.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |

|                                                                                                                                                                                    |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                                            |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------|
|                                                                                                                                                                                    |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                                            |
| May 06, 2004: 10:15                                                                                                                                                         | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | Edit Quote |
| AccipiterJoined: Jan 24, 2004Pop it, D-Man!                                     | YES!I'm so glad you're going to send my HA HA INTERNET picture to that asshole, thus directly involving me in the GOON JUSTICE. Thanks!/me giggles with glee! 🤪                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                                            |
| May 06, 2004: 10:30                                                                                                                                                         | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | Edit Quote |
| Nevvy ZJoined: Jan 03, 2004I do not kill with my sword... I kill with my heart. | this is a beautiful thingmuch like when the hacker was traced down, goon justice is coolseconding the streaming webcam idea                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                                            |
| May 06, 2004: 10:38                                                                                                                                                         | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | Edit Quote |
| Atomic EdgeJoined: Apr 10, 2004In an Atomic Mood                                                                                                                | When he chucks the P-P-P-Powerbook in the bin, we need a Goon Salvige Squad to go and get the remains :-D                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                            |
| May 06, 2004: 10:44                                                                                                                                                         | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | Edit Quote |
| thehustlerJoined: Apr 17, 2004Mr Brightside                                                                                                                     | I hope this all goes off big time tomorrow, because I'm on holiday next week 😞Nice work goons. Had me riveted.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                            |
| May 06, 2004: 10:49                                                                                                                                                         | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | Edit Quote |
| GravyJoined: Sep 07, 2003Everything goes better with Gravy.                   | I was just starting to think I was actually gonna be able to work at work. Last week was spent with me glued to my monitor reading this thread. Last couple days I was able to go back to work, then sometime last night, this.Just like to give props to everyone and what they've done this far.The burnt out shop is damn cool, but don't send that to him. Same as the cross hairs, could be taken as a threat, and stuff.I think stringing him along for as long as possible, then sending him the HA HA Internet picture is the way to go. |                                            |
| May 06, 2004: 14:34                                                                                                                                                         | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | Edit Quote |

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| TekilahJoined: Apr 15, 2004Everything good was taken                                                                                                                   | quote:MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:I call to fedex and he tell me tomorrow or of friday will send me the package to my address. When he says "my address" does he still mean the barbershop? Does Fedex have to take a package to it's original destination, or is there a chance he would be able to have it rerouted to his address? If he can, does the sender have a right to the new destination?Also...YES! (Not the answer to the above, just a general exclamation of glee.) I am SO excited that he replied. :P |
| May 06, 2004: 15:12                                                                                                                                                                                     | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| YossarkoJoined: Jan 22, 2004The little Armenian boy who could... | I also giggle with glee now that our mark has replied and the p-p-p-powerbook is back in buisness.It's been ONE WEEK, though. An entire one week delay. Makes you wonder why he wanted the powerbook delivered overnight, doesn't it?                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| May 06, 2004: 16:01                                                                                                                                                                                     | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| ChlamydiaJonesJoined: Sep 27, 2002                                        | I am so erect right now. Alternatly refreshing the FedEx page and this thread. SO erect.ps; http://www.fedex.com/cgi-bin/tracki...rs=846563452310                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| May 06, 2004: 16:16                                                                                                                                                                                     | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| Str8DogJoined: Apr 07, 200401010101010                                                                                                                                 | MyNameIsJeff,I could not help myself and bought he domain p-p-p-powerbook.com... Nothing there yet, but I will be glad to host any kind of write up you want to write there. Along with the better images...                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| May 06, 2004: 16:48                                                                                                                                                                                     | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |

|                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| goferchanJoined: Feb 08, 2004I AM A LIAR                                                                                                               | quote:ChlamydiaJones came out of the closet to say:I am so erect right now. Alternatly refreshing the FedEx page and this thread. SO erect.ps; http://www.fedex.com/cgi-bin/tracki...rs=846563452310 Shit, I'm refreshing it over and over again too, this feels like when I ordered UT2k4 and I was waiting for it to arrive.But funnier.                                                                                                                                                                              |
| May 06, 2004: 16:57                                                                                                                                                                     | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| LynzaJoined: Jun 01, 2000I work in Tech Support. | quote:Tekilah came out of the closet to say:When he says "my address" does he still mean the barbershop? Does Fedex have to take a package to it's original destination, or is there a chance he would be able to have it rerouted to his address? If he can, does the sender have a right to the new destination?Also...YES! (Not the answer to the above, just a general exclamation of glee.) I am SO excited that he replied. :PFrom what I know, FedEx will not allow the recipient to change the address, only the sender can do that. So it will have to go to the original address. |
| May 06, 2004: 17:25                                                                                                                                                                     | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| Str8DogJoined: Apr 07, 200401010101010                                                                                                                 | quote:Lynza came out of the closet to say:From what I know, FedEx will not allow the recipient to change the address, only the sender can do that. So it will have to go to the original address.This is incorrect at least in the states. You can redirect a package after the first attempt to deliver. I do it all the time to have a package redirected to where I work from home.                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| May 06, 2004: 17:28                                                                                                                                                                     | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |

Gizmo_Gun

Joined: Mar 21, 2004

Pow! Bang! Smack! Kablooeey!

May 06, 2004: 17:34

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

ChlamydiaJones

Joined: Sep 27, 2002

quote:

Str8Dog came out of the closet to say:

This is incorrect at least in the states. You can redirect a package after the first attempt to deliver. I do it all the time to have a package redirected to where I work from home.

True. Once he pays the taxes he can anything he wants with delivery. I assume, though, that FedEx tracking will show the final delivery address. We just may not be able to physicaly BE there and catch him opening it(which would suck of course). The good thing, though, is that we end up with (hopefully) a hard target for future activity!

May 06, 2004: 17:35

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

StinkyWizzleateats

Joined: Mar 21, 2004

Third Quartermaster of the
New England Calvinball
Combination

See, the problem with this thread is that it keeps picking up at the worst possible times. I have a final in THREE HOURS, kids. I can't study a semester's material in three hours! I don't wanna leave my seat. I can't leave my seat.

🚗 Alright, I am going to leave my seat, but you better believe I'm snapping a middle finger pic upon my return. 🚗

May 06, 2004: 17:40

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Vince McMahon

Joined: Dec 18, 2003

quote:

vegaji came out of the closet to say:

Two words:

Goon. Justice.

How much has this cost the goons? Over $100?

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                                                                                                                    |                      |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------|
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | How much has this cost the scammer? Nothing. Even if he does pay the tax, is he really going to pay with legit cash? |                      |
| May 06, 2004: 19:22                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                | EditQuote |
| karmafluxJoined: Feb 26, 2004OMG WATCH OUT FOR TEH CUCUMBAR!!@$!1quote:<hr/>Vince McMahon came out of the closet to say:How much has this cost the goons? Over $100?How much has this cost the scammer? Nothing.<hr/>Even if he does pay the tax, is he really going to pay with legit cash?<hr/>We're not trying to rob the guy. We're trying to piss him off.If you don't like it, unsubscribe, fool. | EditQuote                                                                                                               |                      |
| May 06, 2004: 19:32                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                | EditQuote |
| OtokodateJoined: Jan 15, 2004All your nuts are belong to mequote:<hr/>neddle came out of the closet to say:Any goons who actually go into the barbershop should NOT be the same ones who went in last time.<hr/>And they should be dressed in gray and get their heads shaved.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | EditQuote                                                                                                               |                      |

Vince McMahon
Joined: Dec 18, 2003

quote:

---

karmaflux came out of the closet to say:

A large meme image of a man with the text "get off your High Horse".

We're not trying to rob the guy. We're trying to piss him off.

If you don't like it, unsubscribe, fool.

---

Why would it piss him off? He hasn't lost anything. He might even find it amusing heh.

May 06, 2004: 20:20

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

ChlamydiaJones
Joined: Sep 27, 2002

quote:

---

Vince McMahon came out of the closet to say:

How much has this cost the goons? Over $100?

How much has this cost the scammer? Nothing.

Even if he does pay the tax, is he really going to pay with legit cash?

---

You're really not too quick are you? It really may be best if you just went away and let us handle this intricate and volatile situation. Clown.

May 06, 2004: 20:20

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Vince McMahon
Joined: Dec 18, 2003

I'm sure you've had a lot to do with it. I've been watching the thread from the start, and was quite amused when the package actually got delivered, but a bit bummed when it turned out it wasn't the real deal.

Maybe you should stop being so defensive and look at the bigger picture.

May 06, 2004: 20:26

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

liquorhead
Joined: Jul 11, 2002

elephant parts 4 life

quote:

ChlamydiaJones came out of the closet to say:

You're really not too quick are you? It really may be best if you just went away and let us handle this intricate and volatile situation. Clown.

What exactly have you been handling in this situation? I don't think his comments were out of line. It's a funny joke, but ultimately he won't have to pay all that much or lose much.

May 06, 2004: 20:30

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Jadz
Joined: Jan 08, 2004

"When you know not of what you speak, your mouth is best used for chewing." - Walter Slovotsky

"So angry!" ^ ^ ^ ^ ^ ^ ^

May 06, 2004: 20:34

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Dr.SchadenFreud
Joined: Jul 16, 2003

I'm going to have to give you some of my "special medicine..."

quote:

liquorhead came out of the closet to say:

What exactly have you been handling in this situation? I don't think his comments were out of line. It's a funny joke, but ultimately he won't have to pay all that much or lose much.

How do you figure? He's not going to use a stolen card, as it would be traced to him--he'll pay cold hard cash. mwahahahaha

May 06, 2004: 20:39

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Vince McMahonJoined: Dec 18, 2003                                                                              | Isn't fake cash the norm with say the mafia? I'm a bit behind the times on organised crime 😞 EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| May 06, 2004: 20:40                                                                                                                                                                                                  | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| CarrionJoined: Jun 17, 2003                                                                                    | The chance of him using fake cash is very very slim, especially since this isn't some little ma/pa store, its an international corporation. There is a much better chance the money is stolen, or ill gained, but regardless it is fucking annoying to lose money. It doesn't matter how you get it. If the $100 was all from one goon, then yeah it might suck for that goon, but it was spread across god knows how many. If anything, it was a small price for hours of entertainment. This is a great prank, and guaranteed to piss off the scammer provided it goes according to plan. EditQuote                                                                                                                                 |
| May 06, 2004: 20:48                                                                                                                                                                                                  | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| GulzinJoined: Jan 03, 2004A little gnome hasn't hurt anybody                                                                                                                            | quote:Vince McMahon came out of the closet to say:Isn't fake cash the norm with say the mafia? I'm a bit behind the times on organised crime 😞 Even the mafia could have done a better job with the fake escrow service. Legit cash or not, he just wasted it to a P-P-P-Powerbook! instead of whatever else he would have wasted it on. If he was rich enough to drop $500's everywhere, why does he scam for laptops in the first place?But, Chances are he'll see that as a loss of doing scamming and keep on, but we have enough information going to the authorities that will stop that right quick (provided the authorities do anything). EditQuote |
| May 06, 2004: 20:50                                                                                                                                                                                                  | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| Dr.SchadenFreudJoined: Jul 16, 2003I'm going to have to give you some of my "special medicine..." | quote:Carrion came out of the closet to say:This is a great prank, and guaranteed to piss off the scammer provided it goes according to plan. Carrion is right. Not only will the scammer pay in cash, but this is the BEST PRANK EVER, and I'll be able to hear the scammer's howls of fury all the way from the East Coast of the United States! EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| May 06, 2004: 20:50                                                                                                                                                                                                  | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |

Dr.SchadenFreud

Joined: Jul 16, 2003

I'm going to have to give you some of my "special medicine..."

quote:

Gulzin came out of the closet to say:

If he was rich enough to drop $500's everywhere, why does he scam for laptops in the first place?

I think you don't understand the economics of theft. If he steals ten laptops a month and makes $1000 profit on each one, he clearly has the $500 to pay for duty. Also, $500 doesn't exactly make one rich.

May 06, 2004: 21:12

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Gulzin

Joined: Jan 03, 2004

A little gnome hasn't hurt anybody

My point exactly. This will piss him off, fake money or not.

May 06, 2004: 21:17

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Yossarko

Joined: Jan 22, 2004

The little Armenian boy who could...

What you are forgetting, Vince McMahon, is that it does not end at the p-p-p-powerbook. Once the fun and games are over, all evidence and information will be given to the police.

That, my friend, is where he stops finding it amusing.

May 06, 2004: 21:18

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Vince McMahon

Joined: Dec 18, 2003

Isn't that a little risky? Afterall, Jeff also broke the law by putting a fake insurance amount. Won't they track that back to him?

May 06, 2004: 21:20

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

quote:

Str8Dog came out of the closet to say:
MyNameIsJeff,

I could not help myself and bought he domain p-p-p-powerbook.com... Nothing there yet, but I will be glad to host any kind of write up you want to write there. Along with the better images...

Awesome. Should I make a serious site explaining it all? Or a "The Cheat" style web page.

May 06, 2004: 21:21

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Gulzin

Joined: Jan 03, 2004

A little gnome hasn't hurt anybody

quote:

Vince McMahon came out of the closet to say:

Isn't that a little risky? Afterall, Jeff also broke the law by putting a fake insurance amount. Won't they track that back to him?

No, it was a $2000 work of art. Furthermore, we hand them the info we want to.

So calm down, all your reservations have been handled on page 30(ish). Sit back and enjoy the show.

May 06, 2004: 21:23

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Carrion

Joined: Jun 17, 2003

quote:

Vince McMahon came out of the closet to say:

Isn't that a little risky? Afterall, Jeff also broke the law by putting a fake insurance amount. Won't they track that back to him?

I don't know what you are talking about. That was a work of art he sent, and clearly worth over $2000. 😊 I know I have seen some crap that I don't think is worth what is claimed, but who are they to say what his art work is worth?

Edit: Beaten, damn

May 06, 2004: 21:25

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Gizmo_Gun

Joined: Mar 21, 2004

Pow! Bang! Smack! Kablooeey!

quote:

Vince McMahon came out of the closet to say:
Isn't that a little risky? Afterall, Jeff also broke the law by putting a fake insurance amount. Won't they track that back to him?

Oh shit, you're right.
And I forgot to use my blinker today while turning to avoid a car theft.
Guess that means that I'm going to jail if I tell the police about the guy jacking cars.

May 06, 2004: 21:25

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

liquorhead

Joined: Jul 11, 2002

elephant parts 4 life

quote:

Gizmo_Gun came out of the closet to say:

Oh shit, you're right.
And I forgot to use my blinker today while turning to avoid a car theft.
Guess that means that I'm going to jail if I tell the police about the guy jacking cars.

That's not equivalent logic.

May 06, 2004: 21:37

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Str8Dog

Joined: Apr 07, 2004

01010101010

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:

Awesome. Should I make a serious site explaining it all? Or a "The Cheat" style web page.

What ever you want dude.. I would say a site explaining it all in the most comedic way possible.

May 06, 2004: 21:43

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Gizmo_Gun

Joined: Mar 21, 2004

Pow! Bang! Smack! Kabloooey!

quote:

liquorhead came out of the closet to say:

That's not equivalent logic.

Sure it is, if not taken literally. It's a play on perspective to show how even though Jeff quoted 2k, it would be inconsequential to the authorities.

May 06, 2004: 21:47

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Unixmonkey

Joined: Jul 03, 2002

quote:

Vince McMahon came out of the closet to say:

Isn't that a little risky? Afterall, Jeff also broke the law by putting a fake insurance amount. Won't they track that back to him?

The package isn't insured at all. its declared worth $2000. Which only matters to determine the levys paid to customs. Completely legal.

May 06, 2004: 21:49

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

FrozenEntree

Joined: Jun 11, 2001

God helped me fuck over my creditors so I can continue spending like the selfish dumbfuck I am! Blessed are the spendthrift, my ass! Hallelujah! Praise to Jesus!

I can't wait to see his response to Jeff's "what are you talking about? I sent a real Powerbook. You must have made that to get out of paying for it." reply. This is going to be hilarious. I wonder if at fedex we can see how many times a tracking number was looked up on the website?

May 06, 2004: 21:54

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Powercrazy

Joined: Feb 15, 2004

I am become death, the destroyer of worlds.

Robert Oppenheimer

quote:

Unixmonkey came out of the closet to say:

The package isn't insured at all. its declared worth $2000. Which only matters to determine the levys paid to customs. Completely legal.

quote:

Unixmonkey came out of the closet to say:

The package isn't insured at all. its declared worth $2000. Which only matters to determine the levys paid to customs. Completely legal.

quote:

Unixmonkey came out of the closet to say:

The package isn't insured at all. its declared worth $2000. Which only matters to determine the levys paid to customs.

|                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                                                                                                                                                                                     | Completely legal. quote: Unixmonkey came out of the closet to say:The package isn't insured at all. its declared worth $2000. Which only matters to determine the levys paid to customs.Completely legal.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| May 06, 2004: 21:55                                                                                                                                                                 | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| MyNameIsJeff Joined: Dec 05, 2003  P-P-P-Powerbook.com! | Excellent work Powercrazy. Edit - I'm sure you were makng a point, but just edit those please. MyNameIsJeff fucked around with this message at May 06, 2004 around 22:14                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| May 06, 2004: 21:59                                                                                                                                                                 | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| liquorhead Joined: Jul 11, 2002  elephant parts 4 life  | quote: Gizmo_Gun came out of the closet to say: Sure it is, if not taken literally. It's a play on perspective to show how even though Jeff quoted 2k, it would be inconsequential to the authorities. What way, other than literally, is there to take it? It certainly wasn't figurative or symbollic. Mail fraud was committed to catch someone committing mail fraud. Don't get me wrong, I think this is a great prank and am eagerly awaiting the payoff as much as anyone. I would have done the same myself. |
| May 06, 2004: 22:04                                                                                                                                                                 | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| Bad_Mojo Joined: Jan 11, 2002                                    | quote: neddle came out of the closet to say:Any goons who actually go into the barbershop should NOT be the same ones who went in last time. And they should be dressed in gray and get their heads shaved. P-p-p-powerbook is of the P-p-p-path.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |

|                                                                                                                                            |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| May 06, 2004: 22:36                                                                                                                 | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| vegajiJoined: Apr 14, 2004Owned by Hawk989s                                                                             | It is declared $2000. Maybe Jeff thinks that the P-P-P-Powerbook is worth $2000, considering it's a one-of-a-kind piece of art.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| May 06, 2004: 22:58                                                                                                                 | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| AeoliusJoined: Jul 16, 2003Über Lord of Time and Space                                                                  | quote: Str8Dog came out of the closet to say:MyNameIsJeff,I could not help myself and bought he domain p-p-p-powerbook.com... Nothing there yet, but I will be glad to host any kind of write up you want to write there. Along with the better images... Download the .rar archive, and keep it current. There should be plenty of fuel in there.Also, maybe you can save room for an interview with/editorial from jeff, and a few lines here and there from the goons who contributed monetarily, creatively (pics/ideas), and physically (scouting out the site).                                                                                                            |
| May 06, 2004: 23:09                                                                                                                 | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| vegajiJoined: Apr 14, 2004Owned by Hawk989s                                                                             | Once the thread is all done and over (when it's Goldmined, more than likely), I'll save the whole thread and host it as well. We need to make sure that this is remembered forever (never forget).I can't wait until tomorrow, it seems to be the D-Day of this thread.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| May 06, 2004: 23:42                                                                                                                 | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| sven523Joined: Dec 18, 2003catpot | quote: liquorhead came out of the closet to say:Mail fraud was committed to catch someone committing mail fraud.Don't get me wrong, I think this is a great prank and am eagerly awaiting the payoff as much as anyone. I would have done the same myself. I don't see how this is mail fraud. He's not insuring the package for 2k, so there's no way he's going to make any money off it. The govt is making money off the taxes so I highly doubt they will give a shit. If he were insuring the package for that amount it would be mail fraud but, as has already been discussed, he didn't. If I'm mistaken I would be happy if you would enlighten me as to how this is mail fraud. |
| May 06, 2004: 23:44                                                                                                                 | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |

liquorhead

Joined: Jul 11, 2002

elephant parts 4 life

quote:

sven523 came out of the closet to say:

I don't see how this is mail fraud. He's not insuring the package for 2k, so there's no way he's going to make any money off it. The govt is making money off the taxes so I highly doubt they will give a shit. If he were insuring the package for that amount it would be mail fraud but, as has already been discussed, he didn't. If I'm mistaken I would be happy if you would enlighten me as to how this is mail fraud.

You're selling somebody a binder under the guise that it's a computer. That's mail fraud. His payment is fraudulent, which may cancel out the "Bad" on the seller's side, but it's still fraud.

Also, false customs declarations, even in the UK, is illegal, and I've read that they can arrange to have the sender fined. Though I'm sure it's only sought out when the package is undervalued, not a jacked up binder.

Could the shipper open this and tell FedEx he overpaid the taxes because it was not a computer? If he's ballsy enough to show this package to FedEx they may charge the tax value back to you. From the FEDEX Terms and Conditions for Duties and Taxes, they state:

H. In the event the accuracy or propriety of duties and taxes assessed on a shipment is disputed, FedEx or its designated broker may review the shipping documents tendered with the shipment. If FedEx determines that the duties and taxes were properly assessed, the shipper agrees to pay the duties and taxes.

These may be just Fed Ex rules, and not actual law, but they also state, regarding exports to other countries

1. EXPORTS: Shipments crossing international borders must be cleared through customs in the destination country before being delivered to the consignee.

The shipper agrees to provide all required documentation for the customs clearance and certifies that all statements and information on said documentation, including documentation submitted electronically, are true and correct. The shipper authorizes FedEx Ground to forward all information of any nature regarding shipments to any and all governmental or regulatory agencies that request or require such information. The shipper understands that making false declarations or statements may result in civil and criminal penalties, including forfeiture and sale.

It's pretty confusing how this would really apply here, because it would involve the buyer returning to Fed Ex (unlikely), but again, you never know.

May 07, 2004: 00:28

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Lank

Joined: Sep 16, 2002

^ ^ ^ ^ ^ ^ ^ ^

It was a work of art. Appraised by MyNameIsJeff to be worth the sum of $2000. And after watching this thread from it's conception I would haev to fucking agree.

On a more serious note, I really think that the law would be (in a landslide) in the favor of our dear Goon. I don't think the law would reprimand harshly for giving a scammer what they deserve, it's Britain for christ's sake, laid back humor capitol of the world. A country that can spawn Monty Python certainly can appreciate this amazing prank.

I do see your point just I really think the situation needs to be taken into context.

May 07, 2004: 00:37

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

liquorhead

Joined: Jul 11, 2002

elephant parts 4 life

quote:

Lank came out of the closet to say:
^ ^ ^ ^ ^ ^ ^ ^ ^ ^

It was a work of art. Appraised by MyNameIsJeff to be worth the sum of $2000. And after watching this thread from it's conception I would haev to fucking agree.

On a more serious note, I really think that the law would be (in a landslide) in the favor of our dear Goon. I don't think the law would reprimand harshly for giving a scammer what they deserve, it's Britain for christ's sake, laid back humor capitol of the world. A country that can spawn Monty Python certainly can appreciate this amazing prank.

I do see your point just I really think the situation needs to be taken into context.

Understood, but he didn't sell a work of art, he sold a computer.

May 07, 2004: 00:41

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

DarkLotus

Joined: Sep 30, 2001

I Haven't Been Fucked Like
That Since Grade School!!!

quote:

liquorhead came out of the closet to say:

Understood, but he didn't sell a work of art, he sold a computer.

Just forget about, what difference does it make? Its already been shipped and nothing will change that. Lets all just sit tight and wait for a status update on the package and quit trashing up this thread. Plus, nothing was sold. This transaction was based on an illegal Escrow site.

May 07, 2004: 00:47

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Accipiter

Joined: Jan 24, 2004

Pop it, D-Man!

quote:

liquorhead came out of the closet to say:
You're selling somebody a binder under the guise that it's a computer. That's mail fraud.

Exchange of money for goods and services constitutes a sale. You tell me when Jeff gets his money, and then I'll tell you "Okay, now it's fraud." Until then, it's a gift. It may be under false pretense, but it's still only a gift. No selling of anything has ocured here.

quote:

liquorhead came out of the closet to say:
Also, false customs declarations, even in the UK, is illegal, and I've read that they can arrange to have the sender fined. Though I'm sure it's only sought out when the package is undervalued, not a jacked up binder.

If you're going to say that, then everyone who has ever declared a value on something solely based on sentimental estimation is breaking the law. I would go so far as to say that the humor value of this item to each one of the goons who has received enjoyment from this thread easily hits

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                      |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------|
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | $2000, and likely far exceeds it.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |                      |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | Accipiter fucked around with this message at May 07, 2004 around 00:53                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                      |
| May 07, 2004: 00:50                                                                                                                                                                                               | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | EditQuote |
| MyNameIsJeffJoined: Dec 05, 2003P-P-P-Powerbook.com! | -----Original Message-----From: Gianluca [mailto:scont06@yahoo.com]Sent: Thursday, May 06, 2004 2:49 PMTo: MyNameIsJeffSubject: Re: Package cannot be delivered!Dear sir,Today I have made the payment for the duty taxes.I went personal to Fedex and made the payment.Everything now is ok and they told me that they will deliver it to me tomorrow or latest at 10 o'clock in the morning on Monday.Sorry for this delay but Fedex told me that this is the best they can do.Anyway they will deliver it till Monday aftrenoon and will be fine.Next week we can finalize the deal.Thank you for your patience and hope to be ok now.                                                                        |                      |
| May 07, 2004: 00:52                                                                                                                                                                                               | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | EditQuote |
| MahnkimanJoined: Jan 15, 2003Sup dooder              | quote:MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:-----Original Message-----From: Gianluca [mailto:scont06@yahoo.com]Sent: Thursday, May 06, 2004 2:49 PMTo: MyNameIsJeffSubject: Re: Package cannot be delivered!Dear sir,Today I have made the payment for the duty taxes.I went personal to Fedex and made the payment.Everything now is ok and they told me that they will deliver it to me tomorrow or latest at 10 o'clock in the morning on Monday.Sorry for this delay but Fedex told me that this is the best they can do.Anyway they will deliver it till Monday aftrenoon and will be fine.Next week we can finalize the deal.Thank you for your patience and hope to be ok now. |                      |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |  etc.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                      |
| May 07, 2004: 00:55                                                                                                                                                                                               | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | EditQuote |

Accipiter

Joined: Jan 24, 2004

Pop it, D-Man!

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:

OH MY GOD, WE HAVE LIFTOFF. 🤪

That is most excellent! Does anyone have any estimation on how much tax was due? Wasn't it something like $500?

May 07, 2004: 00:55

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

paul V1.333

Joined: Feb 16, 2004

purple monkey dishwasher

HOLY SWEET FUCK!!!

May 07, 2004: 00:56

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

vegaji

Joined: Apr 14, 2004

Owned by Hawk989s

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:

-----Original Message-----

From: Gianluca [mailto:scont06@yahoo.com]

Sent: Thursday, May 06, 2004 2:49 PM

To: MyNameIsJeff

Subject: Re: Package cannot be delivered!

Dear sir,

Today I have made the payment for the duty taxes.I went personal to Fedex and made the payment.Everything now is ok and they told me that they will deliver it to me tomorrow or latest at 10 o'clock in the morning on Monday.Sorry for this delay but Fedex told me that this is the best they can do.Anyway they will deliver it till Monday aftrenoon and will be fine.

Next week we can finalize the deal.

Thank you for your patience and hope to be ok now.

Holy fuck, Monday is when this chapter of the 3P Powerbook story reaches its climax.

May 07, 2004: 00:56

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Covered In Bees

Joined: Aug 22, 2003

I will always feel a special bond with both the granter and suggester of my new avatar.

Guys you are mean I think he is for real.

edit: p-p-p-powerbook had me weeping with joy. LOL U FAG

May 07, 2004: 00:56

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Liet

Joined: Oct 07, 2003

God bless this thread.

May 07, 2004: 00:58

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

vegaji

Joined: Apr 14, 2004

Owned by Hawk989s

So, are there any London goons that are going to the barbershop Monday? This is for real, it seems. I would pay for the video of the guy opening P-P-Powerbook.

May 07, 2004: 00:59

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Cheesemaster200

Joined: Feb 11, 2004

Guard of the Citadel

I still think he is going to play along like he is for real once he sees (if he already hasnt) the "powerbook". I think he probably already has gotten it, and is just playing along. This is because you paid 80 dollars to overnight it, and its been like a week. Fedex wouldnt make him wait.

May 07, 2004: 01:01

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Bluecobra

Joined: Sep 11, 2001

Cobra Commander

quote:

liquorhead came out of the closet to say:

Understood, but he didn't sell a work of art, he sold a computer.

Depends on what your defination of a "laptop computer" is.

lap-top adj.

1. of a size and design that makes operation and use on one's lap convenient

|                                                                                                      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                                                                                                      | I would say that fits the description of a 3 ring binder. com·put·er n. 1. a device that computes, especially a programmable electronic machine that performs high-speed mathematical or logical operations or that assembles, stores, correlates, or otherwise processes information We can say that the our 3 ring processes paper. Really, we need to drop all this talk about mail fraud. Customs has no right to determine the artistic/sentimental of something if it isn't insured. If your pissy about the item description, then according to FedEx/UK he mistakenly didn't label it as art. |
| May 07, 2004: 01:05                                                                                  | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| N.Z.'s ChampionJoined: Jun 08, 2003                                                       | Thank you all for the joy this thread has brought.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| Clean, green, New Zealand.                                                                           |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| May 07, 2004: 01:05                                                                                  | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| LukanoJoined: Apr 28, 2003                                                                | You guys seem to think monday is liftoff, but they stated that there's a chance albeit slim, that it'll happen tomorrow (Friday).                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| Ungood's Disciple                                                                                    |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| May 07, 2004: 01:06                                                                                  | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| InfestasydeJoined: Mar 06, 2004                                                           | I reckon it'll be there tomorrow. They're probably just covering their ass by saying it'll be there at the latest by Monday. You should merge two decent ideas together and send him a picture of the actual Powerbook with the picture of the Barber Shop on the screen.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
|                     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| May 07, 2004: 01:13                                                                                  | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| AccipiterJoined: Jan 24, 2004                                                             | quote: <hr/> Cheesemaster200 came out of the closet to say: I think he probably already has gotten it, and is just playing along. This is because you paid 80 dollars to overnight it, and its been like a week. <hr/>                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| Pop it, D-Man! | You haven't read the thread at all. The package has been held up the past week in "Regulatory Agency Clearance Delay." quote: <hr/> Cheesemaster200 came out of the closet to say: Fedex wouldnt make him wait. <hr/>                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
|                                                                                                      | We've already had another goon confirm that FedEx wouldn't give him his package after the red tape was cleared, and it was sitting right behind                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |

|                                                                                  |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |                      |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------|
|                                                                                  | the counter. They can and will make him wait. In other words, HUSH.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                      |
| May 07, 2004: 01:15                                                              | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | EditQuote |
| LankJoined: Sep 16, 2002                                              | The sin(x) = the graph of my boner throughout the whole lifetime of this thread, I'm so happy this is finally coming to a deathblow. So full of lol.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                      |
|  |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |                      |
| May 07, 2004: 01:18                                                              | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | EditQuote |
| KeisukeJoined: May 05, 2002                                           | School is over and now this? There is a god.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                      |
|  |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |                      |
| May 07, 2004: 01:20                                                              | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | EditQuote |
| liquorheadJoined: Jul 11, 2002                                        | quote: <hr/> Accipiter came out of the closet to say: Exchange of money for goods and services constitutes a sale. You tell me when Jeff gets his money, and then I'll tell you "Okay, now it's fraud." Until then, it's a gift. It may be under false pretense, but it's still only a gift. No selling of anything has ocured here. If you're going to say that, then everyone who has ever declared a value on something solely based on sentimental estimation is breaking the law. I would go so far as to say that the humor value of this item to each one of the goons who has received enjoyment from this thread easily hits $2000, and likely far exceeds it. <hr/> Perhaps, but he didn't base the value on sentimental estimation, he based the value on the value of a laptop computer. Also, you can buy a car by driving it of the lot and just agreeing to pay for it later. No money changed hands, but it's still a sale. liquorhead fucked around with this message at May 07, 2004 around 01:28 |                      |
| May 07, 2004: 01:24                                                              | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | EditQuote |

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

This is so awesome. I hope the website tuns out too.

May 07, 2004: 01:25

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

charliemaul

Joined: Jun 07, 2003

Can you reply asking how much it cost so you can refund him? Just so we know how much he paid?

May 07, 2004: 01:36

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Gunjin

Joined: Apr 27, 2004

May cause cancer.

quote:

liquorhead came out of the closet to say:

Also, you can buy a car by driving it of the lot and just agreeing to pay for it later. No money changed hands, but it's still a sale.

Theres also a written contract in that case, mynameisjeff and this scammer fellow don't have anything official at this point just some e-mails back and forth i'm pretty sure that wouldnt stand up as a binding contract in a court. also (i'm not going to scroll through 60 odd pages to find it for sure) didn't he list the item as "notebook" on the shipping form since it could be taken to mean notebook computer or literal notebook? (if im wrong well thats a pisser)

May 07, 2004: 01:38

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

|                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| LukanoJoined: Apr 28, 2003Ungood's Disciple                                                                                                        | quote: charliemaul came out of the closet to say:Can you reply asking how much it cost so you can refund him? Just so we know how much he paid? I agree, you should do this Jeff.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| May 07, 2004: 01:42                                                                                                                                                                            | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| LukanoJoined: Apr 28, 2003Ungood's Disciple                                                                                                        | quote: Gunjin came out of the closet to say:Theres also a written contract in that case, mynameisjeff and this scammer fellow don't have anything official at this point just some e-mails back and forth i'm pretty sure that wouldnt stand up as a binding contract in a court. also (i'm not going to scroll through 60 odd pages to find it for sure) didn't he list the item as "notebook" on the shipping form since it could be taken to mean notebook computer or literal notebook? (if im wrong well thats a pisser) It was discussed and decided upon to use the phrase "notebook" as it is exactly as Gunjin said, ambiguous enough to be taken both or either ways.                                                                                                                                               |
| May 07, 2004: 01:43                                                                                                                                                                            | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| AccipiterJoined: Jan 24, 2004Pop it, D-Man! | quote: liquorhead came out of the closet to say:Also, you can buy a car by driving it of the lot and just agreeing to pay for it later. No money changed hands, but it's still a sale. Wrong, and a bad analogy. Money does change hands in the car sale, however it is between a financial institution and the dealership. You also sign a multitude of legally binding contracts promising that financial institution that you will be paying them the amount you owe, and if you don't, they're going to take their car back. You don't just walk in, say "I'LL PAY U LATER KTHXBYE" and drive off. The recipient of the P-P-PowerBook signed no contracts here, and conducted business outside of eBay therefore even eBay's contractual agreement rules don't apply. Thus, there was no sale. |
| May 07, 2004: 01:43                                                                                                                                                                            | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |

|                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Lukano Joined: Apr 28, 2003 Ungood's Disciple                                                                                                      | quote: liquorhead came out of the closet to say: Perhaps, but he didn't base the value on sentimental estimation, he based the value on the value of a laptop computer. Also, you can buy a car by driving it of the lot and just agreeing to pay for it later. No money changed hands, but it's still a sale. I think you should pretty much shut up now and stop shitting in this thread. It's done, all of us who've been here since the beginning are pretty confident that Jeff's safe in the way he's done this, and it's now turning out to a decent conclusion. Quit ruining it with your opinion, that once stated and rejected as a non-concern, you decided to keep blathering about. |
| May 07, 2004: 01:44                                                                                                                                                                 | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
| Boom316 Joined: May 28, 2003 tl ;dr is bannable                                                                                                    | quote: Lank came out of the closet to say: The sin(x) = the graph of my boner throughout the whole lifetime of this thread, I'm so happy this is finally coming to a deathblow. So full of lol. Please inform me of how you achieved negative boner, sir.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
| May 07, 2004: 01:52                                                                                                                                                                 | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
| liquorhead Joined: Jul 11, 2002 elephant parts 4 life | quote: Lukano came out of the closet to say: I think you should pretty much shut up now and stop shitting in this thread. It's done, all of us who've been here since the beginning are pretty confident that Jeff's safe in the way he's done this, and it's now turning out to a decent conclusion. Quit ruining it with your opinion, that once stated and rejected as a non-concern, you decided to keep blathering about. No reason for you to be a dick about it. I've asked questions, given examples when I've shared my opinions, and have been nothing but civil and supportive of this prank. There's always room to be cautious.                                                                |
| May 07, 2004: 01:58                                                                                                                                                                 | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |

Schroe
Joined: Feb 06, 2004

quote:

vegaji came out of the closet to say:

Holy fuck, Monday is when this chapter of the 3P Powerbook story reaches Jean Climax.

Fixed.

May 07, 2004: 02:36

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Gulzin
Joined: Jan 03, 2004

A little gnome hasn't hurt anybody

quote:

Boom316 came out of the closet to say:

Please inform me of how you achieved negative boner, sir.

He probably meant  $|\sin(x)|$  or  $(\sin(x))^2$ , his boner just got so huge he missed it.

May 07, 2004: 02:54

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Lank
Joined: Sep 16, 2002

I should have more clearly defined the bounds for my  $\sin(x)$  function.

1 = MyNameIsJeff and the UK Good Ghost Recon squad making me so giddy and the sheer revenge factor being given to this asshole is making me physically aroused.

-1 = Every time I (wrongfully in the end 😊) doubt this thread when something bad happens and my penis curls up with sadness.

There ya go.

May 07, 2004: 03:07

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

EditQuote

IndyPunkOne
Joined: Aug 05, 2002

Got a tattooed tit, say Number 13.

looks like another late night F5'ing Fedex tracking info 🤔😬

May 07, 2004: 03:17

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

|                                                                                                                                                                                          |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| vegaji Joined: Apr 14, 2004 Owned by Hawk989s                                                                                                           | quote: IndyPunkOne came out of the closet to say:looks like another late night F5'ing Fedex tracking info 🤪🙄 Is there a way to have Fedex auto-email you if the shipping details are updated?                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| May 07, 2004: 03:28                                                                                                                                                                      | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| Jack Burton Joined: Mar 01, 2002  It's all in the reflexes.  | holy cow, holy cow, holy cow,holy cow, holy cow, holy cow,holy cow, holy cow, holy cow,holy cow, holy cow, holy cow... I just love this epic tale of tomfoolery. Love it. P-P-P-Powerbook Ahoy!!!                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| May 07, 2004: 03:34                                                                                                                                                                      | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| lazyjane Joined: Aug 24, 2003 I AM A LIAR                                                                                                               | May 7, 2004 2:12 am Package status STANSTED GB Regulatory Agency Clearance Delay                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| May 07, 2004: 03:50                                                                                                                                                                      | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| Lucifer Joined: Mar 23, 2004 Old people have sex.                                                                                                       | Throwing 💰 to the goon who gets video of the real delivery.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| May 07, 2004: 04:00                                                                                                                                                                      | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| Cheesemaster200 Joined: Feb 11, 2004  Guard of the Citadel | quote: Accipiter came out of the closet to say:You haven't read the thread at all. The package has been held up the past week in "Regulatory Agency Clearance Delay I know that, but when you pay for overnight you tend to get better service, and the package would have a higher priority. In other words if it is in clearance delay it will be at the front of the line cause it is time sensitive. You also have to remember that the package was sent out a while ago, so I would think that the ball is in his court now, not FedEx's, just given the amount of time that has elapsed. This relates to my view that he will try to play us after he sees the powerbok. (if he already hasn't) |
| May 07, 2004: 04:01                                                                                                                                                                      | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |

CrashCat

Joined: Jan 10, 2003

quote:

vegaji came out of the closet to say:
Is there a way to have Fedex auto-email you if the shipping details are updated?

There are lots of ways to have yourself notified if a web site is changed, hit google if you want some. I use Cyberbuddy to monitor and read web page changes out loud, though it's freeware and has some annoying parts. You can google for dot.acs which is just a black dot if you want an agent character with no animation and that cuts down on some of the annoyance.

May 07, 2004: 04:05

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

kripes

Joined: Aug 14, 2002

BRRRRRAAAAIIIIINNNNSSS

quote:

liquorhead came out of the closet to say:
Also, false customs declarations, even in the UK, is illegal, and I've read that they can arrange to have the sender fined. Though I'm sure it's only sought out when the package is undervalued, not a jacked up binder.

He labelled it as a "notebook". Please read thread. kthx

May 07, 2004: 04:05

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

RSPsych0

Joined: May 22, 2002

Anyone seen Super Joe?

quote:

kripes came out of the closet to say:

He labelled it as a "notebook". Please read thread. kthx

I thought he labeled it computer or something in the end.

Anyway, doesn't matter. In order to get in trouble, the scammer would have to report him. How likely do you think that is?

May 07, 2004: 04:06

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Cheesemaster200

Joined: Feb 11, 2004

Guard of the Citadel

quote:

RSPsych0 came out of the closet to say:
Actually, if anything, Mynameisjeff might be able to get back some of his money since they didn't deliver it when promised.

I thought he labeled it computer or something in the end.

Anyway, doesn't matter. In order to get in trouble, the scammer would have to report him. How likely do you think that is?

|                                                                                                                                                                                                           |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                      |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------|
|                                                                                                                                                                                                           | I am sure there was a clause in the shipping contract that says that they are not responsible for customs delays though.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |                      |
| May 07, 2004: 04:09                                                                                                                                                                                       | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | EditQuote |
| paper pope hatJoined: Sep 27, 2000                                 | quote:<hr/>Cheesemaster200 came out of the closet to say:I know that, but when you pay for overnight you tend to get better service, and the package would have a higher priority. In other words if it is in clearance delay it will be at the front of the line cause it is time sensitive. You also have to remember that the package was sent out a while ago, so I would think that the ball is in his court now, not FedEx's, just given the amount of time that has elapsed. This relates to my view that he will try to play us after he sees the powerbok. (if he already hasn't)<hr/> Except that if you check the tracking information, it still says Regulatory Agency Clearance Delay. Since it's 4am in London right now, I'm going to go ahead and assume they haven't JUST delivered it and not updated. Consequently, no, he doesn't have the package.He might be up to any number of things, sure, but he doesn't have the package. |                      |
| May 07, 2004: 04:11                                                                                                                                                                                       | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | EditQuote |
| Cheesemaster200Joined: Feb 11, 2004Guard of the Citadel | quote:<hr/>paper pope hat came out of the closet to say:Except that if you check the tracking information, it still says Regulatory Agency Clearance Delay. Since it's 4am in London right now, I'm going to go ahead and assume they haven't JUST delivered it and not updated. Consequently, no, he doesn't have the package.He might be up to any number of things, sure, but he doesn't have the package.<hr/> hrrmm, delivery to their house. Very good, rather bovious point.I will shut up now...                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |                      |
| May 07, 2004: 04:18                                                                                                                                                                                       | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | EditQuote |
| liquorheadJoined: Jul 11, 2002elephant parts 4 life   | quote:<hr/>kripes came out of the closet to say:He labelled it as a "notebook". Please read thread. kthx<hr/> I did read the thread, round page 10 or so he changes his mind from calling it a notebook to calling it "computer parts". I can't find any message correcting this from that point on. Just sayin...everyone's assuming he's called it a notebook, but I don't see any actual message that says that.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                      |

|                                                                                                                                                                          |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                      |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------|
|                                                                                                                                                                          | Exciting stuff! I can only imagine the fast beating heart and anxiety Jeff has about this.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                      |
| May 07, 2004: 04:29                                                                                                                                                      | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | EditQuote |
| CarrionJoined: Jun 17, 2003       | quote:liquorhead came out of the closet to say:I did read the thread, round page 10 or so he changes his mind from calling it a notebook to calling it "computer parts". I can't find any message correcting this from that point on. Just sayin...everyone's assuming he's called it a notebook, but I don't see any actual message that says that.Exciting stuff! I can only imagine the fast beating heart and anxiety Jeff has about this. I'm not going to re-read the thread to find the exact post, but he did say he put in a broken CDROM drive and called the package "Computer Parts". Either way, it is correct, there are computer parts in the package.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                      |
| May 07, 2004: 04:33                                                                                                                                                      | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | EditQuote |
| neddleJoined: May 04, 2004"Eight hours later they brought her up by mule!"                                        | [QUOTE]liquorhead came out of the closet to say:[B]I did read the thread, round page 10 or so he changes his mind from calling it a notebook to calling it "computer parts". I can't find any message correcting this from that point on. Just sayin...everyone's assuming he's called it a notebook, but I don't see any actual message that says that.* * * *Your opinions and advice have now been duly noted. That means I think the bickering should stop lads. The British Authorities will a) laugh their tits off, b) thank Jeff profusely c) have a cup of tea and a bacon sandwich d) laugh their tits off some more. Fed Ex, whilst an American Company, is staffed in the UK by lazy British people who will NOT rush anything under any circumstances whatsoever. I am hoping the package arrives on Monday because I am off work. This thread has proven that patience is a virtue and prematurely spouting off makes you look a bit daft. So everyone should hold their horses, light a fag and bathe in anticipation.This will be excellent, all good things come to those who royaly fuck over ebay scammers. |                      |
| May 07, 2004: 04:59                                                                                                                                                      | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | EditQuote |
| Wacky IraqiJoined: Dec 24, 2002 | Holy fuckshit! I thought the hilarity would be over by now! (Page 61!). Guess it's never too late to post in a historic thread!                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                      |
| May 07, 2004: 05:20                                                                                                                                                      | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | EditQuote |

|                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                            |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------|
| MariusMSJoined: Apr 28, 2004Shut the door.                                                    | So who's minding the shop Friday and Monday?                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                            |
| May 07, 2004: 05:25                                                                                                                                                                           | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                     | Edit Quote |
| doctormidnightJoined: Apr 28, 2004Observation and DeductionMotherfucker, DO YOU SPEAK IT? | If Jeff gets fined, I'm sure we can all pitch in to cover the tab.                                                                                                                                                                      |                                            |
| May 07, 2004: 05:32                                                                                                                                                                           | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                     | Edit Quote |
| BrickdropperJoined: Apr 13, 2004                                                                 | never thought of the thread going on for 62 pages. It would have been perfect (but unlikely) if you could have personally delivered the package. I would pay good money to see the look on his face when he see's "P-P-P-PowerNotebook" |                                            |
| May 07, 2004: 07:17                                                                                                                                                                           | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                     | Edit Quote |
| Esplion9466Joined: Dec 05, 2003Mischief. Mayhem. Soap.                                                                                                                            | I would help pitch in if he is fined. This thread was like a rollercoaster ride and right now we're reaching the top again!!!                                                                                                           |                                            |
| May 07, 2004: 07:55                                                                                                                                                                           | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                     | Edit Quote |
| thehustlerJoined: Apr 17, 2004Mr Brightside                                                                                                                                       | Bollocks.I hope it gets delivered on Friday, I'm on holiday from Monday to Friday next week. Grrr.Either way, eagerly awaiting conclusion, and let us all pray to the goon god that this goes off ok.                   |                                            |
| May 07, 2004: 09:02                                                                                                                                                                           | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                     | Edit Quote |

Yossarko

Joined: Jan 22, 2004

The little Armenian boy who could...

Well, it's friday in england now. I'm in France and it's 10:03am. I hope it is delivered today, I don't feel like waiting another weekend.

I guess there is no recon team for today? Or monday? Or maybe due to GBS being open, it is being discussed outside of the forums? If anyone could fill me, I'd love to know. Thanks.

Anyway, I too am eagerly awaiting conclusion, and let us all pray to the goon god that this goes off ok.

May 07, 2004: 09:05

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

EricFate

Joined: Aug 31, 2001

Crumpets. Glorious Crumpets.

quote:

liquorhead came out of the closet to say:
Legal concerns.

Given your own personal experience in the wonderful world of attempted overseas litigation, I would think you of all people would be the one with the least amount of concern that something bad might happen.

At worst, there will be a frightening looking letter, and official sounding phonecall, and much laughter and finger pointing from the other side of the ocean.

Besides. Why would the person using the fake escrow service and stolen accounts be someone who would have any real ability to use the law in this situation?

May 07, 2004: 09:13

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

ZeromusMog

Joined: Feb 11, 2004

Sweet Sassy Molassy!

Hot damn, can we shut up about the legality of the thing already?

May 07, 2004: 10:09

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

cYz
Joined: May 20, 2001

question:

if he went to fedex to pay his taxes ... why didnt they give him the parcel?
is this just german habit to instantly receive a parcal after you paid fees and customs?

May 07, 2004: 11:05

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

EditQuote

charliemaul

Joined: Jun 07, 2003

^^^^^^Well I just think it would be quicker for them to let it continue it's route when he has paid than for Larry at the counter to leave his station and go to the warehouse or fedex's airport hangar and look for the package.

May 07, 2004: 11:17

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

schmuckfeatures

Joined: Oct 27, 2003

This avatar needs more Rumsfeld

quote:

cYz came out of the closet to say:

question:

if he went to fedex to pay his taxes ... why didnt they give him the parcel?
is this just german habit to instantly receive a parcal after you paid fees and customs?

I want to add my own experience to this debate.

I lived in the US for a while a couple of years ago. When I was returning to Australia, I found that I'd bought way too much stuff to carry, so I sent a few boxes home; most by the US Postal Service, and one by FedEx.

The FedEx box only contained a couple of mugs and T-shirts and maybe a textbook, and yet shipping cost US$80. As if that wasn't bad enough, when I got home I found that the FedEx box still hadn't arrived. I can't remember if the website said there was a "Regulatory Agency Clearance Delay" as such, but it turned out I had to pay import duties which came to a whopping $118 -- more than the value of the actual goddamn items in the box. I paid it nonetheless, since it was of sentimental value, but here's my point: I didn't receive the box until at least a day or two after I'd paid the taxes.

So I think it's very likely our scammer friend Gianluca doesn't have his P-p-p-powerbook yet.

May 07, 2004: 11:27

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

EditQuote

charliemaul

Joined: Jun 07, 2003

quote:

schmuckfeatures came out of the closet to say:

So I think it's very likely our scammer friend Gianluca doesn't have his P-p-p-powerbook yet.

Couldn't help it.

Whaa? No p-p-powerbook??????

May 07, 2004: 11:34

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Falenseraf

Joined: Sep 09, 2003

quote:

Gunjin came out of the closet to say:

Theres also a written contract in that case, mynameisjeff and this scammer fellow don't have anything official at this point just some e-mails back and forth i'm pretty sure that wouldnt stand up as a binding contract in a court. also (i'm not going to scroll through 60 odd pages to find it for sure) didn't he list the item as "notebook" on the shipping form since it could be taken to mean notebook computer or literal notebook? (if im wrong well thats a pisser)

1. They are both in diffrent countries so any legal act would have to be international and therefore almost impossible.
2. The whole point of the service is so the buyer can check out the goods before releasing the money. No sale has taken place the buyer is checking over the goods and when he is satisfied the money will change hands and the sale will complete. So if he doesn't like his p-p-powerbook he can just not release the funds. Since this is all a scam none of this applies.
3. Seriously who cares about the legality anyways this fucker is running an international web scam and will not go to any athorities so shut up about it.
4. DAMN this guy took the bait and paid the taxes. Wasn't it something like 27% so thats 540$ this fucker got screwed out of? I would love to see the look on this guys face when he sees it.

May 07, 2004: 11:54

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit Quote

smitz

Joined: Nov 05, 2003

Hello Sports Fans, the friday that I went down there, I thought Starbucks pretty much covered what we did, good thing too cos my photos sucked ass. I did have a 30 second video of my knee, recorded while the dude was in the back with the package. I was hoping to record a loud "OH FUCK!!" but no joy. Seeing as this thread is still going strong, here are my shitty pics tht I got. Hope the subjects dont mind being on here, pm me if you want them removed.

Outside Shop:

Inside Shop (1):

Inside Shop (2) Edit: The dude on the right is getting a haircut, the 'Barbers' is in between the computer machines 🤔:

LOL Banner (1):

LoI Banner (2):

Our Heroes return after their dumpster diving at the top secret rendezvous spot:

It was all a bit much for Starbucks (he he he) The Christian Lady on the left didn't realise we were together and gave me some odd looks for taking pics of sleeping people 🤔😬

Thanks to Darkminds for the hosting smitz fucked around with this message at May 07, 2004 around 15:11

May 07, 2004: 11:55

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit Quote

ELeeming

Joined: Apr 15, 2003

quote:

smitz came out of the closet to say:

Hello Sports Fans, the friday that I went down there, I thought Starbucks pretty much covered what we did, good thing too cos my photos sucked ass. I did have a 30 second video of my knee, recorded while the dude was in the back with the package. I was hoping to record a loud "OH FUCK!!" but no joy. Seeing as this thread is still going strong, here are my shitty pics tht I got. Hope the subjects dont mind being on here, pm me if you want them removed.

***photos go here*****

|                                                                                                                                                                           |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                      |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------|
|                                                                                                                                                                           | This thread still makes me laugh. Well done. <hr/> Resistance Is Character Forming                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                      |
| May 07, 2004: 12:21                                                                                                                                                | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | EditQuote |
| NewcastleBrownJoined: Mar 15, 2004The One and Only                                                                                                     | quote: <hr/> smitz came out of the closet to say: LOL Banner <hr/>                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                      |
| May 07, 2004: 13:13                                                                                                                                                | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | EditQuote |
| schmuckfeaturesJoined: Oct 27, 2003This avatar needs more Rumsfeld | quote: <hr/> ELeeming came out of the closet to say: This thread still makes me laugh. Well done. <hr/> You say that as if it's over. Ohhh, it ain't over, my friend. It ain't over until the fat [REDACTED] lady sings.                                                                                                                                                                                    |                      |
| May 07, 2004: 13:26                                                                                                                                                | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | EditQuote |
| Gizmo_GunJoined: Mar 21, 2004Pow! Bang! Smack! Kablooy!          | quote: <hr/> cYz came out of the closet to say: question: <hr/> if he went to fedex to pay his taxes ... why didnt they give him the parcel?is this just german habit to instantly receive a parcal after you paid fees and customs? <hr/> FedEX has the package. When I spoke to FedEx, I explicitly told them not to accept him picking it up from FedEx; that it had to be delivered. |                      |
| May 07, 2004: 14:32                                                                                                                                                | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | EditQuote |

Otokodate

Joined: Jan 15, 2004

All your nuts are belong to me

quote:

smitz came out of the closet to say:
Outside Shop:
http://www.darkminds.com/hosting/images/isab329\_1.jpg

Wait! Is that a whole pizza for 2.45 pounds or just a slice?

May 07, 2004: 14:35

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Duckrasta

Joined: Sep 21, 2002

quote:

Otokodate came out of the closet to say:
Wait! Is that a whole pizza for 2.45 pounds or just a slice?

That's what I'm wondering.

May 07, 2004: 15:04

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

smitz

Joined: Nov 05, 2003

quote:

Otokodate came out of the closet to say:
Wait! Is that a whole pizza for 2.45 pounds or just a slice?

The whole pizza, look at the state of the shop 😊

May 07, 2004: 15:09

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Starbucks

Joined: Jul 07, 2002

Strong Coffee Drinking!

I should of got me a pizza, damn that fry up 😊
And I had been up for well over 36 Hours man, you cant blame me for sleeping

May 07, 2004: 15:16

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| ImasalmonJoined: Mar 19, 2003Guy in the Green Hat                                                                                                                           | Starbucks, you did good, man, you deserved a nap. And a beer. Next time I am heading to the UK, I will make it to wherever you are at and buy you a pint.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| May 07, 2004: 15:22                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| fowlrockJoined: Oct 02, 2003NickBlasta gave me herpes                                                                                                                       | Hi all...long time reader, first time poster in this piece of intarweb history.My question is for Gizmo or MyNameIsJeff...would it be possible for either of you to call FedEx now to verify that he has, in fact, paid the taxes on it? I just kinda wonder if he does want the powerbook so bad (scam or not)...why did he take his sweet time paying the taxes for it?               |
| May 07, 2004: 15:28                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| ChlamydiaJonesJoined: Sep 27, 2002                                                                     | I'm passing out because I have to use most of my blood supply to maintain my pulsing e-rection over this. I swear that if I lived there I would be that shop's newest, bestest patron. I'd just sit there all day, every day waiting for shit to happen.And the P-p-p-p-p-powerbook must be saved and hand carried to gooncon.                                                              |
| May 07, 2004: 16:06                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| XlyfindelJoined: Dec 16, 2003Raw Esoteric                                                                                                                                   | Jesus fucking christ. I've been reading this thread for almost 5 hours. I don't think there is anything I would have rather done, this was a great way to pass the time. excellent read, even though I missed so much.Xlyfindel fucked around with this message at May 07, 2004 around 16:50                                                                                         |
| May 07, 2004: 16:14                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| SLOSifiJoined: Aug 10, 2002                                                                          | So the barber's out some real money finally. Whether or not we get to witness the delivery, he's already paid a price for being a scamming fuckhat.edit: vv well, the scammer then. either way, good show.SLOSifi fucked around with this message at May 07, 2004 around 16:58                                                                                               |
| May 07, 2004: 16:24                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| fuckingtestJoined: Mar 31, 2001We can rebuild him. but I don't wanna spend alot of money. | quote:<hr/>SLOSifi came out of the closet to say:So the barber's out some real money finally. Whether or not we get to witness the delivery, he's already paid a price for being a scamming fuckhat.<hr/> It's not the barber. He just signs for stuff.Damn it, this thread cannot wait till monday! |

|                                                                                                                                                                                    |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| May 07, 2004: 16:40                                                                                                                                                                | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| STFU DONNY Joined: Apr 08, 2004 V.I. Lenin. Vladimir Illanich Uleninov!                                                                           | LO SERIOUSThis guy is trying to rip me off on ebay. How should I respond to his email ( 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 ... Last page ) UNFUNNYHow FedEx fucked me with an iron fist ( 1 2 3 ) MyNameIsJeff2468354573 mushy1037867                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| May 07, 2004: 17:24                                                                                                                                                                | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| MyNameIsJeff Joined: Dec 05, 2003 P-P-P-Powerbook.com! | quote: Gizmo_Gun came out of the closet to say: FedEX has the package. When I spoke to FedEx, I explicitly told them not to accept him picking it up from FedEx; that it had to be delivered. Good job with that by the way. You also deserve a trophy.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| May 07, 2004: 17:59                                                                                                                                                                | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| I Own Calculus Joined: Apr 02, 2003 i want one        | One quick thing I think everyone's missing here: It's only POSTAL FRAUD if he uses the goddamn USPS to do it!!!! I don't think there's ANY applicable law to FedEx/DHL/UPS/et al and even if there is it's not nearly as strict.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| May 07, 2004: 18:06                                                                                                                                                                | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| vtak Joined: Jul 29, 2003 STUPIDNEWBIE          | quote: fowlrock came out of the closet to say: Hi all...long time reader, first time poster in this piece of intarweb history. My question is for Gizmo or MyNameIsJeff... would it be possible for either of you to call FedEx now to verify that he has, in fact, paid the taxes on it? I just kinda wonder if he does want the powerbook so bad (scam or not)...why did he take his sweet time paying the taxes for it? Yeah, I'm kinda confused about this... If he did pay the taxes why does fedex still list it as in the purgatory of Clearance Delay? Even if they weren't going to deliver it today I'd think it would have an updated status at least? |
| May 07, 2004: 18:18                                                                                                                                                                | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

quote:

vtak came out of the closet to say:

Yeah, I'm kinda confused about this... If he did pay the taxes why does fedex still list it as in the purgatory of Clearance Delay? Even if they weren't going to deliver it today I'd think it would have an updated status at least?

I'm sure the next update will be something like "Cleared for delivery," or "Out for delivery."

Edit- Or it could be "Going to Jeff's house to regulate his punk ass."

MyNameIsJeff fucked around with this message at May 07, 2004 around 18:27

May 07, 2004: 18:21

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

liquorhead

Joined: Jul 11, 2002

elephant parts 4 life

I'm curious why FedEx is making him wait until Monday to get the package. If he paid on late Wednesday/early Thursday, why wouldn't they cough up the package that day? They're already in the country, so why wouldn't they either deliver it Friday or Saturday, or tell him he could pick it up earlier? Something doesn't seem right. We're relying on the email testimony of a scammer, so who knows what really went down.

May 07, 2004: 18:46

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

thefunkygibbon

Joined: Jul 23, 2002

quote:

liquorhead came out of the closet to say:

I'm curious why FedEx is making him wait until Monday to get the package. If he paid on late Wednesday/early Thursday, why wouldn't they cough up the package that day? They're already in the country, so why wouldn't they either deliver it Friday or Saturday, or tell him he could pick it up earlier? Something doesn't seem right. We're relying on the email testimony of a scammer, so who knows what really went down.

because us brits are lazy ass gits 😊

May 07, 2004: 18:47

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

quote:

liquorhead came out of the closet to say:
I'm curious why FedEx is making him wait until Monday to get the package. If he paid on late Wednesday/early Thursday, why wouldn't they cough up the package that day? They're already in the country, so why wouldn't they either deliver it Friday or Saturday, or tell him he could pick it up earlier? Something doesn't seem right. We're relying on the email testimony of a scammer, so who knows what really went down.

It just seems unlikley to send an email to me lying about it.

Yes. I gave them the money, and they are going to send it to me Monday. Little does he know! Mwuhahaha! My plans for London domination are almost complete!

May 07, 2004: 18:51

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Str8Dog

Joined: Apr 07, 2004

01010101010

Jeff,

the site is ready to go. you want to write something up quickly and Ill throw it up there. You can contact me here.

May 07, 2004: 18:59

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

mono

Joined: Jul 18, 2003

no

I just read this from page 1-62. This thing seems like it's scripted for christs sakes. You should sell the movie rights to Tom Clancy.

May 07, 2004: 19:17

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Tacocriminal

Joined: May 09, 2003

quote:

liquorhead came out of the closet to say:
I'm curious why FedEx is making him wait until Monday to get the package. If he paid on late Wednesday/early Thursday, why wouldn't they cough up the package that day? They're already in the country, so why wouldn't they either deliver it Friday or Saturday, or tell him he could pick it up earlier? Something doesn't seem right. We're relying on the email testimony of a scammer, so who knows what really went down.

What happens is the "scammer" will pay to finalize the delivery, but will inform the shipping company to deliver it at another date. This is common practice with fraud of this nature because it gives the criminals the chance to see if anyone is watching the transaction, and to give them a chance to hide if they think someone is. Telling Fedex exactly when to deliver the package allows the criminals to be prepared, instead of being taken off-guard.

He's waiting to see if the coast is clear, and apparently he thinks it is. Someone will probably receive the package for him so there's a "I'm just picking it up for some guy" excuse, but the scammer will come by later to get what he's earned.

May 07, 2004: 19:23

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

|                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| CountOfNowhere Joined: Feb 26, 2004 .....there's 20 of them!                                                                                                                | sounds like this scammer is making good bank. I'm going to have to learn what not to do from this thread and start this shizzle UP! Fortunately, I have good engirrrrrish so I kin f00l ppl gud. Who wants to sell me a powerbook? I've got an excellent escrow service that I use...                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| May 07, 2004: 20:24                                                                                                                                                                                          | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageSearch For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| kiimo Joined: Jul 24, 2003                                                                                                                                                             | I am furiously masturbating in anticipation of this guy's email after he opens that damn package. WHAT YOU ARE TRYING PULL??? THIS IS A FUCK!!!                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| May 07, 2004: 20:58                                                                                                                                                                                          | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageSearch For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| ChlamydiaJones Joined: Sep 27, 2002                                                         | quote:Tacocriminal came out of the closet to say: What happens is the "scammer" will pay to finalize the delivery, but will inform the shipping company to deliver it at another date. This is common practice with fraud of this nature because it gives the criminals the chance to see if anyone is watching the transaction, and to give them a chance to hide if they think someone is. Telling Fedex exactly when to deliver the package allows the criminals to be prepared, instead of being taken off-guard. He's waiting to see if the coast is clear, and apparently he thinks it is. Someone will probably receive the package for him so there's a "I'm just picking it up for some guy" excuse, but the scammer will come by later to get what he's earned. Point 1; it would be nice to have people on the ground at the time of delivery but having an address, whether of not it's a drop, is still foder for future interaction.Point 2; did you not read the part about the barbershop/climax/interwebnet cafe place? That's his drop and the guy behind the counter signs the scm name. It was witnessed. |
| May 07, 2004: 21:02                                                                                                                                                                                          | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| TheChaplain Joined: Apr 22, 2002  God is just the start of your problems, neh? | quote:ChlamydiaJones came out of the closet to say:And the P-p-p-p-powerbook must be saved and hand carried to gooncon. If I was a psychoticly angry scammer who got fucked with I'd probably just throw the fucking thing out (if not destroy it). There must be a brave UK goon willing to do a bit more of the dumpster diving.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| May 07, 2004: 21:02                                                                                                                                                                                          | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |

Tacocriminal

Joined: May 09, 2003

quote:

ChlamydiaJones came out of the closet to say:

Point 1; it would be nice to have people on the ground at the time of delivery but having an address, whether of not it's a drop, is still foder for future interaction.

Point 2; did you not read the part about the barbershop/climax/interwebnet cafe place? That's his drop and the guy behind the counter signs the scm name. It was witnessed.

Speaking as someone who has delt with this sort of thing before: big deal. What you have is exactly what I described as common proceedure with scams of this nature. You would have to be really stupid to think that someone would own a permanent location with high personal visibility just to get a laptop. The guy behind the counter gets a cut of the eventual profits from this transaction, and probably others.

Point 1: (not ; ) Wow, he had it delivered to an address OTHER than the one he lives at? How diabolical! I can't figure out someone could do something like that! (Example: P.O. boxes are delivery points, and not houses or businesses. You can rent one with fake information)

Point 2: (not ; ) The guy behind the counter claimed to have the same name as the delivery guy! You mean he's not the professor?! People claim to be other people?! Since when?! The real recipient could be someone else like in every other case of crimes like this?! My brain hurts!

Would you actually think that someone would go to all of this trouble to hide his identity originally, just to have it delivered to his actual buisness with his real name on the documentation?

May 07, 2004: 21:42

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

ChlamydiaJones

Joined: Sep 27, 2002

quote:

Tacocriminal came out of the closet to say:

Speaking as someone who has delt with this sort of thing before: big deal. What you have is exactly what I described as common proceedure with scams of this nature. You would have to be really stupid to think that someone would own a permanent location with high personal visibility just to get a laptop. The guy behind the counter gets a cut of the eventual profits from this transaction, and probably others.

Point 1: (not ; ) Wow, he had it delivered to an address OTHER than the one he lives at? How diabolical! I can't figure out someone could do something like that! (Example: P.O. boxes are delivery points, and not houses or businesses. You can rent one with fake information)

Point 2: (not ; ) The guy behind the counter claimed to have the same name as the delivery guy! You mean he's not the professor?! People claim to be other people?! Since when?! The real recipient could be someone else like in every other case of crimes like this?! My brain hurts!

Would you actually think that someone would go to all of this trouble to hide his identity originally, just to have it delivered to his actual buisness with his real name on the documentation?

You've got a lot of anger in there my friend, calm it on down and read the whole thread. We know that the guy behind the counter is in on it and very likely not the actual scammer person - I never indicated that we DIDN't already know that. He is there to sign for things. That is all. We also know and have discussed the fact taht the location is a DROP. There is no P.O. box, there is a buisness with a person sitting there signing whatever name he is told to. WE HAVE PICTURES of the location. Also there is NO PROFESSOR involved - the professor had his account stolen!

|                                                                                                                                                               |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                      |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------|
|                                                                                                                                                               | READ THE FUCKING THREAD YOU ILLITERATE CLOWN!!!!                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                      |
| May 07, 2004: 22:04                                                                                                                                           | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | EditQuote |
| TacocriminalJoined: May 09, 2003  | quote:ChlamydiaJones came out of the closet to say:Also there is NO PROFESSOR involved - the professor had his account stolen! READ THE FUCKING THREAD YOU ILLITERATE CLOWN!!!! Thanks for proving my point. EDIT: Don't worry about replying because I'm going to put you on ignore. You can't understand what you write or what other people write. I explained to liquorhead why he wouldn't pick up the package right away, but I didn't expect such stupidity out of nowhere. Ahhhh, that's better. Tacocriminal fucked around with this message at May 07, 2004 around 22:11                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                      |
| May 07, 2004: 22:05                                                                                                                                           | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | EditQuote |
| no v.20Joined: Jun 26, 2002It's Random! Random! Random Random! Random! RANDOM!                                    | I like watching two idiots cry and call each other names while arguing the same side of a disagreement.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                      |
| May 07, 2004: 22:20                                                                                                                                           | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | EditQuote |
| TacocriminalJoined: May 09, 2003 | quote:no v.20 came out of the closet to say:I like watching two idiots cry and call each other names while arguing the same side of a disagreement. Oh, so you bought a new mirror today? EDIT: Seriously though, let's stop the derail. Sorry mynameisjeff, and everyone else. EDIT2: Just to prove how stupid no v.20 and Chlamydia Jones are, if you check my profile you would see that I am a Ph.d student, which would give you a pretty good idea what my age is. Oh wait, they're throwing out stupid insults for no reason to get a flame war going, which is against GBS rules. Sorry that I didn't take the bait guys, and I'm not comming back to this thread just to make sure I don't break the rules. Good luck everyone! EDIT3: Wow, Smitz is a retard. Can anyone BOTH read and comprehend at the same time? Oh well, at least the forums got some more cash because of a huge idiot. EDIT4: Cool! Somewhat. Thanks though! EDIT5: I wouldn't be so upset Chlamydiajones, my title has a gramatical error in it. Anyone else want to take a crack at it? Tacocriminal fucked around with this message at May 07, 2004 around 23:21 |                      |

|                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| May 07, 2004: 22:21                                                                                                            | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                               |
| no v.20Joined: Jun 26, 2002It's Random! Random! RandomRandom! Random! RANDOM!                          | quote: Tacocriminal came out of the closet to say: Oh, so you bought a new mirror today? OOOOOH BURN! What are you? 12?                                                    |
| May 07, 2004: 22:24                                                                                                            | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                               |
| ChlamydiaJonesJoined: Sep 27, 2002 | I was wondering about that cretin's age as well.to RE-RAIL however; we still suffer from "Regulatory Agency Clearance Delay" godamnit. Please FedEx- PLEASE PLEASE PLEASE deliver our little treasure. Please? |
| May 07, 2004: 22:26                                                                                                            | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                               |
| buckwheatonJoined: Dec 04, 2002internet vs. robots                                                                 | hi i'm 12 and would like to get involved in this argumentedit: and by the way while I'm here: this whole thing is rad.                                                                                         |
| May 07, 2004: 22:54                                                                                                            | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                               |
| t1ghtJoined: Jan 15, 2003        | quote: Tacocriminal came out of the closet to say: Oh, so you bought a new mirror today? Oh I get it. He's two people! 🤔 Continue please.                       |
| May 07, 2004: 22:55                                                                                                            | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                               |

highme
Joined: May 25, 2001

It's golfin time, da?

quote:

Tacocriminal came out of the closet to say:

Don't worry about replying because I'm going to put you on ignore

May 07, 2004: 22:56

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

EditQuote

MyNameIsJeff
Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

Ok lets squash it now, thanks.

May 07, 2004: 22:58

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

EditQuote

smitz
Joined: Nov 05, 2003

quote:

TheChaplain came out of the closet to say:

There must be a brave UK goon willing to do a bit more of the dumpster diving.

Love to, if the place wasn't so damn far away from me (50 mins by tube). If its a weekend morning with a few days of advance warning, I might be tempted to go down again.
Oh yeah custom title buying for faggots is fun 😊

May 07, 2004: 22:59

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

DLCinferno
Joined: Feb 22, 2003

quote:

smitz came out of the closet to say:

Oh yeah custom title buying for faggots is fun 😊

Well played.

May 07, 2004: 23:07

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

ChlamydiaJones
Joined: Sep 27, 2002

Well shit! Someone else overwrote MY lovely custom title for that dick!

Sorry to continue the de-railing debicle.

May 07, 2004: 23:18

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit Quote

Dix8675309
Joined: Feb 08, 2004

quote:

Tacocriminal came out of the closet to say:
EDIT2: Just to prove how stupid no v.20 and Chlamydia Jones are, if you check my profile you would see that I am a Ph.d student, which would give you a pretty good idea what my age is. Oh wait, they're throwing out stupid insults for no reason to get a flame war going, which is against GBS rules. Sorry that I didn't take the bait guys, and I'm not comming back to this thread just to make sure I don't break the rules. Good luck everyone!

How does YOUR Ph.D prove that v.20 and Chlamydia Jones are stupid?

May 07, 2004: 23:37

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit Quote

Shmafty
Joined: Apr 17, 2003

Don't know and have no opinion...

quote:

TheChaplain came out of the closet to say:
If I was a psychotically angry scammer who got fucked with I'd probably just throw the fucking thing out (if not destroy it). There must be a brave UK goon willing to do a bit more of the dumpster diving.

Actually, if we could retrieve it, it might be kinda badass to re-package it and send it to him again... and again... and again.

May 07, 2004: 23:45

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit Quote

MonoxideChild
Joined: May 07, 2004

Number One in the 'Hood G'

This is so great that I had to register here at the SA forums. Great work 😊

May 07, 2004: 23:47

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit Quote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

quote:

Shmafty came out of the closet to say:

Actually, if we could retrieve it, it might be kinda badass to re-package it and send it to him again... and again... and again.

Now that would fucking funny. Just keep making them and sending them to him. You know he'll open the package.

May 07, 2004: 23:48

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Lone Goat

Joined: Apr 16, 2003

SUPAFISHIMANBUSTAAAAA

quote:

Dix8675309 came out of the closet to say:

How does YOUR Ph.D prove that v.20 and Chlamydia Jones are stupid?

Why, it's a PhD in dumbology.

May 07, 2004: 23:48

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Saviori

Joined: Mar 13, 2003

Kino and tragick want to know:

WHAT THE HELL HAPPENED??
SERIOUSLY,
WTF!

quote:

Tacocriminal came out of the closet to say:

EDIT2: Just to prove how stupid no v.20 and Chlamydia Jones are, if you check my profile you would see that I am a Ph.d student, which would give you a pretty good idea what my age is.

Derek Smart, is that you?

edit: Oh yeah, and this thread is priceless. I can't believe you've stuck with it for so long, here's hoping the payoff isn't anti-climatic. Good job to everyone involved so far.

May 07, 2004: 23:50

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Earwicker

Joined: Jan 06, 2003

What the fuck?

Man I read this whole thing sometimes last week and it was beautiful. There was a point in time where I was refreshing it every minute. I think we all were. Then stuff stopped happening; I kept checking in to see if anything was going on but mostly it was just people talking about it, which is fine by me. Now I skip a day and come in to check it out and WTF is this shit? Is it even worth going back and reading how this turned into a flamefest?

May 07, 2004: 23:53

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Chewblacca

Joined: Feb 07, 2004

Arrrooomph! Humph Humph
Humph!

^^^Yeah. What he said.

May 07, 2004: 23:54

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

quote:

Earwicker came out of the closet to say:
What the fuck?

...Now I skip a day and come in to check it out and WTF is this shit? Is it even worth going back and reading how this turned into a flamefest?

No.

May 07, 2004: 23:54

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Scotsman

Joined: Jun 09, 2002

quote:

Tacocriminal came out of the closet to say:

EDIT5: I wouldn't be so upset Chlamydiajones, my title has a gramatical error in it. Anyone else want to take a crack at it?

That ignore button not working too good?

May 07, 2004: 23:55

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

charliemaul
Joined: Jun 07, 2003

Has he been banned yet for this?

May 08, 2004: 00:06

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

MyNameIsJeff
Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

. . . It's like the thread is a bus, and the driver is blindfolded.
Please stop.

May 08, 2004: 00:08

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Earwicker
Joined: Jan 06, 2003

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:

No.

Roger that. Went back to read anyway :P
So Monday's the day then?

May 08, 2004: 00:13

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Y2Kdogg
Joined: Dec 25, 2003

quote:

Earwicker came out of the closet to say:

Roger that. Went back to read anyway :P
So Monday's the day then?

Sounds like it. Already trademarking "5/10 Never Forget"
Where were you when he received the p-p-p-powerbook?

|                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| May 08, 2004: 00:23                                                                                                                                                                                         | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| frankenbeansJoined: Feb 16, 2003                                                | http://btb.eyecannon.com/upload/birds.jpg Here's a nice/apt picture to throw in with the shopfront photo (I doubt he'll get the CNST reference). Note: head/face edited out for ugliness/witness protection/etc. Thanks to the eyecannon hosting machine, cos my ISP webspace is on the fritz tonight. UKSA ninjas represent Also... I'm so glad this thread picked up again. I saw it had grown another 10 pages, and I loosed my underpants in anticipation.                                    |
| May 08, 2004: 00:35                                                                                                                                                                                         | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| DLCinfernoJoined: Feb 22, 2003                                                  | quote: <hr/> ChlamydiaJones came out of the closet to say:Well shit! Someone else overwrote MY lovely custom title for that dick! <hr/> Wow, I've never been immortalized in someone's title for such little work. Neat! 😄 Edit: too bad he uses such poor grammar. 😞 DLCinferno fucked around with this message at May 08, 2004 around 00:44                                                                                                                                                                          |
| May 08, 2004: 00:42                                                                                                                                                                                         | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| PipskiJoined: Apr 18, 2004Lovely barbershop. Pity I wasn't invited. | Tacocriminal, you really are a prat. That's all, just a prat. Everyone else, are there any Home Counties goons with a free Monday morning that they could spend sitting in a cafe with a digital camera? Would we get away with posting a link in the `London monopoly' thread? There are clearly some students with plenty of time on their hands involved in that.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| May 08, 2004: 01:23                                                                                                                                                                                         | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| ZeromusMogJoined: Feb 11, 2004Sweet Sassy Molassy!                                                                                                              | quote: <hr/> Pipski came out of the closet to say:Tacocriminal, you really are a prat. That's all, just a prat. Everyone else, are there any Home Counties goons with a free Monday morning that they could spend sitting in a cafe with a digital camera? Would we get away with posting a link in the `London monopoly' thread? There are clearly some students with plenty of time on their hands involved in that. <hr/> I say go for it. You can't derail that thread any worse than this one has been the last few pages. 😊 |

|                                                                                                                                                  |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| May 08, 2004: 01:48                                                                                                                              | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| UmrathJoined: Aug 27, 2003Please: Think about the Domokuns                                                                    | Some of these posts are confusing me. I'm gathering that he has NOT yet received the package, right? He is still p-p-p-powerbookless, yes?And we're just waiting for him to get the package?                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
| May 08, 2004: 03:07                                                                                                                              | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| absolut1Joined: Sep 18, 2003Absolut Awful | quote: Pipski came out of the closet to say:Tacocriminal, you really are a prat. That's all, just a prat. Everyone else, are there any Home Counties goons with a free Monday morning that they could spend sitting in a cafe with a digital camera? Would we get away with posting a link in the `London monopoly' thread? There are clearly some students with plenty of time on their hands involved in that. Heh, they ought to make the barbershop a stop on the monopoly board 🇬🇧 Looking forward to monday's d-d-d-d-delivery.                   |
| May 08, 2004: 03:36                                                                                                                              | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| The NewmanJoined: Oct 17, 2003unconstructive critic                                                                           | P-p-power banner ad does not deliver. Hopefully fedex does better.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| May 08, 2004: 03:58                                                                                                                              | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| CarrionJoined: Jun 17, 2003                 | quote: Umrath came out of the closet to say:Some of these posts are confusing me. I'm gathering that he has NOT yet received the package, right? He is still p-p-p-powerbookless, yes? And we're just waiting for him to get the package? He has said he paid the dues to get the package through customs, and the p-p-p-powerbook SHOULD be delivered on Monday, but that remains to be seen. Currently, the p-p-p-powerbook is still sitting in the FedEx holding office. Hopefully, by Monday the package will be delivered and the trolling/flaming will stop. |
| May 08, 2004: 04:06                                                                                                                              | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| neddleJoined: May 04, 2004 "Eight hours later they brought her up by mule"!                                                                                                          | I hope it's Monday because IT'S MY BIRTHDAY! If he gets his present then I definately get mine! By the way PIPSKI yours hasn't arrived yet. Oh and I heartily agree that tacowhatsit is a prat. Let's send him a P-P-P-PHD certificate with some crap on it. Thread 2, this time it's personal. May 08, 2004: 05:09User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                     |
| mausJoined: Jul 25, 2003 Amigos! Look! It is El Macho...The Thief of Hearts!! | quote:Tacocriminal came out of the closet to say:EDIT5: my title has a gramatical error in it. But enough derailment. This thread is a highway to LOL and the slow parts feel like the anticipation of driving through Utah to get to Vegas. May 08, 2004: 05:29User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                    |
| BipolarBitchJoined: May 08, 2004 Jenna Jameson never had to deal with this shit...                                                                                                   | This is one of the funniest things I've ever bore witness to.I registered an account here because of this thread.Jeff, Goons, you PWN.Can't wait for updates. May 08, 2004: 05:43User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| ChesterJTJoined: Dec 28, 2003 I'M HELPING!!!                                            | Can anyone find a birth date or ssn for that Saral Surakul interior design guy? I called some police friends and had him checked locally in Terre Haute. He's clear there, not even on record, so no traffic tickets or anything. Appears to be clean. Need some other piece of infor for a better check. Either our guy picked a good partner who is clean and wouldn't raise suspicion, or picked someone's identity to steal that's clean. May 08, 2004: 06:32User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More PostsEditQuote                            |
| AccipiterJoined: Jan 24, 2004 Pop it, D-Man!                                            | quote:ChesterJT came out of the closet to say:Can anyone find a birth date or ssn for that Saral Surakul interior design guy? I called some police friends and had him checked locally in Terre Haute. He's clear there, not even on record, so no traffic tickets or anything. Appears to be clean. Need some other piece of infor for a better check. Either our guy picked a good partner who is clean and wouldn't raise suspicion, or picked someone's identity to steal that's clean. So you're telling us your friends can check his police record but can't get a birth date? Why do I completely and utterly not believe that? |

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| May 08, 2004: 10:22                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| Tekilah Joined: Apr 15, 2004 Everything good was taken                                                                                                                                                                                         | quote: Accipiter came out of the closet to say: So you're telling us your friends can check his police record but can't get a birth date? Why do I completely and utterly not believe that? I think that if someone is "clean", they dont have a police record. That means the police did not readily have his number/info/birthdate available. Edit: heh, I reread...yea, he did say dood has no record at all, so the cops shouldn't just have a random strangers birth date lying around for no reason. 😊 Also, I really don't think Surakul or whatever is in on it at all. Is anyone going to drop him a line when this is over to let him know you avenged his eBay account theft? 😊 Tekilah fucked around with this message at May 08, 2004 around 12:25                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
| May 08, 2004: 12:18                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| Jobbernowl Joined: Mar 12, 2004 \Job"ber*nowl` \, n. [OE. jobbernoule, fr. jobarde a stupid fellow; cf. E. noll.] A blockhead. [Colloq. &amp; Obs.] | quote: absolut1 came out of the closet to say: Heh, they ought to make the barbershop a stop on the monopoly board 🎲 Looking forward to monday's d-d-d-d-delivery. I was thinking about making the barbershop Free Parking (no, that's not some clever joke, I just can't think of anything else to use for Free Parking), but I only really want places in travelcard zones 1 and 2. Where's the nearest tube station to the barbershop?                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| May 08, 2004: 13:31                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| rhig Joined: Jul 14, 2002 bitches can't hide from this                                                                                            | I might be able to make it on Monday but I can't enter the shop, I could probably get a video of the delivery and possibly the pickup if the guys there within a couple of hours. It really needs 5 people or more to cover the shop for the whole day, with 3 of us last time there wasn't time/ manpower to cover everything for the whole day. I'd expect the scammer to pick up the powerbook before 2 though if it's going to be at the shop by 12. It's quite possible this scammer will just take the box home in his car and it may be impossible to get pictures of him opening it or getting hold of the discarded powerbook. Ideally we need a goon with a car to wait outside the shop - the place has no benches around and little places where you can take photos outside without the whole street seeing you. The road is packed most of the day. quote: Jobbernowl came out of the closet to say: I was thinking about making the barbershop Free Parking (no, that's not some clever joke, I just can't think of anything else to use for Free Parking), but I only really want places in travelcard zones 1 and 2. Where's the nearest tube station to the barbershop? |

|                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                      |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------|
|                                                                                                                                                                                     | Collindale, its zone 4 just below Edgware road on the northern line. rhig fucked around with this message at May 08, 2004 around 13:40                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                      |
| May 08, 2004: 13:35                                                                                                                                                                 | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | EditQuote |
| ChesterJTJoined: Dec 28, 2003I'M HELPING!!!  | quote:Accipiter came out of the closet to say:So you're telling us your friends can check his police record but can't get a birth date? Why do I completely and utterly not believe that? OK here's how it works. There's different databases for different things. NCIC is the national system. IDACS is the statewide (Indiana) system, and almost all counties have their own local system they maintain with as much info as they can. The bigger two systems only hold active warrants, protection orders, and stuff like that. However, the local databases hold every single involvement with that county's police agencies, even traffic warnings. That system can be searched by almost any one variable. So checking someone locally can be done only a name, only a birthdate, , etc. This will only show stuff from that county only, but obviously if that's the county he lives in, that would be the one that would have information. To search the other two systems, and the BMV, you need either a ssn or birthdate. I was hoping he would have been on file at least locally so there would be a birthday to use. No such luck. I'm guessing he doesn't know about it either.I guess they could try him locally in Iowa where that school is, but when you start crossing state lines, things tend to get a little "official" ya know? |                      |
| May 08, 2004: 13:41                                                                                                                                                                 | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | EditQuote |
| AccipiterJoined: Jan 24, 2004Pop it, D-Man! | quote:Tekilah came out of the closet to say:I think that if someone is "clean", they dont have a police record. That means the police did not readily have his number/info/birthdate available. True enough, but I'm willing to bet the guy has a driver's license.quote:ChesterJT came out of the closet to say:OK here's how it works. Well that makes sense I guess, but it seems like that'd be a pretty shitty system that you can't search by name. Thanks for the explanation, though.Accipiter fucked around with this message at May 08, 2004 around 14:53                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                      |
| May 08, 2004: 14:32                                                                                                                                                                 | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | EditQuote |

thehustler

Joined: Apr 17, 2004

Mr Brightside

quote:

rhig came out of the closet to say:
Collindale, its zone 4 just below Edgware road on the northern line.

Bit too far out for us then 😞 Shame though, it would have been the perfect addition to an SA event. Unless we scared him with the numbers attending, descending down into his shop.

BTW, the fact that our Monopoly thread made it into this particular piece of gold-rated material is ubercool.

thehustler fucked around with this message at May 08, 2004 around 15:32

May 08, 2004: 15:20

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

SignalTwoFive

Joined: Dec 28, 2003

Bob Sapp is laughing AT you, not WITH you.

quote:

Accipiter came out of the closet to say:
Well that makes sense I guess, but it seems like that'd be a pretty shitty system that you can't search by name. Thanks for the explanation, though.

Most local databases can be searched by name only. NCIC, and its Florida equivalent FCIC, require a name and date of birth. It might sound stupid, and sometimes it can be a pain in the ass when it comes to searching for people. Everything that is run through NCIC/FCIC is printed. When a common name, such as "John Smith" is run, anyone with a warrant that has a close name or DOB comes back, and you get stuck listening to a dot matrix printer for 20 minutes. Now imagine Mr. Smith getting run and they ALL come back. The printer would kill itself.

Also, when you run someone, you have to verify that the warrant is for that person. Arresting someone incorrectly could mean a lawsuit against the arresting officer/agency. Once you establish that warrant=person, it has to be verified that the person is still wanted by sending a message through NCIC (works like a very official IM system).

Criminal histories work the same way as looking up warrants.

quote:

ChesterJT came out of the closet to say:
I guess they could try him locally in Iowa where that school is, but when you start crossing state lines, things tend to get a little "official" ya know?

I, for one, would not put my NCIC certification and job on the line to look this guy up. Anything on NCIC is NOT public record. I don't want the secret service on my ass, and yes, they would be. Someone a few years back ran the president. Not 10 minutes later, someone from the secret service showed up wondering why they did that.

Also, I'll answer any related questions that I can.

May 08, 2004: 16:00

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Carrion
Joined: Jun 17, 2003

quote:

---

Jobbernowl came out of the closet to say:

I was thinking about making the barbershop Free Parking (no, that's not some clever joke, I just can't think of anything else to use for Free Parking)

---

I would think the Barbershop should be the Go To Jail square.

May 08, 2004: 19:01

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

EditQuote

thehustler
Joined: Apr 17, 2004

Mr Brightside

quote:

---

Carrion came out of the closet to say:

I would think the Barbershop should be the Go To Jail square.

---

No can do, we've designated the tower of london for that 😊

May 08, 2004: 19:51

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

EditQuote

ChesterJT
Joined: Dec 28, 2003

I'M HELPING!!!

quote:

---

SignalTwoFive came out of the closet to say:

I, for one, would not put my NCIC certification and job on the line to look this guy up. Anything on NCIC is NOT public record. I don't want the secret service on my ass, and yes, they would be. Someone a few years back ran the president. Not 10 minutes later, someone from the secret service showed up wondering why they did that.

---

I hear that. People try and do stupid shit like look up Michael Jackson or something. It just brings a lot of problems. I also find it funny that you have a dot matrix printer. Get a laserjet man! It's the 21st century! haha

May 08, 2004: 21:26

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Thunderstorm
Joined: Jul 07, 2002

I <3 Hitler p.s. Nazis are wicked cool

quote:

ChesterJT came out of the closet to say:

I also find it funny that you have a dot matrix printer. Get a laserjet man! It's the 21st century! haha

The advantage of dot matrix printers is, that they can log stuff witout printing a whole page / request, as a laser printer would do. If you buffer stuff, you are prone to lose data.
Many somewhat sensible systems (i.e. access control) use dot matrix printers as a physical logfile. It's the safest way to do it.

May 08, 2004: 22:23

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

EditQuote

PsYcHo_FiSh
Joined: Jul 04, 2003

Holy shit, this thread is immortal.

CHINESE TANK GUY

May 08, 2004: 23:06

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Not My Leg
Joined: Nov 06, 2002

quote:

SignalTwoFive came out of the closet to say:

I , for one, would not put my NCIC certification and job on the line to look this guy up. Anything on NCIC is NOT public record. I don't want the secret service on my ass, and yes, they would be. Someone a few years back ran the president. Not 10 minutes later, someone from the secret service showed up wondering why they did that.

Also, I'll answer any related questions that I can.

Just wondering if you would really get the same response by running random guy through NCIC as running the president. NCIC must have thousands of searches per day, it doesn't seem like any extra one would raise flags unless it was a major political figure or celebrity. I guess I am just wondering why they would take a particular request and investigate it, rather than just assume it is one of the thousands run each day.

May 09, 2004: 01:24

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

EditQuote

DLCinferno
Joined: Feb 22, 2003

quote:

Not My Leg came out of the closet to say:

Just wondering if you would really get the same response by running random guy through NCIC as running the president. NCIC must have thousands of searches per day, it doesn't seem like any extra one would raise flags unless it was a major political figure or celebrity. I guess I am just wondering why they would take a particular request and investigate it, rather than just assume it is one of the thousands run each day.

Absolutely anything to do with the president is looked into. Especially when it is using something like these databases. Even if you made some random joking comment to a stranger that you were going to kill Bush and that person just happened to notify someone who cared you could potentially have a Secret Service file made about you (my understanding is they don't necessarily question you for everything but they do create a

|                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                      |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------|
|                                                                                                                                                                                                            | file and start keeping track of you). This was told to me by a high-level secret service relative of mine so I assume its fairly accurate.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                      |
| May 09, 2004: 01:48                                                                                                                                                                                        | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | EditQuote |
| yosarian Joined: Jan 22, 2002  "A chicken in every pot and a cap in every ass" | Just want to say I am still on board and looking forward to an asshole getting his 😊 quote: SignalTwoFive came out of the closet to say:Someone a few years back ran the president. Not 10 minutes later, someone from the secret service showed up wondering why they did that. Also, I'll answer any related questions that I can. Which President and what did they find?                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                      |
| May 09, 2004: 02:14                                                                                                                                                                                        | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | EditQuote |
| Y2Kdogg Joined: Dec 25, 2003                                                              | quote: DLCinferno came out of the closet to say:Absolutely anything to do with the president is looked into. Especially when it is using something like these databases. Even if you made some random joking comment to a stranger that you were going to kill Bush and that person just happened to notify someone who cared you could potentially have a Secret Service file made about you (my understanding is they don't necessarily question you for everything but they do create a file and start keeping track of you). This was told to me by a high-level secret service relative of mine so I assume its fairly accurate. After reading this, I glanced over at your avatar and a shiver went down my spine. It's humourous in a way, but it definitely is not surprising.                                                                                                                                                               |                      |
| May 09, 2004: 02:15                                                                                                                                                                                        | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | EditQuote |
| kazmeyer Joined: Jul 26, 2001  Oh! He aint pretty no more!                   | quote: DLCinferno came out of the closet to say:Absolutely anything to do with the president is looked into. Especially when it is using something like these databases. Even if you made some random joking comment to a stranger that you were going to kill Bush and that person just happened to notify someone who cared you could potentially have a Secret Service file made about you (my understanding is they don't necessarily question you for everything but they do create a file and start keeping track of you). This was told to me by a high-level secret service relative of mine so I assume its fairly accurate. There was an incident in 2002, if I remember correctly, where someone on a fucking webforum posted how they would go about finding Vice President Cheney in his "undisclosed location". The Secret Service came to his workplace. They don't fuck around with that kind of thing. |                      |
| May 09, 2004: 02:36                                                                                                                                                                                        | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | EditQuote |

|                                                                                                          |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| grzydj Joined: Oct 04, 2000 I will answer your questions about Gore-Tex | quote: PsYcHo_FiSh came out of the closet to say:Holy shit, this thread is immortal. I'm so lost too. It's impossible to recap a 2000+ response thread.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| May 09, 2004: 02:40                                                                                      | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| vegaji Joined: Apr 14, 2004 Owned by Hawk989s                           | I'll try to quickly recap it for those that do not want to read a couple thousand posts. MyNameisJeff(Jeff) posted about how this guy on ebay (scammer) wanted to buy his Powerbook (notice the single P). The guy was obviously a scammer. Some goons track the scammer down, and it turns out that the scammer did some clever identity theft (of the college professor). So, Jeff instead gets the address that he is supposed to ship the Powerbook to. Jeff lives in Washington (state) and the scammer lives (or the package is at least going to) in London. Some goons get a map of the general region of the place, and it turns out to be Jean Climax's barbershop/internet cafe. Jeff gets the idea of turning a binder into a fake powerbook. He names his genius creation the 'P-P-P=Powerbook'. Here are the pictures for those who have not seen it:http://www.vegaji.com/images/back1.jpghttp://www.vegaji.com/images/topclosed.jpghttp://www.vegaji.com/images/touchpad.jpghttp://www.vegaji.com/images/functionkey.jpghttp://www.vegaji.com/images/topmenu.jpghttp://www.vegaji.com/images/leftmenu.jpghttp://www.vegaji.com/images/bottomright.jpghttp://www.vegaji.com/images/bluetoothmouse1.jpghttp://www.vegaji.com/images/laser.jpghttp://www.vegaji.com/images/righthand.jpghttp://www.vegaji.com/images/back2.jpgWith the help of some very quick and efficient fundraising from goons, Jeff gets the $90 or whatever shipping fees to ship the P-P-P-Powerbook (3P-Powerbook). It is shipped. Meanwhile, some goons have located and taken pictures of the barbershop/internet cafe. Around the time the package is estimated to arrive, Starbucks and Pipski go to the barbershop. Starbucks goes inside the barbershop and upstairs to the internet cafe. There, he's running a webcam and sees a Fedex truck pull up and a guy with two packages walk out into Mr. Climax's shop.http://www.vegaji.com/images/powerbook1.gifStarbucks also changes the screensavers of the barbershop to 'P-P-P-Powerbook!!!'. The whole thread has a collective orgasm thinking that the 3P Powerbook is there. But, alas, it turns out neither of the two boxes are our package. Suspicions arise of a very large scamming operation by this guy because of the two packages.Time passes. Nothing is heard from the scammer. Constant 'Regulatory Clearance Delays' appear on the Fedex tracking website. After many attempts to contact him, Jeff gets the scammer to reply to him. The scammer says the he paid the taxes for the 3P Powerbook and it would be delivered this Monday (May 10, I believe).That's about where we are now. |
| May 09, 2004: 03:02                                                                                      | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |

DLCinferno

Joined: Feb 22, 2003

quote:

kazmeyer came out of the closet to say:
There was an incident in 2002, if I remember correctly, where someone on a fucking webforum posted how they would go about finding Vice President Cheney in his "undisclosed location".

The Secret Service came to his workplace.

They don't fuck around with that kind of thing.

There was just one recently where they came after a 15 yr old kid for anti-war drawings.

edit: and here's the Secret Service's explanation of the incident.

DLCinferno fucked around with this message at May 09, 2004 around 03:07

May 09, 2004: 03:03

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Koala

Joined: Aug 18, 2003

Gorging on the eucalyptus tree of human misery

quote:

vegaji came out of the closet to say:
Massive Recap!!!

Thanks! My eyes were strained by the time I got to page 30 of this thread. Now I'm eagerly awaiting the conclusion of this epic masterpiece.

May 09, 2004: 03:05

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

grzydj

Joined: Oct 04, 2000

I will answer your questions about Gore-Tex

quote:

vegaji came out of the closet to say:
I'll try to quickly recap it for those that do not want to read a couple thousand posts.

Thank you so much! 🙏

May 09, 2004: 03:06

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

SignalTwoFive

Joined: Dec 28, 2003

Bob Sapp is laughing AT you, not WITH you.

quote:

Not My Leg came out of the closet to say:

Just wondering if you would really get the same response by running random guy through NCIC as running the president. NCIC must have thousands of searches per day, it doesn't seem like any extra one would raise flags unless it was a major political figure or celebrity. I guess I am just wondering why they would take a particular request and investigate it, rather than just assume it is one of the thousands run each day.

|                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                      |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------|
|                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Depending on how the entering agency put in that particular person's warrant or whatever, that agency has the option to have a notice sent to them (which is immediate) any time that person is run. Now if he is in Iowa, and I run him in Florida, I'll most likely get a phone call in about 5 or 10 minutes from whatever agency put his warrant into the system wondering why I had run him, and if I didn't have a good excuse, he could file a complaint and have my certification revoked. The gov't is pretty hardcore about that. Stolen Vehicles work the same way. Occasionally it'll be a couple of days before a stolen vehicle is entered, and once I enter it, I get a list of every agency that has run the vehicle's tag , showing me which direction the vehicle is heading. It's pretty cool sometimes. quote: <hr/> Which President and what did they find? <hr/> It happened a few years before I started working there, but I was told that it was Reagan and nothing came back. I guess when you're president that stuff tends to disappear. SignalTwoFive fucked around with this message at May 09, 2004 around 03:08 | EditQuote |
| May 09, 2004: 03:06                                                                                                                                                                                    | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                      |
| MyNameIsJeffJoined: Dec 05, 2003P-P-P-Powerbook.com! | quote: <hr/> vegaji came out of the closet to say:I'll try to quickly recap it for those that do not want to read a couple thousand posts. <hr/> Damn good job. I wanted to do something like that, but I just kept putting it off. Should I quote you for the front page? Perhaps we can make everyone read it all. I thought about writing a story about it all for our p-p-p-powerbook.com. Maybe i will just do that instead. Then they have to read the whole thread. I will include the people whos posts helped take this thread to the top. Again; Thanks to everyones input and ideas. You guys are awesome.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                      |
| May 09, 2004: 03:36                                                                                                                                                                                    | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | EditQuote |
| J-SpotJoined: May 07, 2002I AM A LIAR                                                                                                           | quote: <hr/> vegaji came out of the closet to say:Recap! <hr/> Thanks! I checked this thread out when it began, but it quickly got out of hand. I'm just now seeing Jeff's P-P-P-Powerbook images. Hilarious. Kudos to Jeff and to the goons who are more committed to these large threads than I am. Threads like these are proof positive that GBS is the best general discussion forum on the 'net.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                      |
| May 09, 2004: 03:47                                                                                                                                                                                    | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | EditQuote |

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| vegaji Joined: Apr 14, 2004 Owned by Hawk989s                                                                                                                                                                         | quote: MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say: Damn good job. I wanted to do something like that, but I just kept putting it off. Should I quote you for the front page? Perhaps we can make everyone read it all. I thought about writing a story about it all for our p-p-p-powerbook.com. Maybe i will just do that instead. Then they have to read the whole thread. I will include the people whos posts helped take this thread to the top. Again; Thanks to everyones input and ideas. You guys are awesome. You can quote me if you'd like. And the Chronicles of the P-P-P-Powerbook would be good to write. Include the pictures taken, Photoshops people have done, and everything else and it'd make a damned fine story. We just need some closure first. |
| May 09, 2004: 03:48                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| cunnelatio Joined: Aug 08, 2002 I'M A HUGE FAGGOT                                                                                                                                                                     | quote: smitz came out of the closet to say: Oh yeah custom title buying for faggots is fun 😊 You may win the argument but you lose in general, because this merely proves that you think the internet is serious business In before "I'd buy you a title but yours is quite accurate L O " cunnelatio fucked around with this message at May 09, 2004 around 03:56                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| May 09, 2004: 03:52                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| EvilBob Joined: Feb 17, 2001 Can't please all the people all the time, and last time all those people were in my thread. | holy shit this is funny. I'm glued to this thread now. nice work                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| May 09, 2004: 03:54                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |

Liet
Joined: Oct 07, 2003

quote:

---

cunnelatio came out of the closet to say:
You may win the argument but you lose in general, because this merely proves that you think the internet is serious business

---

Last time I checked, buying a custom title wasn't so expensive as to qualify as "serious business".

May 09, 2004: 03:56

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Verm
Joined: Sep 11, 2001

Reality continues to ruin my life.

quote:

---

Liet came out of the closet to say:
Last time I checked, buying a custom title wasn't so expensive as to qualify as "serious business".

---

quote:

---

cunnelatio came out of the closet to say:
I'd buy you a title but yours is quite accurate L O

---

That fits together I guess.

May 09, 2004: 04:03

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Unorthodox
Joined: Dec 03, 2001

Retired with career average of 25.38/day.

I still can't get over the whole Jean Climax's barbershop/internet cafe thing. I anxiously await our Climax here in this thread.

May 09, 2004: 04:39

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Blaise
Joined: Sep 10, 2003

Calculated Karma

Monday May 10? That's like... now?

May 09, 2004: 05:03

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Verm
Joined: Sep 11, 2001

Reality continues to ruin my life.

Nope, now is Sunday the 9th.

May 09, 2004: 05:14

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Alty
Joined: Mar 20, 2004

I'll take a quiet life. and a handshake of carbon monoxide cannot wait for this to end (although, in some ways I want it to continue), the posters of this thread rock.

May 09, 2004: 08:47

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

EditQuote

FrozenCat
Joined: Dec 20, 2003

My idols are Sam Kinison & Isaac Asimov.
Go figure.

I wonder if someone with brains/technical knowledge could actually build a working P-P-P-Powerbook? The hard part would be making the case itself-having it look like the photos.

When I close my eyes, I see that keyboard...

'The era when a Dame was a Dame and a Dick was a Detective.'

May 09, 2004: 09:39

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

EditQuote

BeastOfExmoor
Joined: Aug 19, 2003

"Mr. Phillips found old Johnny Cash when he was high, high before he ever took those pills, and he's still too proud to die.."

I'd been ignoring this thread for a couple weeks, but after finding out that I have met Jeff before and hearing the amazing tail of the P-P-Powerbook, I felt the need to read through it a bit and give Jeff kudos. Hopefully this will turn out well.

May 09, 2004: 09:41

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Winkie
Joined: Aug 25, 2002

it best be funny and informative and not at all pink

quote:

FrozenCat came out of the closet to say:
I wonder if someone with brains/technical knowledge could actually build a working P-P-P-Powerbook? The hard part would be making the case itself-having it look like the photos.

When I close my eyes, I see that keyboard...

What the hell are you on about? A working P-P-P-Powerbook? So that would be a Powerbook then, and yes Apple are quite good at making those.

May 09, 2004: 10:17

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

ZeromusMog
Joined: Feb 11, 2004

Sweet Sassy Molassy!

quote:

Winkie came out of the closet to say:

What the hell are you on about? A working P-P-P-Powerbook? So that would be a Powerbook then, and yes Apple are quite good at making those.

Close, you just need to paint the front of the mouse blue and add teeth. And arrange the keyboard so instead of 'typewriter' being on the first row, 'ufag' is on the first row. (Dvorak is SO last millenium!)

May 09, 2004: 12:18

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

CheechLizard
Joined: Jul 01, 2000

I was late for work because I refused to leave until I read this thread and there's still more to come.
Funny stuff

May 09, 2004: 16:57

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Ruby Gloom
Joined: May 08, 2004

The happiest girl in the world....

I cant wait for the P-P-P-Powerbook to be delivered.. but i've been reading this for like 2 weeks.. what will we all do once it ends *sob* P-P-P-Powerbook, not just a thread, but a way of life!!!

May 09, 2004: 17:09

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

therealNeoS
Joined: Jul 13, 2001

5 bux saves the day

Jesus Christ I'm so giddy and want this to happen so we can laugh for days.

May 09, 2004: 18:40

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

rhig
Joined: Jul 14, 2002

bitches can't hide from this

Is anyone prepared to go to the barbers tomorrow for the delivery? It's likely I will go but I can't enter the shop. I will be in the cafe across the street from 8am and will be able to record delivery and hopefully the pickup. If the PowerBook is dumped in a bin nearby (highly unlikely) I will recover it.

May 09, 2004: 22:07

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

HorseRotorvator
Joined: Feb 05, 2002

quote:

ZeromusMog came out of the closet to say:
And arrange the keyboard so instead of 'typewriter' being on the first row, 'ufag' is on the first row. (Dvorak is SO last millenium!)

Holy shit! "Typewriter" is on the first row. I never noticed that.

May 09, 2004: 22:11

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Jasperess
Joined: Oct 13, 2002

I've been reading this thread since the beginning and it still never ceases to amaze me.

I know it was most possible that the P-P-P-Powerbook is going to be delivered Monday, but has anyone checked just to make sure they didn't get a chance to deliver it on Friday?

May 09, 2004: 22:41

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

EditQuote

rhig
Joined: Jul 14, 2002

bitches can't hide from this

Fed-Ex doesn't say delivered and this guy said Monday so I'd be surprised if it's been set to a different date, the guy could be lying but if I was waiting for the laptop I'd want it Monday.

May 09, 2004: 22:44

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

DLCinferno

Joined: Feb 22, 2003

quote:

rhig came out of the closet to say:

Is anyone prepared to go to the barbers tomorrow for the delivery? It's likely I will go but I can't enter the shop. I will be in the cafe across the street from 8am and will be able to record delivery and hopefully the pickup. If the PowerBook is dumped in a bin nearby (highly unlikely) I will recover it.

Why can't you enter the shop?

May 09, 2004: 23:19

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

rhig

Joined: Jul 14, 2002

bitches can't hide from this

I went last week, the barber will certainly recognise me - some of the computers had screensavers and things changed. He also saw me and the others hanging around outside the shop.

I just went to get the 11:45 coach but it was full, I should be able to get the 3:45 and be there by 10:15.

May 09, 2004: 23:57

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

OMG LOL BUTSEKZ

Joined: Dec 02, 2003

no butsekz plz.

quote:

Verm came out of the closet to say:

Nope, now is Sunday the 9th.

isn't it the 10th in london?

May 10, 2004: 00:13

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Souldark

Joined: Oct 14, 2003

The glass is half-empty. You drank the first half.

quote:

OMG LOL BUTSEKZ came out of the closet to say:

isn't it the 10th in london?

Why the hell would Sunday (yesterday) be the 10th?

It's now Monday, the 10th, in the UK.

Also, LO tastic thread, now awaiting completion.

|                                                                                                                                          |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| May 10, 2004: 00:19                                                                                                               | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| thehustlerJoined: Apr 17, 2004Mr Brightside                                                                           | I'm so interested in what happens here that I'm having the spectacular Ruby Gloom SMS me the minute we have confirmation of the delivery (unless she forgets, in which case jobbernowl will instead). Alas, I wont be here to read it, because I am on holiday (as stated on page 50something) Fingers are crossed for good news! thehustler fucked around with this message at May 10, 2004 around 00:36 |
| May 10, 2004: 00:31                                                                                                               | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| Y2KdoggJoined: Dec 25, 2003           | Not sure if it has been pointed out yet, but this guy's fake escrow page isn't working anymore ??? ☹️ Edit - Apparently it has been "disabled". I am 30 pages late with this revelation. 🙄                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| May 10, 2004: 00:35                                                                                                               | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| The NewmanJoined: Oct 17, 2003unconstructive critic                                                                   | quote: <hr/> Y2Kdogg came out of the closet to say: Not sure if it has been pointed out yet, but this guy's fake escrow page isn't working anymore ??? ☹️ <hr/> You are approximately 30 pages late with that revelation. The Newman fucked around with this message at May 10, 2004 around 03:58                                                                             |
| May 10, 2004: 00:36                                                                                                               | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| Jap10Joined: Mar 10, 2004My mom is bom . She gives tite dome.                                           | rescued from the depths of the second page!                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| May 10, 2004: 01:05                                                                                                               | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| Dr.SchadenFreudJoined: Jul 16, 2003 | Arise, thread! Today is the day!                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| May 10, 2004: 02:17                                                                                                               | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

quote:

Dr.SchadenFreud came out of the closet to say:
Arise, thread! Today is the day!

It's still 6:30 pm here. 🙄

May 10, 2004: 02:24

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

OMG LOL BUTSEKZ

Joined: Dec 02, 2003

no butsekz plz.

quote:

Souldark came out of the closet to say:

Why the hell would Sunday (yesterday) be the 10th?

It's now Monday, the 10th, in the UK.

Also, LO tastic thread, now awaiting completion.

i was saying it was the 10th in the uk, not sunday the 10th, bitch

May 10, 2004: 02:28

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

DLCinferno

Joined: Feb 22, 2003

quote:

OMG LOL BUTSEKZ came out of the closet to say:

i was saying it was the 10th in the uk, not sunday the 10th, bitch

easy

May 10, 2004: 03:00

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

ImDifferent

Joined: Sep 20, 2001

quote:

neddle came out of the closet to say:
I hope it's Monday because IT'S MY BIRTHDAY!

Sup, May-10th-birthday-having buddy?
I too am eagerly awaiting the outcome of this rollercoaster ride.

May 10, 2004: 03:10

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

SignalTwoFive

Joined: Dec 28, 2003

Bob Sapp is laughing AT you,
not WITH you.

quote:

Dr.SchadenFreud came out of the closet to say:
Arise, thread! Today is the day!

Billy witch doctor dot com says:

Arise, thread, arise.

 Attachment: capture.jpg

This has been downloaded 1605 time(s).

May 10, 2004: 03:16

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

charliemaul

Joined: Jun 07, 2003

In case someone doesn't have it bookmarked

<http://www.fedex.com/cgi-bin/tracki...rs=846563452310>

May 10, 2004: 03:29

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

absolut1

Joined: Sep 18, 2003

Absolut Awful

quote:

charliemaul came out of the closet to say:
In case someone doesn't have it bookmarked

<http://www.fedex.com/cgi-bin/tracki...rs=846563452310>

I wonder if anyone at Fedex has noticed the interest in this shipment. Must be thousands of hits on that by now, all with the SA referrer.

|                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                            |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------|
| May 10, 2004: 03:34                                                                                                                                                                 | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | Edit Quote |
| HungryjackJoined: May 09, 2003                                           | quote: absolut1 came out of the closet to say:I wonder if anyone at Fedex has noticed the interest in this shipment. Must be thousands of hits on that by now, all with the SA referrer. It might make for interesting trivia, but since I can't think of much sinister stuff that can come out of tracking a shipment, I doubt they even keep tabs on that kind of thing. |                                            |
| May 10, 2004: 03:49                                                                                                                                                                 | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | Edit Quote |
| OtokodateJoined: Jan 15, 2004  All your nuts are belong to me | This will probably be the only thing on Monday that will keep me from being suicidal.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                            |
| May 10, 2004: 03:56                                                                                                                                                                 | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | Edit Quote |
| OMG LOL BUTSEKZJoined: Dec 02, 2003 no butsekz plz.                                                                                                      | quote: DLCinferno came out of the closet to say:easy  now let's concentrate on the worship of MyNameIsJeff                                                                                                                                                                   |                                            |
| May 10, 2004: 04:14                                                                                                                                                                 | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | Edit Quote |
| MyNameIsJeffJoined: Dec 05, 2003  P-P-P-Powerbook.com!      | May 10, 2004 4:00 am Package status STANSTED GB Regulatory Agency Clearance Delay FedEx is really starting to piss me off.                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                            |
| May 10, 2004: 04:28                                                                                                                                                                 | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | Edit Quote |

IdeoPraxist

Joined: Jan 29, 2004

Creating Ideas for Good and Evil

quote:

vegaji came out of the closet to say:
I'll try to quickly recap it for those that do not want to read a couple thousand posts.

...lots of good blah...

That's about where we are now.

Thanks vegaji. I lost track of this huge thread, so your summary is appreciated.

May 10, 2004: 04:28

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

OMG LOL BUTSEKZ

Joined: Dec 02, 2003

no butseksz plz.

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:
May 10, 2004 4:00 am

Package status

STANSTED GB

Regulatory Agency Clearance Delay

FedEx is really starting to piss me off.

AHHH

May 10, 2004: 04:30

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Jack Burton

Joined: Mar 01, 2002

It's all in the reflexes.

Is there any way to find out why exactly, the P-P-P-Powerbook has been in RACD for so damned long? This is at once both excruciatingly frustrating and deliciously uncertain. ARRRRRRRGGGGGG!!!

May 10, 2004: 04:43

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

liquorhead

Joined: Jul 11, 2002

elephant parts 4 life

quote:

*MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:
May 10, 2004 4:00 am*

Package status

STANSTED GB

Regulatory Agency Clearance Delay

FedEx is really starting to piss me off.

Did you expect a Sunday delivery?

May 10, 2004: 04:43

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

quote:

liquorhead came out of the closet to say:

Did you expect a Sunday delivery?

I suppose you're right.

May 10, 2004: 04:46

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Package Molesto

Joined: Aug 05, 2002

It trained them to shoot skeet.

quote:

liquorhead came out of the closet to say:

Did you expect a Sunday delivery?

May 10 isn't Sunday.

May 10, 2004: 04:53

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Bluecobra

Joined: Sep 11, 2001

Cobra Commander

^ ^ ^ ^ ^ ^ ^ ^ Beaten like a Venezuelan hooker.

quote:

liquorhead came out of the closet to say:

Did you expect a Sunday delivery?

What the hell are you talking about? May 10, 2004 is Monday.

May 10, 2004: 04:55

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

neutron

Joined: Feb 19, 2003

The most merciful thing in the world . . . is the inability of the human mind to correlate all its contents.

damn. all this hubbub because of a single little scammer? he must be proud.

May 10, 2004: 04:57

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Kilted Yaksman

Joined: Sep 25, 2003

your neon lights will shine

So, an hour and a half ago, the tracking page was updated with another "Regulatory Agency Clearance Delay"? -- seems to me that if he really paid, it should read otherwise. I hope that we don't have to wait much longer...

May 10, 2004: 05:34

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

ChesterJT

Joined: Dec 28, 2003

I'M HELPING!!!

Hey Jeff, can you call FedEx to get more info on what's going on? As the sender, I imagine they could tell you something. Either if he really has paid, or find out what that "Delay" thing is for and what the steps are from here.

May 10, 2004: 07:33

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

jalad
Joined: Jan 04, 2004

Lacking dignity since 1978

quote:

---

Bluecobra came out of the closet to say:
^^^^^^^^^Beaten like a Venezuelan hooker.

---

What the hell are you talking about? May 10, 2004 is Monday.

---

Yes, and damn them for not having it delivered by 4am. 🙄

May 10, 2004: 07:47

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Pipski
Joined: Apr 18, 2004

Lovely barbershop. Pity I wasn't invited.

Good man Rhig! 🇬🇧👤 (Not that you can read this `cause you're on a coach!) I really would join you there if I could. If I get any work done this morning it's going to be a fucking miracle anyway! Just hoping it doesn't arrive before you, that would be a pisser.

May 10, 2004: 08:05

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

wildmamboqueen
Joined: May 31, 2001

Been following this historical scammer thread from the wee origins, and all my good luck & wishes for a great payoff.

You have inspired many people not to ignore, but to SHINE!

I wish the UK goons godspeed and great pics!

May 10, 2004: 08:14

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Mannequin
Joined: Mar 08, 2003

The difference between fiction and reality? Fiction has to make sense.

My friends and family members are waiting for the outcome of this delightful thread.

May 10, 2004: 08:16

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

EditQuote

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| shame Joined: Apr 25, 2004 pathologically charming                                                                                                                                                 | quote: vegaji came out of the closet to say:I'll try to quickly recap it for those that do not want to read a couple thousand posts. you rule so much, thanks.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| May 10, 2004: 08:41                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| T.G.M. Joined: Mar 01, 2001                                                                                        | quote: neutron came out of the closet to say:damn. all this hubbub because of a single little scammer? he must be proud. hey d00d welcome to the party 🍷 You see, it's not just the fact that he's getting scammed. I'm sure that is an everyday occurence, and is in itself nothing new or interesting. It's the careful baiting and hilarious setup that makes this one so special (GO GO P-P-Powerbook! Fly, fly to your destination!) Damn, I can't wait for the payoff... Good show, MyNameIsJeff. |
| May 10, 2004: 08:42                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| Dazb0 Joined: Feb 05, 2004 Just that little bit better...                                                                                                                                          | Surely if Fed Ex were delivering that package today, the status screen would say something like "out for delivery" at about 6am this morning. You have to wonder if the scammer really did pay the taxes. An update from Fed Ex on the telephone will most likely be required should they not deliver today. If he really did pay the taxes last Thursday, and they still haven't delivered by today, then that's pretty poor on the part of Fed Ex - but I doubt that's the scenario.                                                                          |
| May 10, 2004: 09:25                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| Mannequin Joined: Mar 08, 2003 The difference between fiction and reality? Fiction has to make sense. | quote: Dazb0 came out of the closet to say:Surely if Fed Ex were delivering that package today, the status screen would say something like "out for delivery" at about 6am this morning. You really don't know. 6am EST is 11:00 a.m. in London. They might not deliver the package until later in the evening.                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| May 10, 2004: 10:30                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Dazb0Joined: Feb 05, 2004Just that little bit better...                                                                                                                                        | I believe that the Fed Ex site lists times locally. It is now 10:30am here in England, there really should be some indication on the Fed Ex site to say that the package is out for delivery.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| May 10, 2004: 10:37                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
| MannequinJoined: Mar 08, 2003The difference between fiction and reality? Fiction has to make sense. | quote:Dazb0 came out of the closet to say:I believe that the Fed Ex site lists times locally. It is now 10:30am here in England, there really should be some indication on the Fed Ex site to say that the package is out for delivery.I forgot my clock is that fast. It was 5:30 when I wrote that. But my point still stands - they might not deliver the package until later in the evening, thus the delay in the tracking update. Or Hell, maybe the package already went out but they haven't bothered updating the site.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| May 10, 2004: 10:56                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| dmosineeJoined: Apr 19, 2004                                                                                   | These recent developments (I had been on hiatus from this thread for a couple days) are quite intriguing. On the one hand, it'd be easy to lose hope and assume he never paid the dues... but why on earth would he send an email to Jeff saying he did pay them?Another thing that hadn't struck me as odd until just now: If the scammer's plan had went accordingly, and he had ripped Jeff out of his powerbook, Jeff would still have the address of the Barbershop. If this guy is a big time scammer, wouldn't the barbershop have been pinched already for some previous fraud ? Even if all the barbershop guy does is sign for packages and pass them on, I'd imagine he's still subject to some legal action.It seems we keep digging up more questions than answers, I hope that a month from now we'll have enough info and resolution to make both a documentary and a novel out of this whole incident.ô¿ôdmosinee fucked around with this message at May 10, 2004 around 17:38 |
| May 10, 2004: 11:33                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
| rhigJoined: Jul 14, 2002bitches can't hide from this                                              | Just popped in to the cafe next door, Ive been here since 10:30 and nothing has been delivered, if its not here by 12 and fedex isnt saying its delivered its probably not coming today.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| May 10, 2004: 11:48                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Pet RockJoined: Jul 31, 2003 Well, it's like a pet dog, only, it's a rock...                                                                                                                    | quote: dmosinee came out of the closet to say:It seems we keep digging up more questions than answers, I hope that a month from now we'll have enough info and resolution to make both a documentary and a novel out of this whole incident. And a line of action figures? I want a MyNameIsJeff action figure!                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| May 10, 2004: 11:48                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| Dazb0Joined: Feb 05, 2004 Just that little bit better...                                                                                                                                        | quote: rhig came out of the closet to say:Just popped in to the cafe next door, I've been here since 10:30 and nothing has been delivered, if its not here by 12 and fedex isnt saying its delivered its probably not coming today. In which case, I hope you had another reason to be in London today, or it's been a wasted trip for you. 😞 Incidentally, Rhig, I know you don't I? I tried to teach you how to play Quasar a few years ago. Remember? If only I knew then that you would become a p-p-p-powerbook celebrity... 😊 |
| May 10, 2004: 12:38                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| rhigJoined: Jul 14, 2002 bitches can't hide from this                                               | Well I was supposed to be revising for exams but I will probably end up just going to the shops, the coach from Plymouth is very cheap anyway but it sucks to come back empty handed. I did notice however that there were no delivery vans going to the shop today while there were a few last time, perhaps the scammers moved on to a new box although I think its strange he e-mailed jeff about paying the tax if hes not interested in the powerbook. Dazb0 - Yes, I didn't know you were a goon, I must get down to the Quaser over the summer holidays.   |
| May 10, 2004: 13:04                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| Dr.SchadenFreudJoined: Jul 16, 2003 I'm going to have to give you some of my "special medicine..." | MyNameIsJeff, did you call FedEx and verify that the mark has paid his fees? If not, maybe you could call them and find out what the !#$%#@! # @ the holdup is.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| May 10, 2004: 13:37                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |

|                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| neddleJoined: May 04, 2004 "Eight hours later they brought her up by mule"!                                                                                 | As I have said before everyone, patience patience. It's a shame if rhig has a wasted journey but the chances of the barber opening the p-p-p-powerbook where we can see it are very slim. Someone else will turn up and whisk it away to their secret p-p-p-powerbook opening facility. The joy will come from the "you ripped me off, you're dead you cocksucker..."email, and the man's subsequent arrest. Gloating will also be important.                                                                                                                                                   |
| May 10, 2004: 14:31                                                                                                                                                                    | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| XKJoined: Jul 09, 2001  Quantum Killer                           | The tracking page is now showing two status remarks for today: Regulatory Agency Clearance Delay for 4 am, and a blank update for 2:31 pm.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
| May 10, 2004: 15:34                                                                                                                                                                    | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| OtokodateJoined: Jan 15, 2004  All your nuts are belong to me    | quote: <hr/> XK came out of the closet to say:The tracking page is now showing two status remarks for today: Regulatory Agency Clearance Delay for 4 am, and a blank update for 2:31 pm. <hr/> I just came on to mention the same thing. This is giving me a semi. That and I found out my "ex" employer will let me stay on for the rest of the month while I try to find out why my "new" employer told all new hires to not show up, told one guy to go home, and cancelled all their job interviews.                         |
| May 10, 2004: 15:57                                                                                                                                                                    | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| ShmaftyJoined: Apr 17, 2003  Don't know and have no opinion... | quote: <hr/> XK came out of the closet to say:The tracking page is now showing two status remarks for today: Regulatory Agency Clearance Delay for 4 am, and a blank update for 2:31 pm. <hr/> This could be a sign of package motion. If you look at the listing for April 29th, there is also a blank entry for "Package status" right before it went to the ramp. Maybe it's getting ready to leave the ramp or something? EDIT: Well, right before meaning "eight hours before", but still, looks positive to me. |
| May 10, 2004: 16:05                                                                                                                                                                    | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |

FrozenEntree

Joined: Jun 11, 2001

God helped me fuck over my creditors so I can continue spending like the selfish dumbfuck I am! Blessed are the spendthrift, my ass! Hallelujah! Praise to Jesus!

I do believe the blank status is a sign that either they are sending it back/throwing it away, or that they are shipping it out for all of us to laugh at. my P-P-P-Penis is getting quite excited about this.

May 10, 2004: 16:06

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Otokodate

Joined: Jan 15, 2004

All your nuts are belong to me

Now that I think about it, when I've tracked packages I was expecting it would usually say "Out for delivery". I suspect the package will go out tomorrow.

May 10, 2004: 16:14

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

yosarian

Joined: Jan 22, 2002

"A chicken in every pot and a cap in every ass"

On the FedEx website amazingly, the comments are there, but they are hidden. They say:

May 10, 2004 2:31 pm

Package status
STANSTED GB
[REDACTED]

quote:

Otokodate came out of the closet to say:

That and I found out my "ex" employer will let me stay on for the rest of the month while I try to find out why my "new" employer told all new hires to not show up, told one guy to go home, and cancelled all their job interviews.

That sucks. What's your job?

May 10, 2004: 16:28

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

liquorhead

Joined: Jul 11, 2002

elephant parts 4 life

quote:

Otokodate came out of the closet to say:

Now that I think about it, when I've tracked packages I was expecting it would usually say "Out for delivery". I suspect the package will go out tomorrow.

Unless there's more than meets the eye, I think it's safe to say that FedEx UK is unreliable as an express mail service. You could have done USPS by now.

Also, I don't rule out that he really didn't pay the taxes on this. The "Why would he lie?" response is kind of funny, really.

|                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                            |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------|
| May 10, 2004: 16:40                                                                                                                                                                        | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | Edit Quote |
| Otokodate Joined: Jan 15, 2004  All your nuts are belong to me | quote: yosarian came out of the closet to say:On the FedEx website amazingly, the comments are there, but they are hidden. They say: May 10, 2004 2:31 pmPackage statusSTANSTED GB[REDACTED] That sucks. What's your job? [derail]Computer Programmer. These guys were all set to do a lot of hiring and now their main office put a stop to it. I don't know if I got laid off before I even started or if it just means I have to wait a few weeks before I get to start. In the mean time the recruiter who got me the job is looking to see if he can find me something else.[/derail] |                                            |
| May 10, 2004: 16:46                                                                                                                                                                        | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | Edit Quote |
| swiss Joined: Jan 29, 2004                                                | quote: yosarian came out of the closet to say:On the FedEx website amazingly, the comments are there, but they are hidden. They say: May 10, 2004 2:31 pmPackage statusSTANSTED GB[REDACTED] I would love to know how you know that.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                            |
| May 10, 2004: 17:08                                                                                                                                                                        | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | Edit Quote |
| MyNameIsJeff Joined: Dec 05, 2003  P-P-P-Powerbook.com!      | Does anyone know when FedEx stops delivering? I would think that it would be delivered by 5:30-6:00 I can feel my blood pressure raise with anticipation. . . .                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                            |
| May 10, 2004: 17:27                                                                                                                                                                        | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | Edit Quote |

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| kaww of courseJoined: Jul 11, 2003i dont care what                                                                                                          | quote:swiss came out of the closet to say:I would love to know how you know that.PSYCHIC MIND POWER                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| May 10, 2004: 17:35                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| yosarianJoined: Jan 22, 2002"A chicken in every pot and a cap in every ass" | quote:swiss came out of the closet to say:I would love to know how you know that.[derail]I was the coder on the original "Survivor" website...now, I am unemployed...weird.Otokodate- I am sorry to hear that. As an (unemployed) brother-in-arms, I am hoping that when I am finished with my BA, the job picture will have picked up[/derail] |
| May 10, 2004: 17:39                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| H.P. GrenadeJoined: Oct 21, 2003What's all this then?                     | Lucky me... I actually didn't start paying attention to this thread until today. Thank god for slow workdays and for the SA Goons. Is nothing impossible for us? A big hand goes out to all and I wait with bated breath...                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| May 10, 2004: 17:52                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| Twisted EchidnaJoined: Apr 28, 2004                                                  | Did it clear customs? It's possible it was held there.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| May 10, 2004: 17:52                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |

|                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| blablazoJoined: Jun 24, 2002Blablazo                                                                                  | It says released for delivery now.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| May 10, 2004: 17:52                                                                                                                                                          | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| XKJoined: Jul 09, 2001Quantum Killer | Yes yes yes yes yes yes! Delivery! It should be on its way. Since the time stamping is the same as the few previous notes, I don't think that means delivered as of yet, but they may have a funky time stamping method. Edit: Watch it be delivered tomorrow, as in released for delivery just meaning customs has ok'd it. XK fucked around with this message at May 10, 2004 around 17:57 |
| May 10, 2004: 17:53                                                                                                                                                          | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| CountOfNowhereJoined: Feb 26, 2004.....there's 20 of them!                                                            |  May 10, 2004 6:10 pm Package status - STANSTED GB - Released for Delivery                                                                                                                                                 |
| May 10, 2004: 17:54                                                                                                                                                          | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| paper pope hatJoined: Sep 27, 2000   | Holy shit, they are finally delivering this thing. Do they deliver this late, though, or will it be tomorrow morning?                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| May 10, 2004: 17:54                                                                                                                                                          | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| TheHotCarlJoined: Dec 14, 2003Bulk Male Playmate of the Month: January, 1967                                          | someone get your ass out there and get some footage!                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| May 10, 2004: 17:54                                                                                                                                                          | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |

SLOSifi
Joined: Aug 10, 2002

May 10, 2004 6:10 pm

Package status

STANSTED GB

Released for Delivery

6:10 pm

Package status

STANSTED GB

Package available for clearance

6:10 pm

Arrived at FedEx Ramp

STANSTED GB

beaten

May 10, 2004: 17:55

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Earwicker
Joined: Jan 06, 2003

Holy shit! Stuff is actually happening! Too bad the London crew isn't mobilized right now. Or are they?

May 10, 2004: 17:59

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Richtofen
Joined: Oct 09, 2003

I've had every kind of account

ooh i can't wait!! i'm excited like a schoolgirl!!

May 10, 2004: 18:00

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

absolut1
Joined: Sep 18, 2003

Absolut Awful

hooray! preparing for hilarity.

May 10, 2004: 18:00

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

ChlamydiaJones
Joined: Sep 27, 2002

quote:

May 10, 2004 6:10 pm

Package status

STANSTED GB

Released for Delivery

6:10 pm

Package status

STANSTED GB

Package available for clearance

*BEATEN WITH SHIT!!!!!!!

THERE IS A GOD!!!!!!!

May 10, 2004: 18:00

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

EditQuote

IndyPunkOne
Joined: Aug 05, 2002

Got a tattooed tit, say Number 13.

oh my 🤔

May 10, 2004: 18:00

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

OldMold
Joined: Jul 29, 2003

old cold gold mold

The time of justice is at hand!

F5 dont fail me now!!!

May 10, 2004: 18:02

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| PipskiJoined: Apr 18, 2004Lovely barbershop. Pity I wasn't invited. | Reckon they'll deliver at this time of night? EDIT : oh, yeah, almost forgot - YAY!!! EDIT2 : could it mean that his tax payment only just cleared? If he used a card / cheque or whatever? `Cleared for delivery' might = will be delivered tomorrow a.m. Pipski fucked around with this message at May 10, 2004 around 18:06 |
| May 10, 2004: 18:04                                                                                                                                                                                        | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| Str8DogJoined: Apr 07, 200401010101010                                                                                                                         | No way it will go out tonight. It will be on a truck in the morning.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| May 10, 2004: 18:05                                                                                                                                                                                        | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| EarwickerJoined: Jan 06, 2003                                                  | quote: <hr/> Str8Dog came out of the closet to say: No way it will go out tonight. It will be on a truck in the morning. <hr/> Well that could be a good thing; I mean it might give some English goons time to go and record the delivery if they're so inclined.                                |
| May 10, 2004: 18:06                                                                                                                                                                                        | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| jaymeekaeJoined: Aug 30, 2003                                                | do we have anyone in london tomorrow? i'd love to go but i'd lose a days wages :/ edit: oh and yay!                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| May 10, 2004: 18:06                                                                                                                                                                                        | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |

Gevalt
Joined: Apr 15, 2003

This is exciting news.. Looks like I'll be spending the last few hours at work later today just hitting refresh.

May 10, 2004: 18:08

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Pipski
Joined: Apr 18, 2004

Lovely barbershop. Pity I wasn't invited.

quote:

Earwicker came out of the closet to say:

Well that could be a good thing; I mean it might give some English goons time to go and record the delivery if they're so inclined.

I am totally so inclined - I'm also totally at work (I know that didn't stop me last time, but it didn't go down so well). This is a job for tax-dodgers.

May 10, 2004: 18:10

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Earwicker
Joined: Jan 06, 2003

quote:

Pipski came out of the closet to say:

I am totally so inclined - I'm also totally at work (I know that didn't stop me last time, but it didn't go down so well). This is a job for tax-dodgers.

Did you get in trouble at work? I must have missed that part 😞

I'm very much inclined myself, alas I'm in San Francisco and I don't think I could make it to London by tomorrow morning.

May 10, 2004: 18:11

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

EditQuote

paper pope hat
Joined: Sep 27, 2000

quote:

---

Pipski came out of the closet to say:
Reckon they'll deliver at this time of night?

EDIT : oh, yeah, almost forgot - YAY!!!

EDIT2 : could it mean that his tax payment only just cleared? If he used a card / cheque or whatever? `Cleared for delivery' might = will be delivered tomorrow a.m.

---

Yeah. It's still at the airport, just apparently released from customs and transfered over to the "ok for delivery" type area.

Hopefully this means it'll be on the first truck in the morning. I can't imagine they're in the habit of sending fresh trucks out at 6pm.

I'm excited, I hope someone manages to be there tomorrow morning. After all this work you guys have put in, it would be a damn shame not to see the delivery.

May 10, 2004: 18:17

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote

Shmafty
Joined: Apr 17, 2003

Don't know and have no opinion...

Whoops.. . a few minutes behind... but very exciting now!

May 10, 2004: 18:17

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote

DoombatINC
Joined: Apr 20, 2003

Here's the thing, I'm a feminist.

Oh crap now I'm not gonna get anything done today.

May 10, 2004: 18:18

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote

fuckingtest

Joined: Mar 31, 2001

We can rebuild him. but I don't wanna spend alot of money.

quote:

Pipski came out of the closet to say:

I am totally so inclined - I'm also totally at work (I know that didn't stop me last time, but it didn't go down so well). This is a job for tax-dodgers.

Right...I wish I lved over in England right about now since I have no job. Though I'd probably rather work than stay "on the dole" as you brits call it.

So the game is on again eh?

May 10, 2004: 18:22

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Mannequin

Joined: Mar 08, 2003

The difference between fiction and reality? Fiction has to make sense.

The suspense is killing me! I don't want to wait another day. 🌀

May 10, 2004: 18:23

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

eclipse232

Joined: Dec 04, 2001

8/24 NEVAR FORGET!

Another day stuck hitting F5 on this thread. Holy fuck this thread delivers.

May 10, 2004: 18:24

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Dvlos

Joined: Aug 26, 2003

I usually don't eat my poo, but this sprayed everywhere.

quote:

vegaji came out of the closet to say:

Time passes. Nothing is heard from the scammer. Constant 'Regulatory Clearance Delays' appear on the Fedex tracking website. After many attempts to contact him, Jeff gets the scammer to reply to him. The scammer says the he paid the taxes for the 3P Powerbook and it would be delivered this Monday (May 10, I believe).

That's about where we are now.

Ahahahhaha he paid taxes on the 3P-powerbook, awesome, can anyone link to the exact post, where Jeff lists the scammers final e-mail, I've followed this thread pretty well, at this point I get lost in it...is the delivery address still the internet cafe? Is our 'mark' someone who works IN the shop, or someone from Romania? Will Pipski be present for the delivery?? Please I must know!!

|                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| May 10, 2004: 18:29                                                                                                                                                                        | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| Otokodate Joined: Jan 15, 2004  All your nuts are belong to me | quote: XK came out of the closet to say:Yes yes yes yes yes! Delivery! It should be on its way. Since the time stamping is the same as the few previous notes, I don't think that means delivered as of yet, but they may have a funky time stamping method. Edit: Watch it be delivered tomorrow, as in released for delivery just meaning customs has ok'd it. "6:10 pm   Arrived at FedEx Ramp   STANSTED GB"It's on the ramp. That should mean that it goes on the truck in the morning.Y-Y-Yes on the P-P-Powerbook!I must bring extra shorts to work tomorrow.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
| May 10, 2004: 18:32                                                                                                                                                                        | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| Celdin Joined: Sep 02, 2003                                               | On page 60: quote: MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say: -----Original Message-----From: Gianluca [mailto:scont06@yahoo.com]Sent: Thursday, May 06, 2004 2:49 PMTo: MyNameIsJeffSubject: Re: Package cannot be delivered! Dear sir, Today I have made the payment for the duty taxes.I went personal to Fedex and made the payment.Everything now is ok and they told me that they will deliver it to me tomorrow or latest at 10 o'clock in the morning on Monday.Sorry for this delay but Fedex told me that this is the best they can do.Anyway they will deliver it till Monday aftrenoon and will be fine.Next week we can finalize the deal.Thank you for your patience and hope to be ok now. The shop is still the spot of delivery, the person working there is the one who signs for the packages. Pipski wont be there. |
| May 10, 2004: 18:38                                                                                                                                                                        | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |

MyNameIsJeff
Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

YES!

I seriously am going to get up and dance with joy.

May 10, 2004: 18:44

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Mahnkiman
Joined: Jan 15, 2003

Sup dooder

quote:

ChlamydiaJones came out of the closet to say:

*BEATEN WITH SHIT!!!!!!!

THERE IS A GOD!!!!!!!

May 10, 2004: 18:51

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Pipski
Joined: Apr 18, 2004

Lovely barbershop. Pity I wasn't invited.

Jeff needs his custom title back.

May 10, 2004: 18:53

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

malt
Joined: Jun 07, 2001

Like an onion, when you peel away my many layers, I STILL FUCKING STINK!!!

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:

YES!

I seriously am going to get up and dance with joy.

You and me both brother! I can't count on three hands the ammount of times the scammers have tried this shit on me. I can't wait to see the outcome.

Also, has anyone gotten their scam letters via regulat mail about "El Lottereia GORDO!" yet? I may have won up to $65,000, and all I have to do is

|                                                                                                                                                                                          |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                      |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------|
|                                                                                                                                                                                          | just send them my checking account number, and routing number, oh, and social security info. WHAT LUCK!                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                      |
| May 10, 2004: 18:54                                                                                                                                                                      | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | EditQuote |
| MyNameIsJeffJoined: Dec 05, 2003P-P-P-Powerbook.com!   | quote:Pipski came out of the closet to say:Jeff needs his custom title back. Yes, I believe I do.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                      |
| May 10, 2004: 19:01                                                                                                                                                                      | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | EditQuote |
| LankJoined: Sep 16, 2002                                    | Jeff? I may be assuming too much here, but I believe that this thread is well worth more than $2000 to you, and thus you can think of this as getting $4000 for your laptop when you actually sell it. ps I'm going to fail my exam today at 3:00 because I've been doing nothing but following this story lately. I have lolled, and for that I am grateful.                                                                                                                                                                     |                      |
| May 10, 2004: 19:11                                                                                                                                                                      | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | EditQuote |
| BlaiseJoined: Sep 10, 2003Calculated Karma            | quote:MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:Yes, I believe I do. Not until it's delivered 😊                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                      |
| May 10, 2004: 19:12                                                                                                                                                                      | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | EditQuote |
| MyNameIsJeffJoined: Dec 05, 2003P-P-P-Powerbook.com! | quote:Lank came out of the closet to say:Jeff? I may be assuming too much here, but I believe that this thread is well worth more than $2000 to you, and thus you can think of this as getting $4000 for your laptop when you actually sell it. ps I'm going to fail my exam today at 3:00 because I've been doing nothing but following this story lately. I have lolled, and for that I am grateful. I'm pretty sure I will tell this story to my grandchildren. |                      |
| May 10, 2004: 19:12                                                                                                                                                                      | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | EditQuote |

|                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Earwicker Joined: Jan 06, 2003       | quote: MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say: I'm pretty sure I will tell this story to my grandchildren.                                                                                                                            |
| Who, in turn, will wonder what the fuck FedEx is. Or a laptop for that matter.                                                             |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| May 10, 2004: 19:15                                                                                                                        | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                        |
| pooper scooper Joined: Oct 23, 2003  | I will be skipping work and classes tomorrow to watch this unfold. We have a whole night to plan Operation 3Pbook. Who can we get to go there with cameras? We have already commended our heroes on their outstanding recon jobs.. Its time for the real thing! |
| May 10, 2004: 19:17                                                                                                                        | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                        |
| Duckrasta Joined: Sep 21, 2002       | I never lost hope. I have no classes tomorrow, so I can sit in front of my computer all day and refresh this thread.                                                                                                                                            |
| May 10, 2004: 19:28                                                                                                                        | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                        |
| Otokodate Joined: Jan 15, 2004     | quote: Pipski came out of the closet to say: Jeff needs his custom title back. I'm broke, somebody else is going to have to buy it this time.                                                                                  |
| May 10, 2004: 19:29                                                                                                                        | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                        |

ChlamydiaJones

Joined: Sep 27, 2002

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:

I'm pretty sure I will tell this story to my grandchildren.

I tried to tell this story to my wife the other day. I was actually unable to remain standing during the telling due to the hillarity. She not only didn't think it was funny, she actualy didn't get the point. At all.

The moral of this post is; don't even TRY to share this experiance, it just don't fly with some people.

May 10, 2004: 19:36

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Tom Tucker

Joined: Jul 19, 2003

Yippee-ki-yay motherfucker.

Can someone summarize what happened for latecomers like me?

May 10, 2004: 19:39

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Kevin H

Joined: Jul 17, 2001

quote:

Tom Tucker came out of the closet to say:

Can someone summarize what happened for latecomers like me?

Go to page 64 (assuming you're on max per page) and read the post by vegaji edit: someone just posted the post below √ √ √ √ √ √

May 10, 2004: 19:42

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Celdin

Joined: Sep 02, 2003

quote:

vegaji came out of the closet to say:

I'll try to quickly recap it for those that do not want to read a couple thousand posts.

MyNameIsJeff(Jeff) posted about how this guy on ebay (scammer) wanted to buy his Powerbook (notice the single P). The guy was obviously a scammer. Some goons track the scammer down, and it turns out that the scammer did some clever identity theft (of the college professor). So, Jeff instead gets the address that he is supposed to ship the Powerbook to. Jeff lives in Washington (state) and the scammer lives (or the package is at least going to) in London. Some goons get a map of the general region of the place, and it turns out to be Jean Climax's barbershop/internet cafe. Jeff gets the idea of turning a binder into a fake powerbook. He names his genius creation the 'P-P-P=Powerbook'. Here are the pictures for those who have not seen it:

|                                                                                                                                                                   |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                                                                                                                                                                   | http://www.vegaji.com/images/back1.jpghttp://www.vegaji.com/images/topclosed.jpghttp://www.vegaji.com/images/touchpad.jpghttp://www.vegaji.com/images/functionkey.jpghttp://www.vegaji.com/images/topmenu.jpghttp://www.vegaji.com/images/leftmenu.jpghttp://www.vegaji.com/images/bottomright.jpghttp://www.vegaji.com/images/bluetoothmouse1.jpghttp://www.vegaji.com/images/laser.jpghttp://www.vegaji.com/images/righthand.jpghttp://www.vegaji.com/images/back2.jpg With the help of some very quick and efficient fundraising from goons, Jeff gets the $90 or whatever shipping fees to ship the P-P-P-Powerbook (3P-Powerbook). It is shipped. Meanwhile, some goons have located and taken pictures of the barbershop/internet cafe. Around the time the package is estimated to arrive, Starbucks and Pipski go to the barbershop. Starbucks goes inside the barbershop and upstairs to the internet cafe. There, he's running a webcam and sees a Fedex truck pull up and a guy with two packages walk out into Mr. Climax's shop. http://www.vegaji.com/images/powerbook1.gif Starbucks also changes the screensavers of the barbershop to 'P-P-P-Powerbook!!!'. The whole thread has a collective orgasm thinking that the 3P Powerbook is there. But, alas, it turns out neither of the two boxes are our package. Suspicions arise of a very large scamming operation by this guy because of the two packages. Time passes. Nothing is heard from the scammer. Constant 'Regulatory Clearance Delays' appear on the Fedex tracking website. After many attempts to contact him, Jeff gets the scammer to reply to him. The scammer says the he paid the taxes for the 3P Powerbook and it would be delivered this Monday (May 10, I believe). That's about where we are now. |
| May 10, 2004: 19:42                                                                                                                                               | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| LietJoined: Oct 07, 2003 | quote: <hr/> ChlamydiaJones came out of the closet to say:I tried to tell this story to my wife the other day. I was actually unable to remain standing during the telling due to the hillarity. She not only didn't think it was funny, she actually didn't get the point. At all. The moral of this post is; don't even TRY to share this experiance, it just don't fly with some people. <hr/> Seconded. That is, my wife didn't get it either. My friend here at work who's also a goon thought it was hilarious though. I just can't wait for this thread to meet it's amazing (Jean) climax.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| May 10, 2004: 19:48                                                                                                                                               | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| NuntiusJoined: May 07, 2004Being not gay since 1984 May 10, 2004: 19:50User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More PostsEditQuote solorcaJoined: Mar 29, 2004 May 10, 2004: 19:51User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More PostsEditQuote McMurphyJoined: Feb 14, 2004liberation theology goons of the world unite May 10, 2004: 19:54User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More PostsEditQuote PipskiJoined: Apr 18, 2004Lovely barbershop. Pity I wasn't invited. May 10, 2004: 19:56User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More PostsEditQuote |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|

FrozenEntree

Joined: Jun 11, 2001

God helped me fuck over my creditors so I can continue spending like the selfish dumbfuck I am! Blessed are the spendthrift, my ass! Hallelujah! Praise to Jesus!

SWEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEET!!!!

Goon Justice will in deed happen.

edit, nevermind, Microsoft makes one that is easy enough to use and free.

thanks goonse

FrozenEntree fucked around with this message at May 10, 2004 around 20:18

May 10, 2004: 19:58

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

McMurphy

Joined: Feb 14, 2004

liberation theology goons of the world unite

Bah, a little masturbation never hurt anyone 😊

May 10, 2004: 19:59

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

XK

Joined: Jul 09, 2001

Quantum Killer

quote:

FrozenEntree came out of the closet to say:

Also, can anyone with a good animation program size up the 😊 animated gif to 250 x 179?

It should be 250x188 to maintain proportions, but here is what you wanted:
<http://users.rcn.com/makron/emot-dancebig.gif>

Having two of those on the page started making me motion sick.

XK fucked around with this message at May 10, 2004 around 20:32

May 10, 2004: 20:04

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| FrozenEntreeJoined: Jun 11, 2001God helped me fuck over my creditors so I can continue spending like the selfish dumbfuck I am! Blessed are the spendthrift, my ass! Hallelujah! Praise to Jesus! | quote:XK came out of the closet to say: It should be 250x188 to maintain proportions, but here is what you wanted. I like yours better than mine. MS one pixelates the crap out of the image.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| May 10, 2004: 20:20                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| DLCinfernoJoined: Feb 22, 2003                                                                                    | quote:Pipski came out of the closet to say:You might want to go easy. At the absolute earliest it couldn't be delivered for another twelve hours. The cumulative erosion caused by that degree of frenetic wanking could leave you severely stunted. Gahh. Mental picture of a bloody stub. Thanks Pipski. Also, calling all batgoons...  Attachment: batgoons.jpgThis has been downloaded 2141 time(s). |
| May 10, 2004: 20:45                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| drewheadJoined: Jun 22, 2002                                                                                     | quote:Nuntius came out of the closet to say:(sorry you guys, but there is not one actor in Hollywood who can do a real accent of any kind) fixed Someone PM me with the details of the custome title. This is the funniest thing I've seen here since the goons crashed Sony Music's online dating game site. Supporting this thread with only a 5 seems inadequate.                                                                                                                                           |
| May 10, 2004: 20:54                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| Heners_UKJoined: Jun 01, 2002                                                                                   | Ohhhh I cant wait for tommorow!! All UK goons to red alert!                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| May 10, 2004: 21:11                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |

Mannequin

Joined: Mar 08, 2003

The difference between fiction and reality? Fiction has to make sense.

quote:

Liet came out of the closet to say:

Seconded. That is, my wife didn't get it either. My friend here at work who's also a goon thought it was hilarious though. I just can't wait for this thread to meet it's amazing (Jean) climax.

You guys are nuts. I've told my mother, father and two sisters... they found it hysterical. I think we're all awaiting the outcome with great anticipation.

May 10, 2004: 21:15

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Manny Calavera

Joined: Apr 02, 2004

Nice catch Blanco Nino, but too bad your ass got saaacked

WHOA
THAT GUY IS A GRIM FANDANGO FAN
I'm gonna say whoa again,
WHOA

May 10, 2004: 21:17

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

rhig

Joined: Jul 14, 2002

bitches can't hide from this

I'm just back from London and getting the next coach back if its not full, I can be there for 8am if there is space. Damn sucks because I nearly booked a hotel while I was there.

If anyone else comes down il either be in the cafe across the street or the Wetherspoons next door, the Wetherspoons front window is the perfect place to record the action from but the damn locals hog the table, if i get there early I will be able to steal it though 😊

rhig fucked around with this message at May 10, 2004 around 21:37

May 10, 2004: 21:21

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

ColinMoore

Joined: Aug 13, 2002

strength +10 charm +12 wonder +9

FAGGOTRY +A BILLION

greatest thread come back in SA history.

May 10, 2004: 21:22

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

|                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Kekeke! Joined: Nov 05, 2003 I'm not Korean                                                                                                                       | quote: Manny Calavera came out of the closet to say:WHOATHAT GUY IS A GRIM FANDANGO FANI'm gonna say whoa again,WHOA Perhaps I missed something but what makes you say this? /another Grim Fan                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| May 10, 2004: 21:41                                                                                                                                                                                | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| MyNameIsJeff Joined: Dec 05, 2003 P-P-P-Powerbook.com!                 | Im trying to make an animated gif and this stupid program (image ready) will not let me save the optimaized image as a gif. JPG OR HTML ONLY YOU SAVE OR GET GET OUT NOW!!!                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
| May 10, 2004: 21:46                                                                                                                                                                                | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| Pipski Joined: Apr 18, 2004 Lovely barbershop. Pity I wasn't invited. | If you mail me the frames I can try giffifying them with Fireworks for ya. (60 frames max). EDIT: Rhig, you crazy motherfucker! I just AA'd that trip - it's 243 miles each way! That'll be 1,458 miles you'll have done in support of this scheme by the time you get home again. /takes off hat You, sir, are either dedicated, obsessive or mental! Salut! Talk about going the extra yard ... Pipski fucked around with this message at May 10, 2004 around 22:02 |
| May 10, 2004: 21:53                                                                                                                                                                                | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| eclipse232 Joined: Dec 04, 2001 8/24 NEVAR FORGET!                   | This is absolutely the most THOROUGH collaborations of SA members.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| May 10, 2004: 21:58                                                                                                                                                                                | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |  |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--|
| MyNameIsJeffJoined: Dec 05, 2003P-P-P-Powerbook.com! This would make a good avatar.Wait, let me adjust the speed. . .                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |  |
| May 10, 2004: 22:03User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts MyNameIsJeffJoined: Dec 05, 2003P-P-P-Powerbook.com! Here we go:Attachment: ppppowerbook.gifThis has been downloaded 1822 time(s). EditQuote |  |
| May 10, 2004: 22:05User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts eclipse232Joined: Dec 04, 20018/24 NEVAR FORGET! We should all bombard that mail address w/ random items. Imagine if everyone did that.....                                                                                                                                     |  |
| May 10, 2004: 22:11User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts VermJoined: Sep 11, 2001Reality continues to ruin my life. Hoooooray!Justice is served! EditQuote                                                                                                                                                |  |
| May 10, 2004: 22:11User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |  |

liquorhead

Joined: Jul 11, 2002

elephant parts 4 life

I'm worried that he's going to get the package, be pissed, and never email you about it because he wants to cut all contact and minimize any more evidence, and we'll just be wondering how this prank ended with no satisfaction.

liquorhead fucked around with this message at May 10, 2004 around 22:22

May 10, 2004: 22:18

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

SignalTwoFive

Joined: Dec 28, 2003

Bob Sapp is laughing AT you, not WITH you.

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:

Here we go:

I say substitute one of the back of the p-p-p-owerbook! frames with the bluetooth mouse. I can't look at that and not laugh.

May 10, 2004: 22:18

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

quote:

SignalTwoFive came out of the closet to say:

I say substitute one of the back of the p-p-p-owerbook! frames with the bluetooth mouse. I can't look at that and not laugh.

Ok. I will make it so they are all the smae size too. I just made that in a rush over remote desktop.

May 10, 2004: 22:21

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Bongle

Joined: Jan 05, 2004

Now with more glowing

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:

Here we go:

41k = 4 times too big for an avatar. Maybe a sig, though.

May 10, 2004: 22:22

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

|                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| OMGWTFBBO Joined: Jan 01, 1970  Forums Witchactor                   | Is this thing over with yet?                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| May 10, 2004: 22:25                                                                                                                                                                              | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                    |
| IndyPunkOne Joined: Aug 05, 2002  Got a tattooed tit, say Number 13. | May 10, 2004 10:19 pm Package status STANSTED GB In transit in destination country                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| May 10, 2004: 22:36                                                                                                                                                                              | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                    |
| thubble Joined: Jul 20, 2003 TODO: Insert hilarious replacement for "Stupid Newbie" title here                                                                  | Package status/STANSTED GB 05/10/2004 22:19 In transit in destination country Left FedEx Ramp/STANSTED GB 05/10/2004 22:19 FUCKING SWEET!! Won't be long now, folks. E:F,B by mere seconds ☹                                              |
| May 10, 2004: 22:36                                                                                                                                                                              | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                    |
| ChlamydiaJones Joined: Sep 27, 2002                                           | quote: IndyPunkOne came out of the closet to say: In transit in destination country I read that as "In transit TO destination country" and had a horrid moment where the Romanian named scammster had scammstered US and had it sent to his home in the transvaals! |
| May 10, 2004: 22:40                                                                                                                                                                              | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                    |

rhig

Joined: Jul 14, 2002

bitches can't hide from this

quote:

liquorhead came out of the closet to say:

I'm worried that he's going to get the package, be pissed, and never email you about it because he wants to cut all contact and minimize any more evidence, and we'll just be wondering how this prank ended with no satisfaction.

A photograph of him leaving the barbers with the package and getting into his car would be enough to inform the police if worthwhile, I seriously doubt this guys using anyone to pick up the packages for him and if he is the chances of an unregistered car are low. If someone were to contact the police when we establish the thread is dry and we have no more possible pranks I would imagine they would keep us informed although I guess they would keep the "PowerBook" for evidence or whatever. I imagine if I can get a photo of the guy with the package it will e brought up in years to come to serve as a good image macro anyway.

quote:

Pipski came out of the closet to say:

If you mail me the frames I can try giffifying them with Fireworks for ya. (60 frames max).

EDIT: Rhig, you crazy motherfucker! I just AA'd that trip - it's 243 miles each way! That'll be 1,458 miles you'll have done in support of this scheme by the time you get home again. /takes off hat You, sir, are either dedicated, obsessive or mental! Salut! Talk about going the extra yard ...

It's probably just the usual exam time work avoidance I get at this time of the year though. Fortunately I travel by night and get sleep on the coach, if I get the fastest one I can make the journey in a speedy five hours each way.

Anyway I'm heading out ~11:15 and will be in London by 6:30 and Collindale for 7:30-8:00, I expect I will not have a chance to update with any images/videos till the whole mission is complete – I can't get to a cybercafé to upload without risking missing this guy turning up but after I have got anything I will phone a friend to post in the thread if I have any information so long as I can get one who is at a computer – fairly likely.

An update with whatever I get tomorrow could be as late as 6pm GMT depending how late this git picks up the computer, im expecting bfore 2pm though so update should be before 3.

rhig fucked around with this message at May 10, 2004 around 22:48

May 10, 2004: 22:42

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Tea-san

Joined: Nov 06, 2003

Glowy dog vision

quote:

OMGWTFBBQ came out of the closet to say:

Is this thing over with yet?

Just give 'em 48 hours chief.
A conclusion seems imminent.

May 10, 2004: 22:43

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

|                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| vegajiJoined: Apr 14, 2004Owned by Hawk989s                                                                                             | I'll update the summary eventually (and fix a few grammatical/spelling errors as well). Most likely when this is either done or at its (Jean) Climax. P.S. This fucking rocks                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
| May 10, 2004: 22:47                                                                                                                                                                 | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| oskerJoined: Dec 18, 2002                               | I've been following this thread since page 8 and I was weened off of it when the package was held in transit. I weeped when that occurred, but I thought the bit of weeping was ok considering I laughed myself until I soiled my pants. Today (may 10th) I see the thead had automagically come back to life and that the package was in transit. MyNamelsJeff, I &lt;3 U and all the UK goons too. God damn... good times...                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| May 10, 2004: 22:49                                                                                                                                                                 | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| MelchiorJoined: Jul 16, 2003Ooh! Donuts!     | Thank god for the Page 64 update. Shit this is funny. I especially like the crossed-out winkey.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| May 10, 2004: 22:56                                                                                                                                                                 | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| DLCinfernoJoined: Feb 22, 2003                         | quote:OMGWTFBBQ came out of the closet to say:Is this thing over with yet? If you gassed this thread right now I would die laughing. There'd be tears of sorrow too, but man.... whatta ride.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| May 10, 2004: 23:01                                                                                                                                                                 | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| SlowHandJoined: Oct 12, 2000Learn to swim. | quote:rhig came out of the closet to say:I'm just back from London and getting the next coach back if its not full, I can be there for 8am if there is space. Damn sucks because I nearly booked a hotel while I was there.If anyone else comes down il either be in the cafe across the street or the Wetherspools next door, the Wetherspools front window is the perfect place to record the action from but the damn locals hog the table, if i get there early I will be able to steal it though 😊 I applaud you sir, and everybody who has contributed to this magnificent saga.I pray to baby Jesus your efforts pay off. Godspeed, little one! |

May 10, 2004: 23:08

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Kiimo

Joined: Jul 24, 2003

quote:

SlowHand came out of the closet to say:

I like your Arizona Bay avatar.

May 10, 2004: 23:13

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

CHARLES

Joined: Oct 13, 2001

quote:

OMGWTFBBQ came out of the closet to say:
Is this thing over with yet?

It's close. I can feel it.

May 10, 2004: 23:14

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

|                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| vegajiJoined: Apr 14, 2004Owned by Hawk989s                                                                                                       | I'd say a few hours from now and it could all be over. 5/10 is D-Day, when the package is in barbershop. EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| EarwickerJoined: Jan 06, 2003                                     | quote:kiimo came out of the closet to say:I like your Arizona Bay avatar.I second this. I will now have Aenima stuck in my head for the duration of the day. EditQuote                                                                                  |
| RedmonkeyJoined: Dec 31, 2003                                     | This thread is going to need a celebratory PS thread where we all post Something Awful Pride Inspiring Victory macros. (Like ^^^^ ^^)EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                    |
| crazyfist47Joined: Mar 03, 2004o_O                                                                                                                | I believe that Fedex has "On truck for delivery" when it is actually going to be delivered so there still might be one more step. I must say that Jeff, you kick a lot of ass and this thread is more than worth the two hours it took me to read the entire thing.EditQuote                                      |
| StarbucksJoined: Jul 07, 2002Strong Coffee Drinking! | wait, does this means its going to be delivered tomorrow???If so im THEREANYONE WANTING TO MEET UP FOR THIS PLEASE EMAIL ME craig.peters@astrominia.com put in the subject [SA] and it will be flagged for my attentionAlso post hereMAP DIRECTIONS! EditQuote |

PEOPLE WE NEED:

- AT LEAST 1 NEW PERSON FROM 10am TO GO IN THE SHOP
- AT LEAST 1 PERSON TO STOP ME FROM ORDERING A BREAKFAST
- AT LEAST 1 PERSON FOR ME TO DRINK UNDER THE TABLE IN CELEBRATION
- AT LEAST 1 PERSON TO KICK THE GUY IN THE BALLS AS WE STEAL THE POWERBOOK

Starbucks fucked around with this message at May 10, 2004 around 23:50

May 10, 2004: 23:39

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Shmafty
Joined: Apr 17, 2003

My guess is that it's in transit from Stansted to Colindale tonight, and it will be delivered tomorrow morning.

Don't know and have no opinion...

May 10, 2004: 23:43

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

quote:

Starbucks came out of the closet to say:
wait, does this means its going to be delivered tomorrow???

If so im THERE

Are you not worried about being noticed? After the screen savers?

May 10, 2004: 23:45

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

flavor

Joined: Sep 15, 2003

Yeah boyeeeeeeee, cold chillin in effect y'all!

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:
Im trying to make an animated gif and this stupid program (image ready) will not let me save the optimaized image as a gif.

JPG OR HTML ONLY YOU SAVE OR GET GET OUT NOW!!!

I've had the same problem with ImageReady CS when I created my avatar. I just previewed the optimized GIF in IE and saved it from there. Annoying, but it works.

May 10, 2004: 23:48

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Starbucks

Joined: Jul 07, 2002

Strong Coffee Drinking!

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:

Are you not worried about being noticed? After the screen savers?

I will wear a hat and no glasses, LIKE CLARK KENT!

May 10, 2004: 23:51

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

quote:

Starbucks came out of the closet to say:
I will wear a hat and no glasses, LIKE CLARK KENT!

HAHAHA You have to get those glasses with the big fake nose and mustache!

May 10, 2004: 23:59

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

|                                                                                                                                                                                              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| WoofJoined: Nov 03, 2002                                                                                                                                                          | Wishing the Reccy Squad the best of British for tomorrow, good luck you brave goons!                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| May 11, 2004: 00:02                                                                                                                                                                          | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| fourwoodJoined: Sep 09, 2001Damn I'll bring them to their knees.                          | Well, I know / won't sleep tonight.Edit: Boo. I'm in Central time now instead of Mountain.. it'll all happen 1 hour later now. Dammit.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| May 11, 2004: 00:35                                                                                                                                                                          | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| fuckingtestJoined: Mar 31, 2001We can rebuild him. but I don't wanna spend alot of money. | Man this thread just keeps on giving. I can't wait to see the pics of starbucks in his disguise. Please, dress up as a french inspector, complete with trenchcoat and hat.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| May 11, 2004: 00:52                                                                                                                                                                          | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| YodaJoined: Dec 11, 2003A Jedi I am                                                      | oh god I can't wait for closure on this, but I also don't want it to ever end, so I don't know how I feel about the package being delived. Hope we get live video feeds again though 😊                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| May 11, 2004: 01:08                                                                                                                                                                          | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| StarbucksJoined: Jul 07, 2002Strong Coffee Drinking!                                    | quote: fuckingtest came out of the closet to say:Man this thread just keeps on giving. I can't wait to see the pics of starbucks in his disguise. Please, dress up as a french inspector, complete with trenchcoat and hat. I dunno about the french inspectors outfit, it would be difficult to get hold of at such short notice, I will get myself a cap, and if i see a cap printing shop I will make my own city name sports team cap as Lowtax doesnt ship to the UK 😊 Train leaves in 2 hours 😊 |

|                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| May 11, 2004: 01:16                                                                                                                                                                        | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                           |
| CountingCrows Joined: Apr 17, 2001                                        | This is LEGENDARY! Can't wait for the exciting conclusion!                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| May 11, 2004: 01:25                                                                                                                                                                        | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                           |
| Otokodate Joined: Jan 15, 2004  All your nuts are belong to me | quote: Starbucks came out of the closet to say:- AT LEAST 1 PERSON TO STOP ME FROM ORDERING A BREAKFAST Eggs! Get the eggs!  Otokodate fucked around with this message at May 11, 2004 around 02:04 |
| May 11, 2004: 01:36                                                                                                                                                                        | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                           |

Starbucks

Joined: Jul 07, 2002

Strong Coffee Drinking!

I would prefer some help, if no-one else is going to be there I might decide to just not go because its not worth the £50

May 11, 2004: 02:26

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

poppingseagull

Joined: Apr 12, 2004

starbucks, go!
we need you there...im sure goons can open up their wallets again actually 50 pounds is a lot, thats over 100$ american i think, geesh i thought train travel in europe was cheap

poppingseagull fucked around with this message at May 11, 2004 around 02:41

May 11, 2004: 02:38

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

fourwood

Joined: Sep 09, 2001

Damn I'll bring them to their knees.

quote:

poppingseagull came out of the closet to say:
actually 50 pounds is a lot, thats over 100$ american i think, geesh i thought train travel in europe was cheap

A little less than $100, but yeah.... pricey in USD. Pricey in GBP, even. But yeah... we need a goon squad there!

May 11, 2004: 02:55

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Oz

Joined: Sep 10, 2003

Minion Of Relin

I must see this thing to the end. Ive invested to many hours into it.

May 11, 2004: 03:04

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Bluecobra

Joined: Sep 11, 2001

Cobra Commander

quote:

Twisted Echidna came out of the closet to say:
Did it clear customs? It's possible it was held there.

I can't even find the words to explain this degree of trolling.

Edit: Godspeed tomorrow, UK Goon Recon Team.

Bluecobra fucked around with this message at May 11, 2004 around 03:46

May 11, 2004: 03:29

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Biter

Joined: Apr 05, 2004

Once is never enough

quote:

Bluecobra came out of the closet to say:
I can't even find the words to explain this degree of trolling.

hahahaa. Some people are just dumb, i guess.

May 11, 2004: 03:37

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

IdeoPraxist

Joined: Jan 29, 2004

Creating Ideas for Good and Evil

quote:

Starbucks came out of the closet to say:
wait, does this means its going to be delivered tomorrow???

If so im THERE

ANYONE WANTING TO MEET UP FOR THIS PLEASE EMAIL ME craig.peters@astrominia.com put in the subject [SA] and it will be flagged for my attention

- AT LEAST 1 PERSON TO KICK THE GUY IN THE BALLS AS WE STEAL THE POWERBOOK

Are you saying that the goons mug the scammer for the P-P-Powerbook?

Funny, but I'd be careful. If this character has any street smarts, he will be carrying a weapon.

Yet, if you succeed with the mugging, you might as well clean him out, strip him naked and duct tape his nuts to a dumpster (torrent with pics mandatory).

May 11, 2004: 03:40

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

|                                                                                                                                                         |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                            |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------|
| PiNk-84Joined: Jan 03, 2001 | ^^In the UK they only have hooligans. Add me to the list of those following the thread from the start and sitting here in anticipation.                                                                                                                         | EditQuote |
| SchroeJoined: Feb 06, 2004  | May 10, 2004 10:19 pm Package status STANSTED GB In transit in destination country                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                            |
| May 11, 2004: 04:06                                                                                                               | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More Posts                                                                               | EditQuote |
| TheHotCarlJoined: Dec 14, 2003Bulk Male Playmate of the Month: January, 1967                                | quote: Schroe came out of the closet to say: May 10, 2004 10:19 pm Package status STANSTED GB In transit in destination country yeah we know                                                                                              |                                            |
| May 11, 2004: 04:08                                                                                                               | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageSearch For More Posts                                                                                                                         | EditQuote |
| fowlrockJoined: Oct 02, 2003NickBlasta gave me herpes                                                       | quote: MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say: HAHAHA You have to get those glasses with the big fake nose and mustache! If Starbucks wore those, in front of the store and someone got a picture....I would pay greatly to see it... |                                            |
| May 11, 2004: 04:08                                                                                                               | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageSearch For More Posts                                                                                                                         | EditQuote |

Bluecobra

Joined: Sep 11, 2001

Cobra Commander

quote:

Schroe came out of the closet to say:
May 10, 2004 10:19 pm Package status STANSTED GB In transit in destination country

Attachment: moron.jpg
This has been downloaded 2282 time(s).

May 11, 2004: 04:21

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

TheClaw

Joined: Jul 25, 2001

Es lebe die Diktatur des Proletariats ... lol

quote:

Schroe came out of the closet to say:
May 10, 2004 10:19 pm Package status STANSTED GB In transit in destination country

|                                                                                                                                                               |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                                            |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------|
| May 11, 2004: 05:41                                                                                                                                    | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | Edit Quote |
| RicinJoined: Feb 04, 2004The other white powder that you mail to people sometimes                                            | If I were in britain I would be camping out in front of the pub(like a drunken slitch) awaiting the events of tomorow. I'm not. I feel lame. Anyone want to offer me a ticket to the greatest show on earth? Starbucks; we will aid you with cash if you need it.                                                                                                              |                                            |
| May 11, 2004: 05:55                                                                                                                                    | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | Edit Quote |
| crazyfist47Joined: Mar 03, 2004o_O                                                                                                         | You guys are jumping the gun, Fedex says when it is on the truck for delivery, so there is one step left. I'm feeling good about today (in England that is) being the magical day though.                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                            |
| May 11, 2004: 06:04                                                                                                                                    | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | Edit Quote |
| pooper scooperJoined: Oct 23, 2003                         | Good morning goons! 7Am, so are Rhig and Starbucks going to meet each other? I have declared this to be an unannounced sick-day. My boss, my instructors, they can eat my stool. Salut fellas and good luck!                                                                                                                                                                   |                                            |
| May 11, 2004: 06:05                                                                                                                                    | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | Edit Quote |
| GeodudeJoined: Mar 21, 2004It's not gonna suck itself.                                                                                     | I've been reading this thread since day 1, just never posted. I am so delighted to have seen how far this has been going. This is the best ever. I salute everyone who has been a loyal goon in good justicing.                                                                                                                                                                       |                                            |
| May 11, 2004: 06:15                                                                                                                                    | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | Edit Quote |
| MyNameIsJeffJoined: Dec 05, 2003P-P-P-Powerbook.com! | I'm writing my document about all this now. . . I'm at the part where I made the powerbook, and Im on page 9. I'm not including a lot of posts. Only the few that really were a turning point. I also thought about pasting the powerbook images in the document, but I think I will just leave them out. I can just have them hosted in the same spot as the document. |                                            |
| May 11, 2004: 06:54                                                                                                                                    | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | Edit Quote |

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

quote:

rhig came out of the closet to say:
I'm just back from London and getting the next coach back if its not full, I can be there for 8am if there is space. Damn sucks because I nearly booked a hotel while I was there.

If anyone else comes down il either be in the cafe across the street or the Wetherspoons next door, the Wetherspoons front window is the perfect place to record the action from but the damn locals hog the table, if i get there early I will be able to steal it though 😊

Are you still up for it rhig?

May 11, 2004 6:51 am

Arrived at FedEx Destination Location

ENFIELD GB

MyNameIsJeff fucked around with this message at May 11, 2004 around 07:02

May 11, 2004: 06:59

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Landslide

Joined: Sep 02, 2003

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:

Are you still up for it rhig?

May 11, 2004 6:51 am

Arrived at FedEx Destination Location

ENFIELD GB

Now all we need is an angry email saying "YOU TRICKED ME THATS NOT FAIR"

May 11, 2004: 07:10

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

|                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |                                            |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------|
| BonoManJoined: Feb 20, 2002                                                                                    | We SERIOUSLY need the "dun dun dundundundun" Star Wars Death Star Trench Approach music to play in the background of this thread.                                                                                                                         |                                            |
| May 11, 2004: 07:11                                                                                                                                                                                    | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                       | Edit Quote |
| MannequinJoined: Mar 08, 2003The difference between fiction and reality? Fiction has to make sense. | What the hell?! Wasn't this supposed to happen later in the day?                                                                                                                                                                                          |                                            |
| May 11, 2004: 07:15                                                                                                                                                                                    | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                       | Edit Quote |
| thetapilognJoined: Nov 30, 2001Raging Alcoholic                                                            | Maybe you UK goons should go to the barbershop and inquire as to whether they sell powerbooks.                                                                      |                                            |
| May 11, 2004: 07:21                                                                                                                                                                                    | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                       | Edit Quote |
| nosleepJoined: Jan 20, 2004Life sucks, get a helmet.                                                                                                                                       | Holy shit. It's about 2:30 AM over here on the east coast. Now I have to stay up even later to see if anything happens? Ahh fuckit. This whole thing is legendary. |                                            |
| May 11, 2004: 07:22                                                                                                                                                                                    | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                       | Edit Quote |
| down1nitJoined: Jan 09, 2004Title text (optional; no images are allowed, only text, buttmonger)                                                                                            | oh shit.all that careful planning... unless our very own TEAM LASER EXPLOSION IS THERE.has it really been only 8 days? seems like so much longer.  |                                            |
| May 11, 2004: 07:22                                                                                                                                                                                    | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                       | Edit Quote |

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| TheChaplainJoined: Apr 22, 2002God is just the start of your problems, neh?                           | Goons: Holy shit, they're going to deliver! We must get there! edit - fuck, beaten by FedEx.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
| May 11, 2004: 07:24                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| KahranJoined: Jun 01, 2000Forum Veteran                                                                                                                                                          | quote:nosleep came out of the closet to say:Holy shit. It's about 2:30 AM over here on the east coast. Now I have to stay up even later to see if anything happens? Ahh fuckit. This whole thing is legendary. given your name, that shouldnt be a problem |
| May 11, 2004: 07:26                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| MyNameIsJeffJoined: Dec 05, 2003P-P-P-Powerbook.com!                                                 | I'm actually really really nervous 😊                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| May 11, 2004: 07:27                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| MannequinJoined: Mar 08, 2003The difference between fiction and reality? Fiction has to make sense. | quote:MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:I'm actually really really nervous 😊 What, you think he's going to come after you?                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| May 11, 2004: 07:28                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |

|                                                                                                                                                                                   |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| BonoManJoined: Feb 20, 2002                    | quote: MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:I'm actually really really nervous 😬 No need to be...you'll be fine. The scammer will consider himself duped but will not risk blowing his operation wide open by coming after one guy.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| May 11, 2004: 07:28                                                                                                                                                        | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
| therealNeoSJoined: Jul 13, 20015 bux saves the day                                                                             | edit stupid me, but I'll seriously be sitting on this thread tomorrow.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| May 11, 2004: 07:30                                                                                                                                                        | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| PigletJoined: Jan 22, 2002ZUB! ZUB! | quote: MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:I'm actually really really nervous 😬 The only reason to be nervous is if by some remote chance the buyer turns out to be legit and you just cost him $$$ to receive a prank. If that's the case then I'm sure you'll have no trouble raising money here to help ship the real laptop to make amends. But unless he was simply duped by a fake escrow site and accidentally supplied the wrong phone number to you then I think you have nothing to worry about. I'm sure there are a number of other details that prove he's a scammer that I'm forgetting. |
| May 11, 2004: 07:35                                                                                                                                                        | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
| LandslideJoined: Sep 02, 2003                | quote: MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:I'm actually really really nervous 😬 I would be too even though I don't think there's a reason to be. The guy doesn't have your real address right?                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| May 11, 2004: 07:36                                                                                                                                                        | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |

|                                                                                                                                                                    |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| nosleepJoined: Jan 20, 2004Life sucks, get a helmet.                                                            | quote: Kahrn came out of the closet to say: given your name, that shouldnt be a problem LO yea but I kinda gotta get up tomorrow. Oh well. I'll just suffer in the morning.                                                                                                                                |
| May 11, 2004: 07:40                                                                                                                                         | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| ICMBJoined: May 28, 2003Iron Chef MonkeyButt                                                                    | You know, I'm honestly not sure if it would be a greater ending to have the scammer stomping his feet and screaming at "Those meddling kids!" or if the guy was actually trying to buy it for real. Once it gets to your morning and it's marked delivered, you should email him and ask for the money to be released from the escrow company. |
| May 11, 2004: 07:40                                                                                                                                         | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| B4Ctom1Joined: Oct 05, 2003Captain Derail                                                                       | haha! [spymovie] I can see the contact conversation between rhig and Starbucks: sign; "Do you have stairs?" countersign; "They are protected." [/spymovie]                                                                                                                                         |
| May 11, 2004: 07:44                                                                                                                                         | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                          |
| SumGayGaiJoined: Mar 09, 2001 | I await further hilarity. PLEASE TELL ME SOMEONE WAS ACTUALLY THERE?!?!? I gave manbirth to VindiKatif and Jpfan01. They are my children so hands off! <sup>A.D.D.</sup> "dont call my mom hot... ass" - SumDumGai                                                                       |
| May 11, 2004: 07:47                                                                                                                                         | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                          |
| BedJoined: Apr 20, 2004...sometimes you wakeup,sometimes you die, andsometimes you fly...             | The question is, does Arrived at FedEx Destination Location mean its been delivered, or that it has just arrived at the LOCAL FedEx distribution center (and is ABOUT to be delivered)?                                                                                                                                                            |
| May 11, 2004: 07:53                                                                                                                                         | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                          |

Pipski
Joined: Apr 18, 2004

Lovely barbershop. Pity I wasn't invited.

It's arrived at Enfield (hopefully not Enfield in Birmingham) and will be put on a van there.

May 11, 2004: 07:54

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Celdin
Joined: Sep 02, 2003

If I remember correctly, last time I had a packaged sent to me through FedEx and they were delivering it to my apartment, their web site said "Out for delivery." So I think we still have time till it actually even gets delivered. (Hopefully I'm not getting this confused with UPS)

Edit: Found an old tracking number, so I guess I was right, here's what it exactly says:
7:57 am Arrived at FedEx Destination Location
8:06 am On FedEx vehicle for delivery
9:56 am Delivered

Celdin fucked around with this message at May 11, 2004 around 08:09

May 11, 2004: 08:00

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

ice
Joined: Oct 21, 2000

I got tired of seeing the forum newbie image. Also, floor is my e-friend. :[]\

quote:

Celdin came out of the closet to say:
If I remember correctly, last time I had a packaged sent to me through FedEx and they were delivering it to my apartment, their web site said "Out for delivery." So I think we still have time till it actually even gets delivered. (Hopefully I'm not getting this confused with UPS)

You are. UPS is "Out for Delivery."

EDIT: Maybe they both use Out for Delivery. I use UPS most of the time, rarely FedEx, so what do I know.

ice fucked around with this message at May 11, 2004 around 08:05

May 11, 2004: 08:01

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Package Molesto
Joined: Aug 05, 2002

It trained them to shoot skeet.

it goes arrived at fedex destination -> on fedex vehicle for delivery -> delivered found an old tracking number and fixed it

Package Molesto fucked around with this message at May 11, 2004 around 08:07

May 11, 2004: 08:01

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Mannequin

Joined: Mar 08, 2003

The difference between fiction and reality? Fiction has to make sense.

I called FedEx, I asked them what the message means. The message that's up there now simply means that the package has been delivered to the station that will send it out to the scammer. So it hasn't been delivered to him yet. When it actually get's sent out the message will read "On FedEx Vehicle for Delivery." If he successfully receives the package it will say "Signed for by so & so at this time." If he does not get the package the message will say "Delivery attempted, recipient not in. Business closed." That's word-for-word from the FedEx operator.

May 11, 2004: 08:12

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

EditQuote

SubCrid TC

Joined: Feb 10, 2004

Believe.

May 11, 2004 7:09 am On FedEx vehicle for delivery ENFIELD GB

May 11, 2004: 08:15

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Pipski

Joined: Apr 18, 2004

Lovely barbershop. Pity I wasn't invited.

And so we enter - endgame.

May 11, 2004: 08:16

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Mannequin

Joined: Mar 08, 2003

The difference between fiction and reality? Fiction has to make sense.

quote:

SubCrid TC came out of the closet to say:

May 11, 2004 7:09 am On FedEx vehicle for delivery ENFIELD GB

So this is the real thing now. This is the first attempt to deliver the package to the scammer.

Edit: It's on a truck with a lot of other packages. It might take an hour or two before the driver makes it to the barber shop.

May 11, 2004: 08:17

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Landslide

Joined: Sep 02, 2003

Now is the time when someone should head to the shop.

May 11, 2004: 08:17

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit Quote

Fufo

Joined: Apr 24, 2002

UNEXPECTED!

quote:

Mannequin came out of the closet to say:

So this is the real thing now. This is the first attempt to deliver the package to the scammer.

Fingers crossed... All of them.

May 11, 2004: 08:18

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit Quote

Gevalt

Joined: Apr 15, 2003

quote:

Pipski came out of the closet to say:

And so we enter - endgame.

I foresee several worn out F5 keys before the day is over.

May 11, 2004: 08:19

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit Quote

KarmaSutra

Joined: Apr 30, 2004

while (tired) acquire(cafeine)

quote:

Gevalt came out of the closet to say:

I foresee several worn out F5 keys before the day is over.

Get yourself a copy of opera, then set the page to auto-reload every 15 or 30 seconds.. :o)

May 11, 2004: 08:21

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit Quote

|                                                                                                                                                          |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| tellocJoined: May 20, 2001  | Holy god damn, this is exciting                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| May 11, 2004: 08:23                                                                                                                               | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| kiimoJoined: Jul 24, 2003                                                                                              | quote:Pipski came out of the closet to say:And so we enter - endgame. If this is to be the end, then I would have Team Bravo make such an end, as to be worthy of remembrance.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| May 11, 2004: 08:24                                                                                                                               | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| blitzoidJoined: Sep 22, 2003Ur-Quan Kohr-Ah and Kzer-Za,Hoo-haw!                                       | This is it. This is the END OF THE WORLD.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| May 11, 2004: 08:26                                                                                                                               | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| ZeromusMogJoined: Feb 11, 2004Sweet Sassy Molassy!                                                          | I'll be the millionth person to say it, this is gonna be a long night. Thank goodness I use Opera (tho now I can't use it to look at FYAD, but then again no big loss.) Good luck to the British ground crew, and I look forward to hilarity. Oh, and to actually contribute, should we need to use IRC again, should we create a channel of our own this time so that we don't end up in a room full of fags?                                                                                                 |
| May 11, 2004: 08:29                                                                                                                               | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| smitzJoined: Nov 05, 2003 | quote:B4Ctom1 came out of the closet to say:haha![spymovie]I can see the contact conversation between rhig and Starbucks:sign; "Do you have stairs?"countersign; "They are protected."[/spymovie] Actually, after Starbucks got the video, I met up with him in the Pub next door. Whilst suppin' a breakfast pint, we noticed rhig in a corner, and immediately assumed he was a goon. |

|                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                                |                      |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------|
|                                                                                                                                                                        | [spymovie]Excuse me, dont you work for Rich Lowtax?[/spymovie]I was too chicken to ask a stranger in a pub about his property 😞      |                      |
| May 11, 2004: 08:30                                                                                                                                                    | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                 | EditQuote |
| girlmechaJoined: Mar 17, 2004IM A RETARDED DOUCHE, ASK ME ABOUT MY CLEANING PROPERTIES                                                | I just made #powerbook on irc.zirc.org. If anyone is as giddy as I am, please join.                                                                 |                      |
| May 11, 2004: 08:42                                                                                                                                                    | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts | EditQuote |
| pooper scooperJoined: Oct 23, 2003                    | I want to see some hot hot goon action on the webcams! Bravo Team come in!                                                                          |                      |
| May 11, 2004: 08:48                                                                                                                                                    | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                 | EditQuote |
| PopRocksJoined: Jul 04, 2003your dixie wrecked? | this thread is an emotional roller coaster, and certainly the best thriller i've read in a while. bated breath                                    |                      |
| May 11, 2004: 08:54                                                                                                                                                    | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                 | EditQuote |
| KleptomaniacJoined: May 05, 2004                    | This thread is awesome on every possible level.Well done.                                                                                 |                      |
| May 11, 2004: 09:00                                                                                                                                                    | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                 | EditQuote |

|                                                                                                                                                                                      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| sara Joined: Apr 28, 2004                                           | On the truck for delivery. EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| May 11, 2004: 09:01                                                                                                                                                       | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| T.G.M. Joined: Mar 01, 2001                                         | quote: 7:09 am On FedEx vehicle for delivery Wow, what a great thing to come home from work to find.I was going to watch a DVD or something tonight, but now my evening is pretty much mapped out. I feel like a kid waiting for Christmas to come.                                                                                                                            |
| May 11, 2004: 09:02                                                                                                                                                       | EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| cavalri Joined: Nov 23, 2002 ... I didn't think so       | I feel compelled to post here. I've been following this post, and I can't wait to see the results. I wish I could buy you all a beer or something.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| May 11, 2004: 09:17                                                                                                                                                       | EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| rhig Joined: Jul 14, 2002 bitches can't hide from this | I've got myself a spot by the front window of the cyber cafe next door, been here since 7:45 and nothing yet, the shop only opened the shutters at 8:45 so its unlikely it not delivered yet. I would expect it will be around 10:30 - 11:30 as delivery was just after 11 last time. Hopefully I might be able to hook up my camera to a computer here to upload any images/videos but it depends if this place stays empty. I might have to wait and upload anything I get to Victoria, the Easy Internet Cafe there is much faster too, I imagine its just a DSL here. |
| May 11, 2004: 09:21                                                                                                                                                       | EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |

blitzoid
Joined: Sep 22, 2003

Ur-Quan Kohr-Ah and Kzer-Za, Hoo-haw!

quote:

rhig came out of the closet to say:
I've got myself a spot by the front window of the cyber cafe next door, been here since 7:45 and nothing yet, the shop only opened the shutters at 8:45 so its unlikely it not delivered yet. I would expect it will be around 10:30 - 11:30 as delivery was just after 11 last time. Hopefully I might be able to hook up my camera to a computer here to upload any images/videos but it depends if this place stays empty. I might have to wait and upload anything I get to Victoria, the Easy Internet Cafe there is much faster too, I imagine its just a DSL here.

What's normal to him amazes us!
He shall be our new god!

May 11, 2004: 09:23

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Mannequin
Joined: Mar 08, 2003

The difference between fiction and reality? Fiction has to make sense.

quote:

rhig came out of the closet to say:
I've got myself a spot by the front window of the cyber cafe next door, been here since 7:45 and nothing yet, the shop only opened the shutters at 8:45 so its unlikely it not delivered yet. I would expect it will be around 10:30 - 11:30 as delivery was just after 11 last time. Hopefully I might be able to hook up my camera to a computer here to upload any images/videos but it depends if this place stays empty. I might have to wait and upload anything I get to Victoria, the Easy Internet Cafe there is much faster too, I imagine its just a DSL here.

You are a hero to us!

May 11, 2004: 09:36

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Yossarko
Joined: Jan 22, 2004

The little Armenian boy who could...

Photos are a must, rhig! Use their webcams if you have to. Don't worry about showing us the photos until you get home, as long as we HAVE some photos.

May 11, 2004: 09:41

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Landslide

Joined: Sep 02, 2003

This is going to be historic.

And while we're waiting we can all enjoy a nice picture of cat.jpg

May 11, 2004: 09:49

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

B4Ctom1

Joined: Oct 05, 2003

Captain Derail

WHAT!?!?

edit: my huge cat pix not appreceated [56k eat your shoe]

B4Ctom1 fucked around with this message at May 11, 2004 around 10:08

May 11, 2004: 09:59

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

down1nit

Joined: Jan 09, 2004

Title text (optional; no images are allowed, only text, buttmonger)

 Attachment: liuloop.gif
This has been downloaded 3085 time(s).

gg eagle scout.

May 11, 2004: 10:04

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

CrocZ

Joined: Mar 04, 2004

+18

Can't hardly wait!
Please, please, please, be delivered soon.

May 11, 2004: 10:04

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

|                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| DimexJoined: Jul 02, 2000Forum Veteran                                                                                                                                   | Okay, I've just started following this thread and it's friggin awesome (and I am as giddy as the rest of you). This is going to rock - it's so great to know that we can fuck some asshole from across the globe.                                              |
| May 11, 2004: 10:09                                                                                                                                                                  | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                 |
| rhigJoined: Jul 14, 2002bitches can't hide from this                                 | OK the delivery has been made, there were a lot of cars in the way but i think i have some alright footage, there were quite a few parcels. Im going to sort and upload and you should have an update within five minutes.                                     |
| May 11, 2004: 10:10                                                                                                                                                                  | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                 |
| tussinphreakJoined: Aug 27, 2003                                                                                                                                                 | yay! delivered!                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| May 11, 2004: 10:10                                                                                                                                                                  | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                 |
| FrozenCatJoined: Dec 20, 2003My idols are Sam Kinison & Isaac Asimov.Go figure. | DELIVERED!!!10:01amedit/fuck! beaten by a millisecond!                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| May 11, 2004: 10:10                                                                                                                                                                  | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                 |
| Bob_SockoJoined: Feb 20, 2001THIS MAN MAY NEVER ESCAPE HIS WATERY GRAVE            | Wow, perfect timing, I was about to go to bed. It's strangely satisfying to know that somewhere, halfway around the world, a man is shitting his pants as I write this.edit - besides forum members, who manage to shit their pants on a regular basis |
| May 11, 2004: 10:11                                                                                                                                                                  | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                 |

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| CrocZ Joined: Mar 04, 2004 +18                                                                                                                                                                   | I'm happy. quote: OK the delivery has been made, there were a lot of cars in the way but i think i have some alright footage, there were quite a few parcels. Im going to sort and upload and you should have an update within five minutes. Perfect.                                                                                             |
| May 11, 2004: 10:11                                                                                                                                                                                                               | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| Mannequin Joined: Mar 08, 2003 The difference between fiction and reality? Fiction has to make sense. | quote: rhig came out of the closet to say:OK the delivery has been made, there were a lot of cars in the way but i think i have some alright footage, there were quite a few parcels. Im going to sort and upload and you should have an update within five minutes. Shit! This is awesome! Did you see anyone sign the package? What went down? |
| May 11, 2004: 10:11                                                                                                                                                                                                               | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| eclipse Joined: Mar 12, 2003 It's gone rather dark all of a sudden...                                 | GOON JUSTICE!!!!                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| May 11, 2004: 10:12                                                                                                                                                                                                               | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| Alowishus Joined: Jan 08, 2002 My name is Mud                                                       | Signed for by: G.SESSANEGO liiiinteresting...                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| May 11, 2004: 10:13                                                                                                                                                                                                               | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |

FrozenCat

Joined: Dec 20, 2003

My idols are Sam Kinison & Isaac Asimov.
Go figure.

quote:

Mannequin came out of the closet to say:

Shit! This is awesome! Did you see anyone sign the package? What went down?

FedEx reports that G.SESSANEGO signed for it.

/Fuck!!! Beaten again by seconds!!!

May 11, 2004: 10:13

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

boof

Joined: Jun 03, 2001

Dow Dow
Boof Boof

Awesome. 😊 Way to go, goons.

May 11, 2004: 10:18

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Sexual Pilgrim

Joined: Dec 02, 2002

oh god tell me someone is going in there to get a haircut in case he actually opens it.

its 4:15 AND I FEEL LIKE I AM ABOUT TO EXPLODE

May 11, 2004: 10:19

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

cavalri

Joined: Nov 23, 2002

... I didn't think so

This makes me happy.

Very happy.

Eagerly awaiting photos.

May 11, 2004: 10:19

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MisterSparkle

Joined: Jan 16, 2004

banishes dirt to the land of wind and ghosts

Posting at Climax of goon justice...

gg goons.

And to the UK spies, you have done well, time to hit the pub.

May 11, 2004: 10:20

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

|                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| GrimmyJoined: Dec 02, 2003WTF                                                                                                                   | Anyone tried this? http://www.fedex.com/cgi-bin/spod?T...8&amp;ShipYear=2004 Apparently you can get a copy of the guys signature.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| May 11, 2004: 10:22                                                                                                                                                                         | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| B4Ctom1Joined: Oct 05, 2003Captain Derail                                                                                                       | If I just recieved a $2000 laptop that I didnt have to pay for I would take my time opening it too.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| May 11, 2004: 10:23                                                                                                                                                                         | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| rhigJoined: Jul 14, 2002bitches can't hide from this | http://www.rhig.net/powerbook/ Images so far are uploaded, the videos have a bit more, I couldnt get a good angle of the shop entrance and the cars outside blocked the Fed Ex workers view. There were plenty of people outside making it pretty hard but I think most of the delivery iis on video. In a few minutes I'm going back to the barbers, I need the upstairs view to take better shots when someone picks up the package. Videos should be up soon. It would be great if someone could compress and mirror, my hosting only has a few gigs and it will be a pain if it dies while I'm here. |
| May 11, 2004: 10:24                                                                                                                                                                         | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| down1nitJoined: Jan 09, 2004Title text (optional; no images are allowed, only text, buttmonger)                                                 | quote:Grimmy came out of the closet to say:Anyone tried this?http://www.fedex.com/cgi-bin/spod?T...8&amp;ShipYear=2004Apparently you can get a copy of the guys signature. takes 2 days... holy shit, pictures Mirrored:                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |

Video (Divx 4) - <http://www.astrofunk.info/images/pb...y-powerbook.avi>

LOL EDIT: and rotated! zing.

down1nit fucked around with this message at May 11, 2004 around 11:20

May 11, 2004: 10:25

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

rottingcorpse
Joined: Dec 12, 2003

you forgot to renew your domain.com

quote:

---

Grimmy came out of the closet to say:
Anyone tried this?

<http://www.fedex.com/cgi-bin/spod?T...8&ShipYear=2004>

Apparently you can get a copy of the guys signature.

---

Just tried it, says you need to wait 2 days before a signature is available.

May 11, 2004: 10:25

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

down1nit
Joined: Jan 09, 2004

Title text (optional; no images are allowed, only text, buttmonger)

quote:

---

rhig came out of the closet to say:
<http://www.rhig.net/powerbook/>
Images so far are uploaded, the videos have a bit more, I couldnt get a good angle of the shop entrance and the cars outside blocked the Fed Ex workers view. There were plenty of people outside making it pretty hard but I think most of the delivery iis on video.

In a few minutes I'm going back to the barbers, I need the upstairs view to take better shots when someone picks up the package. Videos should be up soon.

It would be great if someone could compress and mirror, my hosting only has a few gigs and it will be a pain if it dies while I'm here.

---

hey... i've got plenty of space and a new month of bandwidth.

May 11, 2004: 10:26

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

EditQuote

rhig
Joined: Jul 14, 2002

bitches can't hide from this

The pictures came out pretty shit, the parcels were behind the sign and I was hoping to get them so I know which to watch out for, one was a brown compaq box and there were a couple of others.

May 11, 2004: 10:27

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Disconnected
Joined: Feb 06, 2004

Oh man I've been hooked on this like Leftover Crack since the first post went up. I can't wait to see what this guy does.

May 11, 2004: 10:28

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit Quote

B4Ctom1
Joined: Oct 05, 2003

Captain Derail

quote:

---

rhig came out of the closet to say:
<http://www.rhig.net/powerbook/>
Images so far are uploaded, the videos have a bit more, I couldnt get a good angle of the shop entrance and the cars outside blocked the Fed Ex workers view. There were plenty of people outside making it pretty hard but I think most of the delivery iis on video.

In a few minutes I'm going back to the barbers, I need the upstairs view to take better shots when someone picks up the package. Videos should be up soon.

It would be great if someone could compress and mirror, my hosting only has a few gigs and it will be a pain if it dies while I'm here.

---

Holy crap! why is my heart beating so fast over some internet prank?!

edit: why sit so far from the action? is there an "inside" man?

May 11, 2004: 10:28

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit Quote

Gevalt
Joined: Apr 15, 2003

New Jersey Chicken???

May 11, 2004: 10:30

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit Quote

Ackbar
Joined: Jul 15, 2002

"RATCARS"

images removed to save bandwidth. also that faggot above me posted them anyway. BUT I MIRRORED THEM FIRST!

Ackbar fucked around with this message at May 15, 2004 around 12:06

May 11, 2004: 10:32

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Mannequin
Joined: Mar 08, 2003

The difference between fiction and reality? Fiction has to make sense.

Is the bald-headed guy we see in the second picture the person signing for the packages?

May 11, 2004: 10:34

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

JayTay
Joined: Sep 09, 2001

Curse you god for making me this way.

quote:

Mannequin came out of the closet to say:

Is the bald-headed guy we see in the second picture the person signing for the packages?

I think he's changing a tyre.

May 11, 2004: 10:36

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

T.G.M.
Joined: Mar 01, 2001

Edit: nevermind, bad idea, not working.

This is exciting!

T.G.M. fucked around with this message at May 11, 2004 around 10:43

May 11, 2004: 10:38

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| AeoliusJoined: Jul 16, 2003 Über Lord of Time and Space                                                                                                                                   | Oh, man. It took a long time, but it's all well worth it. This resolution should be one of the higher points of my week; goddamn finals. Now all that remains is the end closure dialogue between hero and villain and this thread can sleep the sleep of kings and saints in the goldmine.  Attachment: ripcross.jpgThis has been downloaded 2251 time(s). |
| May 11, 2004: 10:39                                                                                                                                                                                                  | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| AckbarJoined: Jul 15, 2002 "RATCARS"                                                                 | video isn't working for me.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| May 11, 2004: 10:39                                                                                                                                                                                                  | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| MannequinJoined: Mar 08, 2003 The difference between fiction and reality? Fiction has to make sense. | quote: Ackbar came out of the closet to say:video isn't working for me. Same                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| May 11, 2004: 10:39                                                                                                                                                                                                  | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| down1nitJoined: Jan 09, 2004 Title text (optional; no images are allowed, only text, buttmonger)                                                                                          | have you g-spotted it?vdubbed it? quote: T.G.M. came out of the closet to say:Another mirror for above pictures: http://www.angelfire.com/ab7/mghst/delivery.htmlThis is exciting! your page doesn't validate. all the pix are sideways.                              |
| May 11, 2004: 10:40                                                                                                                                                                                                  | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |

|                                                                                                                                                         |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                                            |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------|
| rhigJoined: Jul 14, 2002bitches can't hide from this | Yeah he was fixing a car with some other guy, there were a lot of people around i i couldnt get much else. I'm now upstairs in the barbers shop and am going to look into getting a live stream going if possible. The boxes are not in the main room so they must be in the back like last time there is the barber and a friend downstairs but its empty up here. I should be able to hear anyone picking up the parcels over the traffic. |                                            |
| May 11, 2004: 10:40                                                                                                                              | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | Edit Quote |
| CrocZJoined: Mar 04, 2004+ 18                                                                                                        | You go, undercover man!Great work on the fast upload of pics.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                            |
| May 11, 2004: 10:42                                                                                                                              | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | Edit Quote |
| palpJoined: Oct 01, 2003the palp                                                                                                     | Fast mirror with video, and images rotated/sized to 1024x768.http://files.palp.org/sa/powerbook                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                            |
| May 11, 2004: 10:42                                                                                                                              | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | Edit Quote |
| pooptartJoined: Jun 17, 2003I like to count.                                                                                         | This is brilliant.For some strange reason I have the theme song to The Bill playing in my head.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                                            |
| May 11, 2004: 10:43                                                                                                                              | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | Edit Quote |
| LandslideJoined: Sep 02, 2003                          | Why are the pics of New Jersey Chicken? I thought it was gonna be delivered at the barber shop?                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                                            |
| May 11, 2004: 10:43                                                                                                                              | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | Edit Quote |
| B4Ctom1Joined: Oct 05, 2003Captain Derail                                                                                            | Ive played every AVI I ever saw except this one:"Windows Media Player cannot play the file. The file is either corrupt or the Player does not support the format you are trying to play."I am trying the WMP 9 with the defiler pak codecs                                                                                                                                                                                   |                                            |
| May 11, 2004: 10:44                                                                                                                              | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | Edit Quote |

|                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| frooblyJoined: Sep 12, 2003                        | quote:Ackbar came out of the closet to say:video isn't working for me. Are you sure you didn't download an incomplete version? It works fine for me (Media Player Classic).                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| May 11, 2004: 10:45User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                           |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| B4Ctom1Joined: Oct 05, 2003Captain Deraill                                                                                         | quote:froobly came out of the closet to say:Are you sure you didn't download an incomplete version? It works fine for me (Media Player Classic). I tried downloading it and I tried just opening it through the wmp 9 browser same effect.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| May 11, 2004: 10:47User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More PostsEditQuote |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| Supar TomJoined: May 24, 2002I AM A LIAR                                                                                           | quote:Ackbar came out of the closet to say:video isn't working for me. View it in VLC.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| May 11, 2004: 10:47User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More PostsEditQuote |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| frooblyJoined: Sep 12, 2003                      | quote:B4Ctom1 came out of the closet to say:I tried downloading it and I tried just opening it through the wmp 9 browser same effect. I spent months trying to get Windows Media Player (any version) to play all the random files I came across, downloading codecs, registering dlls by hand, etc.Then I gave in and downloaded Media Player Classic. Plays everything out of the box. Just do it; it's a five minute download and a 30 second install, no reboot required. |
| May 11, 2004: 10:50User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                           |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |

Mannequin

Joined: Mar 08, 2003

The difference between fiction and reality? Fiction has to make sense.

May 11, 2004: 10:50

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

EditQuote

quote:

Landslide came out of the closet to say:

Why are the pics of New Jersey Chicken? I thought it was gonna be delivered at the barber shop?

Yeah, you're right.

For comparison, here's a shot of the street taken from the last expedition. I can't see "New Jersey Chicken" in any of the older shots we have.

Grimmy

Joined: Dec 02, 2003

WTF

quote:

Landslide came out of the closet to say:

Why are the pics of New Jersey Chicken? I thought it was gonna be delivered at the barber shop?

I'm guessing thats across the street from the barbers shop.

May 11, 2004: 10:51

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Landslide

Joined: Sep 02, 2003

^^ no fair

quote:

Mannequin came out of the closet to say:

Yeah, you're right.

For comparison, here's a shot of the street taken from the last expedition. I can't see "New Jersey Chicken" in any of the older shots we have.

Maybe its on the other side of the street?

Looks like one of our guys found the wrong place.

May 11, 2004: 10:51

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Mannequin

Joined: Mar 08, 2003

The difference between fiction and reality? Fiction has to make sense.

quote:

Landslide came out of the closet to say:

Maybe its on the other side of the street?

Looks like one of our guys found the wrong place.

Edit: I see it now. Look at this picture. He's in the Internet Cafe. See the blue sign and the logo "Foneeds"? Now look at this shot again.

Mannequin fucked around with this message at May 11, 2004 around 10:55

May 11, 2004: 10:52

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Grimmy

Joined: Dec 02, 2003

WTF

I mean the pictures were taken from inside the barbershop/internet cafe right?

May 11, 2004: 10:53

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Ackbar

Joined: Jul 15, 2002

quote:

Supar Tom came out of the closet to say:

View it in VLC.

cool thanks. now it plays for 6 seconds and stops.

May 11, 2004: 10:56

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Landslide

Joined: Sep 02, 2003

quote:

Mannequin came out of the closet to say:

Edit: I see it now. Look at this picture. He's in the Internet Cafe. See the blue sign and the logo "Foneeds"? Now look at this shot again.

Yeah I started to see it too, but didn't completely connect the dots until you mentioned Foneeds. At first I thought it was the sign outside the barber but it has yellow trim not blue.

May 11, 2004: 10:57

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Dimex

Joined: Jul 02, 2000

Forum Veteran

I was just thinking... this cafe/barbershop/whatever seems to be receiving a lot of other packages. It could be a drop point for more than one scammer and if so, an anonymous person may come by and pick it up at any random point in the future and not be seen by our guys.

May 11, 2004: 10:58

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| GevaltJoined: Apr 15, 2003 <td>quote:Grimmy came out of the closet to say:I mean the pictures were taken from inside the barbershop/internet cafe right?He's in the interweb cafe next door. See the blue "Phoneneeds" sign in his pictures? Compare it to the picture that Mannequin linked.Edit: So beaten. Bleh.</td> | quote:Grimmy came out of the closet to say:I mean the pictures were taken from inside the barbershop/internet cafe right? He's in the interweb cafe next door. See the blue "Phoneneeds" sign in his pictures? Compare it to the picture that Mannequin linked.Edit: So beaten. Bleh.                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| RivorusJoined: Mar 30, 2003Programming Sex-God                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageSearch For More PostsEditQuotequote:Ackbar came out of the closet to say:cool thanks. now it plays for 6 seconds and stops.yeah thats the same problem everyones having. its supposed to be a 29 second clip if I'm not mistaken.                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
| DudleyJoined: Feb 24, 2003I am the Walrus. I am not on speaking Terms with the eggman                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More PostsEditQuoteI love that someone can send a package 5000 miles and a little internet site can have people staking out the delivery location.GO INTERSUPERWEBHIGHWAY!                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| RivorusJoined: Mar 30, 2003Programming Sex-God                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More PostsEditQuotequote:Dudley came out of the closet to say:I love that someone can send a package 5000 miles and a little internet site can have people staking out the delivery location.GO INTERSUPERWEBHIGHWAY!Yeah, I keep thinking about that. In the end, it'd be awesome if the guy found out about all this. He'd be all "WTF INTERNET" and we'd be like "LOL, SUP" |
| May 11, 2004: 11:01                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |

Mannequin

Joined: Mar 08, 2003

The difference between fiction and reality? Fiction has to make sense.

May 11, 2004: 11:01

quote:

Ackbar came out of the closet to say:
cool thanks. now it plays for 6 seconds and stops.

Download Windows Media Player Classic. It's like 1.2mb. It plays the video perfectly.

WMP Classic: http://sourceforge.net/project/show...ackage\_id=84358

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Landslide

Joined: Sep 02, 2003

I just wish we could see the look of profound disappointment and failure on the scammers face just as he first lays eye on the p-p-powerbook.

May 11, 2004: 11:02

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

palp

Joined: Oct 01, 2003

the palp

quote:

Mannequin came out of the closet to say:
[B]Download Windows Media Player Classic. It's like 1.2mb. It plays the video perfectly.

Does it play longer than 6 seconds? I'm not sure if that's the full length of the video, or if some of us aren't able to play it all.

Also: 780kb divx version with no sound (the sound serves no purpose anyway). Still only 6 seconds long, though. But those of you who can't play the video should be able to view it.

<http://files.palp.org/sa/powerbook/pb012.avi>

Edit: now an xvid, same size, my divx encoder was too new for some people.

palp fucked around with this message at May 11, 2004 around 11:28

May 11, 2004: 11:03

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Landslide

Joined: Sep 02, 2003

quote:

palp came out of the closet to say:

Does it play longer than 6 seconds? I'm not sure if that's the full length of the video, or if some of us aren't able to play it all.

Also: 780kb divx version with no sound (the sound serves no purpose anyway). Still only 6 seconds long, though. But those of you who can't play the video should be able to view it.
<http://files.palp.org/sa/powerbook/pb%20012.avi>

Heh, might as well just make it into a gif.

Too bad it doesn't really show anything other than a Fedex truck.

May 11, 2004: 11:05

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

froobly

Joined: Sep 12, 2003

quote:

palp came out of the closet to say:

Does it play longer than 6 seconds? I'm not sure if that's the full length of the video, or if some of us aren't able to play it all.

It didn't for me. I just assumed that was all that was there.

May 11, 2004: 11:06

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Rivorus

Joined: Mar 30, 2003

Programming Sex-God

quote:

Mannequin came out of the closet to say:

Download Windows Media Player Classic. It's like 1.2mb. It plays the video perfectly.

WMP Classic: http://sourceforge.net/project/show...ackage\_id=84358

That doesn't fix the problem. Why is it that every 5 seconds someone says "try this player, it works" after we all know we can play it for 6 seconds. I've downloaded 3 new players in the past 10 minutes because people say they play the whole clip. The problem is we think the clip is supposed to be 29 seconds long, not that it's not playing at all. All of the players are only playing 6 seconds, so it's probably just a messed up file (either that or the full length is being registered wrong in wmp 9 which I honestly doubt is the case).

May 11, 2004: 11:07

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Mannequin

Joined: Mar 08, 2003

The difference between fiction and reality? Fiction has to make sense.

quote:

Landslide came out of the closet to say:
Heh, might as well just make it into a gif.

This is what I got. It seems to be about 5 seconds long.

2mb gif

Edit: Host went down. Host back up.

Mannequin fucked around with this message at May 11, 2004 around 11:56

May 11, 2004: 11:10

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Bed

Joined: Apr 20, 2004

...sometimes you wakeup,
sometimes you die, and
sometimes you fly...

played fine in WimAmp, but only 6 seconds.

May 11, 2004: 11:11

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

palp

Joined: Oct 01, 2003

the palp

quote:

Rivorus came out of the closet to say:
All of the players are only playing 6 seconds, so it's probably just a messed up file (either that or the full length is being registered wrong in wmp 9 which I honestly doubt is the case).

I dunno, I wouldn't be too suprised if a program that can't play the file, also can't determine the correct length of said file.

May 11, 2004: 11:12

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| RivorusJoined: Mar 30, 2003Programming Sex-God                                                                                                                                                              | quote:palp came out of the closet to say:I dunno, I wouldn't be too suprised if a program that can't play the file, also can't determine the correct length of said file. It plays the file just as well as all the other players. 6 seconds. It registers the full length as 29 seconds though. This is what happens when you play an incomplete/corrupt movie in wmp -- it lists the correct time, but stops early.EDIT: also, the last frame you can see is glitched |
| May 11, 2004: 11:13                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| rottingcorpseJoined: Dec 12, 2003you forgot to renew your domain.com                                  | quote:Mannequin came out of the closet to say:This is what I got. It seems to be about 5 seconds long.TEMPORARILYREMOVEDTHIS IMAGE WILLRETURN IN A FEW DAYS Is it me or is that FedEx van delivering to the Chicken shop?                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| May 11, 2004: 11:15                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| MannequinJoined: Mar 08, 2003The difference between fiction and reality? Fiction has to make sense. | quote:rottingcorpse came out of the closet to say:Is it me or is that FedEx van delivering to the Chicken shop? I think she's going into the back of the van to get the packages. We know she delivered to the Internet Cafe because rhig was there. I think we're just missing the rest of the video.                                                                                                                                                                             |
| May 11, 2004: 11:16                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |

|                                                                             |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| MajesticJoined: Mar 19, 2004                                     | this is the first time i've been at the end of the thread when stuff is happening in realtimegod damn it we need results :\                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| WHY YES I ENJOY THE TASTEOF COCK IN THE MORNINGTHANK YOU FOR ASKING |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| May 11, 2004: 11:22                                                  | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| B4Ctom1Joined: Oct 05, 2003                                      | Im still curious as to why from "across" the street?                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| Captain Derail                                                              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| May 11, 2004: 11:24                                                  | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| RivorusJoined: Mar 30, 2003                                      | quote:B4Ctom1 came out of the closet to say:Im still curious as to why from "across" the street?                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| Programming Sex-God                                                         | It's down the road, not across the street                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| May 11, 2004: 11:24                                                  | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| palpJoined: Oct 01, 2003                                         | quote:Rivorus came out of the closet to say:It plays the file just as well as all the other players. 6 seconds. It registers the full length as 29 seconds though. This is what happens when you play an incomplete/corrupt movie in wmp -- it lists the correct time, but stops early.EDIT: also, the last frame you can see is glitched |
| the palp                                                                    | Ah. It won't play in WMP9 for me but works fine in other players. I stand corrected.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| May 11, 2004: 11:29                                                  | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                               |

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| WinkieJoined: Aug 25, 2002it best be funny and informative and not at all pink | Well shit, well done goons.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| May 11, 2004: 11:35                                                                                                                                                                                                   | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| RivorusJoined: Mar 30, 2003Programming Sex-God                                                                                                                            | [03:29] &lt;ideate&gt; http://www.divx-digest.com/software/repairvideo.html[03:29] &lt;ideate&gt; someone else do it I am lazy[03:30] &lt;Rivorus&gt; Beginning RepairSo I downloaded and tried the program. It "fixes" the file in that it chops the file off at 5 seconds, but the file size is only 4 megs now (instead of the 20 something megs it used to be). So there's definately 29 seconds of footage, we just sure-as-hell can't get to it.EDIT: Also tried divfix, with no successRivorus fucked around with this message at May 11, 2004 around 11:41 |
| May 11, 2004: 11:35                                                                                                                                                                                                   | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| DisconnectedJoined: Feb 06, 2004                                                         | Hey are there still live irc updates going on like last time a goon stakeout took place? What was the network/chan?                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| May 11, 2004: 11:40                                                                                                                                                                                                   | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| RivorusJoined: Mar 30, 2003Programming Sex-God                                                                                                                            | quote:Disconnected came out of the closet to say:Hey are there still live irc updates going on like last time a goon stakeout took place? What was the network/chan?No live updates from UK people, but we do have P-P-P-Powerbook chat on irc.zirc.org #powerbook                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| May 11, 2004: 11:41                                                                                                                                                                                                   | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |

|                                                                                                                                                                                           |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Anaclisis Joined: Apr 18, 2003  ceci n'est pas une grenouille | preemptive image macro post :D Attachment: owned.jpg This has been downloaded 2327 time(s).                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| May 11, 2004: 11:42                                                                                                                                                                       | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
| Rivorus Joined: Mar 30, 2003 Programming Sex-God                                                                                                         | why is it everytime i go to this page or try to reply i get a login prompt for http://www.Mannequin3D.com/ Mannequin I'm looking in your direction Edit: hint, get rid of your broken link                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| May 11, 2004: 11:48                                                                                                                                                                       | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
| B4Ctom1 Joined: Oct 05, 2003 Captain Derail                                                                                                              | quote: <hr/> Rivorus came out of the closet to say: why is it everytime i go to this page or try to reply i get a login prompt for http://www.Mannequin3D.com/ Mannequin I'm looking in your direction <hr/> WHAT THE FUCKING SHIT!?!?!?                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| May 11, 2004: 11:49                                                                                                                                                                       | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
| Ackbar Joined: Jul 15, 2002  "RATCARS"                      | quote: <hr/> Rivorus came out of the closet to say: why is it everytime i go to this page or try to reply i get a login prompt for http://www.Mannequin3D.com/ Mannequin I'm looking in your direction <hr/> because that gif has hotlink protection and forums.somethingawful.com isn't on the list of allowed access but there aren't any redirection rules set up. I'm guessing. RHIG, FIX THE FUCKING VIDEO YOU LIMEY BITCH |
| May 11, 2004: 11:50                                                                                                                                                                       | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| RivorusJoined: Mar 30, 2003Programming Sex-God                                                                                                                                                        | quote:Ackbar came out of the closet to say:because that gif has hotlink protection and forums.somethingawful.com isn't on the list of allowed access but there aren't any redirection rules set up. I'm guessing. It worked for a while, but then it stopped after probably the 1,000 view and now theres the login promptEDIT: nm, fixed, link removed, yay                                                                                                                                                                               |
| May 11, 2004: 11:54                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| MannequinJoined: Mar 08, 2003The difference between fiction and reality? Fiction has to make sense. | quote:Rivorus came out of the closet to say:why is it everytime i go to this page or try to reply i get a login prompt for http://www.Mannequin3D.com/Mannequin I'm looking in your directionEdit: hint, get rid of your broken linkRelax. My host pulled the image, I spoke to them, and everything's okay. I was on it like a two dollar whore.Edit: Where's rhig?Mannequin fucked around with this message at May 11, 2004 around 12:02 |
| May 11, 2004: 12:00                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| RivorusJoined: Mar 30, 2003Programming Sex-God                                                                                                                                                        | quote:Mannequin came out of the closet to say:Relax. My host pulled the image, I spoke to them, and everything's okay. I was on it like a two dollar whore.ty, kind sir. autograph my internet.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| May 11, 2004: 12:02                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| palpJoined: Oct 01, 2003the palp                                                                                                                                                                      | quote:Mannequin came out of the closet to say:Edit: Where's rhig?On his way home would be my guess. Either that or infiltrating the barbershop. Possibly captured and being interrogated.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| May 11, 2004: 12:03                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| KorenskyJoined: Jan 13, 2004 DUHURRR, AFTER LESS THAN A MONTH OF BEING A GOON, I POSTED A REPLY THAT CONSISTED SOLEY OF 'ROFL AND 5'. I MIGHT FIND MORE FUNNY THREADS IF I LURK MORE.                                                                                                                                                                       | Romanian Mafia going to kill everyone involved and carve P-P-Powerbook into their chest with a butchers knife. We'll see who has the last laugh! User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
| Y2KdoggJoined: Dec 25, 2003 GG goons 😏Let us commence with a celebratory dance.Attachment: dance2power.gifThis has been downloaded 2980 time(s). | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| kjhJoined: Feb 28, 2004 no ambition, no talent, no chance                                                                                                                                                                                                       | quote:farmface came out of the closet to say:OMG! did you see those pictures????????? apparently brits actually drink michelobI'm learning a lot about the "old country" in this thread. I knew that Aussie Lager has come to dominate the English beer market, but Michelob?I'm even more perplexed that someone would open a franchise of "New Jersey Chicken" ("American Recipe" hehe). Do they butcher the birds at Satriale's pork store?Sorry for the digression but I've been following this thread from the beginnning and have been dying to post. |
| May 11, 2004: 12:42                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |

charliemaul

Joined: Jun 07, 2003

I can go back to sleep now. Thank you all. Now to wait for the email.

May 11, 2004: 12:46

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

down1nit

Joined: Jan 09, 2004

Title text (optional; no images are allowed, only text, buttmonger)

quote:

Y2Kdogg came out of the closet to say:

GG goons 😊

Let us commence with a celebratory dance.

i like the arms disappearing.

May 11, 2004: 12:47

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Jockthecock

Joined: May 07, 2003

I'm throbbing with pride for my fellow UK goons' derring do. 🇬🇧

My next haircut will be at Jean Climax's BarberNet shop.

May 11, 2004: 12:48

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Dvlos

Joined: Aug 26, 2003

I usually don't eat my poo, but this sprayed everywhere.

I was waiting for that delivery, but more interested in reading Mr. Scammer's "WHA?! YOU HAVE SET US UP THE P-P-POWERBOOK!" reply...there's going to be another 16 ounces of comedy to be squeezed out of this thread.

May 11, 2004: 12:48

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Pipski
Joined: Apr 18, 2004

Lovely barbershop. Pity I wasn't invited.

Had to rush home from work for lunch - SA not allowed by totalitarian work regime. All I can say is fan-fucking-tastic! I reckon `Mr Sessarego' gets paid a cut to sign for and receive these parcels on behalf of his customers, who set up their scams in the anonymity of his shop. I reckon they come in and pick them up from him after they arrive. I reckon he's the cut-out. I reckon he's going down.

quote:

kjh came out of the closet to say:

I'm learning a lot about the "old country" in this thread. I knew that Aussie Lager has come to dominate the English beer market

Not true. No good beer comes from the Dominions, none. Dutch, Belgian and German beer dominates the lager market, but hey, who the Hell minds that? 😊 Oh, and Danish (ugh). The bitter market is still predominantly English.

May 11, 2004: 12:54

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

ChienNoir
Joined: Jul 15, 2003

[insert optional title here]

quote:

kjh came out of the closet to say:

I'm learning a lot about the "old country" in this thread. I knew that Aussie Lager has come to dominate the English beer market, but Michelob?

I'm even more perplexed that someone would open a franchise of "New Jersey Chicken" ("American Recipe" hehe). Do they butcher the birds at Satriale's pork store?

[derail]

Aussie beer does not dominate the market. You can get XXXX and Foster's at most places, but the actual sales wouldn't be anywhere near Stella or Carlsburg. The variety of beers available means no brand or type of beer really doimnates.

Is New Jersey chicken a well known brand? There are chicken places all over London with names like 'Dallas/Texas/Tennessee Fried Chicken', and I always thought they were small time KFC ripoffs

[/derail]

May 11, 2004: 12:56

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Jack Burton

Joined: Mar 01, 2002

It's all in the reflexes.

This is the most awesomest thing I have ever had the pleasure of reading.

Thank you all the UK goons, and everyone else who made this possible.

I can't fucking wait for the impending emails.

Oh God, let them be good.

May 11, 2004: 13:04

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Dr.SchadenFreud

Joined: Jul 16, 2003

I'm going to have to give you some of my "special medicine..."

Time for MyNameIsJeff to send an email to the mark and ask him if the merchandise was to his liking, and if so, to release the funds! After all, "he" signed for it, right? No reason for him not to have opened it up!

May 11, 2004: 13:09

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

rhig

Joined: Jul 14, 2002

bitches can't hide from this

Ok, update will be a minute or two; I have no pictures of the scammer however.

This was written just after I got to the barbers; I used one of his upstairs computers and couldn't see anything so I had to listen.

RE VIDEO: I don't think the video is complete; the lines were to slow at the cafes.

I'm upstairs at the moment and a lots going on, the barbers on the phone Parcel Force about other parcels he's waiting for and one has been delivered according to the force.

"ec107847"2/z/7"17gb" was the number for one he was checking about others too.

After I had been upstairs a couple of minutes a guy came up used a computer pretty much next to mine so I couldn't take more upstairs pictures or record anything, I doubt the mic would have picked up anything audible anyway.

OK after I got up there I heard the barber on the phone, then a guy with an eastern European accent started talking - the guy very likely went in the back way. The barber was explaining that there was a fee for one of his Parcel Force packages, I think it was a storage fee as it was a few days late or something, either that or duty. The guy thought he was talking about the Fed-Ex parcel and started arguing that he'd paid duty; it took a minute or two for the barber to explain.

He paid the fee and there was a lot of rustling, he was opening one of the boxes, there was more angry raised voices and the barber said something like "is it broken etc", the guy said something like its wrong/mistake I don't think he really understood the joke right away. There was more raised voices but not real arguing, the guy didn't suspect the barber of anything and didn't as far as I know explain what happen to him. Probably to keep his post office box if the barbers not in on it.

I went outside to see if I could get a picture of him leaving, he spent about 5 minutes arguing with one of the guys outside the shop, it looked like this guy may have been in on it, and it's fairly likely he knows something about the Romanian at least. I didn't manage to get any pictures, they were facing me the whole time and I couldn't get the camera out even across the road from them. They went back into the shop and must have left out the back door.

I think it's almost definitely the scammer and not someone working for him, his spoken English is as bad as his written and he opened the stuff in the shop.

Below images have been added for when thread is archived,
Official Jean Climax Mug

|                                                                                                                                                 |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                      |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------|
|                                                                                                                                                 | Outside of shop just after I left, the scammer was inside at this time atthough I'm sure he can't be seen through the window.Seems like Collindale is the root of all internet fraud, rhig fucked around with this message at May 12, 2004 around 21:34 |                      |
| May 11, 2004: 13:10                                                                                                                             | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                       | EditQuote |
| cYzJoined: May 20, 2001                                                                                        | can't await email news from jeff now btw is someone so crazy waiting there to "the guy" picking up the boxes in the shop?                                                                                                                                                                                      |                      |
|                                                      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                      |
| May 11, 2004: 13:10                                                                                                                             | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                       | EditQuote |
| RivorusJoined: Mar 30, 2003Programming Sex-God                                                      | quote: rhig came out of the closet to say:Ok, update will be a minute or too,i have no pictures of thescammer however.                                                                                                                                                                                    |                      |
|                                                                                                                                                 | Awesome! Also, please reupload the movie (see previous replies for info) , unless it really is 5 seconds long.                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                      |
| May 11, 2004: 13:13                                                                                                                             | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                       | EditQuote |
| Rib FeastJoined: Feb 18, 2003                                                                                  | This is greater than the first time I saw porn on the internet.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |                      |
|  Half the peanuts, but double the corn! |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                      |
| May 11, 2004: 13:14                                                                                                                             | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                       | EditQuote |
| CrowleyJoined: Mar 13, 2003                                                                                    | Next time we set up a scammer we should stuff the package with a wireless webcam and record the moment he opens the box and find a bag of sand and his ill gotten P-P-P-Powerbook. This thread has been great, but I don't think we should expect any emails.                                                  |                      |
|                                                    |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                      |
| May 11, 2004: 13:14                                                                                                                             | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                       | EditQuote |

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                      |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------|
| down1nitJoined: Jan 09, 2004 Title text (optional; no images are allowed, only text, buttmonger)                                                                                                | yes... Jeff would be proud. I called him up about 5 mins after the delivery was made but got voicemail. 😞 good to see you alive rhig. we were collectively worried for your anus.                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                      |
| May 11, 2004: 13:15                                                                                                                                                                                                        | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | EditQuote |
| down1nitJoined: Jan 09, 2004 Title text (optional; no images are allowed, only text, buttmonger)                                                                                                | quote:cYz came out of the closet to say:btw is someone so crazy waiting there to "the guy" picking up the boxes in the shop? i think he's trying to communicate                                                                                                                                                                                          |                      |
| May 11, 2004: 13:19                                                                                                                                                                                                        | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | EditQuote |
| BjergenJoined: May 21, 2003 short, fat prick                                                                                                                                                    | I cast my vote for Jeff to send another email. "Hi, fedex told me you got your package okay, could you please release the funds? I have to pay for my pet's cremation / grandmother's dialysis / smack habit. Thanks a lot, I wish I could have left feedback for you"                                                                                                                                       |                      |
| May 11, 2004: 13:20                                                                                                                                                                                                        | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | EditQuote |
| MannequinJoined: Mar 08, 2003 The difference between fiction and reality? Fiction has to make sense. | quote:Bjergen came out of the closet to say:I cast my vote for Jeff to send another email."Hi, fedex told me you got your package okay, could you please release the funds? I have to pay for my pet's cremation / grandmother's dialysis / smack habit. Thanks a lot, I wish I could have left feedback for you" L O I am in full support of this. |                      |
| May 11, 2004: 13:24                                                                                                                                                                                                        | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | EditQuote |
| HungryjackJoined: May 09, 2003                                                                                | A glorious day for goons worldwide, but not for scammers.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |                      |
| May 11, 2004: 13:26                                                                                                                                                                                                        | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | EditQuote |

rhig

Joined: Jul 14, 2002

bitches can't hide from this

The computers in the cafe I'm in won't recognise my camera and it would be a hassle with drivers, I'm going to see if I can find somewhere else in a few minutes but it will probably have to wait. I have about 1-1.5 minutes of the FedEx delivery but most is the woman trying to find boxes in the van, it took her ages so I couldn't get the timing right, I can only do 30 seconds at a time at 640/480.

Do any of the goons who have been to the barbers remember a guy wearing a cotton knitted hat? That's the guy who was talking with the scammer, I'm sure I saw him either yesterday or last week. Pretty much everyone who goes there seem to know each other but I doubt anyone else is really in the know about the scam, most of the customers seem to be people using the computers for internet/work who probably don't have computers at home.

The fate of the P-P-PowerBook: The guy was not holding anything when he was outside the shop; I think it is either a bin in the shop or the big one out the back. I tried to sneak round to investigate but there were a few people hanging around. It's possible he took it home to avoid the barber seeing it but I am sure he would have after it was opened.

The only pictures I got inside the shop were of a "Jean Climax" official mug which I was planning to steal before I left. I went back later for a second attempt to steal it but the room was full of people.

rhig fucked around with this message at May 11, 2004 around 23:42

May 11, 2004: 13:30

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Alctel

Joined: Jan 16, 2004

Dance!

quote:

rhig came out of the closet to say:

He paid the fee and there was a lot of russling, he was opening one of the boxes, there was more angry raised voices and the barber said something like "is it broken etc", the guy said something like its wrong/mistake I don't think he really understood the joke right away. There was more raised voices but not real arguing, the guy didnt suspect the barber of anything and didnt as far as I know explain what happendto him. Probably to keep his post office box if the barbers not in on it.

VICTORY!!

May 11, 2004: 13:38

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

luscious-lou

Joined: Sep 09, 2001

I am Legend

Wow! This is truly the stuff of legend!
Good work to all involved!

May 11, 2004: 13:39

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Otokodate
Joined: Jan 15, 2004

All your nuts are belong to me

Now THAT is a great way to start my day. Now for the sucky part where I have to go to work [REDACTED]. It really sucks that we couldn't get a picture of the scammer.

May 11, 2004: 13:39

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Scenix
Joined: Sep 18, 2002

quote:
rhig came out of the closet to say:
"is it broken"

Glorious.
Eagerly looking forward to the email from the scammer.

May 11, 2004: 13:42

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Yossarko
Joined: Jan 22, 2004

The little Armenian boy who could...

Good work, rhig!!! Hahaha, this is most excellent!

May 11, 2004: 13:43

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Dart
Joined: Nov 24, 2003

quote:

rhig came out of the closet to say:
Awesomeness.

YES, finally. Well done and congratulations to rhig and everyone else involved. Now we just got to wait for the OMG WAHSTASNGASTAWAFGML email from Mr Scammy.

May 11, 2004: 13:43

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

yosarian
Joined: Jan 22, 2002

"A chicken in every pot and a cap in every ass"

hey all. I just got up, read the 4 pages that were made since I went to bed last night.

I updated the wife last night on the latest developments of this case. She too is looking forward to this guy getting screwed. In celebration of this guy getting his, we watched "Lock, Stock & Two Smoking Barrels" last night.

Package delivered: Awesome! I can't wait to hear what el pricko scammer has to say about getting scammed out of $400 in duty fees.

This pic makes me LO because I am from NJ and the only 'authentic' NJ Chicken is soul kitchen cooking made in some grandmas house. The logo of the chicken with the cowboy hat cracks me up.

May 11, 2004: 13:47

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit Quote

Mannequin

Joined: Mar 08, 2003

The difference between fiction and reality? Fiction has to make sense.

quote:

yosarian came out of the closet to say:

This pic makes me LO because I am from NJ and the only 'authentic' NJ Chicken is soul kitchen cooking made in some grandmas house. The logo of the chicken with the cowboy hat cracks me up.

Hey there fellow Jersey goon. I know what you mean, I had the same reaction 😊

May 11, 2004: 13:52

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit Quote

palp
Joined: Oct 01, 2003

the palp

quote:

---

yosarian came out of the closet to say:
This pic makes me LO because I am from NJ and the only 'authentic' NJ Chicken is soul kitchen cooking made in some grandmas house. The logo of the chicken with the cowboy hat cracks me up.

---

Looking at the pic again, I think it's just the New "Jersey Chicken", not to be confused with that old Jersey Chicken place down the street.

May 11, 2004: 13:54

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Phalex
Joined: May 14, 2002

I love you all!

Unregistered HyperCam

Get a webcam

May 11, 2004: 13:54

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

EditQuote

kjh
Joined: Feb 28, 2004

no ambition, no talent, no chance

quote:

---

ChienNoir came out of the closet to say:

[derail]
Is New Jersey chicken a well known brand? There are chicken places all over London with names like 'Dallas/Texas/Tennessee Fried Chicken', and I always thought they were small time KFC ripoffs
[/derail]

---

"New Jersey Chicken" is about as enticing a name for an eatery as "Jean Climax" is for a barbershop/internet cafe.

More on topic, now that the UK goon squad knows what the guy(s) look(s) like, photos can be taken any old time. They just won't be photos of the defining moment, which appears to have passed (sadly).

At least we know he paid, though. And after checking back every couple days to read this thread, I am confident there's another twist or two on the way, even if it appears "over."

|                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| May 11, 2004: 13:55                                                                                                                                                            | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| rhigJoined: Jul 14, 2002  bitches can't hide from this   | OK I'm going to see if I can find a cafe I can get the videos/pictures online with, I'm getting the coach home at 4 so if theres nothing on in the next 2 hours they wont be online till 9-9:30GMT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| May 11, 2004: 13:55                                                                                                                                                            | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| fowlrockJoined: Oct 02, 2003 NickBlasta gave me herpes                                                                                              | quote:rhig came out of the closet to say:OK I'm going to see if I can find a cafe I can get the videos/pictures online with, I'm getting the coach home at 4 so if theres nothing on in the next 2 hours they wont be online till 9-9:30GMT You have some huge marbles, rhig. I would have been shaking and damn near pissing myself in your situation....good work.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| May 11, 2004: 13:57                                                                                                                                                            | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| RhynoJoined: Mar 22, 2003                                          | I'd say there's a pretty good chance he's at a computer writing an VERY angry email to Jeff right about now.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
| May 11, 2004: 13:57                                                                                                                                                            | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| rhigJoined: Jul 14, 2002  bitches can't hide from this | quote:fowlrock came out of the closet to say:You have some huge marbles, rhig. I would have been shaking and damn near pissing myself in your situation....good work. Hell I was, when I heard him opening the powerbook i was stiffling laughter while shitting myself. I didn't dare risk getting a picture though, he'd likely have seen. Another thing I forgot all the computers seem to be running that khooker program, before people were wondering whether it was a keylogger part of the scam or a driver or something. I dont think its likely to be anything to do with the scam although its very possible, it might be a keylogger though I remember using one with that name a few years ago. |

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                      |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------|
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | rhig fucked around with this message at May 11, 2004 around 14:02                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                      |
| May 11, 2004: 14:00                                                                                                                                                                                                          | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | EditQuote |
| PhalexJoined: May 14, 2002                                                                                        | edit: whoops! Phalex fucked around with this message at May 11, 2004 around 15:55                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                      |
| May 11, 2004: 14:01                                                                                                                                                                                                          | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | EditQuote |
| fowlrockJoined: Oct 02, 2003 NickBlasta gave me herpes                                                                                                                                            | quote: rhig came out of the closet to say: Hell I was, when I heard him opening the powerbook i was stiffling laughter while shitting myself. I didn't dare risk getting a picture though, he'd likely have seen. Another thing I forgot all the computers seem to be running that khooker program, before people were wondering whether it was a keylogger part of the scam or a driver or something. I dont think its likely to be anything to do with the scam although its very possible, it might be a keylogger though I remember using one with that name a few years ago. Where was Starbucks in all of this? Did he pass out from the "special of the day" breakfast again? |                      |
| May 11, 2004: 14:03                                                                                                                                                                                                          | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | EditQuote |
| MannequinJoined: Mar 08, 2003 The difference between fiction and reality? Fiction has to make sense. | quote: rhig came out of the closet to say: Hell I was, when I heard him opening the powerbook i was stiffling laughter while shitting myself. I didn't dare risk getting a picture though, he'd likely have seen. What's the status of the video you uploaded?                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                      |
| May 11, 2004: 14:05                                                                                                                                                                                                          | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | EditQuote |

|                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Crowley Joined: Mar 13, 2003                                                               | sigh I was really hoping that rhig would step up to the guy, whip out his police ID and say something like "You have the right to remain sexy, sugar!". ..and then ninja SWAT monkeys would have blow off the roof and fastroped onto the guy. ah, I'm just dreaming. |
| May 11, 2004: 14:06                                                                                                                                                                                         | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageSearch For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                       |
| Jockthecock Joined: May 07, 2003                                                           | quote: rhig came out of the closet to say:I don't think he really understood the joke right away. My boss wants to know why I'm squealing like a stuck pig, but I don't think he'd get the joke right away either.                         |
| May 11, 2004: 14:09                                                                                                                                                                                         | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageSearch For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                       |
| baka kaba Joined: Jul 19, 2003                                                             | Beautiful. Just beautiful. I wish rhig had been wearing a wire but other than that, this whole thing went perfectly. Now the post-delivery taunting can begin!                                                                                                                                |
| May 11, 2004: 14:10                                                                                                                                                                                         | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageSearch For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                       |
| OorahAirForce Joined: Dec 07, 2003 I would do sex with Rammy.fapfapfap | Followed this thread from the beginning, silently cheering you guys on but apprehensive it would end in failure. Words cannot express my elation. Goons 1, scammers ZERO. Fucking amazing work guys. Good job all around.                                                                     |
| May 11, 2004: 14:12                                                                                                                                                                                         | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More Posts EditQuote                                                                             |

EricFate
Joined: Aug 31, 2001

Crumpets. Glorious Crumpets.

A satisfying end. Even without pictures of the guy doing the pickup.

I just hope I come home from work to find a suitable epilogue to the whole event.

May 11, 2004: 14:23

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Dvlos
Joined: Aug 26, 2003

I usually don't eat my poo, but this sprayed everywhere.

quote:

rhig came out of the closet to say:
OK I'm going to see if I can find a cafe I can get the videos/pictures online with,

Rhig, awesome work, I think your primary mission for MI-SA, should be the recovery of the undoubtedly slammed into the trashcan P-P-P-Powerbook... Damn I'm willing to bet the Romanian scammer lives quite close to the barbershop... is it time for the mind games and threats yet?

May 11, 2004: 14:24

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Blaise
Joined: Sep 10, 2003

Calculated Karma

A very drawn out conclusion. Can't wait for the email.

May 11, 2004: 14:30

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

EditQuote

Grimmy
Joined: Dec 02, 2003

WTF

quote:

Dvlos came out of the closet to say:

I think your primary mission for MI-SA, should be the recovery of the undoubtedly slammed into the trashcan P-P-P-Powerbook...

That would be sooo good. It could be put up for auction on ebay \o/

May 11, 2004: 14:37

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

EditQuote

TheChaplain

Joined: Apr 22, 2002

God is just the start of your problems, neh?

quote:

Grimmy came out of the closet to say:
That would be sooo good. It could be put up for auction on ebay \o/

Or put in the Museum of Goonish History to be viewed by future generations. There could be a plaque about the living hell of anticipation and what can come to pass when goons mobilize.

It's a shame you didn't have backup, rhig. In the end, you're still the fucking man.

May 11, 2004: 14:55

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

rhig

Joined: Jul 14, 2002

bitches can't hide from this

quote:

Dvlos came out of the closet to say:

Rhig, awesome work, I think your primary mission for MI-SA, should be the recovery of the undoubtedly slammed into the trashcan P-P-P-Powerbook... Damn I'm willing to bet the Romanian scammer lives quite close to the barbershop... is it time for the mind games and threats yet?

I was going to attempt to recover it had it been thrown out but there were people round the back. Best option is for a London goon to search through this guys outside bin, if it was left in the barbers it will most likely be there. If I dared go again I would because I want my Jean Climax mug.

This is the fourth internet cafe ive tried, you guys are going to have to wait till I get back for videos, there isnt too much on video that was missed on the photos.

I think its a bad idea to do any pranks to the addresses and phone numbers first, we should,

a. Wait for the e-mail.

b. Decide the best thing to do to get this guy back.

Perhaps it would be worth someone contacting the police, it should be up to Jeff but perhaps it may be a way of getting the powerbook back. Possibly the police would give it back to SA in return for the information. Its unlikely they can't easily bust this guy as I believe he will probably keep using the mail box and even if he changes its unlikely there is no way for him to be found through people at the shop, I was very suprised it was actually him who turned up but I doubt he sent someone else.

I'm heading back anyway, should be back at 9, havent slept in a bed since saturday night but its still been worth it.

rhig fucked around with this message at May 11, 2004 around 15:19

May 11, 2004: 14:58

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                            |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------|
| May 11, 2004: 15:36                                                                                                                                                                                                                | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | Edit Quote |
| withak Joined: Jan 15, 2003  F != m * a                                                                | quote: <hr/> rhig came out of the closet to say: Another thing I forgot all the computers seem to be running that khooker program, before people were wondering whether it was a keylogger part of the scam or a driver or something. I dont think its likely to be anything to do with the scam although its very possible, it might be a keylogger though I remember using one with that name a few years ago. <hr/> Google thinks its some kind of keyboard drivers that gets installed with older graphics card software. |                                            |
| May 11, 2004: 15:45                                                                                                                                                                                                                | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | Edit Quote |
| Fufo Joined: Apr 24, 2002  UNEXPECTED!                                                                 | Great job all around, people. This is the greatest thing since the last greatest thing that happened in the internet. I wish I could go there and pay a round for all the secret agents. Edit: As someone already said some pages ago, khooker.exe isn't a keylogger, it's a control panel thinguie for SiS video cards. As a matter of fact I have an instance of that particular program running in one of my puters here at work.                                                                                                                                                    |                                            |
| May 11, 2004: 15:45                                                                                                                                                                                                                | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | Edit Quote |
| capital zero Joined: Apr 28, 2004                                                                                | hehe that guy got pwned!                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |                                            |
| May 11, 2004: 15:50                                                                                                                                                                                                                | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | Edit Quote |
| Dr.SchadenFreud Joined: Jul 16, 2003  I'm going to have to give you some of my "special medicine..." | LO BAHAAHAHAHA fucking eBay scammer got what he deserved! "Hey, how did the Powerbook work out for you? Would you like to buy some more? Plenty more where that came from!"                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                            |
| May 11, 2004: 15:51                                                                                                                                                                                                                | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | Edit Quote |

TheChaplain

Joined: Apr 22, 2002

God is just the start of your problems, neh?

But don't neglect to change your password when you get home anyways, rhig. There's already much evidence of deviousness afoot.

May 11, 2004: 15:51

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

TOUCHDOWN!!!

Ok I'm back. I couldn't stay up because we have auditors here at work, and I could not risk staying up all night and being late. 😞

No, I have not received any email. I am sure it's on its way. The minute I get it, I will have it here.

I am going to mark this day on every calendar, and celebrate this day every year.

rhig - Awesome work!

Edit - Do I get my title back now?

MyNameIsJeff fucked around with this message at May 11, 2004 around 15:59

May 11, 2004: 15:56

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

ComputerNinja

Joined: Aug 08, 2003

Awesome work. I know it was mentioned earlier in the thread, but khooker looks to be some SiS keyboard daemon.

What?

May 11, 2004: 15:56

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Kevin H

Joined: Jul 17, 2001

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:

TOUCHDOWN!!!

I am going to mark this day on every calendar, and celebrate this day every year.

5/11 never forget

May 11, 2004: 15:57

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

mangler103

Joined: Jun 06, 2003

DVD's are my anti-drug...but now I'm addicted to DVD's.

Delicious, just delicious.

If he e-mails MyNameIsJeff, and threatens him in any way, we should definitely send pictures of the barbershop to him, just to let him know we know where he is.

Not every mark has a goon army behind him.

May 11, 2004: 15:57

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

fourwood

Joined: Sep 09, 2001

Damn I'll bring them to their knees.

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:

No, I have not received any email. I am sure it's on its way. The minute I get it, I will have it here.

I anxiously await this. I hope it comes.

May 11, 2004: 15:59

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Random Nonsense

Joined: Nov 02, 2002

I don't drive recklessly, I drive interestingly.

A most satisfying ending! To all who were involved: Thanks for the weeks of entertainment! You are all very brave, and I'm glad you were able to scam the scammer successfully! 😊

May 11, 2004: 16:03

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

SirRobin

Joined: Mar 02, 2002

quote:

Random Nonsense came out of the closet to say:

A most satisfying ending! To all who were involved: Thanks for the weeks of entertainment!

Ending? What ending? Was Star Wars over when they rescued the Princess?

There's still at least one more round of emails to go and those are likely to be the funniest things in this thread (except the P-p-p-powerbook photos). We have yet to see the scammer's reaction. Then MyNameIsJ-j-j-jeff will have to respond to the scammer's comments. The fat lady isn't even on stage yet.

May 11, 2004: 16:19

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Dr.SchadenFreud

Joined: Jul 16, 2003

I'm going to have to give you some of my "special medicine..."

quote:

SirRobin came out of the closet to say:

The fat lady isn't even on stage yet.

Hell no, she ain't, and I'm ready to hear her! FAT LADY TO THE STAGE!

May 11, 2004: 16:21

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

PacMain

Joined: Nov 15, 2003

I got blood on my hands and there's no remorse...

This just shows the power that goons really have. Good work all of you, especially you UK goons that got us pics. I can't wait to read the reaction email.

May 11, 2004: 16:25

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

lapsey

Joined: Nov 23, 2003

Reporting in for some dumpster diving, since it doesn't cut into my uni obligations. Hopefully I can get there before it's covered with other garbage. Will also attempt to obtain Jean Climax mug.

Any other suggestions before I go? 🍅 ?

lapsey fucked around with this message at May 11, 2004 around 16:37

May 11, 2004: 16:29

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Earwicker

Joined: Jan 06, 2003

Good work everyone, this truly is the thread of threads, whatever that means

May 11, 2004: 16:36

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

HOTSauce

Joined: Mar 12, 2002

I BROKE YOUR HYMEN, YOU BROKE MY HEART. I GUESS THAT MAKES US EVEN.

quote:

lapsey came out of the closet to say:

Reporting in for some dumpster diving, since it doesn't cut into my uni obligations. Hopefully I can get there before it's covered with other garbage.

Will also attempt to obtain Jean Climax mug.

Any other suggestions before I go? 🍅 ?

|                                                                                                                                                              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| May 11, 2004: 16:48                                                                                                                               | If you could get an external ip of the computers, that would be phenomenal. I'm currently working on tying the scammer to the barbershop (although the whole fedex shipping does that perfectly) via the e-mails he's sent and so forth. User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| 98blacksnakeJoined: Apr 09, 2004 | quote:withak came out of the closet to say:Google thinks its some kind of keyboard drivers that gets installed with older graphics card software. YOuarecorrect-khooker.exeistheSiSKeyboardSystemTrayutilitywhichesgetsinstalledbythedriversofthelatterdaySiSVGAcards. |
| May 11, 2004: 16:50                                                                                                                               | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
| Str8DogJoined: Apr 07, 200401010101010                                                                           | quote:MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:TOUCHDOWN!!!Edit - Do I get my title back now? Previoustiterestored.Iaddeda.comsothestorywilliveonininfamy!                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| May 11, 2004: 16:53                                                                                                                               | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| lapseyJoined: Nov 23, 2003     | quote:HOTSauce came out of the closet to say:If you could get an external ip of the computers, that would be phenomenal. ifit'snotgoingthroughrougredirection/anonymizerIcan http://www.ostrosoft.com/OIT/external_ip.asp Weren'ttheyareadyID'dasusingOneTel? lapsey fucked around with this message at May 11, 2004 around 17:00                                                                                                                                                              |
| May 11, 2004: 16:56                                                                                                                               | User's Profile / ImageSend a Private MessageUser's HomepageSearch For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |

CygnusTM

Joined: Oct 11, 2002

Ka-BONGGG!!!

quote:

SirRobin came out of the closet to say:

Ending? What ending? Was Star Wars over when they rescued the Princess?

Was it over when the Germans bombed Pearl Harbor?

MyNameIsJeff, are you going to send a "FedEx says you have received, please release the escrow" e-mail?

May 11, 2004: 16:58

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

logical fallacy

Joined: Mar 16, 2001

I think it might be possible that requesting money might get Jeff in more trouble than it would the scammer. Funny? yes, but it might just complicate things if there is an investigation.

Just a thought, I guess. I just wouldn't want to see Jeff get into too much trouble because he unleashed a squadron of goons on the scammer, whether the scammer deserves it or not.

May 11, 2004: 17:10

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

ChesterJT

Joined: Dec 28, 2003

I'M HELPING!!!

Why am I seeing this image of MyNameIsJeff floating in the Thames with the Romanian guy standing over him, laughing with his other russian mob buddies, cursing him for upsetting their laptop selling operation? God be with you Jeff!!!

Goon justice shall not be served until we get an angry email.

May 11, 2004: 17:10

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

skwidd

Joined: Mar 29, 2003

quote:

CygnusTM came out of the closet to say:

Was it over when the Germans bombed Pearl Harbor?

MyNameIsJeff, are you going to send a "FedEx says you have received, please release the escrow" e-mail?

That's the obvious next step.

The Germans bombed Pearl Harbor???

[REDACTED]

May 11, 2004: 17:11

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

|                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Lisa MarieJoined: Apr 03, 2001Excuse me, I believe you have my stapler.                                                                        | Well, can't he write something that's obviously in jest, such as "well, is everything in the condition you had hoped?", so we can get an angry response of some sort?                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| May 11, 2004: 17:13                                                                                                                                                                  | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| CountOfNowhereJoined: Feb 26, 2004.....there's 20 of them!                                                                                     | Since he seems to receive a lot of packages, and could have been expecting more than one Powerbook, what are the chances that he either is going to shoot off an angry e-mail to the wrong person, or to simply not be able to figure out which of his "victims" sent it? He doesn't seem to be the sharpest &lt;insert sharp tool here&gt; in the toolbox...Just a thought.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| May 11, 2004: 17:14                                                                                                                                                                  | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| liquorheadJoined: Jul 11, 2002elephant parts 4 life | quote:logical fallacy came out of the closet to say:I think it might be possible that requesting money might get Jeff in more trouble than it would the scammer. Funny? yes, but it might just complicate things if there is an investigation.Just a thought, I guess. I just wouldn't want to see Jeff get into too much trouble because he unleashed a squadron of goons on the scammer, whether the scammer deserves it or not.Agreed, pushing this further will kill the great ending we already have. We can hope for emails, but I wouldn't solicit them. |
| May 11, 2004: 17:15                                                                                                                                                                  | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| logical fallacyJoined: Mar 16, 2001                           | I'm pretty sure he'll know this is Jeff's laptop because he had to pay customs a good chunk of cash for it.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
| May 11, 2004: 17:20                                                                                                                                                                  | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| ChlamydiaJonesJoined: Sep 27, 2002                           | I wonder if Jean Climax will understand when, in the future, random computer nerds show up to the shop, get a haircut, take lots of pictures of the event and then run out the door giggling like schoolgirls and shouting p-p-p-powerbook!!!We need FBI style jackets with the little flap in the middle of the back that can be ripped off to show "p-p-p-powerbook!!!!" as we run from the store!                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| May 11, 2004: 17:23                                                                                                                                                                  | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More PostsEditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |

Webjunkie

Joined: Jan 19, 2003

Couldn't Care Less

quote:

liquorhead came out of the closet to say:

Agreed, pushing this further will kill the great ending we already have. We can hope for emails, but I wouldn't solicit them.

I'd say asking the guy for positive feedback would be a way to safely poke him with a stick for some reaction.

May 11, 2004: 17:25

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

CountOfNowhere

Joined: Feb 26, 2004

.....there's 20 of them!

quote:

logical fallacy came out of the closet to say:

I'm pretty sure he'll know this is Jeff's laptop because he had to pay customs a good chunk of cash for it.

Very good point, but we still don't know if his incompetence extends beyond his lack of English-speaking ability.

May 11, 2004: 17:28

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Dr.SchadenFreud

Joined: Jul 16, 2003

I'm going to have to give you some of my "special medicine..."

quote:

Webjunkie came out of the closet to say:

I'd say asking the guy for positive feedback would be a way to safely poke him with a stick for some reaction.

LOLO "A+++ eBayer, would scam again!"

May 11, 2004: 17:31

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

wargasm

Joined: Mar 04, 2004

[M] village drunkard

The internet does not make you stupid, or lazy, or sexually frustrated. It instead permits one to attempt a scam on someone, who in turn scams them back in view of the world wide webber public (since GBS is viewable as such). To say this is goldmine material does not suffice; I submit that we make a plaque and/or monument to this testament of goon (in)justice. carry on!

May 11, 2004: 17:34

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Otokodate

Joined: Jan 15, 2004

All your nuts are belong to me

quote:

mangler103 came out of the closet to say:
Delicious, just delicious.

If he e-mails MyNameIsJeff, and threatens him in any way, we should definitely send pictures of the barbershop to him, just to let him know we know where he is.

Not every mark has a goon army behind him.

Another reason we need pictures of the s-s-scammer.

May 11, 2004: 17:36

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

OorahAirForce

Joined: Dec 07, 2003

I would do sex with Rammy.
*fapfap*

quote:

Dr.SchadenFreud came out of the closet to say:

LOLO "A+++ eBayer, would scam again!"

I hope I'm not the first one to point out the perfect coincidence of your username + this thread.
☺

May 11, 2004: 17:38

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Pipski

Joined: Apr 18, 2004

Lovely barbershop. Pity I wasn't invited.

Lollavator goooooing up!

Outstanding work Rhig! Make sure that you remember those guys' faces - it's very easy to forget. Hell, if you're any good at drawing do an artist's impression. At least make sure you could pick `em out of a lineup.
Right now am gliding euphorically through the azure skies of satisfaction on the bat wings of vengeance. Rhig, next time you're down this way, you won't have to put your hand in your pocket.

<http://img9.imageshack.us/my.php?lo...victorycopy.jpg>

May 11, 2004: 17:38

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Woof

Joined: Nov 03, 2002

Great work guys ☺
I left work early, just to get home to read this thread.

This thread is the best sex i've ever had!

May 11, 2004: 17:46

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Landslide

Joined: Sep 02, 2003

Thanks for reopening the thread. I can't wait to see what our scammer says.

Also, did you guys notice the guy in rhig's pic with the cotton hot? Is that not the scammer? It meets the description.

|                                                                                                                                                                         |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                                            |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------|
| May 11, 2004: 18:57                                                                                                                                              | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | Edit Quote |
| MyNameIsJeffJoined: Dec 05, 2003P-P-P-Powerbook.com!                 | Here is the email I sent: -----Original Message-----From: MyNameIsJeff [mailto:mynameisjeff@bootsix.net]Sent: Tuesday, May 11, 2004 9:56 AMTo: 'scont06@yahoo.com'Subject: Ready to complete transaction Hello friend! It sure took a long time, but it got there! I was worried for a while! I thought I had lost my powerbook for good in some kind of scam. I wish I didn't pay for such fast shipping, now that I see how long FedEx takes. Please let me know when you are done checking everything and making sure it works. I packed it pretty well. I hope shipping didn't bang it up. You will see I included some extra books. I didn't really need them now that I got rid of the powerbook. Anyways, I still cannot log onto the escrow site. Will payment still be sent even though they are having connection problems? I realized I never gave my address or any bank account information for payment. If I were to give that to you, would you be able to get it to them so they can send the payment? That would be great. I need this money to pay my rent. I am curious . . . What did you end up paying for the taxes? I wanted to know because I still want to refund some of the money to you. Thanks!Jeff |                                            |
| May 11, 2004: 19:00                                                                                                                                              | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | Edit Quote |
| rottingcorpseJoined: Dec 12, 2003you forgot to renew your domain.com | quote: <hr/> MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:Here is the email I sent: -----Original Message-----I am curious . . . What did you end up paying for the taxes? I wanted to know because I still want to refund some of the money to you. <hr/>                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                            |
| May 11, 2004: 19:01                                                                                                                                              | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | Edit Quote |

Earwicker

Joined: Jan 06, 2003

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:

Here is the email I sent:

-----Original Message-----

From: MyNameIsJeff [mailto:mynameisjeff@bootsix.net]

Sent: Tuesday, May 11, 2004 9:56 AM

To: 'scont06@yahoo.com'

Subject: Ready to complete transaction

Hello friend!

It sure took a long time, but it got there! I was worried for a while! I thought I had lost my powerbook for good in some kind of scam.

I wish I didn't pay for such fast shipping, now that I see how long FedEx takes. Please let me know when you are done checking everything and making sure it works. I packed it pretty well. I hope shipping didn't bang it up. You will see I included some extra books. I didn't really need them now that I got rid of the powerbook.

Anyways, I still cannot log onto the escrow site. Will payment still be sent even though they are having connection problems? I realized I never gave my address or any bank account information for payment. If I were to give that to you, would you be able to get it to them so they can send the payment? That would be great. I need this money to pay my rent.

I am curious . . . What did you end up paying for the taxes? I wanted to know because I still want to refund some of the money to you.

Thanks!

Jeff

Excellent.

Also, just to remind you, the forums are open to the public now and you've got email addresses in there and such...

May 11, 2004: 19:02

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

quote:

lapsey came out of the closet to say:

Reporting in for some dumpster diving, since it doesn't cut into my uni obligations. Hopefully I can get there before it's covered with other garbage.

Will also attempt to obtain Jean Climax mug.

Any other suggestions before I go?  ?

Get any Jean Climax related items you can! When do you plan on going?

May 11, 2004: 19:05

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

bob_dole_nz
Joined: Jan 15, 2004

quote:

---

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:
Here is the email I sent:

-----Original Message-----
From: MyNameIsJeff [mailto:mynameisjeff@bootsix.net]
Sent: Tuesday, May 11, 2004 9:56 AM
To: 'scont06@yahoo.com'
Subject: Ready to complete transaction

Hello friend!
Funny cam reference
Thanks!
Jeff

---

Hahahah. This guy definitely knows that the jig must be up. But sadly, the time has come to inform the authorities of this scammers wherabouts, and to allow mr Climax to get fucked in the ass by the british criminal system. Good old fraud.

A nice friendly trip into the nearest police station with a kind word to sya "Did you know that there is an international fraud ring being run from 9 Varley Parade, a barbershop not 3 miles from here.' and accompanying evidence will make for good fun. Also send it to more important people, like the E crime dept at Scotland Yard or whoever.

May 11, 2004: 19:06

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit Quote

Pipski
Joined: Apr 18, 2004

Lovely barbershop. Pity I wasn't invited.

quote:

---

Landslide came out of the closet to say:
Thanks for reopening the thread. I can't wait to see what our scammer says.

Also, did you guys notice the guy in rhig's pic with the cotton hot? Is that not the scammer? It meets the description.

lol, no. That's a flat cap. Not made of cotton. We Yorkshire folk favour them.

|                                                                                                                                                                          |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                                                                                                                                                                          | EDIT - also, seeing as this has a big international angle, I'd skip the local police and take it straight to the Yard. We have any Plod goons who know who'd be best?                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| May 11, 2004: 19:07                                                                                                                                                      | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| lapseyJoined: Nov 23, 2003                                                | I'm in there now. Suddenly the prospect of dumpster diving looks less and less appealing looking at the state of the bins round there, never mind picking the right bin, and then there's the chance its in there at all                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| May 11, 2004: 19:07                                                                                                                                                      | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| therealNeoSJoined: Jul 13, 20015 bux saves the day                                                                                                    | Hooray for goon justice. What would have been the best result would have been to run up to him and say LOL SUP and take a pictue of him after he had just opened the box.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| May 11, 2004: 19:09                                                                                                                                                      | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| MyNameIsJeffJoined: Dec 05, 2003P-P-P-Powerbook.com!                  | quote: <hr/> lapsey came out of the closet to say:I'm in there now. Suddenly the prospect of dumpster diving looks less and less appealing looking at the state of the bins round there, never mind picking the right bin, and then there's the chance its in there at all <hr/> You're in the cafe now? What about garbage cans inside the store? |
| May 11, 2004: 19:10                                                                                                                                                      | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| PipskiJoined: Apr 18, 2004Lovely barbershop. Pity I wasn't invited. | Lapsey, there's a wheelie bin in the alley round the back that has number `9' painted on it. It might be in there. (PS, bagsy a mug if you can get two!)                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| May 11, 2004: 19:13                                                                                                                                                      | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |

Duckrasta

Joined: Sep 21, 2002

quote:

lapsey came out of the closet to say:

I'm in there now. Suddenly the prospect of dumpster diving looks less and less appealing looking at the state of the bins round there, never mind picking the right bin, and then there's the chance its in there at all

Well, at least take a peek into a couple, you don't have to dig around too much if you don't want to.

May 11, 2004: 19:13

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Bandito

Joined: Jul 08, 2003

snappy dresser

What are the thoughts on opening up this battle on another front?

For example, someone can email this dood, and say that you had been watching Jeff's auction and saw that it closed early. You contacted Jeff about it and he gave you his email address to ask if he'll be keeping the P-P-P-Powerbook or if he'll be reselling it?

On one hand, it could encourage him to scam someone else, on the other, he'll still be in contact with a goon until the authorities do their jobs.

Great work, Goon Justice Squad!

May 11, 2004: 19:19

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

B4Ctom1

Joined: Oct 05, 2003

Captain Derail

quote:

Bandito came out of the closet to say:

What are the thoughts on opening up this battle on another front?

For example, someone can email this dood, and say that you had been watching Jeff's auction and saw that it closed early. You contacted Jeff about it and he gave you his email address to ask if he'll be keeping the P-P-P-Powerbook or if he'll be reselling it?

On one hand, it could encourage him to scam someone else, on the other, he'll still be in contact with a goon until the authorities do their jobs.

Great work, Goon Justice Squad!

yes yes, we need to recover the P-P-P-Powerbook. Someone contact him regarding the auction after this is over, set up yet another but similar fake escrow and see if he will sell it back. Preferably a UK goon so that no more tariffs are rendered.

May 11, 2004: 19:59

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

NGL

Joined: Jan 15, 2003

AssKing

This thread has left me speechless. Brilliant work. I salute you all.

May 11, 2004: 20:07

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

|                                                                                                                                                                          |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| absolut1Joined: Sep 18, 2003  Absolut Awful | Such a rewarding end so far, but I really hope we hear back from the scammer. Well done, all!                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
| May 11, 2004: 20:10                                                                                                                                               | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
| pooper scooperJoined: Oct 23, 2003                     | Yeah, there can be so much more milked out of this situation. I kinda like that idea about scamming the scammer to get the 3pbook back. I am also waiting for Jeff to hear something from the Romanian. It would indeed be funny if he could email him pictures of Jean Climax's Barbershop Cafe. The possibilities at this point are endless, so long as our scammer keeps in contact. It would be the greatest if goon recon could found out where Mr. Salsarico lives.                                                                                                                    |
| May 11, 2004: 20:13                                                                                                                                               | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
| Random NonsenseJoined: Nov 02, 2002 I don't drive recklessly, I drive interestingly.                                                   | quote: <hr/> SirRobin came out of the closet to say: Ending? What ending? Was Star Wars over when they rescued the Princess? There's still at least one more round of emails to go and those are likely to be the funniest things in this thread (except the P-p-p-powerbook photos). We have yet to see the scammer's reaction. Then MyNameIsJ-j-j-jeff will have to respond to the scammer's comments. The fat lady isn't even on stage yet. <hr/> I stand corrected. The end will be quite satisfying when it does happen,though. 😊 |
| May 11, 2004: 20:16                                                                                                                                               | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
| kremiJoined: May 08, 2003  Yum Yum        | Every time I think this thread is going to die, it revives itself and goes even further. I can't wait to see what happens next.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| May 11, 2004: 20:56                                                                                                                                               | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |

lapsey
Joined: Nov 23, 2003

quote:

---

Duckrasta came out of the closet to say:

Well, at least take a peek into a couple, you don't have to dig around too much if you don't want to.

---

Well I'm back home with nothing but smelly hands and an external ip address (213.78.157.225) to show for it.

The p-p-p-powerbook wasn't in any of the bags in bin no.9 nor any of its neighbours', as far as I could dig. Chances are either the scammer hasn't thrown it away yet or he chucked it elsewhere. No addressed envelopes or parcels, and nothing much in the bins inside the place for that matter.

The only mugs around were in full sight of our Mr. Climax and his (non-romanian) mate, and he wouldn't sell me one either. Needless to say I wouldn't have gotten very far if I had swiped one.

At least it was only a tube and a walk away.

Sorry guys

\\\\ <http://www.alteringtime.com/images/news/seppuku.jpg> ?

lapsey fucked around with this message at May 11, 2004 around 21:18

May 11, 2004: 21:05    User's Profile / Image   Send a Private Message   User's Homepage   Search For More Posts

Edit   Quote

fowlrock
Joined: Oct 02, 2003

NickBlasta gave me herpes

quote:

---

lapsey came out of the closet to say:

Well I'm back home with nothing but smelly hands and an external ip address (213.78.157.225) to show for it.

P-p-powerbook wasn't in any of the bags in bin no.9 nor any of its neighbours', as far as I could dig. Chances are either the scammer hasn't thrown it away yet or he chucked it elsewhere. No addressed envelopes or parcels either.

The only mugs around were in full sight of our Mr. Climax and his (non-romanian) mate, and he wouldn't sell me one either. Needless to say I wouldn't have gotten very far if I had swiped one.

Sorry guys

---

You have failed....it is time for seppuku

May 11, 2004: 21:10    User's Profile / Image   Send a Private Message   Search For More Posts

Edit   Quote

LodeRunner

Joined: Dec 27, 2003

Floggins will continue until morale improves.

quote:

lapsey came out of the closet to say:

The p-p-p-powerbook wasn't in any of the bags in bin no.9 nor any of its neighbours', as far as I could dig. Chances are either the scammer hasn't thrown it away yet or he chucked it elsewhere. No addressed envelopes or parcels, and nothing much in the bins inside the place for that matter.

Most people would be looked down upon for digging through trash.

You, however have done something noble and good. I, for one, applaud your trash digging efforts.

May 11, 2004: 21:15

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

rhig

Joined: Jul 14, 2002

bitches can't hide from this

Ok I'm back and the videos should be going up in a minute, the lady in the picture is the fedex lady if that was not shown in any other pictures. Image 13 was just down the road where I got a taxi out of there, this Colindale is probably the root of all internet fraud.

rhig fucked around with this message at May 11, 2004 around 21:23

May 11, 2004: 21:19

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Rate thread:

Post

Reply

The Awful Forums > Archives > Comedy Goldmine > This guy is trying to rip me off on ebay. How should I respond to his email

(4): « 1 2 3 4 »

Subscribe to this Thread

Powered by: Our hacked version of vBulletin
Copyright ©2000-2002, Jelsoft Enterprises Limited, although we did more work on the software than they did.
<http://www.somethingawful.com>

Something Awful Forums - Forum Archives - Something Awful Website - Buy SA Merchandise! - Shop Through SA Affiliates

\*\*\* LOG IN \*\*\* - Change Your Custom Title - Change a User's Custom Title - Change Your Username - Buy a Banner Ad - Register an Account -
Donate to SA - Upgrade User to Platinum - Remove All Ads - Purchase Bonus Features

User Control Panel - Search the Forums - Member Directory - Private Messages - Download the SA Forums PSD tag - Calendar - Forum Rules -
Dictionary/FAQ -

<LWS> Join plz thx!!!1

YOU HAVE NOT REGISTERED A SOMETHING AWFUL FORUMS ACCOUNT!

(Or you have not logged in yet. If you do have a forums account and something does not appear to be working correctly, please email forumsaccount@somethingawful.com and we'll try to get you fixed up.)

This annoying message will appear on every screen until you register an account! Please get rid of this annoying message by registering your own SA Forums Account and joining us in our putrid rollercoaster ride to hell. You're only seeing a small slice of the SA Forums, and trust me, there are a ton of other exciting forums you currently lack access to, ones full of wonder and people who enjoy the forbidden Internet fruits of pleasure (pictures of dead fat people). So do us all a favor and join us for the low, low one-time price of \$9.95! We charge money to register because it can cost us up to $2,000 per month for bandwidth bills alone, and since we don't believe in shoving popup ads down your throats, we try to make the money back through forum registrations. The SA Forums are one of the last friendly, troll-free popular communities left on the Internet, and we'd love it if you could become another honorary SA Goon. We've got over 20,000 highly active members yet maintain a strong community full of exciting and moderately psychotic people who may or may not stab you if you meet them in real life. So, in conclusion..

>>> JOIN US! <<<

The Awful Forums > Archives > Comedy Goldmine > This guy is trying to rip me off on ebay. How should I respond to his email

(4): < 1 2
3 4

| Author                                                                                                                                                                                                    | Thread                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| BungeejumpJoined: Nov 09, 2003Bungeejumpingpeopledie                                                                                                                                          | quote: CygnusTM came out of the closet to say:Was it over when the Germans bombed Pearl Harbor? Germans bombed Pearl Harbour?!??? Wow my history lessons WERE complete bollocks all along!                                                           |
| May 11, 2004: 21:28                                                                                                                                                                                       | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| Shifter CarJoined: Apr 19, 2004Have you ever heard of a luxury car? You know what luxury means? Have you ever heard of Cadillac? Cadillac Eldorado? That's what I drive. I drive cars that sh | quote: Bungeejump came out of the closet to say:Germans bombed Pearl Harbour?!??? Wow my history lessons WERE complete bollocks all along! Am I #3001? I thought that Pearl Harbor was a plot by Don Ho to bring a little money to the islands. |
| May 11, 2004: 21:32                                                                                                                                                                                       | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| Hellafied4Joined: Jun 05, 2003Your freedom of speech does not mean I'm obligated to listen. Now get the hell out of Broad Street you dirty hippies.                                           | quote: Bungeejump came out of the closet to say:Germans bombed Pearl Harbour?!??? Wow my history lessons WERE complete bollocks all along! Perhaps you should have taken a film class.                                                          |
| May 11, 2004: 21:34                                                                                                                                                                                       | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                             |

LodeRunner

Joined: Dec 27, 2003

Floggins will continue until morale improves.

quote:

Hellafied4 came out of the closet to say:

Perhaps you should have taken a film class.

Forget it he's rolling.

May 11, 2004: 21:35

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

karmaflux

Joined: Feb 26, 2004

OMG WATCH OUT FOR TEH CUCUMBAR!!@$!1

I bought rhig's custom title before I realized that Jeff doesn't have his back yet. SOMEONE NEEDS TO HELP JEFF OUT.

Unfortunately, I'm not anywhere as cool as whoever bought pipski's, so he's still got the best custom title in the history of the forums. But I tried, rhig, I tried.

May 11, 2004: 21:35

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

quote:

karmaflux came out of the closet to say:

I bought rhig's custom title before I realized that Jeff doesn't have his back yet. SOMEONE NEEDS TO HELP JEFF OUT.

Unfortunately, I'm not anywhere as cool as whoever bought pipski's, so he's still got the best custom title in the history of the forums. But I tried, rhig, I tried.

Well, Str8dog got me one, but it's taking a long time.

May 11, 2004: 21:37

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

karmaflux

Joined: Feb 26, 2004

OMG WATCH OUT FOR TEH CUCUMBAR!!@$!1

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:
Well, Str8dog got me one, but it's taking a long time.

Oh good. I feel less like a shitpot now. 😊

May 11, 2004: 21:38

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

rhig

Joined: Jul 14, 2002

bitches can't hide from this

quote:

karmaflux came out of the closet to say:
I bought rhig's custom title before I realized that Jeff doesn't have his back yet. SOMEONE NEEDS TO HELP JEFF OUT.

Unfortunately, I'm not anywhere as cool as whoever bought pipski's, so he's still got the best custom title in the history of the forums. But I tried, rhig, I tried.

Cheers man, its all worthwhile now 😊 Beside's it shouldnt rival Pipski's, he was the first to enter the barbers shop before we knew if it was safe to enter. His original report of the shop was great too.

May 11, 2004: 21:40

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

jalad

Joined: Jan 04, 2004

Lacking dignity since 1978

Did the cafe have webcams, or did people take their own? I can't remember. If they have cams there it would be swell, hypothetically, if we could see what was going every so often. One problem is that any software left running would prevent the cam being available for use by another program. This, hypothetically, could be a suspicion-inducing situation.

Does anyone know of any software that could, hypothetically, grab a snapshot from a cam (if it is not in use) and then immediately release it?

If the cafe doesn't have its own webcams, I'd be happy to chip in for one to be accidentally left there.

This is all hypothetical, of course.

May 11, 2004: 21:47

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Otokodate

Joined: Jan 15, 2004

All your nuts are belong to me

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:

Well, Str8dog got me one, but it's taking a long time.

Yeah, it can take a couple hours for it to show up when you buy for somebody else.

May 11, 2004: 21:49

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

rhig

Joined: Jul 14, 2002

bitches can't hide from this

quote:

jalad came out of the closet to say:

Did the cafe have webcams, or did people take their own? I can't remember. If they have cams there it would be swell, hypothetically, if we could see what was going every so often. One problem is that any software left running would prevent the cam being available for use by another program. This, hypothetically, could be a suspicion-inducing situation.

Does anyone know of any software that could, hypothetically, grab a snapshot from a cam (if it is not in use) and then immediately release it?

If the cafe doesn't have its own webcams, I'd be happy to chip in for one to be accidentally left there.

This is all hypothetical, of course.

Both cafes did, I was setting the one up in the first cafe when the fedex van came, I was hoping to have a live stream but the van was earlier than expected. Jean Climaxes place also had them, I wrote a post in there saying I was getting a live stream of the main entrance set up but then a guy came up and started using one of the computers, im not sure if the post went through. Thanks for the reminder though, I have to cancel the webcam software i signed up to this morning from my card.

quote:

B4Ctom1 came out of the closet to say:

[spymovie]

I can see the contact conversation between rhig and Starbucks:

|                                                                                                                               |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                      |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------|
|                                                                                                                               | sign; "Do you have stairs?" countersign; "They are protected."[/spymovie] <hr/>                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                      |
|                                                                                                                               | Actually thats nearly the same contact that happend last week, I think it was Smitz who came up to me in the pub and asked if I knew Richard Lowtax Kyanka. I had already spotted them as who I thought were the other goons but was trying to get Starbucks on his mobile to check. Even though there were probably over 100 people in Colindale it wasnt hard to spot goons. rhig fucked around with this message at May 11, 2004 around 22:20 |                      |
| May 11, 2004: 21:59                                                                                                    | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | EditQuote |
| LankJoined: Sep 16, 2002  | quote: <hr/> Otokodate came out of the closet to say: Yeah, it can take a couple hours for it to show up when you buy for somebody else. <hr/>                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                      |
|                                                                                                                               | Its just a regulatory clearence delay. Don't worry.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                      |
| May 11, 2004: 21:59                                                                                                    | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | EditQuote |
| UmrathJoined: Aug 27, 2003 Please: Think about the Domokuns                                         | quote: <hr/> Lank came out of the closet to say: Its just a regulatory clearence delay. Don't worry. <hr/>                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                      |
|                                                                                                                               | Nice.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                      |
| May 11, 2004: 22:03                                                                                                    | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | EditQuote |

|                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| FeralJoined: Jun 13, 2003I'm gettin' me a brick outta my backyard. Your southern can belongs to me. | I hopped on this all too late to enjoy the play by play but eagerly await word from the scammer. Excellent job, fellow goons. I salute you all.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| May 11, 2004: 22:04                                                                                                                                                                              | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| vegajiJoined: Apr 14, 2004Owned by Hawk989s                                                                                                                                          | I'm hoping this won't have an all too likely anticlimatic finish. I can't wait until we get the 'ARRRRGH ROMANIAN RAGE' email from the scammer.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| May 11, 2004: 22:55                                                                                                                                                                              | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| CHARLESJoined: Oct 13, 2001                                                                             | ^^ ^^ even if we don't this ending isn't all that bad either.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| May 11, 2004: 23:16                                                                                                                                                                              | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| ChlamydiaJonesJoined: Sep 27, 2002                                                                    | I would still like to see a Romanian in handcuffs being escorted into a black van. By the police or NOT by the police! [edit]38. Tacocriminal - Huge MENSA type troll (banned for). - bet he's pissed now that he can't be a part of the p-p-p-powerbook revenge saga![/edit] ChlamydiaJones fucked around with this message at May 11, 2004 around 23:22 |
| May 11, 2004: 23:19                                                                                                                                                                              | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                               |

Earwicker

Joined: Jan 06, 2003

quote:

Chlamydia Jones came out of the closet to say:

I would still like to see a Romanian in handcuffs being escorted into a black van. By the police or NOT by the police!

You could see this, and much more, on a daily basis for the price of a ticket to Bucharest.

May 11, 2004: 23:23

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

kiimo

Joined: Jul 24, 2003

quote:

CHARLES came out of the closet to say:

^^ ^^ even if we don't this ending isn't all that bad either.

No, see, this ends only after;

- 1) he emails something
- 2) The goons unleash the full fury of internet attack
- 3) He is sent the "Ha Ha Internet" pic
- 4) He is sent a pic from inside the barbershop
- 5) He is reported to the police.

Preferrably in that order. Justice is not served quite yet in my opinion.

May 11, 2004: 23:26

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

rhig

Joined: Jul 14, 2002

bitches can't hide from this

quote:

kiimo came out of the closet to say:

5) He is reported to the police.

Preferrably in that order. Justice is not served quite yet in my opinion.

I just had a thought about that, if it's decided this cause of action is the one to take we might be able to get some money from Crimestoppers or something, they probably arnt going to care about ebay fraud though.

May 11, 2004: 23:29

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

kiimo

Joined: Jul 24, 2003

yeah I don't think they pay for douchebags like this guy.

May 11, 2004: 23:36

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

DLCinferno

Joined: Feb 22, 2003

quote:

ChlamydiaJones came out of the closet to say:

[edit]38. Tacocriminal - Huge MENSA type troll (banned for). - bet he's pissed now that he can't be a part of the p-p-p-powerbook revenge saga![/edit]

Joy abounds. 🍌

May 11, 2004: 23:58

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Avatar

Joined: Jan 23, 2002

RESUME INCLUDES:
Spent a few minutes combing through numerous images of men with enlarged anuses in order to compare a

quote:

kiimo came out of the closet to say:

No, see, this ends only after;

1) he emails something

4) He is sent a pic from inside the barbershop

5) He is reported to the police.

Screw the internet pic and an internet attack has already been unleashed. I picture from the inside of the shop, perferably with him in it would let me rest in peace. The po-po can be brought in but after all that's been done to him it might just be best to let it lie with the "I have a picture of you" email.

May 12, 2004: 00:07

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

®

Joined: Nov 20, 2002

quote:

rhig came out of the closet to say:

The only pictures I got inside the shop were of a "Jean Climax" official mug which I was planning to steal before I left. I went back later for a second attempt to steal it but the room was full of people.

Oh MAN. You could make a killing if you stole a couple of those and sold them on SA Mart. I know I'd buy one. They would have to be stolen (from Jean Climax), though. Not purchased.

May 12, 2004: 00:12

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

rhig

Joined: Jul 14, 2002

bitches can't hide from this

quote:

® came out of the closet to say:

Oh MAN. You could make a killing if you stole a couple of those and sold them on SA Mart. I know I'd buy one. They would have to be stolen (from Jean Climax), though. Not purchased.

I was going to put it in my bag on the way out because the guy came up a couple of times and then that guy came. Im considering personally going for the cup but that can't happen until the end of the month probably. I'd never sell it if I had one anyway.

May 12, 2004: 00:13

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

ChlamydiaJones

Joined: Sep 27, 2002

quote:

Earwicker came out of the closet to say:

You could see this, and much more, on a daily basis for the price of a ticket to Bucharest.

Smartass.

So are we putting together a police information packet on this whole scam? Rather than a dozen of us calling the various London offices of HMSS(Her Majesty's Secret Service) and informing them of the Romanian interwebnet criminal residing in their midst, there should be one complete, documented rundown on this dick. Hand delivered by one of us over there who can explain to them exactly what went down.

Or something.

May 12, 2004: 00:24

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Jobbernowl

Joined: Mar 12, 2004

\Job"ber*nowl` \, n. [OE. jobbernoule, fr. jobarde a stupid fellow; cf. E. noll.] A blockhead. [Colloq. & Obs.]

Wonderful thread, everybody concerned deserves a knighthood. Rhig: Do you plan to stake out the shop at all any more? I doubt Mr. Scammer will stop using it to conduct his scammy business, so perhaps you could grab a photo of him next time he shows up there to collect stuff, or possibly describe him to another goon so that they can do it? I'd love to see a photo of him before he's handed over to the police.

May 12, 2004: 00:42

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Thunderstorm

Joined: Jul 07, 2002

I <3 Hitler p,s. Nazis are wicked cool

It's gonna be hard to get him busted on this case, because, face it, he didn't rip anyone off. There was no powerbook delivered, so naturally Jeff wasn't paid.

While everything here SUGGESTS that he was trying to scam someone, he actually didn't. He was scammed himself. If this comes down to a legal battle, he might even claim damages for the taxes.

May 12, 2004: 00:42

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Dr.SchadenFreud

Joined: Jul 16, 2003

I'm going to have to give you some of my "special medicine..."

quote:

Thunderstorm came out of the closet to say:

It's gonna be hard to get him busted on this case, because, face it, he didn't rip anyone off. There was no powerbook delivered, so naturally Jeff wasn't paid.

While everything here SUGGESTS that he was trying to scam someone, he actually didn't. He was scammed himself. If this comes down to a legal battle, he might even claim damages for the taxes.

Actually, he entered a binding contract with a seller via eBay, then stated that he had placed the required funds in escrow with an escrow service which appears to have been fraudulent. At best, he didn't act in good faith; at worst, he was blatantly engaging in fraud. I don't think MyNameIsJeff has the slightest thing to worry about.

Also, you say, "no powerbook delivered, so naturally Jeff wasn't paid." This is NOT how the transaction was

|                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                                                                                                                       | structured. Recall that the Scammy Rommie was to have placed the funds in escrow PRIOR to Powerbook shipment. Dr.SchadenFreud fucked around with this message at May 12, 2004 around 00:58                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| May 12, 2004: 00:55                                                                                                   | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| STFU DONNYJoined: Apr 08, 2004                                                                             | I don't think Mynameisjeff would get in trouble, but the escrow site is down and to the eyes of the people outside of SA, it never happened.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| V.I. Lenin. Vladimir Illanich Uleninov!                                                                               | I think it would be very hard to get the authorities to do anything.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| May 12, 2004: 00:59                                                                                                   | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| rhigJoined: Jul 14, 2002                                                                                   | quote: <hr/> Jobbernowl came out of the closet to say: Wonderful thread, everybody concerned deserves a knighthood. Rhig: Do you plan to stake out the shop at all any more? I doubt Mr. Scammer will stop using it to conduct his scammy business, so perhaps you could grab a photo of him next time he shows up there to collect stuff, or possibly describe him to another goon so that they can do it? I'd love to see a photo of him before he's handed over to the police. <hr/>                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
|  bitches can't hide from this | I really can't I have exams Thursday and for the next couple of weeks and I've spent way too much time and money already. I might go some time over the summer for a mug if the place is still there but I will have probably lost interest by then. There's probably not much motivation to go without any hot hot scamming scammers live action. Even for a London goon its probably not worth their time to try and get a picture, the guys probably in and out fairly quick usually, he told the barber he was in a hurry today before he got his parcels. Unless someone posts something through City Link or something and stakes out the place for 3 hours its fairly unlikely wed get him. We were lucky with FedEx because of the import tax so we could see when the parcel started to move and knew he was picking the laptop up ASAP. With another currier he won't be informed and will just get it the next time he visits the shop. He didn't really look too bright so I wouldn't be surprised if he carries on using the barbers though. I doubt he will pay duties on anything he is not expecting though. It might be funny just to post him random rubbish with scammer written over the box or something, the barber will definitely know something's up then if he doesn't already. That could be a problem though if the barber wanted to take action though. I thing DONNY is right, we can't really get him into trouble specifically for this because of the transaction not taking place and a lot of evidence not around anymore, sure there are archives of the site etc but even if it could be proved it would be too much work. I think the options are, 1 to either screw around with him a bit which wouldn't be much fun unless someone could stakeout the deliveries and that's just going to get old, 2 |

to inform the authorities but not go into details over the powerbook, just there's a Romanian using this address to receive eBay scammed items, he's used this fake eBay account/escrow domain with archive on disk as well as any other info we have on his overall activities. If it could be kept anonymous and not too official maybe we could get an update from the police over what they get. Bringing up our scam might cause problems and could reveal the forums which might not be a good idea.

rhig fucked around with this message at May 12, 2004 around 01:12

May 12, 2004: 01:04

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Wookiee BBQ

Joined: Nov 12, 2000

quote:

Dr.SchadenFreud came out of the closet to say:

Actually, he entered a binding contract with a seller via eBay...

No, he solicited Jeff via the ask seller a question form using a hijacked eBay account.

May 12, 2004: 01:39

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

hellocruelworld

Joined: Feb 28, 2003

Dude, I See God!

I think all the evidence you guys have may not be enough to put him away...but sure is enough to warrant an investigation. That would be great if we could find another auction that he is scamming from.

May 12, 2004: 02:42

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

luscious-lou

Joined: Sep 09, 2001

I am Legend

What we should do is have Goons across the world mail him an envelope containing 2 pictures. One of the barbershop/ cafe/ Ebay scam station, and the other of the infamous P-p-powerbook. Then include a note that says: We know!

Imagine the load he would drop in his pants when they all start rolling in!

May 12, 2004: 03:41

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Curufin

Joined: Oct 06, 2003

Fifth Son of Fëanor

quote:

hellocruelworld came out of the closet to say:
I think all the evidence you guys have may not be enough to put him away...but sure is enough to warrant an investigation. That would be great if we could find another auction that he is scamming from.

I love your custom title.

Also, I think luscious-lou has a good idea. I'd definitely be game to send that scammer a letter or 5.

May 12, 2004: 03:42

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Gravy

Joined: Sep 07, 2003

Everything goes better with Gravy.

quote:

luscious-lou came out of the closet to say:
What we should do is have Goons across the world mail him an envelope containing 2 pictures. One of the barbershop/ cafe/ Ebay scam station, and the other of the infamous P-p-powerbook. Then include a note that says: We know!

Imagine the load he would drop in his pants when they all start rolling in!

Something like this would so rock. Not only would he be getting tons of letters pouring in, but if he took the time to look at the postmarks. They'd be from EVERYWHERE!

May 12, 2004: 04:07

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

kripes

Joined: Aug 14, 2002

BRRRRRAAAAAIIIIINNNNSSS

quote:

luscious-lou came out of the closet to say:

What we should do is have Goons across the world mail him an envelope containing 2 pictures. One of the barbershop/ cafe/ Ebay scam station, and the other of the infamous P-p-powerbook. Then include a note that says: We know!

Imagine the load he would drop in his pants when they all start rolling in!

Sure why not

May 12, 2004: 04:18

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Celdin

Joined: Sep 02, 2003

After taking 3 midterms today, its nice to come home and read these past few pages that I've missed. Good job to all who made this happen!

I think either trying to put him away or just us all sending him a letter would be a greate way to conclude this. I wonder what the police would think if they started an investigation on him then noticed all of these letters arriving for him.

May 12, 2004: 04:23

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

callmeicarus

Joined: Sep 26, 2003

Garden gnomes are God's unwanted children.

quote:

luscious-lou came out of the closet to say:

What we should do is have Goons across the world mail him an envelope containing 2 pictures. One of the barbershop/ cafe/ Ebay scam station, and the other of the infamous P-p-powerbook. Then include a note that says: We know!

Imagine the load he would drop in his pants when they all start rolling in!

My question is then: Can one send a letter from the states to England without a return address? I know that packages sent within the states must have a return address, but don't know the policy on letters; does anyone know more about the subject?

|                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                                            |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------|
| May 12, 2004: 04:31                                                                                                                                       | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                      | Edit Quote |
| CountOfNowhereJoined: Feb 26, 2004.....there's 20 of them!                                                                                    | quote: <hr/> callmeicarus came out of the closet to say: My question is then: Can one send a letter from the states to England without a return address? I know that packages sent within the states must have a return address, but don't know the policy on letters; does anyone know more about the subject? <hr/> |                                            |
|                                                                                                                                                                  | return address: whatever the fuck you want. they don't verify that YOU live at the return address.... hell, I don't even know if they verify it at all                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                            |
| May 12, 2004: 04:32                                                                                                                                       | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | Edit Quote |
| Jack BurtonJoined: Mar 01, 2002It's all in the reflexes. | quote: <hr/> callmeicarus came out of the closet to say: My question is then: Can one send a letter from the states to England without a return address? I know that packages sent within the states must have a return address, but don't know the policy on letters; does anyone know more about the subject? <hr/> |                                            |
|                                                                                                                                                                  | Return address: 123 Mirage StreetApocryphal, USACA 90210                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                            |
| May 12, 2004: 04:34                                                                                                                                       | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | Edit Quote |

callmeicarus

Joined: Sep 26, 2003

Garden gnomes are God's unwanted children.

^^^ I like that, I like it a lot. We could each substitute our own state (and possibly city; he'll know the city from the postmark anyway). It might be even eerier to the scammer that way.

quote:

CountOfNowhere came out of the closet to say:

return address: whatever the fuck you want. they don't verify that YOU live at the return address.... hell, I don't even know if they verify it at all

HAHA, OH. Never thought about that one. Thanks buddy.

callmeicarus fucked around with this message at May 12, 2004 around 04:43

May 12, 2004: 04:35

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Wandering Idiot

Joined: Jul 22, 2003

I Suffer From Mild Retarderations

If the mailing of mass envelopes actually is something that may go through, I'll send a few letters from a Korean post office (or whatever they have) and another from my post office here on post. I'm sure he'd love to know that there are people in a lot of different countries that know about what he is doing.

"Pledge Allegiance To Yourself, Not War, Greed, Power and Wealth."

May 12, 2004: 04:45

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

absolut1

Joined: Sep 18, 2003

Absolut Awful

quote:

callmeicarus came out of the closet to say:

^^^ I like that, I like it a lot. We could each substitute our own state (and possibly city; he'll know the city from the postmark anyway). It might be even eerier to the scammer that way.

I'm thinking this would be awesome, if he's getting them from all over the world, but the address is similar on all of them.

May 12, 2004: 04:57

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

callmeicarus

Joined: Sep 26, 2003

Garden gnomes are God's unwanted children.

quote:

absolut1 came out of the closet to say:

I'm thinking this would be awesome, if he's getting them from all over the world, but the address is similar on all of them.

Ah, then we're sharing the same vision. I can send two letters from two seperate (although close in proximity) Florida towns, in case we decide to do this. Probably should all do it around the same time though. Getting a couple strange letters one day might not have quite the same effect.

May 12, 2004: 05:12

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

FrozenCat

Joined: Dec 20, 2003

My idols are Sam Kinison & Isaac Asimov.
Go figure.

I travel extensively, and have friends all over the world, so I can post letters from Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan, New York, Indiana, Cal-i-for-ni-a, Canada, India, (I figure GB is already covered), Brazil, Argentina, Afganistan, Kafristan, etc. (except Hawaii) ....no questions asked.

Maybe someone should come up with a 'form' letter so we can all send the same letter to the scammer.

'The era when a Dame was a Dame and a Dick was a Detective.'

May 12, 2004: 05:42

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

TLA

Joined: Jun 24, 2003

I said it early in this thread, and I must say it again:

I love you goons.

May 12, 2004: 06:15

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

PMan_

Joined: Dec 23, 2002

quote:

callmeicarus came out of the closet to say:

Probably should all do it around the same time though. Getting a couple strange letters one day might not have quite the same effect.

That would be awesome, a deluge of identical letters from around the world in a very short span of time. I'm in favor of this.

May 12, 2004: 06:16

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

SumGayGai

Joined: Mar 09, 2001

I came... I love you all...

Any luck on gettin this guys picture in the future?

May 12, 2004: 06:27

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

hellocruelworld

Joined: Feb 28, 2003

Dude, I See God!

quote:

Curufin came out of the closet to say:

I love your custom title.

Also, I think luscious-lou has a good idea. I'd definitely be game to send that scammer a letter or 5.

Thanks, I worked hard to find that damn picture. You are the first person to comment on the title, congrats. Anyways...I do like Luscious-Lou's idea. But I'd like to see if a police investigation went somewhere first...I'd just love to see them bust this guy.

Also, it would probably be hilarious if a bunch of goons were to go back to the shop and put the p-p-p-

|                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                                            |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------|
|                                                                                                                                                                  | powerbook screen saver on the barbershop computers again... They would probably freak the fuck out with that one.                                                                                                                              |                                            |
| May 12, 2004: 06:34                                                                                                                                       | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                          | Edit Quote |
| jaladJoined: Jan 04, 2004  Lacking dignity since 1978 | Aww. There's so much love in this thread. I'm happy to mail the scammer from Australia. Perhaps a picture/message could be cut it in to pieces like a jigsaw, and each component mailed to the scammer from a different country?        |                                            |
| May 12, 2004: 06:37                                                                                                                                       | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                          | Edit Quote |
| CountOfNowhereJoined: Feb 26, 2004 .....there's 20 of them!                                                                            | I'm going to work on a form letter tomorrow at work. Expect one in 12-18 hours of this posting. It will be complete, and have pictures and everything. Oh, and I will make a note to check the postmark of each letter. This could be awesome. |                                            |
| May 12, 2004: 06:52                                                                                                                                       | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                          | Edit Quote |
| BluecobraJoined: Sep 11, 2001  Cobra Commander      | On an unrelated note, I whipped up an entry for this week's Photoshop Phriday, using this thread as the theme.                                                                                                                                        |                                            |

May 12, 2004: 06:56

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

redeyes

Joined: Sep 14, 2002

I LOVE THE WHITE STRIPES!

thats fucking fantastic lolz

May 12, 2004: 07:08

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Unorthodox

Joined: Dec 03, 2001

Retired with career average of 25.38/day.

quote:

PMan_ came out of the closet to say:

That would be awesome, a deluge of identical letters from around the world in a very short span of time. I'm in favor of this.

I'm in on this, but we should come up with a form letter of some sort. There has to be some common thread among the letters to get the effect we're looking for.

May 12, 2004: 07:09

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

alizz

Joined: Jul 30, 2003

this thread is fantastic. Really want to know what happens next but I'll be on the plane for the next 21 hours...

quote:

Bluecobra came out of the closet to say:

On an unrelated note, I whipped up an entry for this week's Photoshop Phriday, using this thread as the theme.

this is hot (;

edit - I can send letters from Hong Kong. Just make sure somebody post a form letter here alizz fucked around with this message at May 12, 2004 around 07:25

|                                                                                                                                                                                          |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| May 12, 2004: 07:23                                                                                                                                                               | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| brynJoined: Feb 13, 2004I cant think of anything off hand (or on hand for that matter).                                                                               | if i get the form letter, the address and told about when i should post it ill be in- another from australia.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| May 12, 2004: 07:23                                                                                                                                                               | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| logical fallacyJoined: Mar 16, 2001                                                  | We should send one in Romanian, courtesy of our translator.Hell, we should send it in as many languages as we can because there's plenty of people here who speak English as a second language.Just a single line or quote at the bottom of the letter to let the scammer know that all the letters say the same thing. The multiple languages would just blow his mind at the perceived level of organization Jeff's "people" have.                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| May 12, 2004: 07:29                                                                                                                                                               | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| Nevvy ZJoined: Jan 03, 2004I do not kill with my sword... I kill with my heart. | quote: <hr/> logical fallacy came out of the closet to say:We should send one in Romanian, courtesy of our translator. Hell, we should send it in as many languages as we can because there's plenty of people here who speak English as a second language. Just a single line or quote at the bottom of the letter to let the scammer know that all the letters say the same thing. The multiple languages would just blow his mind at the perceived level of organization Jeff's "people" have. <hr/> perhaps the "do not fuck with us" fight club quote at the bottom of ALL of them? |
| May 12, 2004: 07:42                                                                                                                                                               | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |

|                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| socketmanJoined: Apr 18, 2003BFGC modder                                                                                                                | im down for mass mailing.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| May 12, 2004: 07:45                                                                                                                                                 | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| schmuckfeaturesJoined: Oct 27, 2003This avatar needs more Rumsfeld | quote: <hr/> bryn came out of the closet to say:if i get the form letter, the address and told about when i should post it ill be in-another from australia. <hr/> Yes. I'll be in this too, sending from Brisbane, Australia.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| May 12, 2004: 07:47                                                                                                                                                 | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| dalstrsJoined: Mar 11, 2004KingPin                                                                                                                      | We have to make sure we include something like "we are everywhere and we know what you are doing" and of course we have to tell him to cut us in on future profits.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
| May 12, 2004: 07:48                                                                                                                                                 | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| DashiellJoined: Apr 24, 2004                                         | How's this for the letter idea: Dear P-P-P-Powerbook Owner, It has recently come to our attention that you are the new recipient of one of our best selling products, the P-P-P-Powerbook. This product represents the latest in cutting edge computer technology and we invite you to get to know more about this amazing and diverse machine and what it can mean for you. The casing of the P-P-P-Powerbook is made from space-age polymer plastics tested to withstand the combined destructive power of 3 chunky fifth grade boys. The wide varieties of plug-in ports allow for maximum upgradeability while not obstructing your computerary endeavors. A special port for fire wire will allow you to construct your own strong digital defenses to deal with computer hackers and scammers. With proper maintenance, your P-P-P-Powerbook will power you to the 30th century and beyond (providing you and your P-P-P-Powerbook fall through some sort of time warp)! The keyboard design has been developed with utmost comfort in mind. Even the fattest of slobes have used our keyboards for hours without so much as a stomach cramp. The decidedly non-Windows function keys make desktop surfing a breeze. Many of our customers say they have relaxed for hours merely by caressing the home row of their P-P-P-Powerbook keyboard. |

|                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |                      |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------|
|                                                                                                                                                                                                               | Mouse responsiveness is key to any successful computer user. That is why only Microsoft brand computer mice work on the P-P-P-Powerbook. Breakthroughs in laser technology allow your Blue-Saber-Toothed Mouse to bounce hi-tech lasers off of satellites straight to the former Soviet Union, whom, in turn, send nano-robots back to your computer and move your cursor. All of this creates the most thrilling mouse experience in the world. Of course, if you find yourself without your Microsoft Blue-Saber-Toothed Mouse, then the P-P-P-Powerbook comes with a free touchpad, crafted from the same material as the P-P-P-Powerbook itself. Your P-P-P-Powerbook also offers the user-friendliest OS since Linux. Important tasks such as distributing kiddie porn and ordering yams are always available at the top of your screen. All P-P-P-Powerbooks come with critically acclaimed programs such as Ha&gt;&lt;or the Planet!! and Txt Pad! (not the crappy one with the "e" in it) that are only a double click* away. We have done away with the unsightly trash bins that would clutter up users' desktops and added an attractive-looking waste paper basket. A glance to the top right of your screen will remind you that any time is a great time to use your P-P-P-Powerbook. With P-P-P-Powerbook nothing is beyond your reach, except Korea. Stay the hell out of Korea! By now I'm sure you realize the vast potential your P-P-P-Powerbook has. With a little initiative you can be setting the pace of the next generation. P-P-P-Powerbook can give you a world without limitations that stretches across the sea of petty desires and ignorance to the land of heart shaped kisses and bubblegum dreams. You can do anything. You have the p-p-p-power! Sincerely, Team P-P-P-Powerbook *Microsoft Blue-Saber-Toothed Mouse may take dozens of double clicks to access programs Edit: Added strong digital defense line Dashiell fucked around with this message at May 12, 2004 around 10:10 |                      |
| May 12, 2004: 07:59                                                                                                                                                                                           | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | EditQuote |
| PipskiJoined: Apr 18, 2004Lovely barbershop. Pity I wasn't invited. | Nice! Like it! I agree, it should be at least partly in Romanian, then he really won't know who the fuck is onto him! re: police, whoever said that we don't have enough evidence to prosecute him, that's true. However we should have more than enough to prompt their own investigation. It's up to them to compile enough data to send him down, we can't do everything. Once all our letters are in the post, we should send a dossier, then it's out of our hands. EDIT: ^ ^ ^ Wot, no strong digital defence?                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |                      |
| May 12, 2004: 08:01                                                                                                                                                                                           | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | EditQuote |

Smekerman

Joined: Feb 02, 2001

That letter seemed pretty awesome when I skimmed through it (tired as fuck, sorry). I'll try my hand at translating it tomorrow. However, I hope you realize that most (if not all) SA-related jokes either lose their charm when translated into Romanian, or sound plain fucking weird. Either way, I'll see what I can come up with tomorrow.

May 12, 2004: 08:17

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

FrozenCat

Joined: Dec 20, 2003

My idols are Sam Kinison & Isaac Asimov.
Go figure.

You have to have the email read FUCKING SCAMMER when you look at the 1st letter of each line.

May 12, 2004: 09:57

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

ZeromusMog

Joined: Feb 11, 2004

Sweet Sassy Molassy!

quote:

---

Smekerman came out of the closet to say:

That letter seemed pretty awesome when I skimmed through it (tired as fuck, sorry). I'll try my hand at translating it tomorrow. However, I hope you realize that most (if not all) SA-related jokes either lose their charm when translated into Romanian, or sound plain fucking weird. Either way, I'll see what I can come up with tomorrow.

---

You mean there's no word for "Strong Digital Defense" in Romanian? What kind of language is that? 😊

May 12, 2004: 09:58

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Landslide

Joined: Sep 02, 2003

If the scammer responds we should to send him a picture of the barbershop. That would probably give him a heartattack.

May 12, 2004: 10:21

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Scenix

Joined: Sep 18, 2002

Love the letter idea, I'll be sending one from Norway.

Are we 100% sure the scammer is Romanian though? I remember the subject was brought up earlier, and there were talks about him being Italian.

May 12, 2004: 10:35

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

rhig

Joined: Jul 14, 2002

bitches can't hide from this

quote:

---

Scenix came out of the closet to say:

Love the letter idea, I'll be sending one from Norway.

Are we 100% sure the scammer is Romanian though? I remember the subject was brought up earlier, and there were talks about him being Italian.

---

Im poor with accents but im sure it was more Eastern European, it didn't sound italian, he didn't really look Italian either, he was pretty pale.

rhig fucked around with this message at May 12, 2004 around 12:23

May 12, 2004: 12:20

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Otokodate

Joined: Jan 15, 2004

All your nuts are belong to me

quote:

callmeicarus came out of the closet to say:

My question is then: Can one send a letter from the states to England without a return address? I know that packages sent within the states must have a return address, but don't know the policy on letters; does anyone know more about the subject?

Just use the address of the local police/FBI/MI5/Guardia Civil office.

May 12, 2004: 13:15

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

frumpsnake

Joined: Jan 30, 2001

The sad part is, he wasn't always evil.

I just spent a really fucking long time reading all 77 pages of this in one sitting. I'm exhausted, but I fucking love you all of you.

May 12, 2004: 13:16

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MisterSparkle

Joined: Jan 16, 2004

banishes dirt to the land of wind and ghosts

In for mass mailing, From Adelaide, Australia.

once again gg team.

May 12, 2004: 13:51

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Berto2112

Joined: Oct 02, 2003

Can I get a hell yeah?

quote:

Otokodate came out of the closet to say:

Just use the address of the local police/FBI/MI 5/Guardia Civil office.

HAHA.....Guardia Civil. You don't see that name thrown around too often.

May 12, 2004: 14:15

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

queenbee

Joined: Mar 09, 2004

pottymouth

Dashiell, your letter had me rolling.

I think it would creep the guy out more if the mail letter just said something simple like "we know what you're doing" or "hi scammer". Agreed that we should all use the same street address, just substitute our town. 511 Powerbook Drive perhaps?

An afterthought: We should all email him Dashiell's letter. As the collective customer service department for P-P-P-Powerbook enterprises, it's only right that to make sure he is satisfied with his purchase.

May 12, 2004: 14:20

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Otokodate

Joined: Jan 15, 2004

All your nuts are belong to me

quote:

Berto2112 came out of the closet to say:

HAHA.....Guardia Civil. You don't see that name thrown around too often.

Thank you.

May 12, 2004: 14:22

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Roast Beef

Joined: Jun 28, 2003

Yesterday, I found out that I don't have a left arm that letter posted above is awesome. The tone is fabulous. Count me in for mass mailing it or something similar.

May 12, 2004: 14:23

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

karmaflux

Joined: Feb 26, 2004

OMG WATCH OUT FOR TEH
CUCUMBERS!!@$!1

quote:

Smekerman came out of the closet to say:

SA-related jokes either lose their charm when translated into Romanian, or sound plain fucking weird.

Well, seeing as how were doing it for OUR amusement, and we're not trying to entertain HIM, I think we'll be okay. 🤔

May 12, 2004: 14:24

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Otokodate

Joined: Jan 15, 2004

All your nuts are belong to me

quote:

queenbee came out of the closet to say:

Dashiell, your letter had me rolling.

I think it would creep the guy out more if the mail letter just said something simple like "we know what you're doing" or "hi scammer". Agreed that we should all use the same street address, just substitute our town. 511 Powerbook Drive perhaps?

An afterthought: We should all email him Dashiell's letter. As the collective customer service department for P-P-P-Powerbook enterprises, it's only right that to make sure he is satisfied with his purchase.

I agree, I think a shorter letter will work better. Please take into consideration his fine grasp of English. An even better idea might be if somebody could make a one page promotional handout about a sale on p-p-powerbooks. Use the pictures that Jeff took for illustrations. If you can save it as an Acrobat file so everybody can print it out, we would be in business. Especially if some people print it out in color on glossy paper. I might even have a go at making a mock up of it when I get home tonight in [REDACTED] (forgive me).

May 12, 2004: 14:28

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

|                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Der ShovelJoined: Dec 26, 2003Just a 10$ hoe                                                                                                    | I'm all for the mass-mailing. I can send from Finland in either Finnish or English. I think we should incorporate the Grenade Logo and goon justice somehow. The message? "Don't fuck with Goons".                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
| May 12, 2004: 14:33                                                                                                                                          | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| GravyJoined: Sep 07, 2003Everything goes better with Gravy. | quote: <hr/> Otokodate came out of the closet to say: I agree, I think a shorter letter will work better. Please take into consideration his fine grasp of English. An even better idea might be if somebody could make a one page promotional handout about a sale on p-p-powerbooks. Use the pictures that Jeff took for illustrations. If you can save it as an Acrobat file so everybody can print it out, we would be in business. Especially if some people print it out in color on glossy paper. I might even have a go at making a mock up of it when I get home tonight in [REDACTED] (forgive me). <hr/> I have access to a colour laser printer, that when combined with the right glossy paper makes some nice prints. So if anyone makes one, I surely could print that out.I also agree that a short letter (though Dashiell's letter was great) would be more effective. We could each write it by hand. Different people writing the exact same thing coming from all over the world...This guy has no clue what he got himself into. |
| May 12, 2004: 14:33                                                                                                                                          | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| BeekayJoined: Oct 03, 2003StupidNewbieArsehole                                                                                                   | I'm definety in for the mass mailing. I will be sending from Canada. I think someone should get the final version of the form letter and post a new thread to lure in more support. Some people may have stopped following this one.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| May 12, 2004: 14:43                                                                                                                                          | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |

Mannequin

Joined: Mar 08, 2003

The difference between fiction and reality? Fiction has to make sense.

quote:

Wandering Idiot came out of the closet to say:

I'm sure he'd love to know that there are people in a lot of different countries that know about what he is doing.

He'll obviously suspect it's a bunch of people emailing one another the same pictures. I really don't see how this will scare him after he sees the photos for the first time. Seriously, this is a weak finish.

Edit: He'll probably close his mailing box at that location and find a new one after the first set of pictures come in.

May 12, 2004: 14:46

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

queenbee

Joined: Mar 09, 2004

pottymouth

quote:

Der Shovel came out of the closet to say:

"Don't fuck with Goons".

I'm afraid that could be construed as threatening.

Edit:

quote:

Der Shovel came out of the closet to say:

Also, even if it was taken as a literal threat, the only one who would go down is the guy living at 123 Fake Street, Fake Town USA.

lol, true.

queenbee fucked around with this message at May 12, 2004 around 14:54

May 12, 2004: 14:50

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Der Shovel

Joined: Dec 26, 2003

Just a 10$ hoe

quote:

---

queenbee came out of the closet to say:
I'm afraid that could be construed as threatening.

---

I didn't mean that literally.

Also, even if it was taken as a literal threat, the only one who would go down is the guy living at 123 Fake Street, Fake Town USA.

May 12, 2004: 14:52

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

CountOfNowhere

Joined: Feb 26, 2004

.....there's 20 of them!

Thinking about it, as someone mentioned, this letter is rather anti-climatic, since any ol' fool can go to a widely-used scam address and take pictures. I'm not exactly sure how scared he'll be.

BUT

If we can get a picture of him picking up more packages, and perhaps get more REAL information on him, and THEN compile a letter to be sent from all over the world, he'd probably crap himself even more. I'm sure this is not the first time he's gotten a bogus product since he's apparantly been doing this for a long time and using this address (well, mabye it is), and it also may not even be the first time that he's received pictures of the place he gets his stuff sent to. A picture of the barbershop would probably not phase him all that much.

A picture of HIM and information about HIM would definately make me crap my pants more. Perhaps we could "scare" the barbershop owner? Perhaps? Any of you UK goons have friends in law enforcement?

May 12, 2004: 15:35

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

I want to send him lots of letters that say:

How does it feel to get scammed?

May 12, 2004: 15:56

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Fast Luck

Joined: Feb 02, 2003

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:

I want to send him lots of letters that say:

How does it feel to get scammed?

Why lots of letters?

This was a great thread and the fake Powerbook was priceless, but I don't see why people still want to pursue more pranks unless he sends a reply email. No need to beat the horse.

May 12, 2004: 15:59

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

quote:

Fast Luck came out of the closet to say:

Why lots of letters?

This was a great thread and the fake Powerbook was priceless, but I don't see why people still want to pursue more pranks unless he sends a reply email. No need to beat the horse.

You do have a good point.

May 12, 2004: 16:00

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

neddle

Joined: May 04, 2004

"Eight hours later they brought her up by mule!"

I think we should send him a court summons from every country possible. I'm pretty sure I could forge a decent UK one.

May 12, 2004: 16:04

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

JesusBoyWonder

Joined: Dec 23, 2003

I got a rad idea for a letter:

Dear Owner of the new acclaimed P-p-p-powerbook,
We see you when you're sleeping,
We know when you're awake,
We know if you've been bad or good,
...So be good for goodness sake!

Maybe add a few lines about him watching out and not crying or shouting.

JesusBoyWonder fucked around with this message at May 12, 2004 around 16:22

May 12, 2004: 16:20

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Verno5x

Joined: Aug 23, 2003

Why not have a bunch of people send a letter that just say's "You just got served" I think subtle would be more amusing than complex.

May 12, 2004: 16:27

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

CountOfNowhere

Joined: Feb 26, 2004

.....there's 20 of them!

Let's find his real address/name and send him stuff there.

More detective work. Smitz just PM'd me some information that could be of great use to us, and that could possibly help us get pure, unadulterated(sp?) goon justice. we'll keep it goinggggg on and on and on and on
☺

May 12, 2004: 16:32

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

hellocruelworld

Joined: Feb 28, 2003

Dude, I See God!

Actually guys...I think NOW is the time to make a bit of a dossier on this guy and send it to the police. If we fuck with them too much before the police get involved, the barbershop peeps might get suspicious and close shop. And I think the ultimate end would be the scammer getting his just desserts...getting sent down the river...since we know that he seems to make a career out of ripping people off.

Although I think it would be hilarious if someone left another P-P-P-POWERBOOK screen saver at the shop... may illicit a reply.

May 12, 2004: 16:43

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

rhig

Joined: Jul 14, 2002

bitches can't hide from this

quote:

hellocruelworld came out of the closet to say:

Although I think it would be hilarious if someone left another P-P-P-POWERBOOK screen saver at the shop...may illicit a reply.

It's possible that the visits have not been linked to the scam so far and probably best to keep it so at the moment. Whether we are contacting the police or playing a bigger prank doing anything to the barbers is a bad idea. If the guy cuts off from the barbers we have lost a lot of information on him, unless we can trace the scammer outside the shop we have no chance of foing any more than sending him letters he might not even pick up.

May 12, 2004: 16:48

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

ChlamydiaJones

Joined: Sep 27, 2002

I'm on the elevator labled "get reall data on the dickhead and police his ass", followed imedeatly by lots of letters. Personaly I'll be printing up a dozen of so envelopes, stamping them and sending him random things from wherever I happen to be! All subly threatening of course.

May 12, 2004: 17:07

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

hollykat

Joined: Mar 22, 2003

Meow.

quote:

Fast Luck came out of the closet to say:

Why lots of letters?

This was a great thread and the fake Powerbook was priceless, but I don't see why people still want to pursue more pranks unless he sends a reply email. No need to beat the horse.

I agree with you. It's been tremendous, great fun, but I think it's time to drop it unless he writes to Jeff or does anything like that.

May 12, 2004: 17:12

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

solorca

Joined: Mar 29, 2004

The problem with reporting it to the police, is that no goods were exchanged (at least "real" goods). You can claim that he is a scammer, but a fake escrow site that no longer exists is your only proof.

There is no way in hell, that this can be used a way to charge him with anything.

You can, however, report what has happened...and if it seems useful enough, the cops would probably do some research into the barber shop, and the legalities of what is going on.

May 12, 2004: 17:27

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Heners_UK

Joined: Jun 01, 2002

Im in on the letter idea, but give me 3 working days warning so I can post them all second class.

May 12, 2004: 17:30

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Pipski

Joined: Apr 18, 2004

Lovely barbershop. Pity I wasn't invited.

Don't forget, there are other complaints about this guy on the `Net (cited way back, dozens of pages ago). Other people have sent him goods, to the same address, and received no money. There was the £48,000 motorbike he was offering for sale - probably suss. So, even though he didn't manage to scam Jeff, he's still a thieving scumbag. The difference is that we've collated all the evidence on him into one handy thread. If we pass it to the polis and they take no action, then that's up to them - and the next person to get scammed by this slimeball can sue their arse. If we don't pass it to the polis then this guy goes on scamming people and getting away with it, and that is unacceptable.

May 12, 2004: 17:34

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

rhig

Joined: Jul 14, 2002

bitches can't hide from this

quote:

solorca came out of the closet to say:

The problem with reporting it to the police, is that no goods were exchanged (at least "real" goods). You can claim that he is a scammer, but a fake escrow site that no longer exists is your only proof.

There is no way in hell, that this can be used a way to charge him with anything.

You can, however, report what has happened...and if it seems useful enough, the cops would probably do some research into the barber shop, and the legalities of what is going on.

I don't think it's a case of documenting what has happened, that is not going to get anywhere, will possibly cause people involved extra problems talking to the police and possibly link all this to the forums which may not be a great idea. I think simply giving the info we have on the guy and his general activities is enough. If it is pursued the Romanian will probably be caught and the barber may be in trouble for offering questionable mail boxes etc.

I may have said this before but I'm not sure, the barber doesn't seem to make anything from his legitimate business. In three days I've seen one guy's hair cut and a few people on the £1/hr terminals, he's either had a bad couple of week's business or he's running something on the side.

It's interesting that most of the people seem to know him quite well but then it is possible its legitimate, the areas fairly dodgy but the people I've spoken to in shops, the cafe and the pub have all been pretty friendly.

quote:

needle came out of the closet to say:

|                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                                                                                                       | I would say that the barber is involved in the whole scam. He may even be the one who arranges everything computer oriented since he runs a CYBER CAFE! The barbers and cyber cafe are not listed as business properties with the Post Office and it is therefore possible that he is not paying taxes... Al Capone anyone? <hr/> I'm sure the barbers in the know that what is going on is dodgy and is doing dodgy things on the side himself but I'm not sure about this scam, although it is possible I just don't think he's smart enough. The cybercafé is basically a bunch of random machines plugged into a router, they are loaded with spyware and don't appear to be managed at all. The barber doesn't seem either bright enough or technically minded enough to set up the fake escrow and use proxies. The scammer didn't really go mad over the powerbook when he opened it, I think it's partly because he didn't understand the joke straight away but also because he didn't want to reveal his scamming, he would have most likely told the barber when I was there and they would both be annoyed. The only guy he was arguing with was the guy outside wearing the knitted hat. rhig fucked around with this message at May 12, 2004 around 18:08 |
| May 12, 2004: 17:37                                                                            | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| neddleJoined: May 04, 2004 "Eight hours later they brought her up by mule!" | I would say that the barber is involved in the whole scam. He may even be the one who arranges everything computer oriented since he runs a CYBER CAFE! The barbers and cyber cafe are not listed as business properties with the Post Office and it is therefore possible that he is not paying taxes... Al Capone anyone? Document everything hand it to the police and tell them that if no action is taken we will hand it to every newspaper and television company we can think of (in a non-confrontational way obviously). He needs to be charged with something. He is a fucking thief and he WILL rip off other innocent internet users until he is caught.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| May 12, 2004: 17:53                                                                            | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts EditQuote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |

mph

Joined: Jan 26, 2004

Parts is parts!

quote:

neddle came out of the closet to say:

I would say that the barber is involved in the whole scam. He may even be the one who arranges everything computer oriented since he runs a CYBER CAFE! The barbers and cyber cafe are not listed as business properties with the Post Office and it is therefore possible that he is not paying taxes... Al Capone anyone?

Ya think? OMG add tax evasion to his list of crimes...

Houston, we have anticlimax.

Kudos to Jeff, the UK goon squad and everybody who's contributed here (which doesn't include me, I've just been following), but the only thing left to do is wait for an email, and I personally doubt that our scammer will send one, as he has nothing to gain by doing so at this point.

He paid his fees, sure, and he had some minor quarrel with one of his cohorts, but I have to admit I'm a tad disappointed that "it is broken" is the only finale we're likely to see.

Might as well take it to the cops, but I wouldn't expect much to come of it. 😞

May 12, 2004: 18:02

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

neddle

Joined: May 04, 2004

"Eight hours later they brought her up by mule!"

[QUOTE]mph came out of the closet to say:
[B]

Houston, we have anticlimax.

Fair comment, however I think the combined effort of goons from across the globe to bring the scammer to justice would interest someone in the media. They could spice it up a bit and make a 2-part mini series. The barber could be a fantastic brunette with an East European accent who falls for Rhig's charms, ignorant of the fact that he is trying to bring her criminal empire down. Blah blah blah.

Kiefer Sutherland is MyNameIsJeff in "OPERATION GOON JUSTICE"

I'd watch it.

May 12, 2004: 18:13

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

kaww of course

Joined: Jul 11, 2003

i dont care what

quote:

neddle came out of the closet to say:

Fair comment, however I think the combined effort of goons from across the globe to bring the scammer to justice would interest someone in the media. They could spice it up a bit and make a 2-part mini series. The barber could be a fantastic brunette with an East European accent who falls for Rhig's charms, ignorant of the fact that he is trying to bring her criminal empire down. Blah blah blah.

Kiefer Sutherland is MyNameIsJeff in "OPERATION GOON JUSTICE"

I'd watch it.

In the future, all goons will have a direct line to the President, for fast action when evil threatens the American Way.

May 12, 2004: 18:16

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

jhnrxsn

Joined: Mar 07, 2003

OL LOL LOL L

TacticalPenis bought me this title because he is a worthless bastard and i have to help him do shit all the time.

quote:

neddle came out of the closet to say:

[QUOTE]mph came out of the closet to say:

[B]Kiefer Sutherland is MyNameIsJeff in "OPERATION GOON JUSTICE"

WHERE'S THE PACKAGE WE'RE RUNNING OUT OF TIME!!!?

May 12, 2004: 18:20

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

cavalri

Joined: Nov 23, 2002

... I didn't think so

You must send him a pic of the barber shop, telling him that:

"we're following you, please be home at 9am on thursday so some of our "associates" can "speak" with you about taking our business away from us."

Or something. He might not be worried about the cops, but maybe he'll be worried about a rival crime syndicate trying to muscle in on his business?

May 12, 2004: 18:29

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

DLCinferno

Joined: Feb 22, 2003

It was fun, you've all been immortalized, now go to the cops and let them take care of "pranking" him. I don't see the letter writing and all that going anywhere.

May 12, 2004: 18:40

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

pooper scooper

Joined: Oct 23, 2003

cavalri, you have hit something there.. i like it.

May 12, 2004: 18:53

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Aeolius

Joined: Jul 16, 2003

Über Lord of Time and Space

I'm adding my voice to the "email or nothing" crowd; at this point, the best solution would be through an exchanged email or two. If he never sends one to Jeff, then let's call it a day (rather, call it three weeks).

May 12, 2004: 19:17

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

rhig

Joined: Jul 14, 2002

bitches can't hide from this

Looking around the Mets sit it looks like someone will have to call/write to the local station for Colindale; the met don't seem care about eBay fraud. It would still probably result into them looking into the barbers shop too if it's not registered properly.

May 12, 2004: 19:23

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

quote:

Aeolius came out of the closet to say:

I'm adding my voice to the "email or nothing" crowd; at this point, the best solution would be through an exchanged email or two. If he never sends one to Jeff, then let's call it a day (rather, call it three weeks).

Agreed. If I don't receive an email here soon, we will call it an end to this saga.

May 12, 2004: 19:26

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

DarkLotus

Joined: Sep 30, 2001

I Haven't Been Fucked Like That Since Grade School!!!

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:

Agreed. If I don't receive an email here soon, we will call it an end to this saga.

I am going to be posting an updated archive of this thread. Please let me know when you feel it is done so I know when to post the link.

May 12, 2004: 19:47

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

FrozenEntree

Joined: Jun 11, 2001

God helped me fuck over my creditors so I can continue spending like the selfish dumbfuck I am! Blessed are the spendthrift, my ass! Hallelujah! Praise to Jesus!

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:

Agreed. If I don't receive an email here soon, we will call it an end to this saga.

I wait, once again, with baited breath. I hope he emails back something at least. If not, oh well, we pranked a scammer and he is out some cash. We then send it to some authority and hope they crack down on it. Either way, we salute you Jeff. Forever and ever, P-P-P-Powerbook! [REDACTED]

May 12, 2004: 19:53

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Tom Tucker

Joined: Jul 19, 2003

Yippee-ki-yay motherfucker.

Flawless Victory.

May 12, 2004: 20:10

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Accipiter

Joined: Jan 24, 2004

Pop it, D-Man!

Well shit. Since it's not going to get e-mailed, I need to post an encore of my image.

May 12, 2004: 20:15

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Pipski

Joined: Apr 18, 2004

Lovely barbershop. Pity I wasn't invited.

quote:

Accipiter came out of the closet to say:

Well shit. Since it's not going to get e-mailed, I need to post an encore of my image.

lol, just looked at it again. wtf is it with `Hair' just seemingly written at random in the middle of the sign?

May 12, 2004: 20:19

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Otokodate

Joined: Jan 15, 2004

All your nuts are belong to me

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:

You do have a good point.

I hate it when people do that.

May 12, 2004: 20:42

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Accipiter

Joined: Jan 24, 2004

Pop it, D-Man!

quote:

Pipski came out of the closet to say:

wtf is it with `Hair' just seemingly written at random in the middle of the sign?

It's part of "We sell HAIR clip ers products."

May 12, 2004: 20:48

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

baalzamonbarnes

Joined: Mar 20, 2004

dirty internet pirate

quote:

Pipski came out of the closet to say:

lol, just looked at it again. wtf is it with `Hair' just seemingly written at random in the middle of the sign?

wtf is up with the whole sign? It looks like it was pieced together randomly by some 3 year old on acid.

Christ, just look at it:

Who the hell designs crap like that?

May 12, 2004: 21:36

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

RandyF

Joined: Oct 27, 2000

quote:

baalzamonbarnes came out of the closet to say:

Christ, just look at it:

[!img]http://img10.imageshack.us/img10/4618/sign10.jpg[/img]

Who the hell designs crap like that?

Fark.

May 12, 2004: 21:37

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Earwicker

Joined: Jan 06, 2003

quote:

baalzamonbarnes came out of the closet to say:

Who the hell designs crap like that?

Probably the same people who think "New Jersey Chicken" is in any way appetizing.

May 12, 2004: 21:37

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

Http://www.p-p-p-powerbook.com is up!

Big Thanks to Str8Dog for the hosting

I have the PBook pictures up now. When I am finished with the story, I will post that, and the other pictures.

Tell your friends!

May 12, 2004: 22:09

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

iwinatinternet

Joined: Mar 03, 2004

illiterate!!!

quote:

---

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:

Http://www.p-p-p-powerbook.com is up!

Big Thanks to Str8Dog for the hosting

I have the PBook pictures up now. When I am finished with the story, I will post that, and the other pictures.

Tell your friends!

---

Cool it's very own internetmuseum

May 12, 2004: 22:16

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

vegaji

Joined: Apr 14, 2004

Owned by Hawk989s

I don't know if it's just me (using latest Firefox/XP Pro), but p=p-p-powerbook.com is down.

May 12, 2004: 23:10

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

quote:

vegaji came out of the closet to say:

I don't know if it's just me (using latest Firefox/XP Pro), but p=p-p-powerbook.com is down.

Its working for me.

May 12, 2004: 23:17

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Wrong Igor

Joined: Feb 22, 2004

I'm getting too old. Kill me.

Another vote for turning this shithead over to the authorities. After all, he recieves packages all the time (supposedly) from real victims. After he is taken care we can pester the retard running Jean Climax or whatever.

This has been a true epic saga. Thanks to all involved for great entertainment.

May 12, 2004: 23:25

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

vegaji

Joined: Apr 14, 2004

Owned by Hawk989s

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:

Its working for me.

<http://www.vegaji.com/images/screenpowerbook.JPG>

May 12, 2004: 23:36

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Celdin

Joined: Sep 02, 2003

quote:

vegaji came out of the closet to say:

I don't know if it's just me (using latest Firefox/XP Pro), but p=p-p-powerbook.com is down.

I'm using the same set up and the site works fine for me.

May 12, 2004: 23:38

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Captain Stink

Joined: May 09, 2004

I believe in dog

You probably just need to wait. DNS entries take a day or two to propagate everywhere.

May 12, 2004: 23:39

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Verm

Joined: Sep 11, 2001

Reality continues to ruin my life.

Amazing story, been reading the whole time but only posted one.
So now that its pretty much over, amazing job goonz.

May 12, 2004: 23:42

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Uhclem

Joined: Jan 11, 2004

Really...

I'm disappointed in the anti-climatic nature of this thread.

I don't mean to devalue the work of the awesome UK Special Forces, but think about it, he's not expecting ANYONE to know about his scam operation, he didn't really understand the whole P-P-P-Powerbook joke, and he's certainly not thinking that the police or any other agency is on to him.

Why couldn't you have just photographed him; perhaps from a good vantage across the street? It's not illegal; he can't take your film, and everything about him suggests that though this is a coordinated venture, it's far from being "OMG MAFIA."

Besides, if he is part of a mob what is he going to do, order a hit on you? Whack you? Please, Mafia folk wouldn't risk that kind of thing unless you're a GIGANTIC problem, as it was, he probably would have thought you were just a photographer.

Perhaps I'm being unrealistic, but as far as I know about organized crime (a surprising amount, ask me about my friends some time) most folks are just trying to get by, and would rather pay off or intimidate a person to give in rather than kill them and have to deal with a messy murder.

As it was, you did fairly well, but I think I speak for everyone when I say "I wish there were more."

In my mind the ultimate ending would have consisted of 30 UK Goons walking down the street separated by intervals of five minutes or more asking the guy if he "liked his laptop." Bonus points, of course, would be awarded to those who dressed up in suits with bowler hats, and double to folks who look like bums.

Imagine that scene.

"Hello sir, did you like your laptop?"

"Who are..."

"Hey sir, sir, SIR, yeah, did you like your laptop"

"What is..."

"You, buddy, over there, did you like your laptop?"

"Oh my ga..."

"Pardon me; but did you find that laptop to your liking?"

Target runs off followed by a dim monotone chanting of "Did you like your laptop?"

Uhclem fucked around with this message at May 12, 2004 around 23:53

May 12, 2004: 23:48

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

I went ahead and put P-P-P-Powerbook in the Dictionary.

<http://forums.somethingawful.com/di...t=3&topicid=896>

I just threw in a slim synopsis, and link to the site.
Append at will!

May 12, 2004: 23:54

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

vegaji

Joined: Apr 14, 2004

Owned by Hawk989s

quote:

---

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:

I went ahead and put P-P-P-Powerbook in the Dictionary.

<http://forums.somethingawful.com/di...t=3&topicid=896>

I just threw in a slim synopsis, and link to the site.
Append at will!

---

Appended: Direct links to P-P-P-Powerbook pictures.

May 13, 2004: 00:08

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

rhig

Joined: Jul 14, 2002

bitches can't hide from this

quote:

---

UhcleM came out of the closet to say:

I'm disappointed in the anti-climatic nature of this thread.

Why couldn't you have just photographed him; perhaps from a good vantage across the street? It's not illegal; he can't take your film, and everything about him suggests that though this is a coordinated venture, it's far from being "OMG MAFIA."

---

I went across the street and went into the cafe to try and get a photo there but the traffic blocked the view until he had gone, if it was just him on his own it wouldn't have been a problem but he was outside with a guy from the cafe who knew I'd gone in after the delivery and left unexpectedly but they were facing me wherever I went and my cameras pretty big and obvious. Half the people know each other and I doubt I

|                                                                                                                              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                                            |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------|
|                                                                                                                              | would have got away without having to make up some reason for photographing the street if confronted. It's not illegal but it would have been a big risk. I also held back on the photo thinking I could get him when he left in his car but I think he went out the back. The pictures show it reasonably but the place is a pretty dodgy area and there were no police or anyone around all day. Thats also why I tried to remember the guy he was with as he very likey knows something about who the scammer is. Edit: Also putting anything up on the shop window is impossible unless done during opening hours as the shops all thave steel barriers which fold down over night. rhig fucked around with this message at May 13, 2004 around 14:18 |                                            |
| May 13, 2004: 00:25                                                                                                   | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | Edit Quote |
| InveigleJoined: Jan 19, 2004 | Your efforts are appreciated Rhig! 😊                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                            |
| May 13, 2004: 03:40                                                                                                   | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | Edit Quote |
| neddleJoined: May 04, 2004"Eight hours later they brought her up by mule!"                                | Anti climax... Jean Climax. Anti Jean Climax? Geddit? Is it bollocks an anti-climax. I still see no fat lady, the game is still afoot.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                            |
| May 13, 2004: 04:39                                                                                                   | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | Edit Quote |
| BjergenJoined: May 21, 2003short, fat prick                                                               | I would like to put forward an idea... Someone suggested mailing him a glossy flier advertising a sale on P-P-P-Powerbooks, I would suggest sticking said flier in the window of the jean climax store, and a couple on the nearby poles with those little tear off phone numbers on the bottom, with the number of the local anti fraud squad or something. Oh yeah, and someone mail him the picture of the burnt out jean climax store.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                                            |
| May 13, 2004: 06:39                                                                                                   | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | Edit Quote |

Otokodate

Joined: Jan 15, 2004

All your nuts are belong to me

quote:

Bjergen came out of the closet to say:

Oh yeah, and someone mail him the picture of the burnt out jean climax store.

I think that would be a bad idea. That could easily be considered a threat on him and the barbershop. If you don't mind possibly being arrested, go for it.

edit: I never got around to putting together a flier. Sorry.

May 13, 2004: 13:17

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

EricFate

Joined: Aug 31, 2001

Crumpets. Glorious Crumpets.

What would make me laugh the hardest would be if Rhig were to make a composite sketch of the guy who made the pickup, and then had someone print out a couple dozen flyers that say "HAVE YOU SEEN ME?" at the bottom followed by "Ask me about my P-P-P-Powerbook" and the website link that details the entire adventure at the very bottom.

These could then be mailed out, or hung up if someone else feels like making one last trip to the area.

May 13, 2004: 15:39

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

mangler103

Joined: Jun 06, 2003

DVD's are my anti-drug...but now I'm addicted to DVD's.

quote:

EricFate came out of the closet to say:

What would make me laugh the hardest would be if Rhig were to make a composite sketch of the guy who made the pickup, and then had someone print out a couple dozen flyers that say "HAVE YOU SEEN ME?" at the bottom followed by "Ask me about my P-P-P-Powerbook" and the website link that details the entire adventure at the very bottom.

These could then be mailed out, or hung up if someone else feels like making one last trip to the area.

I don't know about the picture, but an "Ask me about my P-P-P-Powerbook" sign posted somewhere in the barbershop would be the highest of hilarity. Maybe just a little sign somewhere where customers could see it when they came in, but wouldn't be obvious to the proprietors. Maybe on the back of the cash register? I don't know how the place is set up.

|                                                                                                                                                                           |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| May 13, 2004: 15:41                                                                                                                                                | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| rhigJoined: Jul 14, 2002bitches can't hide from this                  | I'm really not likely to be able to make another trip and I'm awful with faces but this would be a great idea if we could get a picture of the guy. I tried to remember a description but I'm awful at that sort of thing. The guy fairly tall, pale and big/well built, he was wearing a white shirt and a black jacket in the barbers. I think he probably only visits the place every few days though as he had a few parcels and I hadn't seen him around before. rhig fucked around with this message at May 13, 2004 around 16:07 |
| May 13, 2004: 16:03                                                                                                                                                | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| Frank ZappaJoined: Feb 06, 2004Electric Aunt Jemima - Goddess of Love | I wish I had posted in this thread at the very beginning.... ☹ A+++ 5. Would post again. P.S. - still waiting for that return letter. Did anyone actually dig it out of the trash can??                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| May 13, 2004: 16:07                                                                                                                                                | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| Vince McMahonJoined: Dec 18, 2003                                       | It would be better to put up an advert for a missing powerbook, with pictures of the p-p-p-powerbook. Either in the barbershop or something across the street to get their attention.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| May 13, 2004: 16:13                                                                                                                                                | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |

|                                                                                                                                                      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Lisa MarieJoined: Apr 03, 2001Excuse me, I believe you have my stapler.                                                           | I can't believe he hasn't even said anything about it- not even in terms of a bad seller rating on ebay (i know he didn't use ebay but that's how he found you). I guess you can't really be that pissed about being scammed when you are a scammer.                                                                            |
| May 13, 2004: 16:16                                                                                                                           | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                  |
| SoulChickenJoined: Sep 11, 2001mek it fuhnki | It might be worth sending an email to that Watchdog program, telling them of our sting operation. They live for taking down guys like these.                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| May 13, 2004: 16:59                                                                                                                           | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                  |
| ChesterJTJoined: Dec 28, 2003I'M HELPING!!!  | Well it appears we aren't getting a final email from our mark. That's a shame. The best possible ending would be a video of the guy opening the box and being pissed, but I was hoping for at least an email. Now it seems like a big buildup, then a let down. Still consider it a victory though. Great effort from everyone. |
| May 13, 2004: 21:16                                                                                                                           | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                  |
| DarkLotusJoined: Sep 30, 2001I Haven't Been Fucked Like That Since Grade School!!!                                                | Updating archive up to this point. Will not do another update until we hear from fuck face.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
| May 13, 2004: 21:34                                                                                                                           | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                  |

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

quote:

DarkLotus came out of the closet to say:

Updating archive up to this point. Will not do another update until we hear from fuck face.

Sounds good. Are you going to torrent?

I have finished the doc explaining the whole story. 28 pages long! Of corse, thats with pictures, and a lot of extra lines and space. Probably more like 15 pages of reading.

I will edit the site page, to add links and all of the other pictures an what not.

In the mean time, you can get it here: http://www.p-p-p-powerbook.com/files/the\_powerbook.doc

MyNameIsJeff fucked around with this message at May 13, 2004 around 22:42

May 13, 2004: 22:24

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

CountOfNowhere

Joined: Feb 26, 2004

.....there's 20 of them!

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:

Sounds good. Are you going to torrent?

I have finished the doc explaining the whole story. 28 pages long! Of corse, thats with pictures, and a lot of extra lines and space. Probably more like 15 pages of reading.

I will edit the site page, to add links and all of the other pictures an what not.

In the mean time, you can get it here: http://www.p-p-p-powerbook.com/files/the\_powerbook.doc

the pictures don't work

also, want me to put it into PDF for you?

May 13, 2004: 23:34

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

The Fear

Joined: Dec 10, 2003

I hide the dirty minutes under my dirty mattress.

Absolutely epic.

GG d00d.

May 13, 2004: 23:36

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Str8Dog

Joined: Apr 07, 2004

01010101010

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:

Sounds good. Are you going to torrent?

I have finished the doc explaining the whole story. 28 pages long! Of corse, thats with pictures, and a lot of extra lines and space. Probably more like 15 pages of reading.

I will edit the site page, to add links and all of the other pictures an what not.

In the mean time, you can get it here: http://www.p-p-p-powerbook.com/files/the\_powerbook.doc

Cool, Ill rip it out to some nice HTML and post it to the site.

May 14, 2004: 00:00

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

quote:

CountOfNowhere came out of the closet to say:

the pictures don't work

also, want me to put it into PDF for you?

Sure, that would be cool. I downloaded it on another machine, and only some of the pictures showed up. Anyone else notice that?

Edit - I hit F5 and all of the pictures showed up.

|                                          |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
|------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| May 14, 2004: 00:14                      | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| kiimoJoined: Jul 24, 2003     | quote: <hr/> EricFate came out of the closet to say:What would make me laugh the hardest would be if Rhig were to make a composite sketch of the guy who made the pickup, and then had someone print out a couple dozen flyers that say "HAVE YOU SEEN ME?" at the bottom followed by "Ask me about my P-P-P-Powerbook" and the website link that details the entire adventure at the very bottom. These could then be mailed out, or hung up if someone else feels like making one last trip to the area. <hr/> |
| May 14, 2004: 00:17                      | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| StarbucksJoined: Jul 07, 2002 | sweet gonna link all this in my blog 😊 Cant wait till a reply, even though its unlikely he will want to give us that pleasure The site needs a guestbook                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| May 14, 2004: 00:38                      | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |

Strong Coffee Drinking!

SignalTwoFive

Joined: Dec 28, 2003

Bob Sapp is laughing AT you,
not WITH you.

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:

Sure, that would be cool. I downloaded it on another machine, and only some of the pictures showed up. Anyone else notice that?

Edit - I hit F5 and all of the pictures showed up.

I've made a PDF of it for you.

<http://students.uwf.edu/cjg5/sa/thepowerbook.pdf>

Unlimited university bandwith...go nuts!

May 14, 2004: 00:45

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Scratch2k

Joined: Jul 30, 2002

(.) (.)

I think this has all been an elaborate scam to sell time at this barbers internet cafe and create a market for his crappy coffee mugs, mission accomplished!

May 14, 2004: 01:20

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Existential

Joined: Sep 28, 2003

quote:

SignalTwoFive came out of the closet to say:

I've made a PDF of it for you.

<http://students.uwf.edu/cjg5/sa/thepowerbook.pdf>

Unlimited university bandwith...go nuts!

Thank you so much. I was so worried that I would have to read this whole thread to find out about this historical event.

I love each and every one of you.

|                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                                                                     |                                            |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------|
| May 14, 2004: 01:49                                                                                                                                                                  | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                 | Edit Quote |
| DarkLotusJoined: Sep 30, 2001I Haven't Been Fucked Like That Since Grade School!!!                                                                                       | quote: <hr/> MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say: Sounds good. Are you going to torrent? <hr/>            |                                            |
| Yes, I will be torrenting again. Maybe tonight, maybe tomorrow. Once again tho, I will need someone to mirror a direct link, hopefully someone with university/college unlimited bandwidth. |                                                                                                                                                     |                                            |
| May 14, 2004: 02:28                                                                                                                                                                  | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts | Edit Quote |
| CedarJoined: Feb 07, 2001                                                               | My god That was awesome.                                                                                                              |                                            |
| May 14, 2004: 02:48                                                                                                                                                                  | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                 | Edit Quote |
| MyNameIsJeffJoined: Dec 05, 2003P-P-P-Powerbook.com!                              | I was thinking about emailing that to the local news. So see if they'd do a story on it. I even mention them in the beginning!               |                                            |
| May 14, 2004: 03:50                                                                                                                                                                  | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts | Edit Quote |

N.Z.'s Champion

Joined: Jun 08, 2003

Clean, green, New Zealand.

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:

I was thinking about emailing that to the local news. So see if they'd do a story on it. I even mention them in the beginning!

Do it. Everyone loves this story 🏠

Edit: I posted it on Metafilter

May 14, 2004: 04:05

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

James Dente

Joined: Nov 29, 2003

[x] and [y]... together at last!

There's a show called 'Inside Crime' on ITV in London which I'm sure would is desperate enough for stories to feature this. I'm sure all it'll take is a few goons emailing them the gist of this tale along with a few of the photos, videos and details for them not to have to do too much work on it themselves.

Email them on insidecrime@carltontv.co.uk - you know it makes sense.

May 14, 2004: 04:16

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Kiru

Joined: Apr 27, 2004

Wow, I saw this thread when it was still on page one and didn't realize it went anywhere until now. This is very entertaining. 😊

Edit: Yeah, my reg date is after the beginning of the thread. It got changed.

Kiru fucked around with this message at May 14, 2004 around 05:48

May 14, 2004: 05:46

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Scratch2k

Joined: Jul 30, 2002

( . ) ( . )

quote:

N.Z. 's Champion came out of the closet to say:

Do it. Everyone loves this story 🤖

Edit: I posted it on Metafilter

Brilliant! Well posted.

May 14, 2004: 05:54

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Chase

Joined: Apr 30, 2002

And it got posted from Metafilter on Boingboing with commentary from Cory!

You're famous now dude.

May 14, 2004: 13:39

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MMAgCh

Joined: Aug 15, 2001

I am the poet,
The prophet of the pit
Like a hollow-point bullet
Straight to the head
I never missed...you

I think you guys killed Metafilter. 🤖

May 14, 2004: 13:48

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

baalzamonbarnes

Joined: Mar 20, 2004

dirty internet pirate

quote:

MMAgCh came out of the closet to say:

I think you guys killed Metafilter. 🤖

What'd you guys do!?

baalzamonbarnes fucked around with this message at May 14, 2004 around 14:15

May 14, 2004: 13:53

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

windsOr

Joined: Dec 04, 2002

Great stuff. 😊 Wish he had written back.

v 😊

windsOr fucked around with this message at May 15, 2004 around 19:08

May 14, 2004: 14:15

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

kripes

Joined: Aug 14, 2002

BRRRRRAAAAIIIIINNNNSSS

^ ^ ^ ^ ^ ^ ^ ^ ^ ^ "written"

quote:

kripes came out of the closet to say:

I fear the climax will be disappointing (or nonexistent). I mean, all we're going to get at this point is an update in Fedex that says "Delivered".

I hate when I'm right sometimes.

May 14, 2004: 15:17

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

poopdog

Joined: Jul 09, 2003

The gangsta specter of defeat,
(in effect)

quote:

Chase came out of the closet to say:

And it got posted from Metafilter on Boingboing with commentary from Cory!

You're famous now dude.

Whats crazy is I totally missed this thread. I just saw it today on boingboing and it made up for a crappy week at work.

May 14, 2004: 17:38

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

quote:

kripes came out of the closet to say:

I hate when I'm right sometimes.

You did call it didn't you!

May 14, 2004: 18:58

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

DarkLotus

Joined: Sep 30, 2001

I Haven't Been Fucked Like
That Since Grade School!!!

either way it was an awesome thread. one of the best threads I have seen in my time here at SA. Jeff just let me know when you consider this done and I will post my archive of the thread.

May 14, 2004: 19:14

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Jockthecock

Joined: May 07, 2003

Even if there is no major pay dirt from this, I can see a new intarweb-based sport emerging - 'Scammer Baiting'. Place a nice piece of kit on Ebay then reel in the crooks, it's like badger baiting but with less shovels and more cunning.

May 14, 2004: 19:26

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

latency

Joined: Sep 03, 2003

syn/ack

quote:

Chase came out of the closet to say:

And it got posted from Metafilter on Boingboing with commentary from Cory!

You're famous now dude.

Haha yeah - I saw it on boingboing and thought "hey...I know this story".
Cory posts about Goldmined threads from time to time too.

May 14, 2004: 19:36

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

El_Spankio

Joined: Jan 28, 2004

I may have missed this being posted in this thread, but on the Metafilter page there is this link

It made me laugh.

May 14, 2004: 19:49

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

GI Joel

Joined: Nov 28, 2001

The link is being posted all around the interet now. Such a fantastic story. 😊

May 14, 2004: 20:03

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

quote:

DarkLotus came out of the closet to say:

either way it was an awesome thread. one of the best threads I have seen in my time here at SA. Jeff just let me know when you consider this done and I will post my archive of the thread.

Lets give it another day or two, and then I will email hoim the Ha Ha internet picture.

May 14, 2004: 20:10

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

Are you guys passing the pdf around?

That would be better so no one tries to take credit you know.

May 14, 2004: 20:13

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

DarthVersace

Joined: Jul 26, 2001

I am The Everything.

quote:

Chase came out of the closet to say:

And it got posted from Metafilter on Boingboing with commentary from Cory!

You're famous now dude.

Werd. This is officially a meme, now. It got a write-up on BoingBoing, too.

Beautiful counterscam, you guys. When I saw the .DOC synopsis and the photos of the P-P-P-Powerbook with the words "This is real." scrawled on the binder in Sharpie, I just about shit. Excellent. Best thread all year.

May 14, 2004: 20:31

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

IndyPunkOne

Joined: Aug 05, 2002

Got a tattooed tit, say Number 13.

I just read the pdf. What ever came of the guy from Terre Haute that had the escrow site? I missed that part or I would have helped investigate since Terre Haute's only a short drive away. 😞

May 14, 2004: 20:34

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

I have it mirrored at my site. I don't have the bandwidth that str8dog does, but it will have to do.

If you have any problems with www.p-p-p-powerbook.com you go to my site:

Http://www.bootsix.net

I edited the page on both sites with a link to the PDF so spread the word.

MyNameIsJeff fucked around with this message at May 14, 2004 around 20:42

May 14, 2004: 20:37

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

SuperLurker

Joined: Mar 14, 2001

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:

If you have any problems with www.p-p-p-powerbook.com you go to my site:

Http://www.bootsix.net

If you want to save some bandwidth look into resizing and recompressing some of the pics, i think a couple of them were 1280x960 ~500k just downsized using html

Excellent work on this whole thing btw 😊

May 14, 2004: 21:49

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MariusMS

Joined: Apr 28, 2004

Shut the door.

quote:

quonsar came out of the closet to say:
something awful sucks. i'm blocking all referrers from them. the members link to my sites constantly (particularly my mirrors), gobbling up my bandwidth, and when i backtrack to the referring page i am always informed that i must fork $9.95 to view the page. well, good. when they all send me $9.95 each, i'll allow them to link my site from there. apparently, when a good opportunity for self-promotion comes along, as with this ebay scammer, he allows free access to that particular forum. well, sorry jeffy, the free ride on meepzorp is over.
posted by quonsar at 7:58 AM PST on May 14

No more meepzorp 😞

May 14, 2004: 23:37

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

Damn. Someone is angry.

Edit - What is meepzorp?

MyNameIsJeff fucked around with this message at May 14, 2004 around 23:43

May 14, 2004: 23:41

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MariusMS

Joined: Apr 28, 2004

Shut the door.

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:
Damn. Someone is angry.

Edit - What is meepzorp?

<http://www.metafilter.com/user.mefi/986>

edit: possible not work safe pics at the bottom

May 14, 2004: 23:56

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Sonny_Crockett

Joined: Jun 01, 2000

hahah quonsar thinks Jeff K runs Something Awful

Great job on the counterscam. That guy will think twice next time.

May 14, 2004: 23:58

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

obli

Joined: Aug 30, 2003

I AM A LIAR

quote:

MariusMS came out of the closet to say:

<http://www.metafilter.com/user.mefi/986>

edit: possible not work safe pics at the bottom

Who is he and how is he involved in this anyway?

|                                                                                                                              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |                                            |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------|
| May 14, 2004: 23:59                                                                                                   | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | Edit Quote |
| SmeepJoined: Jan 20, 2004    | quote: <hr/> obli came out of the closet to say: Who is he and how is he involved in this anyway? <hr/> yeah i don't get this either. Also, if the answer is: please read the last two hundred pages - I don't need to know that badly. I can be content in my ignorance.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                            |
| May 15, 2004: 00:01                                                                                                   | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | Edit Quote |
| MariusMSJoined: Apr 28, 2004 | quote: <hr/> Smeep came out of the closet to say: yeah i don't get this either. Also, if the answer is: please read the last two hundred pages - I don't need to know that badly. I can be content in my ignorance. <hr/> Shut the door. He has nothing to do with this. Someone posted the whole ordeal over on meta-filter, and this guy posted what I quoted. He is apparantly pissed off that his webpage gets traffic, and thinks that either MyNameisJeff runs SA, or that Jeff K runs SA. I'm leaning towards the former, given that he insinuated that GBS was opened to the public because of this thread. Shorter version : Nothing, he's a metafilter idiot. |                                            |
| May 15, 2004: 00:07                                                                                                   | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | Edit Quote |

Smeep

Joined: Jan 20, 2004

quote:

MariusMS came out of the closet to say:

He has nothing to do with this. Someone posted the whole ordeal over on meta-filter, and this guy posted what I quoted. He is apparantly pissed off that his webpage gets traffic, and thinks that either MyNameisJeff runs SA, or that Jeff K runs SA. I'm leaning towards the former, given that he insinuated that GBS was opened to the public because of this thread.

Shorter version : Nothing, he's a metafilter idiot.

ah, okay, thanks. Just making sure I wasn't missing an important chapter in this!

May 15, 2004: 00:08

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

KinkyJohn

Joined: Sep 19, 2002

yay you got linked at pixelsurgeon. it was pretty weird seeing it linked after reading this thread weeks ago.

dunno if this has been mentioned but <http://www.m3ntalcontraband.com/journal> also links. so it's spreading like wildfire over the interweb

KinkyJohn fucked around with this message at May 15, 2004 around 01:09

May 15, 2004: 01:06

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

vid sidasta

Joined: Jan 26, 2003

quote:

MariusMS came out of the closet to say:

He has nothing to do with this. Someone posted the whole ordeal over on meta-filter, and this guy posted what I quoted. He is apparantly pissed off that his webpage gets traffic, and thinks that either MyNameisJeff runs SA, or that Jeff K runs SA. I'm leaning towards the former, given that he insinuated that GBS was opened to the public because of this thread.

Shorter version : Nothing, he's a metafilter idiot.

After viewing his extensive collection of mirrors that we can no longer link to, I find it quite ironic that many of them are somewhat related to Somethingawful and the work of goons (in particular, at least half of the wtcguy pictures were made by goons, if I recall correctly).

|                                       |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                      |                       |
|---------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------|-----------------------|
|                                       | Yeah, this guy hates us so much that he archives the handiwork of our forums.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                      |                       |
| May 15, 2004: 01:10                   | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | Edit | Quote |
| ChaseJoined: Apr 30, 2002  | quote: <hr/> MariusMS came out of the closet to say: No more meepzorp 😞 <hr/> NOOOOOOOOOOO That's one of my desert-island sites right there. I hate to see sweet Quonsar pissed off at us.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                      |                       |
| May 15, 2004: 01:15                   | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | Edit | Quote |
| sakanaJoined: Feb 09, 2003 | quote: <hr/> vid sidasta came out of the closet to say: After viewing his extensive collection of mirrors that we can no longer link to, I find it quite ironic that many of them are somewhat related to Somethingawful and the work of goons (in particular, at least half of the wtcguy pictures were made by goons, if I recall correctly). Yeah, this guy hates us so much that he archives the handiwork of our forums. <hr/> Sad, sad loser. I would weep for him, but it would waste my precious tear juice. I wish I'd been here when this thread was in its infancy, I would have loved to have read it in real time. |                      |                       |
| May 15, 2004: 01:20                   | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | Edit | Quote |

What the fuck is up with all those chicken strips?

Phil

Joined: Dec 23, 2003

Motherfucking GOLD, Jerry. SOLID. FUCKING. GOLD.

I only wish that you would have dropped a dookie in the box before sealing her up.

This event restores my faith in humanity.

GOONS 1

TARDS 0

May 15, 2004: 06:11

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

GatorHoy

Joined: Apr 15, 2004

Green Goblin

Wow. Awesome thread.. Very cool story, and I'm glad to have gotten to read it.

Why does it have to be over now? If the London Goons still have the motivation to stake out the place, we could set something up to at least snap a picture of the guy, if not make merciless fun of him.

I think there were a few times you guys were being overly paranoid. The goons out there were worried about the barbershop guy getting "suspicious" if they kept coming back into his place to use his computers. Why? It's an internet cafe. As long as you sit still and don't call too much attention to yourself, what does he care? He'd be getting a few bucks from you, and that would be that. It seemed like he might get suspicious because you knew you were up to something. I'm sure it would have been fine. They wouldn't have known who anyone was anyways.

Also, there's really no reason why he'd have sent someone else to the PO Box to pick up the package for him. All he knew was that the guy who he was trying to rip off lives in the states. I'm sure the last thing anyone would suspect is that the guy has a bunch of cyber e-friends who were all willing to take a day to watch for him to pick up what he was assuming to be a perfectly normal laptop.

Why not have everyone coordinate and all send him a letter at the same time? If everyone were to cough up a few bucks (I know I would) to have it show up at the address on the same day, then you could flag the guy with an armload of envelopes and catch a picture of him either in the place or out on the street going off to wherever he goes. I'm sure it couldn't be that hard to arrange for the letters to get there at the same time. Tell the post office people it's your grandparent's 50th anniversary or something and you want them to get the card in their PO Box on the day of the anniversary so they can feel special or something.

If the Box is so small, I'm sure barberguy would call the scammer up and tell him to empty the goddamn thing, especially if he's just a go-between.

Anyways, even if it does end here.. again, awesome job guys.

May 15, 2004: 07:19

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Murphy

Joined: Apr 13, 2004

I'm just making shit up.

quote:

MyNameIsJeff came out of the closet to say:

I was thinking about emailing that to the local news. So see if they'd do a story on it. I even mention them in the beginning!

Somehow I have a feeling Q13 would do it, only because they are the most horrible new station in the world and leslie miller is a robot so it would be even funnier on it 😊

Been meaning to post in this sooner.

BTW next time we have a seattle Goonmeet you better be there so you can describe this story in your own voice

May 15, 2004: 13:33

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Str8Dog

Joined: Apr 07, 2004

01010101010

p-p-p-powerbook.com is spreading like wildfire... 20 gigs in 3 days.... I am going to have to throw some ads on it just to pay for the bandwidth its using..

May 15, 2004: 16:30

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Angelfck

Joined: Apr 15, 2003

I found this on Metafilter and spent half the day reading this thread yesterday. I was on the edge of my seat even though I knew the outcome. Thanks for entertaining me on an otherwise normal Friday afternoon. I look forward to more threads where others try to scam the scammers. Sounds like a new game.

Excellent work MyNameIsJeff and the rest of the Goon Recon Squad.

May 15, 2004: 16:37

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

SignalTwoFive

Joined: Dec 28, 2003

Bob Sapp is laughing AT you,
not WITH you.

quote:

Angelfck came out of the closet to say:

I found this on Metafilter and spent half the day reading this thread yesterday. I was on the edge of my seat even though I knew the outcome. Thanks for entertaining me on an otherwise normal Friday afternoon. I look forward to more threads where others try to scam the scammers. Sounds like a new game.

Excellent work MyNameIsJeff and the rest of the Goon Recon Squad.

Too late...

<http://forums.somethingawful.com/sh...hreadid=1049091>

May 15, 2004: 16:38

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

lapsey

Joined: Nov 23, 2003

<http://www.cafeshops.com/jeanclimaxpro> 🙄

May 15, 2004: 17:04

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Atomic Edge

Joined: Apr 10, 2004

In an Atomic Mood

cafeshops is a good Idea but maybe mynameisjeff should put up a P-P-P-Powerbook! Store, seeing as he created it. I'd be up for a P-P-P-Powerbook! mug.

May 15, 2004: 17:13

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

|                                                                                                                                                               |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| vegajiJoined: Apr 14, 2004Owned by Hawk989s                                                                                                | quote: <hr/> lapsey came out of the closet to say:http://www.cafeshops.com/jeanclimaxpro 😊 <hr/>                                                                                                          |
|                                                                                                                                                               | Hahaha, that stuff is great. quote: <hr/> Atomic Edge came out of the closet to say:cafeshops is a good Idea but maybe mynameisjeff should put up a P-P-P-Powerbook! Store, seeing as he created it. I'd be up for a P-P-P-Powerbook! mug. <hr/> |
|                                                                                                                                                               | He could make a living recreating P-P-P-Powerbooks..well, for a few weeks at least.                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| May 15, 2004: 17:16                                                                                                                                    | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                    |
| MyNameIsJeffJoined: Dec 05, 2003P-P-P-Powerbook.com! | Do any of you have any webspace to mirror the site? As it spreads I am running out of bandwidth. Contact me for the files.aim - mynameisjephmsm - mynameisnitsu@hotmail.com                                       |
| May 15, 2004: 17:23                                                                                                                                    | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                    |
| pigdogJoined: Apr 23, 2004                                                                                                                         | Farked. PMed with a hosting option...                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
| May 15, 2004: 17:43                                                                                                                                    | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                    |

Teh Mark

Joined: Nov 22, 2001

If its under 30 megs I can host it unlimitedly with my UNI hosting

May 15, 2004: 18:31

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

dumbmrblah

Joined: May 31, 2003

^ its about 1 meg, here are the files rared up:

<http://pages.sbcglobal.net/dumbmrbl...rbookmirror.rar>

http://pages.sbcglobal.net/dumbmrbl...the\_Scammer.htm

Rape my providers bandwidth.

dumbmrblah fucked around with this message at May 15, 2004 around 18:41

May 15, 2004: 18:34

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Mannequin

Joined: Mar 08, 2003

The difference between fiction and reality? Fiction has to make sense.

This is great but why PDF? 😞 A lot of people won't click PDFs.

Edit: Wow, this really is getting a lot of coverage:  (Click)

Mannequin fucked around with this message at May 15, 2004 around 18:50

May 15, 2004: 18:42

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Str8Dog

Joined: Apr 07, 2004

01010101010

quote:

pigdog came out of the closet to say:

Farked.

PMed with a hosting option...

that explains it.... fuck I got raped hard..

May 15, 2004: 19:03

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Secks

Joined: Oct 10, 2002

I can't say this enough: I love this fucking place.

I read the thread up until the fake was sent. I was extremely busy after that and I just finished a fantastic few hours of reading. You guys are incredible. I have never laughed so hard in my life.

Thanks everyone for making my year.

May 15, 2004: 19:18

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Redmonkey

Joined: Dec 31, 2003

There needs to be an "Infamous" or "Legendary" thread rank reserved for threads that reach the greatness that this thread has reached.

May 15, 2004: 19:28

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Wandering Idiot

Joined: Jul 22, 2003

I Suffer From Mild
Retarderations

quote:

Redmonkey came out of the closet to say:

There needs to be an "Infamous" or "Legendary" thread rank reserved for threads that reach the greatness that this thread has reached.

P-P-P-Platinum?

"Pledge Allegiance To Yourself, Not War, Greed, Power and Wealth."

May 15, 2004: 19:44

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Rhyno

Joined: Mar 22, 2003

quote:

Wandering Idiot came out of the closet to say:

P-P-P-Platinum?

Well, you hit that nail right on the head.

May 15, 2004: 19:58

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Wheeler

Joined: Nov 24, 2003

This might be the best thread I've ever seen.

May 15, 2004: 20:14

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

telloc

Joined: May 20, 2001

quote:

Wheeler came out of the closet to say:
This might be the best thread ever.

I fixed it for us all.

May 15, 2004: 20:20

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Schroe

Joined: Feb 06, 2004

quote:

lapsey came out of the closet to say:
<http://www.cafeshops.com/jeanclimaxpro> 😊

I want a shirt with the Jean Climax sign on the back, and the P-p-p-powerbook on the front left pocket

May 15, 2004: 20:25

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

maus

Joined: Jul 25, 2003

Amigos! Look! It is El Macho...
The Thief of Hearts!!

Holy shit, this got Metafiltered AND BoingBoinged?!

My favorite comment from MeFi:

quote:

Also, someone else on SA forums proposed the "notebook" computer idea. Kudos for pulling it off, but its like this was a forum activity more than a personal one. scary.

May 15, 2004: 20:36

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

doctormidnight

Joined: Apr 28, 2004

Observation and Deduction
Motherfucker, DO YOU SPEAK
IT?

Mirrored at WSU

Edit: Oh, changed the .htm file to point to the pdf on my server, no point in redirecting to another site that might not have unlimited .edu access.

doctormidnight fucked around with this message at May 15, 2004 around 20:51

May 15, 2004: 20:45

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

nau

Joined: Jun 26, 2003

Ive been quietly lurking this thread, I just wish we would hear from this guy. 😬

Great work to everybody. Someone on AIM actually just IMed me with a Fark link to it. 😬

May 15, 2004: 20:47

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

doctormidnight

Joined: Apr 28, 2004

Observation and Deduction
Motherfucker, DO YOU SPEAK
IT?

quote:

nau came out of the closet to say:

Ive been quietly lurking this thread, I just wish we would hear from this guy. 😬

Great work to everybody. Someone on AIM actually just IMed me with a Fark link to it.

Someone on AIM needs to be introduced to Mr. Block File.

May 15, 2004: 20:51

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

nau

Joined: Jun 26, 2003

quote:

doctormidnight came out of the closet to say:

Someone on AIM needs to be introduced to Mr. Block File.

My co-workers over the school year were all farkers. It was disgusting. 😞

May 15, 2004: 20:53

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Harry Hood

Joined: Dec 31, 2003

thank you mr. hood

This is so awesome. No closure yet though?

May 15, 2004: 20:56

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Crimson

Joined: Nov 06, 2002

Mirror

<http://members.cox.net/redxxll/ScammingtheScammer.htm>

If you notice something messed up on my mirror plz tell me. I don't have a fancy shmancy site or anything, but I figured it might help since Cox gives me near unlimited amounts of bandwidth that goes unused.

I really can't believe all the coverage this is getting. Nice work fellas.

Crimson fucked around with this message at May 15, 2004 around 21:03

May 15, 2004: 20:56

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

|                                                                                                                                           |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| b3wnJoined: Apr 15, 2003In Nomini Patri                                                                                | Good read!I wonder if he will change his s-s-s-scamming ways. 🤪                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| May 15, 2004: 20:57                                                                                                                | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                 |
| RomulusJoined: May 30, 2003GAR!!! | by far the best time I spent hours on one thread. Just knowing the guy lost his money he spent in taxes is great, even if we dont hear back from him. Amazing the amount of attention this has gotten from other sites as well. Hats off to everyone involved to a job well done. |
| May 15, 2004: 21:11                                                                                                                | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                 |
| BloodForOdinJoined: Sep 29, 2003Join The Norse Fundamentalist Party!                                                   | This thread needs its own sub-forum. For users of P-P-P-Powerbooks!                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
| May 15, 2004: 21:12                                                                                                                | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                 |
| slavezeroJoined: Jul 11, 2001       | hah, I haven't been following this thread, but I saw it on www.macintouch.com . funny shit.                                                                                                                                                      |
| May 15, 2004: 21:23                                                                                                                | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                 |

HOTSauce

Joined: Mar 12, 2002

I BROKE YOUR HYMEN, YOU
BROKE MY HEART. I GUESS THAT MAKES US EVEN.

jesus christ, it's EVERYWHERE!

<http://www.google.ca/search?q=p-p-p...F-8&hl=en&meta=>

May 15, 2004: 21:23

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

vegaji

Joined: Apr 14, 2004

Owned by Hawk989s

P-P-P-Powerbook is bigger than the internet.

May 15, 2004: 22:01

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

elister

Joined: Dec 29, 2001

Ever kiss a cyborg?

Thanks for the PDF, I didnt want to read through 80 pages of posts.

Man, this is fucking hilarious!

May 15, 2004: 22:04

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

alex4.0

Joined: Feb 20, 2001

quote:

maus came out of the closet to say:

Holy shit, this got Metafiltered AND BoingBoinged?!

My favorite comment from MeFi:

quote:

Also, someone else on SA forums proposed the "notebook" computer idea. Kudos for pulling it off, but its like this was a forum activity more than a personal one. scary.

|                                                                                                                                                |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                                                                                                                                                | <hr/> My favourite from FARK: quote: <hr/> 2004-05-15 02:26:57 PM Brockway Given all the time and costs associated with this effort, it would have been more economical and efficient just to give the scammer the real powerbook. <hr/> I don't get it. 😞 Also can someone explain why they don't like PDFs? I thought they were a Good Thing. A hell of a lot easier to read than an unedited plaintext dump in two posts of the entire document ... those crazy fark people! |
| May 15, 2004: 22:18                                                                                                              | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| ThrillKillerJoined: Jul 08, 2000 I STEAL FROMSEGA BECAUSETHEY SCREWED ME                            | This is the reason that I love SA so much. We make the stuff of internet legend.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| May 15, 2004: 22:20                                                                                                              | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| Intel&amp;SebastianJoined: Oct 20, 2002  | quote: <hr/> alex4.0 came out of the closet to say: My favourite from FARK: <hr/> What a hotbed of intelligence.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| May 15, 2004: 22:20                                                                                                              | User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts Edit Quote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |

DuckHuntDog

Joined: May 13, 2004

Dog From Duck Hunt

I read this a few days ago, and it convinced me to register an account. Just brilliant.

May 15, 2004: 22:29

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Gunjin

Joined: Apr 27, 2004

May cause cancer.

Fark is the internets sink trap, it collects all the useless shit in one place to keep it from cloggin up the pipes.

May 15, 2004: 22:30

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Bannyfish

Joined: Jan 26, 2003

Fnord

Also from Metafilter:

quote:

---

something awful sucks. i'm blocking all referrers from them. the members link to my sites constantly (particularly my mirrors), gobbling up my bandwidth, and when i backtrack to the referring page i am always informed that i must fork $9.95 to view the page. well, good. when they all send me $9.95 each, i'll allow them to link my site from there. apparently, when a good opportunity for self-promotion comes along, as with this ebay scammer, he allows free access to that particular forum. well, sorry jeffy, the free ride on meepzorp is over.

---

posted by quonsar at 7:58 AM PST on May 14

---

So Lowtax gave SA to Jeff for this? ???

May 15, 2004: 22:34

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Recycle Bin

Joined: Feb 07, 2001

Forum Veteran

quote:

BloodForOdin came out of the closet to say:

This thread needs its own sub-forum. For users of P-P-P-Powerbooks!

I hate those snobby P-P-P-Powerbook users. They're so consumed by their flashy binder exterior they don't even care what's on the inside.

May 15, 2004: 22:34

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

doctormidnight

Joined: Apr 28, 2004

Observation and Deduction
Motherfucker, DO YOU SPEAK
IT?

quote:

alex4.0 came out of the closet to say:

My favourite from FARK:

I don't get it. ☹️

Also can someone explain why they don't like PDFs? I thought they were a Good Thing. A hell of a lot easier to read than an unedited plaintext dump in two posts of the entire document ... those crazy fark people!

I don't like .pdf files that aren't clearly labeled as such in the description, because clicking on one automatically opens up an IE/Firefox tab that takes about a decade to load, and occasionally crashes my browser(s). I just hate always having to check the path and saying "Oh, it's a PDF, better right click and save as." Hmph, I'm just lazy I guess.

doctormidnight fucked around with this message at May 15, 2004 around 22:38

May 15, 2004: 22:34

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

IdeoPraxist

Joined: Jan 29, 2004

Creating Ideas for Good and Evil

Congratulations everyone, you are now Internet legends:

<http://www.metafilter.com/mefi/33088>

quote:

---

An American Ebay seller realises a European bidder is trying to scam him out of a Powerbook (fake escrow site, hijacked ebay account), so he sends him something far better, a P-P-P-Powerbook! Now, for you non-techies here, a factory model p-p-p-powerbook weighs half what its competitors weigh, comes with an A4 screen, the latest in internet adventure software, zero boot time, a fullsize keyboard (often with Key Redundancy™) and a state-of-the-art laser bluetooth mouse. This is technology. The seller posts to a forum and amongst the chatter people follow the package via the the Fedex tracking page and some even visit the delivery address (a barbershop/internet cafe) and take photos, video, and a seat for their hair cut. The duty tax on this particular p-p-p-powerbook is around £350 (paid for by the scammer) before he sees the package, and a few days later it's released by Customs as they watch in anticipation. A forum member arrives at the internet cafe, takes a seat and soon the package arrives. The scammer opens the box and there are angry raised voices heard. The barber doesn't understand what's wrong and asks... "Is it broken?"

---

Forgot to post some of the praise you are getting:

quote:

---

Thanks, holloway, this is fantastic!
posted by Zonker at 7:51 PM PST on May 13

Sheer genius. This is truly the best of the Web.
posted by keswick at 7:53 PM PST on May 13

Heh. The keyboard spells out 'U FAG', 'LOL'. Good old somethingawful.com.
posted by tapeguy at 7:55 PM PST on May 13

Dude, that touchpad has two buttons. Anybody have a sharpie? I wish to upgrade my Powerbook.
posted by Stan Chin at 7:57 PM PST on May 13

His name is Kk-k-en and cc-coming to Kkk-k-kill you!
posted by nasim at 8:03 PM PST on May 13

God Bless the Intarweb.
posted by fillsthepews at 8:08 PM PST on May 13

Holy sweet heaven. That was absolutely the most fun I've had in weeks. And all I did was read read read.

that's hysterical--very well done turning of the tables. : > posted by amberglow at 8:22 PM PST on May 13

OMG I laughed my ass off posted by mikojava at 8:45 PM PST on May 13 awesome!

posted by palegirl at 8:49 PM PST on May 13

[this is very good] posted by Vidiot at 8:53 PM PST on May 13

Ack, I started getting ye olde forum payment nag at page 25. Now I'm partway in and can't finish! I even kicked in the ten bucks!
posted by MegoSteve at 9:10 PM PST on May 13

Great post!
posted by anastasiav at 9:26 PM PST on May 13

Oh, that's priceless.
posted by GriffX at 9:40 PM PST on May 13

Rad. Just freaking rad.
posted by eyeballkid at 10:00 PM PST on May 13

excellent! great post!
posted by joedan at 10:08 PM PST on May 13

Someone should pass this on to the fine folks at Apple's design department!

"A1 outsscaming! Will check the site again!!!"
posted by riffola at 10:11 PM PST on May 13

Pentel inside posted by prodigalsun at 10:36 PM PST on May 13

Toxic levels of good!
posted by LinusMines at 10:51 PM PST on May 13

Also, someone else on SA forums proposed the "notebook" computer idea. Kudos for pulling it off, but its like this was a forum activity more than a personal one. scary.
posted by skallas at 11:30 PM PST on May 13

Now I'm badly waiting to see if the buyer will actually respond to the last email.
posted by phyrewerx at 11:34 PM PST on May 13

This is wonderful.
posted by pemulis at 11:53 PM PST on May 13

That's hilarious. Good to see a scammer getting scammed. eBay does need to get it's act together, it truly isn't proactive enough in taking down scammers.

Thanks for the link, holloway!
posted by Salmonberry at 12:01 AM PST on May 14

That was wonderful! Thank you!
posted by brism at 12:14 AM PST on May 14

holloway has restored my faith in this site. that was pure posting gold.
posted by chunking express at 12:16 AM PST on May 14

It's easy to dismiss SA, but when you get right down to it, they host some of the funniest/silliest stuff on the web...
posted by gen at 1:48 AM PST on May 14

Pretty ballsy for a law-abiding citizen to send a package internationally claiming to be a thing of value when it's not. He's pretty safe since the scammer is not going to complain. The only other party that might have a problem is British Customs and Excise as they handled a package with a bogus valuation and levied duty accordingly. But I'm sure they wouldn't complain either -- it netted HMG a couple hundred quid from an unpleasant character, which is surely a good thing. But in our hero's shoes, I wouldn't have done it -- which means I'm either a lot less nervy than he is or I think too much, and probably both.

posted by George_Spiggott at 1:51 AM PST on May 14

I should add that he did it in the sure knowledge and belief that he was never going to see any money -- and can document the fact of that belief with his ongoing correspondence prior to the act, which presumably means in law that criminal intent can't be shown -- which is a lot more than the other guy can say.
posted by George_Spiggott at 1:54 AM PST on May 14

I wish that I had more nerdy friends to pass the pure, webby goodness of this story to.

Even so.... pure comedy gold - like candid camera, with balls.
posted by dash_slot- at 2:56 AM PST on May 14

classic. thanks
posted by matteo at 3:06 AM PST on May 14

This is good stuff, scamming scammers is the sweetest revenge there is.
posted by fenriq at 7:43 AM PST on May 14 substrate: He didn't settle it out of ebay. He saw it for the scam it was and decided to screw around with the guy. He then reported the guy to ebay for trying to scam in this fashion.

posted by ODIV at 7:53 AM PST on May 14

It's dead now. Anybody got a mirror?
posted by Johnny Assay at 8:14 AM PST on May 14

This is good stuff, scamming scammers is the sweetest revenge there is.

I liked the one a while back where someone followed up on a 419, got the scammer to meet him at Dubai Airport, and got a couple of mates to stake him out and take photos (couldn't find a link, sorry). Like this one, a little anti-climactic, but funny when you imagine the look on the scammers' faces when they realise they've been had..
posted by etc at 8:36 AM PST on May 14

Pretty ballsy for a law-abiding citizen to send a package internationally claiming to be a thing of value when it's not.

It's not the value that's the problem, it's lying about the contents. Theoretically, he could have called the binder a work of art and put any value on it he saw fit.

eBay certainly has its share of problems with getting on top of things, but outside of the initial canned email i would say that they weren't in the wrong here. The second email certainly is more to the point.

---

IdeoPraxist fucked around with this message at May 15, 2004 around 22:46

May 15, 2004: 22:36

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

OorahAirForce

Joined: Dec 07, 2003

I would do sex with Rammy.
*fapfapfap*

quote:

---

DuckHuntDog came out of the closet to say:

I read this a few days ago, and it convinced me to register an account. Just brilliant.

---

I hated you so much, and only hated the fact that I couldn't shoot you more. Laugh at me, will you?
Aside from that, welcome.

May 15, 2004: 22:57

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Mannequin

Joined: Mar 08, 2003

The difference between fiction and reality? Fiction has to make sense.

I posted the PDF (in HTML format) here:

<http://www.mannequin3d.com/powerbook/>

(PDF Not Required)

May 15, 2004: 23:02

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Lord Hawking

Joined: Aug 08, 2002

No, I don't think we'll be telling them that.

After watching this thread from its inception, I'm excited at how it's turned out. In fact, I've been almost constantly entertained by it with each passing day. Kudos to all involved.

May 15, 2004: 23:10

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

RubberBuccaneer

Joined: Sep 11, 2003

RUBBER BEDS AND RUBBER FLOORS, RUBBER PETS AND RUBBER DOORS

Well THAT was a well spent Saturday. God DAMN what a great story!

May 15, 2004: 23:25

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Nevvy Z

Joined: Jan 03, 2004

I do not kill with my sword... I kill with my heart.

If no ones noticed... fark thinks its being delivered monday LO dumbest gathering of retards ever

May 15, 2004: 23:29

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Icemakor

Joined: Sep 11, 2000

It's got little pink teeth!

^LO They are the little brother of the internet. They latch on to funny things and tell all their friends. But really don't quite 'get' it. All you can do is smile.

This is right up there with there robot thread for me. Great work people.

May 15, 2004: 23:37

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Dynamo

Joined: Apr 08, 2002

Is there a new mirror yet? I need to spread the love.

May 15, 2004: 23:48

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Mannequin

Joined: Mar 08, 2003

The difference between fiction and reality? Fiction has to make sense.

You know with all the attention this is getting right now, wouldn't it be cool if a London cop read about it and decided to investigate? Hey, you never know.

quote:

Dynamo came out of the closet to say:

Is there a new mirror yet? I need to spread the love.

Uhh, there are several mirrors. Read the last 2 or 3 pages. Mine's listed a few posts above yours, dipshit.

May 15, 2004: 23:53

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

bwgames

Joined: May 16, 2004

Well, I just registered so I could post.

Amazing guys, just amazing!

I live about an hour from London, and wish I coulda been there. Amazing.

May 16, 2004: 00:09

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

MyNameIsJeff

Joined: Dec 05, 2003

P-P-P-Powerbook.com!

Well, the bandwidth for www.p-p-p-powerbook.com and www.bootsix.net is up.

Mirrors available:

- <http://www.p-p-p-powerbook.com>
- <http://www.bootsix.net>
- <http://personal.stevens.edu/~achadzyn/powerbook>
- <http://easynetworknyc.com/powerbook/>
- <http://www.hot.ee/pppppowerbook/>
- www.elitegaming.net/powerbook

PDF ONLY

- <http://www.gdwebmedia.com/powerbook.pdf>
- <http://chat.carleton.ca/~kfennell/thepowerbook.pdf>
- <http://www.vegaji.com/documents/thepowerbook.pdf>

Please help spread the word

MyNameIsJeff fucked around with this message at May 16, 2004 around 01:34

May 16, 2004: 00:49

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

vegaji

Joined: Apr 14, 2004

Owned by Hawk989s

quote:

bwgames came out of the closet to say:
Well, I just registered so I could post.

Amazing guys, just amazing!

I live about an hour from London, and wish I coulda been there. Amazing.

P-P-P-Powerbook changes lives.

May 16, 2004: 00:51

User's Profile / Image Send a Private Message User's Homepage Search For More Posts

Edit

Quote

Rate thread: 1 2 3 4 5

Post

Reply

The Awful Forums > Archives > Comedy Goldmine > This guy is trying to rip me off on ebay. How should I respond to his email

(4): « 1 2 3 4

Subscribe to this Thread

<LWS> Join plz thx!!!1

Powered by: Our hacked version of vBulletin
Copyright ©2000-2002, Jelsoft Enterprises Limited, although we did more work on the software than they did.
<http://www.somethingawful.com>